Arrest warrant issued for 2012 murder

Federal inmate charged with killing retired grocer in rural Nashua 10 years ago

By BOB FENSKE
Of the Reporter

An arrest warrant in connection with a murder that took place in the fall of 2012 in rural Nashua has been issued for a Charles City man who has been in federal prison for the last 7 1/2 years.

Chickasaw County Sheriff Marty Hemann informed the Board of Supervisors on Monday that an arrest warrant for Randy Patrie, 39, had been signed by District Court Judge Richard Stochl last week and that Patrie was expected to be returned to Iowa sometime in the next month.

Patrie had long been considered the chief suspect in the murder of Kenneth Gallmeyer, whose body was discovered by Chickasaw County sheriff's deputies when they were called to do a welfare check on Gallmeyer at his home north of Nashua on Oct. 4, 2012.

In June 2014, Patrie was sentenced to life in prison in federal court after he pleaded guilty to possession of fire-arms by a felon as an armed career criminal and possession of sawed-off shotguns, but that sentence was later overturned and Patrie was re-sentenced to 20 years in federal prison.

"When he had a life sentence, we didn't think it made a lot of sense to bring him back to state court," Hemann said, "but once that sentence got overturned, we knew that we were going to have to proceed with our case."

After the supervisors meeting, Hemann said that he believes there is a strong case against Patrie and that there was some sense of urgency in proceeding with the case.

"It's been almost 10 years," he said,

U.S. Rep. Randy Feenstra, R-Iowa, visits with students and staff during a visit to Nashua-Plainfield High School last week.

An 'A' FOR NASHUA-PLAINFIELD

CONGRESSMAN SAYS STUDENTS HE MET ARE GOING TO BE 'GREAT LEADERS'

By KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

Randy Feenstra wants to let you know that he's got your back.

The freshman United States Congressman visited Nashua-Plainfield High School last Friday in a planned tour of Iowa's 4th Congressional District. The 37-county area he represents reaches as far east as Chickasaw County and spans all of northwest Iowa – where Feenstra was born in raised in Hull.

"It's just great to be at the high school here. Nashua-Plainfield High School has just been incredible. The kids that we've met today, you can tell that they're great leaders," said Feenstra.

The 1987 Western Christian High School

grad was a former Iowa Senator for 12 years prior to moving his office to Washington, D.C.

Feenstra understands the plight and difficult times that Iowans are facing. The nation is still trying to climb out of the depths of the COVID-19 pandemic, which has been a large reason that inflation has skyrocketed.

N-P student helps the 'Ghost Army' receive its Gold Medal

Sinnwell ecstatic after Biden signs bill honoring units that deceived German forces in WW II

By BOB FENSKE
Of the Reporter

When Caleb Sinnwell heard the news on Tuesday that President Joe Biden had signed the law bestowing the Congressional Gold Medal on World War II's "Ghost Army," he was, in a word, pumped.

Sinnwell

"I think I was more excited than I was when I found out I won National History Day," said the Nashua-Plainfield High School freshman who played a role in giving the Ghost Army the recognition he believed it so richly deserved. "To me, it's all about those guys, who did so much during the war, came home and never could talk about it. That's why I'm pumped."

Sinnwell's 2021 History Day national championship project – a website titled "Ghost Army: Deceptive Communication and the Power of Illusion" – focused on the work done by the 23rd Headquarters Special Troops and the 3133rd Signal Service Company during World War II.

As he worked on his website, he interviewed author Rick Beyer, who has worked on the Ghost Army Legacy Project for the past seven years, and Beyer last spring asked Sinnwell to help his organization lobby U.S. senators to approve the bill that had languished for several years after the U.S. House of Representatives approved the measure.

At the time, Sinnwell was a 14-year-old eighth-grader, but

Weather will be 'perfect' for Winterfest

The Nashua Park Board couldn't ask for a better forecast for Saturday, the day it will bring a Winterfest celebration back to the city.

