County live streaming meetings

Board chair says recordings, new website all part of efforts to be transparent

By BOB FENSKE

editor@nhtrib.com

The chairman of the Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors puts it pretty succinctly when it comes to why he and his fellow board members are now “live streaming” their meetings.

“It’s about transparency,” Matt Kuhn said, “and it’s about involving county residents who can’t always come to a meeting to have a chance to see what we’re doing.”

And Kuhn said that transparency is also the reason that the Board of Supervisors earlier this year approved using federal American Recovery Plan Act to create a new website for the county.

Start with the live streaming of meetings.

The Board of Supervisors began doing so earlier this year, spending a little less than a $1,000 for a device called a “Meeting Owl Pro” — a device that provides a 360-degree camera, microphone and speaker device — that allows board meetings to be aired on YouTube.

Supervisors worked out several kinks in the system and are also considering adding individual microphones for each of the board’s members, but the reviews so far have been positive.

“We’ve heard some good feedback that people appreciate that they can attend a meeting without necessarily coming to the courthouse,” Kuhn said. “I think it’s a good way to involve our citizens in what we’re doing, what we’re deciding.”

And Kuhn also pointed out that even if residents miss a meeting, they can go to the county website and watch past meetings because they are archived. He

Some wore headbands, vests or leather chaps — often the preferred attire for aficionados of choppers, hogs or Harleys.

There were biker boots, long beards and of course sunglasses — to shield the eyes from the glare of the open road.

Motorcycle riders from near and far, in what was a procession of two-and-three-wheeled machines, parked across the highway this weekend from one of the most visible and historic landmarks in Chickasaw County.

They were there to attend a special Sunday worship service at the The Little Brown Church.

Parishioners of one of the most famous churches in the world welcomed those riders with open arms.

An outlaw gang of bikers this group was not — as they came with meaningful purpose and echoed an important message to be safe.

“The main goal is everybody being safe, of course,” said Dustin Swagel of Charles City, District 17 Coordinator of A.B.A.T.E. (A Brotherhood Aimed Towards Education). “It brings awareness to share the road with the bikers.

Students excited to share event story in two languages

By BOB FENSKE

editor@nhtrib.com

Katie Torres and Vanessa Rodriguez both admitted they were a little nervous to take over the role of newspaper reporters and photographers for a day.

At the same time, the two New Hampton High School juniors were excited to write a story in Spanish for the Tribune, and today, the fruits of the two students’ labors can be found on Page 2 in this week’s paper.

“It’ll be cool for the Spanish speakers here to be able to see a story in the paper,” Torres said, “and that part, I’m really excited about ...”

Her friend finished the thought.

“But we’re a little nervous about it, too,” Rodriguez said, “because what if it’s not any good?”

No worries girls; it turned out just fine.

Nine heroes honored in Ionia Sunday

By DOROTHY HUBER

Nashua’s Matthew Schilling was a wrestler in high school. A graduate of 2015, it didn’t bother him to go out in a singlet and compete in the Nashua-Plainfield gymnasium, which always draws close to a full house. As member of the US Army National Guard, he has also done a tour in Iraq, returning last year at the end of July.

But put him in front of the crowd at the Ionia Fire Station Sunday to honor him with a Quilt of Valor? That made him nervous.

“I don’t like being in front of people,” he said with a smile after the ceremony that honored nine members of the service. “So yes, I was a little nervous. Wrestling, that’s a whole different state of mind.”

Schilling was the youngest service member to be honored at the presentation, and it was a good-sized crowd that showed up to honor the recipients.

The N-P grad joined the Guard while attending a trade school. “My grandpa was in the service, so I always wanted to serve. The National Guard gives you plenty of opportunities, you give them one weekend a month and two weeks in the summer.”

Mexican Fiesta

EDITOR’S NOTE: As New Hampton High School Spanish 3 and 4 students planned a Mexican Fiesta earlier this month, instructor Kris Ward approached the Tribune about having her students cover the event with stories in both English and Spanish. Our answer was a resounding “absolutely.” The stories on this page were written by Vanessa Rodriguez and Katie Torres, who also took the photographs of what turned out to be both a fun and educational event.

On April 14, the High School threw a Mexican fiesta! The Spanish classes of levels 3 & 4 were assigned to a project on how they would think a cultural Mexican party would look like. Everyone had a job that they wanted to do.

We had our great Spanish teachers, Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Macon help us as students in expressing and understanding the culture. Some of the students worked on decorations, food, beverages, music, and the publicity. There was also a dance that was choreographed by someone who knows a lot about the culture, Lucero Rodriguez, who was generous and courageous enough to show the school how to dance to the song, El Caballo Dorado. The students who wanted to make food gave out samples during lunch hours of what they made and what would be eaten at a Mexican party. Lastly those who had publications made invitations and posters trying to spread the word. Fortunately, multiple people wanted work on publication. The teachers weren’t so sure about that, but then they came up with a great idea by seeing how different this could be due to cultural differences. They came up to us, as the coolest and intelligent students we are, and we agreed on doing some sort of cultural diffusion. This helped express our culture more.

To prepare us students for hosting a Mexican party, we took a field trip to a Mexican store in Waterloo. The Mexican store is called La Placita. We went there to get the supplies we needed for our projects. Inside it was a combination of a store and a restaurant and some students ate some food. Some students got some Jarritos, Mexican candy, and other supplies. Before we left, the owner of the store told us some information about their store. Their original store was right across the street but a flood made all their merchandise go to waste. A couple years later they opened again and where they are located now is bigger and better. Most of their merchandise comes straight from Mexico, Arizona, and Chicago. The students learned a lot of differences between the cultures just by going to a store, the weird ones as in having animal heads and tongues in a freezer and the cool ones as in the variety of food, drinks, and candies there are!

On the day of the party it was very busy everywhere. Some food groups were adding the final touches to their samples. Others were helping set up for the party. We first had the middle schoolers come to our stands and try some samples. Some of the samples were Red Rice, Jarritos, Churro Cheesecake, and many other things. Everyone was excited to see different food and listen to music while eating and being around their friends. At every lunch shift Annala Elliot and Lucero Rodriguez showed the crowd how to do the dance. The party turned out to be a fun experience for the middle schoolers. We got to see and learn about the history of each project the students planned. There was new and different food to try.

Overall the party was a fun experience for the students. The Spanish classes of levels 3&4 were assigned to a project on how they would think a cultural Mexican party would look like. Everyone had a job that they wanted to do.

This was a way for us as students to express and understand the culture. Each student was assigned to a category and did an excellent job working and putting effort into it. The field trip was something the students enjoyed and wished we would have gone to more stores. The day of the party everyone enjoyed it, especially the part where we got to skip class! Just kidding, we enjoyed seeing others celebrate and appreciate our culture. It meant a lot to us that our teachers care about our differences and want to make us feel included.

New Hampton Middle School students join high school Spanish 3 and 4 students in a dance that was held part of a Mexican Fiesta that was put on by students in classes taught by instructors Kris Ward and Tish Macon.

From top: Kaylee Baker and Quinten Reicks are ready to serve up the drinks, middle school students try out the food and Spanish 3 and 4 class members perform a dance.

Fiesta mexicana

El 14 de abril, la escuela secundaria realizó una fiesta mexicana! A las clases de español de los niveles 3 y 4 se les asignó un proyecto sobre cómo pensarían que sería una fiesta cultural mexicana. Todos tenían un trabajo que querían hacer.

Tuvimos a nuestras excelentes maestras de español, la Sra. Ward y la Sra. Macon, que nos ayudaron como estudiantes a expresar y comprender la cultura.

Algunos de los estudiantes trabajaron en la decoración, la comida, las bebidas, la música y la publicidad. También hubo un baile que fue coreografiado por alguien que sabe mucho sobre la cultura, Lucero Rodríguez, quien fue lo suficientemente generosa y valiente como para mostrarle a la escuela cómo bailar la canción El Caballo Dorado. Los estudiantes que querían hacer comida dieron muestras durante la hora del almuerzo de lo que hicieron y lo que se comería en una fiesta mexicana. Por último quienes tenían publicaciones hicieron invitaciones y afiches tratando de correr la voz. Afortunadamente varias personas querían trabajar en la publicación. Los maestros no estaban tan seguros de eso, pero luego se les ocurrió una gran idea al ver cuán diferente resultaría esto debido a las diferencias culturales. Se nos acercaron, como los estudiantes más geniales e inteligentes que somos, y acordamos hacer algún tipo de difusión cultural. Esto ayudó a expresar más nuestra cultura.

Para prepararnos como estudiantes para organizar una fiesta mexicana, hicimos una excursión a una tienda mexicana en Waterloo. La tienda mexicana se llama La Placita. Fuimos allí para obtener los suministros que necesitábamos para nuestros proyectos. Adentro había una combinación de una tienda y un restaurante y algunos estudiantes comieron algo. Algunos estudiantes recibieron Jarritos, dulces mexicanos y otros útiles. Antes de irnos, el dueño de la tienda nos dio algunos datos sobre su tienda. Su tienda original estaba al otro lado de la calle, pero una inundación hizo que toda su mercancía se desperdiciara. Un par de años después abrieron de nuevo y donde están ubicados ahora es más grande y mejor. La mayor parte de su mercancía proviene directamente de México, Texas y Chicago. Los estudiantes aprendieron muchas diferencias entre las culturas simplemente yendo a una tienda, las extrañas como tener cabezas y lenguas de animales en un congelador y las geniales como la variedad de alimentos, bebidas y dulces que hay.

El día de la fiesta fue muy caótico por todas partes. Algunos grupos de alimentos estaban dando los toques finales a sus muestras. Otros estaban ayudando a preparar la fiesta. Primero hicimos que los estudiantes de secundaria vinieran a nuestros puestos y probaran algunas muestras. Algunas de las muestras fueron Arroz Rojo, Jarritos, Cheesecake de Churro, y muchas cosas más. Todos estaban emocionados de ver comida diferente, escuchar música mientras comían y estaban con sus amigos. En cada turno de almuerzo, Annala Elliot y Lucero Rodríguez le mostraron a la multitud cómo bailar. La fiesta resultó ser una experiencia divertida para los estudiantes de secundaria. Pudimos ver y aprender sobre la historia de cada proyecto que los estudiantes planearon. Había comida nueva y diferente para probar.