Organizers for the event, which begins at 11 a.m. and will have activities in both Cedar View Park and on the lake, wanted a winter-like day, but one that didn't go overboard with cold or snow.

They're going to get their wish as temperatures are expected to top out in the 20s and skies are expected to be sunny.

Among the activities planned are sledding, curling, motorbike ice race demos, skating, ice fishing, snowshoeing and broom ball, and the event will wrap up with fireworks at 5:30 p.m.

Other events are also planned for the Nashua Town and Country Club, and warming houses, a coffee and hot chocolate bar and food will be available at the park.

Admission to Winterfest is free, but the Park Board will accept freewill donations.

Sinnwell ecstatic for Ghost Army veterans

his answer was a resounding "sure."

"I was a little nervous the first couple of times," Sinnwell said with a laugh Thursday morning, "but it's something I really believed in. I just thought it was something really important that had to be done."

He contacted a number of senators and got several — including Iowa's Charles Grassley and Joni Ernst, as well as Mississippi's Cindy Hyde-Smith — to sign on to the bill, which passed the Senate last week. Because there were some slight differences to the House bill, the House also had to pass the bill, which it did before Biden signed it into law on Tuesday.

Sinnwell's National History Day advisor, Suzy Turner, said she wasn't surprised that her student was confident enough to talk to some of the most powerful people in the county when it came to the Ghost Army.

"Caleb, for his age, has talked to some pretty 'big names,' if you will, for his History Day projects so he's had that experience," she said, pointing out that Sinnwell interviewed U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Tom Vilsack for a website he did on the "Great Iowa Hog Lift" that helped famine-stricken Japan more than 60 years ago. "It's also something he's really passionate about, and I'm just so proud of him and his contribution to this Gold Medal."

The Ghost Army saved thousands of Allied lives because it used deception to confuse German troops into first believing that the D-Day landings would take place north of Normandy and then later by deceiving the Germans that a large army — which in reality was made up of soldiers manning inflatable tanks and using audio and other misinformation — was about to attack once the Allies had landed in France.

Grassley, during an appearance in Nashua last fall, said that Sinnwell provided a convincing argument.

"Representative government is a two-way street," Grassley said. "It is the essence of representative government. He made his case to me, and trust me, he made a very good case."

Sinnwell said Thursday he was especially happy that the Gold Medal was bestowed while there were still members of the Ghost Army alive.

For the past few months, it was believed that only nine members of the Ghost Army remained, but as Beyer, Sinnwell and a host of others

Caleb Sinnwell speaks to his fellow Nashua-Plainfield High School students during an assembly this past fall, when the high school freshman was presented with the U.S. Army Certificate of Achievement.

Bob Fenske/Reporter

from around the country lobbied for the bill, they learned that a 10th member was still alive.

"I'm so happy for those guys," he said, "because they're all between 97 and 99 years old, and they've waited a long, long time to get this recognition. They deserve this; it's the highest award Congress gives, and for what they did during World War II, this was long overdue."

Beyer agreed, releasing a statement on Tuesday in which he expressed his gratitude to the men who fought their own kind of war in France more than 75 years ago.

"Armed with their wits and guile these men saved lives and helped win the war," he said. "Their story is an inspiration to all of us!"

At Nashua-Plainfield, meanwhile, Sinnwell is preparing his 2022 National History Day project — a website focused on the visit made by then-Soviet Union Premier Nikita Khrushchev to an Iowa farm owned by Roswell Garst.

"That's what I love about History Day," Sinnwell said. "It lets me explore things I'm really interested in. I love agriculture. I love veterans. And I love telling their stories."

Public Health head finds hope in latest COVID report

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

At first glance, the weekly report put out by the Chickasaw County Public Health and Homecare Services on COVID-19 doesn't offer a lot of hope when it comes to the area's recent virus surge.

But said administrator, Lisa Welter, will beg to differ.

Yes, the latest report showed the county had 117 positive tests for COVID, marking the third straight week of triple-digit positives.