En general, la fiesta fue una experiencia divertida para los estudiantes. A las clases de español de los niveles 3 y 4 se les asignó un proyecto sobre cómo pensarían que sería una fiesta cultural mexicana.

Todos tenían un trabajo que querían hacer. Esta fue una forma para que nosotros, como estudiantes, expresamos y entenderíamos la cultura. A cada estudiante se le asignó una categoría e hizo un excelente trabajo trabajando y poniendo esfuerzo en ella. La excursión fue algo que los estudiantes disfrutaron y desearon haber ido a más tiendas.

El día de la fiesta todos los disfrutaron, especialmente la parte en la que nos saltamos la clase!

Es broma, disfrutamos ver a otros celebrar y apreciar nuestra cultura. Significó mucho para nosotros que nuestros maestros se preocupen por nuestras diferencias y quieran hacernos sentir incluidos.

How To Be a Good Money Manager in Retirement

If you reach retirement with a significant amount of assets, you’ve done a great job of saving and investing. But now comes another challenge – making that money last.

You might think that this task, as important as it is, won’t be as hard as accumulating the money in the first place. Yet, a sizable number of people have reached a different conclusion. In fact, 36% of retirees say managing money in retirement is more confusing than saving for retirement, and 56% say they wish they had budgeted for more unexpected expenses in retirement, according to the Edward Jones/Age Wave Four Pillars of the New Retirement study.

What steps can you take to help you become an effective money manager during your retirement years? Here are a few to consider:

- Set your goals. Your money management needs will certainly depend, to some extent, on what your goals are for the coming years. Will you travel extensively? Stay close to home and pursue your hobbies? Or maybe even open a small business? Once you identify your vision for retirement, you can estimate how much it will cost, which will then dictate much of your spending and saving needs.
- Stick to a budget. If you’ve followed a budget throughout your working years, there’s no reason to stop now – in fact, budgeting may be even more essential when you retire. Of course, you don’t necessarily want to force yourself to be as frugal as possible – after all, you worked hard, saved and invested so you can enjoy a comfortable retirement lifestyle. Look for reasonable cost-cutting opportunities, such as eating out less often or eliminating streaming services you don’t use.
- Don’t underestimate health care costs. Even when you’re on Medicare and pay for supplemental insurance, health care costs could still be one of your biggest expenses during retirement. Initially, budgeting for $4,500 to $6,500 per person annually may be a good starting point for traditional health care expenses in retirement. However, depending on your health, prescription drug usage and other factors, your costs could be higher or lower. And you may also want to estimate long-term care expenses as part of your plan.

- Look for senior discounts. Once you’re a senior, you may be able to find discounts on a wide range of items and activities, such as movies, transportation, groceries, gym memberships and more. By taking advantage of these discounts, you can save a surprising amount of money and ease pressure on your cash flow.
- Establish a sustainable withdrawal strategy. For decades, you’ve been putting money into your IRA and 401(k). But once you’re retired, you will likely need to start taking withdrawals from these accounts. It’s essential that you don’t withdraw so much early in your retirement that you eventually run the risk of outliving your money. You may want to work with a financial professional, who can analyze your entire situation – assets, expenses, lifestyle, expected longevity, etc. – and recommend a sustainable withdrawal rate. Keep in mind that once you turn 72, you may be required to take out a certain amount each year from your 401(k) and your traditional IRA, so you’ll want to incorporate these withdrawals into your overall income strategy. Do whatever it takes to become a good money manager during retirement. You’ll find that it’s well worth the effort.

Superintendent thinks attracting new schools has a good ‘shot’

NEIC: FROM 1

NEIC schools - New Hampton, Waukon and Crestwood.

Jurrens said this past weekend that he would recommend to the New Hampton School Board to reject the invitation.

“That’s just my recommendation,” he said, “because it is a board decision. I feel like we have a chance to stay in the NEIC and expand it. If we can do that, I think that’s in New Hampton’s best interest.”

After New Hampton received the invitation to join the UIC, the School Board in March directed Jurrens to make the motion to remove Waverly-Shell Rock from the league. In the two weeks following the April 4 Executive Board meeting vote, the Crestwood, Decorah, Charles City, New Hampton and Waukon school boards all agreed with taking the conference to five teams, and that led to last Friday’s final vote.

Waverly-Shell Rock has 596 students in grades 9-11, which is the enrollment the two state associations will use to determine classifications for the 2022-23 school year. Decorah is a distant second in the conference with 430 and is followed by Charles City (399), Crestwood (305), Waukon (286) and New Hampton (272).

Board discusses value of county-owned property

By KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

The Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors worked on submitting property values on four county-owned buildings at last Monday’s meeting.

The Board will submit the values to Heartland Insurance, which is working with Board member Tim Zoll to accurately appraise the property on their end to determine insurance value.

“We have to provide a value so they insure it at said value,” said Chickasaw County Auditor Stephanie Mashek.

Mashek said the Board of Supervisors hasn’t increased the building values since 2011.

“So we know that we’re already lagging,” said Mashek.