Welter, though, pointed out that the 117 positive cases was down from the 138 in her preceding report, but more importantly, because she didn't release the report until Monday, the 117 positive tests came over a 10-day period, instead of the normal seven days.

"If you take the average per day, that's definitely a move in the direction we want to be going," Welter said, "but saying that, obviously we still have a long way to go to where we want to be. We still have to do our part, and that means following all the guidelines — stay home if you've tested positive, wear a mask for five days after you're done with your quarantine and please, please, stay home if you're sick. ... At the very least, though, I have hope that we're trending the right way."

Her latest report showed that 62 of the latest positive tests were recorded in those who had been vaccinated and 18 of those residents had also received a boost vaccine.

But she again pointed out that in the vast majority of cases, those who have been vaccinated and "boosted" experience far less severe symptoms than those who haven't.

The county also crossed a threshold in the latest report in that since the first COVID case was found in Chickasaw County in April 2020, there have been more than 2,500 positive tests — 2,556 to be exact — recorded.

The county has recorded 29 deaths because of COVID.

Congressman Randy Feenstra talks with Nashua-Plainfield social studies teacher Taylor Wedeking during Feenstra's visit to the school last Friday.

Feenstra: Kids are 'backbone' of future

FEENSTRA: FROM 1

Feenstra wants to do something about gas being over $3 a gallon and the price of groceries that have risen substantially at the cash register.

"Obviously, it's hurting everyone, is inflation right now. Families sitting around the kitchen table trying to figure out their budget when everything's going up 20 percent. That's my focus right now – working for the farmer and working for the families and trying to figure out our supply-chain issues."

Another issue that Feenstra wants to tackle is the discord that has been brewing for quite some time now on both sides of the fence – Democrat vs. Republican.

Or simply put, the divide between Americans that has fractured the nation and made it more difficult to move forward with policies that benefit America, regardless of one's party affiliation.

Feenstra, like his colleagues on Capitol Hill, is trying to bring together his constituents and repair the damage done from the nation arguing over the slightest of disagreements.

"It's been exciting, but challenging. Challenging in the fact that they hear a lot of division and yet we're trying to work collaboratively when it comes to bio-fuels and farm issues," said Feenstra. "That's where I spend a lot of my focus on trying to work on those issues."

Whether or not everyone is going to agree on a particular matter may be wishful thinking, but Feenstra said there are chances and moments to unite, rather than divide.

"What we see on, whether it be CNN or Fox News, there's always division – talking about everybody fighting against each other. But I will say there's opportunities. The opportunity is in agriculture. The opportunity is in science, technology and bio-fuels – that we can work collaboratively to create solutions to be energy independent," said Feenstra.

One newly enforced rule that has many farmers in Iowa upset is Proposition 12 – a law that was implemented by the state of California at the start of this year to prevent animal cruelty. That means pork being processed at thousands of hog farms across Iowa will come under new requirements and regulations if that meat is to be sold to the Golden State. The proposition also mandates the raising of calves and egg-laying hens to come under new established guidelines. The sale of such such meat and egg products would be prohibited unless those new requirements are met on how animals are housed and raised.

Feenstra feels the changes imposed by California to one of Iowa's biggest industries is unnecessary.

"This is going to put a lot of stress on our hog producers," said Feenstra. "We're really worried about Proposition 12 right now – meaning that a lot of our hog producers are going to have to change the way they do things or not sell into California. I get very angry and frustrated at states like California that have no idea what farming looks like. If they would come down and see what hog production looks like, they'd probably think differently."

Feenstra, who defeated incumbent Steve King in the primary election for the Republican nomination of that 4th congressional district in Iowa, was also shown around the high school and checked out the Husky Wellness Center. He visited many classrooms and also talked to Taylor Wedeking's social studies class.

Once there, Feenstra had a message for N-P students.

"I try to get into schools. I want kids to see that they can be engaged in government. That 'we the people' make government," Feenstra added. That's what I want kids to know, that they can vote and they have a voice – that they can be involved. They have opinions and thoughts. They need to get them voiced."

Feenstra said it everyone's civic duty to vote and that there's nothing wrong with stating your opinion on issues that matter.

"We all make government.

What I mean by that is you have a voice," said Feenstra. "You're a part of this government system and you can say, 'wait a minute, I don't agree with that or I want to change this or I want to make this better.' You can do that with your voice."

Feenstra reiterated a point that America's youth holds the keys to what this country will look like in 20 or 30 years.

"Kids are the backbone of our future," said Feenstra. "They're the backbone of our economy – our Main Streets and families."

TAYLOR TIPS:

Speech Language Pathologists (SLPs) are most popularly known for their treatment of speech sounds, language skills, or stuttering, but did you know that SLPs also play an important role in treatment for those with hearing loss? An SLP's role in helping those with hearing loss include providing: environmental modifications, communication strategies, referrals for hearing devices if desired, and auditory training, known as Auditory Rehabilitation.

- While not all deaf and hard of hearing individuals make the personal decision to pursue a path of verbal communication via auditory rehabilitation, many families do wish to take advantage of these services. A child with hearing loss does not use their sense of hearing to develop speech like a child with typically developing hearing does. If verbal communication is the goal, a child with hearing loss must receive special treatment from a qualified SLP to help train the auditory nerve.

- For those who choose the journey in specialized auditory training, there are several reasons why starting this at a younger age is crucial. There are critical windows in development when children are most able to learn certain developmental skills. If an important window of opportunity for learning is missed, it becomes more difficult to develop these skills later in life. It is vital to help a baby/child with hearing loss learn to communicate and interact socially as soon as possible to prevent further complications down the road.

- Untreated hearing impairments can affect verbal speech and language development. Language development then affects reading development and other academic skills. Delays in these areas may affect an individual's success in participating in daily activities and within the community. For these reasons, early intervention for individuals with hearing loss is key, both for those who choose to receive auditory rehabilitation, and those who do not.

If you have a child with hearing loss, and believe they may benefit from specialized speech therapy and/or auditory rehabilitation, please contact our office at the Waverly Health Center (319) 352-5644. We would be happy to assist you in determining the appropriate course of action for your child!

Supervisors say they understand need for sheriff budget increase

hours a month, Hemann's proposed budget would have revenue of $309,050, an increase of 10.3 percent from this year's revenue of $280,040.

The proposed budget has expenditures of $1,915,455, and Hemann said there were four main reasons for the increase, including:

- Housing jail inmates in other counties.
- Purchasing two new vehicles after not buying a vehicle in this budget year that ends June 30.
- Increase in wages.
- Increase in fuel costs.

Supervisor Jacob Hackman said he had concerns about the budget, but he supported it.

"This budget I am afraid is going to be [soon] over $2 million," he said, "but we have to protect the citizens of Chickasaw County."

After making his presentation, Hemann said in the long run, the county will save money by housing some inmates outside the county.

He said the sheriff's office tends to house female inmates and those with behavioral issues in Winneshiek County.

With females, for example, state law requires that a jail have a female matron on duty, and so on an overnight shift in which a male is dispatching, the county must bring in a female staffer.

"That's $115 and it costs us $50 to house someone in Winneshiek," he said. "It's really a no-brainer."

He added that because dispatchers also work in the jail, the county is better off sending inmates with behavioral issues to other counties.

"Think about it if you have someone who is fighting and you have a car accident at the same time," he said, "what is the best use of that dispatchers time? ... It's why counties are going to have a dispatching center that is basically separate from the jail side of things."

During the supervisors' meeting, board members reached a consensus to accept the Sheriff's Office budget, but they also wanted to see how it would affect the entire county budget.

Special supervisor election filing deadline is this Friday

The filing deadline for the upcoming special election for the Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors District 1 seat is set for this Friday at 5 p.m.