Mashek also said that the Heartland Risk Pool Insurance Company is currently doing an assessment on any county-owned property valued over $50,000.

The four county-owned buildings and their totals that will be submitted to Heartland are as follows:

- Chickasaw County Courthouse ($5.5 million)
- Chickasaw County Jail and insurance office ($4.62 million)
- Main County Shop and Secondary Roads building ($2.11 million)
- Heritage Assisted Living Facility ($2.4 million)

Zoll said it would take the insurance adjuster with Heartland Insurance about two months to complete the assessment so the county knows how much each building is insured for.

The board also approved a resolution allocating $2.3 million via the American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) of 2021.

“We are considering that lost revenue because it’s under $10 million,” said Mashek. “We can utilize those funds for a lot of things. There are some restrictions.”

In turn, the Board voted to disband the ARPA Committee, which members were Mashek, Board member Jason Byrne, Emergency Management Coordinator Jeff Bernatz, Public Health Director Lisa Welter, Chickasaw County Sheriff Marty Hemann and Chad Humpal.

“I’m not picking on any other government agency, but when there’s a committee…it comes back to that full board to make that final decision on APRA funds,” said Board member Jacob Hackman. “I guess I don’t foresee the reason for the committee at this point.”

Hackman thanked the committee for their work.

“I just want to thank that committee for the time they put in and the discussion they had,” said Hackman. “They did a great presentation on the packet they sent us. Thank you for their duties.”

Conservation director to submit destination grants

By BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

Chickasaw County Conservation Director Chad Humpal will be the first to admit that he was a bit “deflated” as he watched a webinar on the new Iowa Destination grants that will promote tourism in Iowa.

But he remains undaunted, and now, thanks to some help from the Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors, he will submit a grant application early next month that he hopes will not only bring cabins but also “seasonal” campsites to campgrounds in the county.

“When I watched the webinar, I was a little worried,” he said on Monday, “because they seem like they want projects that cater to bringing people in from out of state or at least regional tourism. They’re looking for the big projects, but hopefully, there’s some room for projects like ours that I think have a lot of benefits for our county. The supervisors coming through last week helps us a lot.”

Humpal was referring to the Board of Supervisors agreeing to have the county provide a commitment to 60 percent of the project costs as matching funds to purchase two or three cabins, add 12 seasonal campsites and possibly install an EZ Dock - one that is handicap accessible and would provide a kayak launch - at Airport Lake Park.

Supervisor Jake Hackman said he appreciated the benefits of the project, as well as the fact that new amenities would provide revenue to the Conservation Board.

His fellow board members agreed and voted to commit to funding 60 percent of the project if the Conservation Board receives a grant from the Destination Iowa program.

Humpal estimated the cost of the 12 seasonal campsites - each site is home to one camper throughout the summer - would be just under $40,000.

“Right now, we don’t have any, but people are asking us all the time for them,” he said, “The demand is definitely there and I’d be confident we’d fill them.”

The seasonal campsites would include a sewer line, a 12-by-20-foot concrete patio and gravel to extend the current camping pads, and Humpal told supervisors the Conservation Board would charge $1,500 rent for each season.

When it comes to the cabins, the cost of each would range from $12,500 to $16,000, depending on if they were unfinished or finished, and Humpal said if the county would purchase three of the 24-by-12 foot cabins, two would be placed at Airport Lake and the other would be placed in Split Rock Park near Fredericksburg.

He said a cabin that was averaged three nights of rental over a 22-week camping season would generate $4,290 of revenue.

“There are no cabins really in public parks around us, and I feel good that they’ll get used,” he said. “The cabins have become more popular in recent years, and I’d love to see us be able to get some of that traffic to Chickasaw County.”

For now, Humpal will complete the grant application and hope for the best.

“If we get it, great, we can get going,” he said, “and if we don’t, we’ll go back to the supervisors and figure out what our next plan should be.”

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION

Father Brian Dellaert
Mass time: Saturday,
April 30, 6 p.m.

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF YOUR LIFE?

May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace as you trust in him, so that you may overflow with hope by the power of the Holy Spirit. (Romans 15:13, NIV)

When driving, I use the navigation system well. I can drive comfortably without having to open a physical map and check whether the route is correct. However, there is one thing that is most important in using the navigation: making sure I enter my destination correctly.

That means I need to know exactly where I'm going. If I only know the name and do not know the exact location, I may go to a completely different area. If I don't know my destination, of course I can't go where I want to go.

Wouldn't this be the same in our lives? Many people do not know the purpose of their life.
They live aimlessly.
Since some do not have purpose, they cannot get help from others and life is bound to be difficult.

It's time to think about the purpose of your life. There is a saying that "It's not speed, it's direction".

No matter how fast you go, if you go in the wrong direction, you are bound to go to the wrong place.

Likewise, those who know exactly where they are going in life can go on the right path with the Lord's help.

Those who can firmly believe in the Lord know the final destination of heaven and are moving towards it.
Jesus' resurrection is the key to the Christian faith. Because Christ was raised from the dead, our world is now headed for redemption.
Death is not the end.

Dong Hun Shin is the pastor for the First United Methodist Church in New Hampton and United Church of Christ in both New Hampton and Ionia.

There is future life.
Therefore, we can be confident that He will accomplish all He has promised.

Rosemary H. Kruse, 87

Rosemary H. Kruse, age 87 of Waucoma, died Tuesday, April 12, 2022, at the Muse-Norris Hospice Home in Mason City.

A Mass of Christian Burial will be held at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, May 4, 2022, at St. Luke's Catholic Church, St. Lucas with Rev. Nick Radloff celebrating the Mass. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Friends may greet the family from 4 to 7 p.m. Tuesday, May 3, 2022, at St. Luke's Catholic Church. Visitation continues an hour prior to Mass at the church on Wednesday.

Hugeback Johnson Funeral Home and Crematory is entrusted with arrangements. Online condolences for the Kruse family may be left at hugebackfuneralhome.com.

Rosemary was born May 8, 1934, in St. Lucas, the daughter of Joseph and Catherine (Schmitt) Hageman, and grew up on a farm with her parents and five siblings. She received her education at St. Luke's Catholic School and after graduating, she continued to help her parents on the farm.

One night, she and her sister attended a wedding dance at Chip's Ballroom in Lawler, and as they waited near the door for a ride home, a handsome young veteran named Philip Kruse was "dared" by a friend, Chub Winter, to ask Rosemary to dance. Philip took up that dare, Rosemary said yes, they danced to the "Blue Skirt Waltz" and a lifetime romance began.

Rosemary and Philip worked together on their dairy farm for almost four decades and their family grew to include three children – Daryl, Debra and Daniel. She was a farm wife, meaning she made all the family meals and delivered many lunches to the fields. She also helped in the fields, with the dairy herd, and all the farm animals including cows, pigs, chickens, a few ducks and turkeys. She was also always the tractor driver on the hayfork while baling hay and bottle-fed the calves.

She enjoyed both her vegetable and flower gardens and tending to her rhubarb and asparagus patches. The Kruse's farm had a number of apple trees, and Rosemary never let an apple go to waste. Her apple and rhubarb crisps were, in a word, amazing.

After Philip retired in 1993, the couple built a new house along the Turkey River in Waucoma, where Rosemary continued to grow beautiful flowers and tend to her gardens.

Rosemary was a woman of deep faith. She was a longtime member of St. Luke's Catholic Church in St. Lucas, where she was active in the Rosary Society, and after she moved to Waucoma, she was a faithful member of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

She always arrived early to Mass, but then again, she arrived early everywhere!

Rosemary also enjoyed cross-stitching and crocheting, but the most important thing in her life was always her family, including her five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. She was an excellent caregiver to her husband before his death this past September, and after Philip's passing, she moved to Mason City to be closer to her daughter.

This wonderful woman who always thought of others before herself will be dearly missed by those who knew and loved her, yet her faith tells us that today she is reunited in Heaven with her husband of 63 years.

Survivors include three children, Daryl Kruse of Cedar Falls, Debra (Lyle) Crockford of Mason City, Daniel (Tracy) of Wayne, Nebraska; five grandchildren, Nichole Crockford of Denver, Colorado, Benjamin Crockford of Mason City, Nolan, Brooklyn and Delayne Kruse, all of Wayne, Nebraska; two great-grandchildren, Keagan and Krue Crockford of Mason City; one brother, Joe (Gayle) Kruse of St. Lucas; one sister, Bernice Karnik of Little Turkey; sister-in-law, Irma Hageman of New Hampton.

She was preceded in death by her parents, her husband Philip on September 18, 2021; brother, Florian Hageman; sisters, Sr. Joselda Hageman, Lorraine (Carl) Wurzer; brothers-in-law, Ray Karnik, John (Lucille) Kruse; sister-in-law, Lorraine Kruse.

Sandra Link, 80

Sandra Link, age 80 of Ionia, died Wednesday, April 20, 2022, at The Suites at Western Home Communities in Cedar Falls.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Monday, May 2, 2022, at St. John's Lutheran Church in Charles City with Rev. Anita Nuetzman officiating. For those unable to attend please join the live webcast on Sandra's obituary page on hugebackfuneral-home.com Friends may greet the family from 3 to 6 p.m. Sunday, May 1, 2022, at Hugeback-Johnson Funeral Home & Crematory – Olson Chapel in Nashua. Visitation continues an hour prior to the service at the church on Monday.

Interment will be at a later date at St. Boniface Cemetery in Ionia.

Sandra was born on May 26, 1941, to Jesse and Irma Ballou in Iowa City and grew up on a farm just outside the small town of Olin, where she received her education. She graduated from Olin High School, where she was a cheerleader for the Lions, in 1958.

After high school, she attended Wartburg College in Waverly, where she majored in business administration with an economics focus, graduating in 1962.

Sandra worked in the insurance business and spent a number of years working for the Iowa Small Business Employers (ISBE) where she really made her mark.

But Sandra was much more than an outstanding student and professional; where she really made her mark was with the love and care she showed for her family and friends, who will tell you that what they will remember most about their mom and friend were the long talks they shared. She was, in short, "great at listening." And she was a trusted confidant you could take your problems to and get sound advice on how to proceed.