The special election will fill the vacancy caused by the death of Rick Holthaus on Jan. 2, and at least two candidates appear to be headed for the ballot.

Republicans this past week-end nominated Mike Winter as their candidate while Democrats nominated Steve Breitbach, who was appointed to the seat last week, on Monday evening.

In addition to the major party candidates, those running "no party" can file nomination papers by Friday's deadline.

Those that file for the election by Friday will then have until next Monday at 5 p.m. to withdraw their names from the ballot for the March 1 election.

Breitbach will serve on the board until the results of the election are canvassed, which could come as early as the afternoon of March 7.

The winner of the election will complete Holthaus' term, which runs through Dec. 31, 2024.

Each of IFBF's 100 county Farm Bureaus will send one application from their county to be considered for the state award of which 27 students (three from each of Farm Bureau's nine districts) will be selected. To qualify for scholarship renewal, the recipient must continue to meet the scholarship requirements.

Applications must be sent via one email to the student's local county Farm Bureau office by Feb. 10. Contact the 515-225-5460 with questions.

Feds will return to Patrie to Iowa

WARRANT: FROM 1

"and we want to make sure we have our witnesses available because as time goes on, that can become an issue."

He added that his office has remained in contact with Gallmeyer's family since the murder took place.

Gallmeyer was a 70-year-old retired grocer who had moved to rural Nashua after selling his store in Clarksville.

At Patrie's first federal sentencing in June 2014, Gallmeyer's daughter, Marti Hornsby, said she appreciated the work done by local law enforcement on her father's case but also lashed out at Patrie.

"Why would anyone kill my dad? ... He was a good guy," Hornsby said. "Everyone enjoyed his good humor and infectious laugh. My dad lost his life because of Randy Patrie's life of crime."

In a complaint and affidavit filed in federal court, law enforcement authorities said they discovered that Gallmeyer had suffered a gunshot wound to the head and that numerous items — including several firearms and a Samsung 40-inch flat-screen TV, had been taken from his home.

The affidavit went on to say that on July 4, 2013, the Charles City Police Department executed a search warrant at Patrie's residence in Charles City and that investigators from the Sheriff's Office and the Iowa division of Criminal Investigation contacted Charles City police and obtained a copy of the items seized during the execution of the search warrant.

It was discovered that several of the items seized were items taken from Gallmeyer's home. They included three firearms, one of which, according to the affidavit was "consistent with the firearm used to kill" Gallmeyer.

An additional search warrant was then executed by the Sheriff's Office and the DCI at Patrie's home, and additional items belonging to Gallmeyer were located and seized. During the second search, officers discovered a Samsung 40-inch flatscreen TV mounted on the wall of Patrie's bedroom.

Hemann said on Tuesday that Patrie is currently incarcerated in a federal prison in New Jersey, but Hemann expects Patrie to be returned to Iowa within the next 30 days.

Once Patrie is back in Iowa, he will be held in the Fayette County Jail, which has the ability to better segregate prisoners of different classifications than the jail in Chickasaw County can.

Young Munn comes up big for Huskies

WRESTLERS: FROM 8

have been the surprise of the meet for the Huskies.

N-P sophomore Hayden Munn (8-1) shot all the way up to the third highest step on the medal stand after his third-place finish.

Frost made an impassioned pitch for Munn at the seeding meeting prior to the start of the conference meet. The best he could come up with was a six seed.

"I couldn't get much respect for him in the seeding meeting," said Frost. "That was a big deal because we had some opposing coaches that were not happy that I was even fighting for a seed. I said this guy is the legit deal."

Munn's only loss of the day was to seventh-ranked Tanner Arjes of Central Springs in the quarterfinal round. Arjes pinned him in just 1:00, but Munn earned two pins and two hard-fought decisions by scores of 9-8 and 3-2.

Munn also proved that he could probably start for almost any other team beside N-P. Munn worked his way to 23 varsity wins a year ago as a freshman.