Sandra was a single mother of three when she met Jim Link on what turned out to be a very interesting blind date as the couple attended a dance in Manly only to be stranded with several of their friends in a blizzard. The rest is history. The couple married in 1994, and their families blended together perfectly.

She had a potpourri of interests. Sandra enjoyed gardening, cooking, sewing and, of course, her two soap operas - "As the World Turns" and "Guiding Light." She was a member of a card club and loved to entertain and dance as well.

For a dozen years, Jim and Sandra owned and operated The Oak Wood Inn, a beautiful bed-and-breakfast on the south shore of Clear Lake. They then built a house on an acreage near Ionia, and throughout their 28 years of marriage, she was a devoted wife and best friend to Jim.

Sandra was a member of St. John's Lutheran Church in Charles City.

This remarkable woman who never said a bad word about anyone will be missed, but the memories she helped create and the advice she dispensed will last a lifetime for Jim, her children, her grandchildren, and all those who knew her will

Ramona Marie Smith-Gates

Ramona Smith-Gates

Ramona Marie (Fox) Smith-Gates passed away peacefully on April 19, 2022, in Des Moines. She was born near Riceville, on Sept. 29, 1926 to Albert J (Bert) Fox and Loretta (Murray) Fox. They preceded her in death in 1978 and 1984, respectively. She had a beloved younger brother, John Fox, who passed away in 2004.

Ramona graduated from Lawler High School, where she played basketball and made lifelong friends. After graduating from high school, she went to work at the Chickasaw County Treasurer's Office. It was there that she met her future husband, Clemens Smith, a New Hampton native and recent graduate of the Drake University Law School. He was running for the office of Chickasaw County Attorney when one day, he "happened" to visit the Treasurer's Office. They placed a friendly wager - Ramona bet he wouldn't win the election. She would never disclose whether she voted for him or not but they were married two weeks and two days after making that bet. She and Clem were lifelong New Hampton residents. He passed away in 1983.

A frequent traveler, Ramona especially enjoyed Ireland. She was proud of her Irish heritage and took her family to Ireland to celebrate her 80th birthday. While she enjoyed being with family, she loved and rarely missed her 7 a.m. coffee at McDonald's with her special group. Her early morning coffee group began over 50 years ago and she participated well into her 90's. Ramona enjoyed cooking, entertaining and making an occasional trip to a casino, or three.

Ramona supported the community of New Hampton through many charitable activities. She was a devout member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church and died with rosary in hand.

Years after Clem's death, Ramona met and married Dale Gates, a local businessman. Prior to his death in 2011, they were married for over 20 happy years. They enjoyed family and traveling together. Ramona was blessed to have five new step-children and was ecstatic when she became "Grandma" to their children.

When her health declined, Ramona moved to a care facility in Des Moines, where the staff quickly identified her sense of fun and orneriness, even at age 95.

Ramona is survived by her four children, Mark Smith (Artis Reis) of Des Moines; Jim (Cindy) Smith of West Des Moines; John Smith (Gail Ward) of St. Paul, Minnesota; and Margee (Bill) Stamper of Greenwood, Indiana. She is also survived by granddaughter Shannon (Kevin) Gaydos of Chicago; step-granddaughter Emily (Cory) Abbas and sons Rowen and Crey of Des Moines; grandsons Jordan (Bri) Smith of Las Vegas, Nevada; Colin Smith and daughter Maddie of Waukee; Ryan (Jayma) Stamper and sons Jack and Charlie of Indianapolis, Indiana; Bryce (Staci) Stamper and sons Liam and Finn of Greenwood, Indiana; Bill (Amy) Stamper and daughters Hayden and Morgan of Fishers, Indiana and Jackson (Erin) Smith of Minneapolis.

Ramona is also survived by step-children Sue Gates, North Liberty; Karen (Randy) Erion of Decorah; John (Mary) Gates, Cedar Rapids; Lisa (Robert) Wilson of Marion; Kim (Lynn) Hopp of New Hampton. Step-grandchildren are Alison (Matt) Wood of North Liberty; Stephanie (Brian) McClure of North Liberty; Abby Erion of Cedar Rapids; Lainey (Brad) Erion of Seattle, Washington; Kyle (Emily) Gates of Chicago; Kellie (JP) Helgens of Chicago; Meggie Gates of Chicago; Hayley Fry of Cedar Rapids; Hunter (Audrey) Fry of Marion; Hilary (August) Raack of Bettendorf; Nick (Carol) Hopp of Decorah; Taylor (Maddie) Hopp of Mesa, Arizona; Logan (Whitney) of Decorah; and Noah (Isabell Hoey) of Cedar Falls.

Visitation was held on Monday, April 25, from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Conway-Markham Funeral Home, 115 N. Broadway Ave, New Hampton. The Funeral Mass was held at Holy Family Parish at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday, April 26. Ramona will be buried next to her husband, Clem, in New Hampton. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests contributions be directed to Holy Family Parish, 215 N Broadway, New Hampton, IA 50659.

Jay Dean Mehmen, 77

Jay Dean Mehmen age 77 of Nashua, died Tuesday, April 19, 2022, at the Waverly Health Center. Funeral Services were held at 11 a.m. Wednesday, April 27, 2022, at First United Church of Christ - Pleasant Valley, rural Clarksville, with Rev. Peter Wenzel officiating.