That's saying something because Frost's Huskies are loaded.

"We got guys in the lineup that can fill his spot. We took advantage of it today. Hayden Munn stepped up today and came ready to wrestle," said White, who worked three pins and a major decision en route to a conference championship and is now 42-9 on the year.

Nelson, ranked eighth and now 41-9 on the season, placed third at 138 pounds. He lost for a second time this year to second-ranked Clayton McDonough of Central Springs in the semis. McDonough has tripped through the competition in this his senior year and is 45-0.

"It's something that I think is going to help me grow," said Nelson. "That match is going to help me for sectionals, regional duals, districts."

McDonough, along with last year's state champ at heavyweight – Chet Buss of North Butler/Clarksville – became the TOI's first ever four-time league champs. Buss, who broke the school record for career pins (166) at North Butler/Clarksville on Saturday, was named the TOI Wrestler of the Year.

McDonough topped Nelson by major decision at the Chris Davis Invite in the first tournament of the year. Nelson was defeated by McDonough, 7-1, this go-round. Nelson has also lost to McDonough's twin brother, Bryce, this year as well.

Bryce, ranked fourth, won the 145-pound weight class and is amazingly 45-0, too.

"They're good wrestlers – super tall, lanky," said Nelson.

There were four ranked wrestlers in Nelson's weight bracket including himself. He was able to come up with a big win headed into the sectional tournament as he turned the tables on Garner-Hayfield/Ventura's Lucas Kral. Kral, ranked No. 12, topped Nelson 8-3 in the opening quad of the year. Nelson exacted revenge with a solid, 8-4, victory this time around in their third-place match.

"We've learned a lot from that match. It was the first time out of the gate," said Frost. "Trey's found himself here recently. He came back in shining colors to get that third-place finish."

Jayden Rinken (44-1), just a freshman and ranked third at 106 pounds, beat eighth-ranked Lucas Oldenkamp of Lake Mills by major decision, 10-2, for his second-consecutive win over the Bulldog wrestler in back-to-back weekends. Rinken beat him 3-1 at the Doug Trees Invite at North Butler the previous weekend.

Rinken was taken down first by Oldenkamp, but the Husky heavy hitter poured it on from there to win convincingly.

"Jayden's gotta stay spot on. He's gotta stay on his game," said Frost. "He hasn't had a lot of real tough competition except for this kid."

Jayden's older brother Garret ran his win streak to 95 matches and pinned his way to a league title. All of Rinken's pins came under less than two minutes. Garret, the defending state champ at 113 pounds, is 46-0 and the top-ranked wrestler at his 120-pound weight class.

"There really wasn't anybody here of Garret's caliber today – which I'm not real happy about, because what Garret needs is tough matches," said Frost. "You only get better by wrestling good kids."

NB-P senior McKade Munn (44-6) had a big match against second-ranked Chase Thomas of Osage in the finals match of 152. Munn stuck Thomas in shocking fashion with just three seconds left (5:57) in their head-to-head matchup in a dual Osage won over N-P, 40-34, last month.

This time around Thomas (35-5) got his revenge as he won 7-4.

"We had a shot going there but we got dumped right to our back," said Frost. "Those are lessons we'll continue to learn."

Nic Brase (33-13) placed runner-up to 12th-rated Hayden Helgeson of Lake Mills in his finals match. Helgeson pinned Brase at last week's invite at North Butler and came away with a 9-3 decision at St. Ansgar.

Huskies pull away from the Regents

GIRLS: FROM 8

the court for one final time in a season that is winding down.

“It’s special to be able to do it and obviously on Senior Night it matters a little bit more, too,” said Smith, in his 6th season at N-P.

Carpenter and Hackman led the charge for the Huskies. The all-conference standouts and starters since their freshman year led N-P with 20 and 21 points, respectively.

Carpenter is now just five steals away from breaking the school record in that category. That mark is held by Samantha Harrington (294). Carpenter holds the single-season record at 104 steals, accomplished last year as a junior. She has 88 steals on the season this year with three regular season games to go.

Carpenter put on a show Monday versus WC. Her constant pressure in Smith’s full-court press produced countless fast break layups and that helped N-P overcome a 15-6 hole it had dug in the opening stanza.

Carpenter’s back-to-back run outs fueled a 12-0 Husky run to allow N-P to take an 18-15 lead with 6:56 to go in the first half.

The Regents led 25-24 at the break. A 3-point, third-quarter buzzer-beater by Katie Costello trimmed N-P’s lead to 33-32 headed into the final eight minutes of play. Costello would lead all scorers with 22 points.

Bailey Fisher, a junior, nailed perhaps the biggest shot of the night as she found the bottom of the net on a 3-pointer with 5:32 left in the contest. That pushed N-P’s lead up to 38-32.

A technical foul on the WC coach saw Hackman convert two free throws because of it and N-P’s lead was vaulted back up to a comfortable, 45-34, advantage with 1:48 left. Carpenter also added two free throws to finish off an 8-0 run late.

N-P shot 13-21 from the charity stripe with Hackman making 9 out of 12.

N-P played extremely well in the opening minutes of its TOI road tilt at conference front-runner Osage (16-3, 12-1) on Friday. The Huskies were up 12-2 at one point but the Green Devils rallied and turned back N-P by a score of 49-39. That was quite an improvement from the first time the two teams met in Nashua – the Green Devils winning that contest, 55-26.

“We started hot,” said Smith. “They played man-to-man and that gave us some problems.”

N-P, 7-7 in league play, takes on West Fork (16-3, 11-2) on the road tonight (Friday). Then the Huskies host North Butler on Monday in the regular season finale. N-P plays Valley Lutheran in the first round of Class 1A, Region 3 play on Thursday, Feb. 10.

N-P boys get win on Senior Night

it on any level of basketball,” said Brown. “If you want to beat a zone, a 3-point shot is the way to do it and they killed ‘em that night.”

N-P fell to 6-8 in league play after that loss and was led by Harrington’s 17 points. Franzen added 10 points and was 4-8 shooting.

Brown stated N-P will tangle with Top of Iowa Conference foe West Fork in Class 1A district play in Dunkerton on Monday, Feb. 14. Prior to that postseason tilt, N-P played West Fork on the road tonight (Friday) and hosts North Butler on Monday. The Huskies finish the regular season at Tripoli on Tuesday.

The other seniors that also celebrated Senior Night with their parents were Drew Rodruck, Chandler Vilmain and Bryce Anderson.

“It was exciting for them,” said Brown about his seniors getting recognized.

NASHUA-PLAINFIELD TAKES SECOND AT TOI; FROST NAMED COACH OF THE YEAR

By KELLY TERPSTRA

As Titus Evans lifted his head coach off the mat on Saturday night in St. Ansgar – the celebration was under way for Al Frost's Huskies.

The N-P wrestling squad was all smiles at the Top of Iowa Conference meet after finishing in second place to Osage among 16 league competitors.

Now the work really begins. The road to state starts now for Frost and his fourth-ranked Huskies as the sectional tournament in Clarksville is next on the itinerary for N-P this coming Saturday. It's been a heckuva ride so far.

Frost, in his 33rd season, was named TOI Coach of the Year and got bear-hugged at the conclusion of the meet by Evans, who placed third at 160 pounds.

N-P had five wrestlers advance to the finals with the Rinken brothers – Jayden and Garret – claiming the top spot on the podium alongside Husky sophomore 182-pounder Tate White.

"We're really coming together and working as a team," said N-P 138-pound senior Trey Nelson.

The Huskies earned 229 points to the Green Devils' 254.5. N-P did not have the services of eighth-ranked Kendrick Huck (35-9), who Frost said did not compete because he was under the weather. Huck's replacement at 126 pounds may SEE WRESTLERS, ?