First responders still on the job after 41 years

Group needs more volunteers to help the community

By DOROTHY HUBER
dorhubernews@gmail.com

Winter and Schmitt are pretty ordinary names around Waucoma. But what Faye Winter and Mike Schmitt have done for the community and surrounding areas border on extraordinary.

The two are original members of the Waucoma First Responders, a group which was certified in April of 1981 with 20 members. In fact, Waucoma was just the second such organization in the state to become certified, according to Winter. Hawkeye was the first.

"I wasn't even married when I became a first responder," said Schmitt. "And now, I'm a grandpa five years."

In their 41 years of service, the two have been on a variety of calls. First responders help control bleeding, do general assessment, but perhaps the most common procedure they've performed is CPR, especially in their early years with the organization. The group's first president, Marilyn Hauer, was on leave from nursing at the University of Iowa Hospitals to care for her mother Elaine, and stated she did "way more CPR as a first responder" than she did as a nurse.

"Back then there were a lot of old people in town," Schmitt recalled. "Now," he said as he smiled at Winter, "well, now we're the old people."

Winter agreed. "I started the class because I had young kids and you want to know what to do." Now she too is a grandmother of ten.

There have been 55 members since the group organized, with only 12 current members. The age requirement is 18, and both Winter and Schmitt have had a child serve with them. Over the years there have been six responders join who have watched a parent rush off to calls, often in the middle of the night. Winter's daughter Lisa took the calling a step or two further, she went on to serve on Air Care helicopter flights for University Hospitals.

"We're a close-knit group," said Winter. "We know what each other's weaknesses are, I guess you could say. Some can't handle vomit and some can't stand the sight of too much blood, we work around that."

Since it's a volunteer group, the response is also on a volunteer basis. "If you can't make it, if you have a sick child or whatever the reason, that's fine."

Both acknowledge there might be a little competition as to who gets to the emergency first.

"Of course, Faye sleeps with her clothes on,"

Schmitt joked. Winter denied that, but Schmitt persisted. "You can't beat her."

Each have a scanner they keep with them, and it's on every day, and every night. "You never know what's going down when that goes off," Schmitt offered. "But your adrenaline kicks in," Winter added. "Then you wonder what if it's a kid.... ohhh," she shook her head. "That's the worst."

THINGS HAVE CHANGED over the years. Now first responders are called "Emergency Medical Responders" or EMR. Technology has changed from using scanners and pagers to allowing notices to come to them over their phones. "They will send the address, you click on it and it will take you there," Schmitt recalls responding to a call by Jackson Junction years ago, where a lady stood on a corner with a map, directing him to the farm he needed to go. So that technology is a great change.

Getting to the scene was also made more efficient in 2008 with the purchase of the town's rescue vehicle. "We used to come to the station," said Winter, "grab bags and throw them into our vehicles." Now first responders or fire department personnel can take the vehicle to an accident and have access to first aid equipment, including the jaws of life the fire department might use to extract accident victims before first responders can do their thing.

While any CPR still starts with chest compressions, a defibrillator is utilized, that purchase was made in 1990. "It gives the patient more of a chance of a better outcome," Winter stated.

Donations to the first responders have helped purchase life-saving equipment, but what the group really needs is more volunteers from the town of 223 and surrounding areas. "We'll pay for their schooling," said Schmitt. "Years ago we paid for our own." Schmitt thought about 50 hours of education was needed to start, then 12 hours of continuing education over a two-year period.

The number of calls the first responders make vary. "You might have 50 a year, you might have 13," said Schmitt. "It seems to go in spurts," Winter added. Their territory includes St. Lucas, and there are St. Lucas residents in their organization, however there are some addresses it's not feasible for Waucoma responders to go to, since they know a West Union ambulance will arrive first.

THE FIRST AID the responders perform is Faye Winter and Mike Schmitt stand in front of the rescue vehicle the City of Waucoma purchased in 2008, which helped the efficiency of first responders. Winter and Schmitt are original members of the Waucoma First Responders, a group that became certified in 1981.

There's a reason I chose the Waucoma First Responders to be a featured group in the Tribune's Everyday Heroes section. They're a group close to my heart.

In 1998, my brother had an aneurysm. As the love of her life lay unconscious in the early hours of the morning, my sister-in-law — staying on the landline bedroom phone after dialing 911 — was understandably frantic as she tried to call to her children, who were in adjoining bedrooms but in the grasp of blissful teenage sleep.

Their house is only a mile from Waucoma, but at best it would be a half-hour before an ambulance would arrive. In minutes, though, the First Responders were there. A fact my sister-in-law appreciated immensely.

"They were a godsend," she said. "Somebody, I think it was probably Faye, took me out in the hall and said something like 'we got this.' It just made me feel like somebody had control of the situation."

When the ambulance left, my sister-in-law went along, the First Responders stayed, called me and stayed until I arrived.

"When I left, I knew my kids were going to be taken care of. They were certainly old enough to take care of themselves but they woke up in the middle of the night, they didn't know what was going on, they were scared."

--Dorothy Huber

Ordinary people, extraordinary things

This was not the way the last day of work before a long-awaited and much-needed vacation was supposed to unfold.