Seniors get their 'night' before N-P rolls to a win

Husky girls bounce back from loss at Osage with home win over a solid Waterloo Christian squad

By KELLY TERPSTRA

You'd be hard pressed to scan the lineup of girls prep basketball teams in the state of Iowa and find five senior starters on any roster.

But that's exactly what Nashua-Plainfield sports in 2021-2022.

That's why Monday evening on Senior Night versus Waterloo Christian was a proud moment for Josh Smith's Huskies and their parents.

Icing on the cake?

The Huskies played well and continued a program resurgence under Smith by topping the Regents, 47-37.

Smith harkened back to when those five seniors – Makenzie Foelske, Jaycie Bilharz, Abbie Hyde, Jennah Carpenter and Breanna Hackman – were freshman.

N-P won just one game in 21 tries in that 2018-2019 season.

"There haven't been a whole lot of wins for ole Nashua-Plainfield girls basketball – dating back to '07," said Smith. "It's for sure a special group."

N-P improved to 11-8 overall with the victory over WC (11-7). The Huskies won 12 games last year and won two postseason games before falling to St. Ansgar.

Smith talked about guiding his five senior starters out on

N-P boys reach 10-victory mark

Senior's 'perfect' night lifts Huskies to 66-57 win over Waterloo Christian

By KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

Drew Wilken had himself a night on Monday evening.

He even got to stroll on to the hardwood with his parents in front of his hometown fans at halftime.

Such was the case for three other Husky seniors for head coach Sam Brown's Nashua-Plainfield boys basketball team earlier this week.

The Huskies celebrated Senior Night and later on revealed in the fact that it held on for a nine-point win over Waterloo Christian (9-9).

That vaulted N-P into the double-digit win territory this winter as the Huskies prevailed, 66-57, over the Regents.

N-P is now 10-8 overall after holding off a serious charge from WC – which stormed back from a 23-point hole to cut N-P's lead to three points with just 3:28 remaining in the non-conference matchup.

Had it not been for Wilken's perfect shooting and the ace marksmanship of junior guard Bo Harrington – the Huskies could may well have lost this one.

"There was a time we were on the ropes – on our heels," said Brown. "We were rocked for sure."

Wilken did not miss in seven attempts from the floor and nailed all three of his 3-point attempts. He also drained each of his two free throws and finished with 19 points.

"He wasn't scared tonight – shooting those 3's," said Brown.

Harrington – N-P's leading scorer at almost 18 points a game – was 8-14 from the floor for 21 points and also registered a double-double with 10 assists. Harrington, Wilken and sophomore guard Tucker

Franzen each converted on three 3-pointers.

Those shots proved pivotal in the long run. The game looked like it might be a laugher, but turned awfully serious in the latter stages of the contest.

N-P got into foul trouble early in the second half and turnovers changed the tenor of the game as WC cut a 42-19 lead all the way down to 55-52 underneath four minutes to play.

"They did a great job and we kept helping them out and giving them turnovers – let them turn into either baskets or going to the free-throw line," said Brown. "The free-throw line is the highest percentage shot in the game."

The Regents shot 15-22 from the charity stripe and were led by Drew Wagner's 15 points.

A 13-0 run by WC shaved N-P's advantage on the scoreboard all the way down to 44-36. Aiden Lamborn's two free throws built that lead back up to 10 – 46-36. Then Harrington's steal and dish to Wilken on the fast break climbed that lead back up to 12.

"He's a great guy to leak out and get the passes and get some easy buckets," said Brown about Wilken.

Last Friday's road contest versus Osage (15-4, 13-1) was a different story for the Huskies.

The Green Devils put on a shooting clinic to outscore N-P, 24-5, in the first period and cruised to a commanding 68-41 victory.

Brown said the Green Devils nailed their first seven shots from beyond the arc and were 8-9 from 3-point land in the first half. Osage drained a 28-footer as the first half horn sounded according to Brown.

"I've never seen anything like