There I was, in the emergency room at MercyOne New Hampton Medical Center feeling like ... well, you know, crap. My equilibrium was way off. The dizziness I was experiencing made me question if my 26-year sobriety had somehow come to an end. And my chest, oh my God, my chest hurt.

As the nurses and technicians poked, prodded and ran a variety of tests last Wednesday, I was supposed to be at the Tribune office getting some stories done, laying out some pages and making sure I wasn't leaving Dorothy Huber and Kelly Terpstra a mess when I left for Colorado the following day.

Three hours later, Dr. Danny Lewis came into my room and basically said I was fine. I don't want to say I was disappointed - I mean obviously I didn't want to learn that I had suffered a heart attack or a stroke important, but their contributions go so much deeper. After one emergency some first responders — including Schmitt — finished the milking for a farmer that needed to be with his family and once Schmitt responded to a call, and when others got there they found him playing cards with the patient. He did need an ambulance — he had broken a hip but in the meantime, a little distraction. Always there is the relief felt when the caller is able to share the burden of watching a loved one suffer. “Most of the time we’re greeted at the door with ‘oh, I’m so glad you’re here,’” said Winter. And with usually two on an ambulance staff, there’s also a need to help with the heavy lifting.

IN THOSE 41 YEARS of responding to calls, neither Winter or Schmitt had any injuries themselves — until this year. Winter spent a little time as an outpatient in the hospital after being exposed to carbon monoxide, as did a couple other responders, but none suffered any serious consequences.

So what exactly do they get out of all this? “The satisfaction of helping out,” Winter said simply.

Schmitt shrugged, “I joined for the knowledge, then it was a group thing, next thing you know, it’s 40 years later.”

There’s a hero that can be found everywhere, helping us in our daily lives tested positive for COVID-19 back in January 2021.

HEROES: FROM 6

Dr. Lewis must have seen the frustration in my face because he was quick to offer me some “validation.”

“It’s OK, Bob. I’m not saying you shouldn’t have come in or your imagining this,” he said. “It can be a lot of things, and we’re going to have you see your doctor and we’ll get to the bottom of this.”

And then he rattled off all the things — dehydration, stress, anxiety, some kind of long-term fatigue ... - that could have led me to call my good friend, Jennifer Monteith, and ask her if she could take me to the ER.

I then asked Lewis if I could still go to Colorado the following day?

“Absolutely, if you feel up to it,” he said. “Your heart’s great, buddy, but I’d suggest not going on any 20-mile hikes.”

Don’t worry, Dr. Lewis, 20-mile hikes aren’t exactly my thing these days.

The point of this column isn’t my health or even my trip to Colorado, which by the way was, in a word, awesome. Instead, it is about everyday heroes that helped get me through - not to sound melodramatic - one of the scariest mornings of my life.

There’s Jenny, who has been and I hope will continue to be a fantastic friend. There were the nurses and staff in the ER that morning, people like Nick Schutte, Jessica Durnan and Lisa Stevenson, who provided such great and understanding - I can’t emphasize that second word enough, too - that day. And there was Lewis.

Some people might say something like well, duh, it’s their jobs, but the understanding part - even as I write this piece five days later 837.6 miles from MercyOne New Hampton - is the one I want to stress.

For a few hours, Jenny, Nick, Jessica, Lisa and Danny - along with the technicians whose names I didn’t get - were my heroes.

As I sit in Boulder on a beautiful Monday morning and write this column before Noah and I go golfing, I’m thinking of the everyday heroes that abound in our communities and across our nation.

They’re easy to find if we just focus.

On the desktop of my computer at work there is a file that it titled “Bob Fenske obit,” and before you think I’m excessively morbid, I want you to know that years ago in college, I had a professor who encouraged us to write our own obituaries. So I did, and over the past 35 years, I’ve updated it from time to time. Plus, I’m a little afraid of what Josh and Noah would write about their old man when I do keel over and croak!

About 20 years ago, I wrote in my obit that the favorite part of my job was writing about “ordinary people who have accomplished extraordinary things.” It’s stayed in ever since.

And I think when it comes to everyday heroes, that’s the point. So many are ordinary people who do extraordinary things for those around them.

There are the men and women who serve in our armed services. There are the police officers and firefighters who head into dangerous situations at a moment’s notice. There are the paramedics, EMTs and ambulance drivers who leave birthday parties or family nights to do their best to save lives. Those are the heroes we celebrate almost every day, and we should.

Yet at the same time, I think if we look hard enough, almost all of us can be everyday heroes.

There are teachers who make a huge difference in their students’ lives - sometimes by just listening to them discuss a problem that has nothing to do with English, math, social studies or science. There are the people who work on holidays at convenience stores so that we can gas up and go visit our family or, for people like me, allow us to pick up that can of green beans we were supposed to grab three days earlier.

I think back to the early days of this pandemic and think about the kids carrying out my groceries at Fareway or the school personnel who made sure kids got proper lunches.

Yes, I get it, that was their job, but the way they did it with kindness and understanding, that’s what made them and will continue to make them everyday heroes.

I found this quote from Gerard Way - and let me be the first to admit I have no idea who Gerard is or was - today.

“Heroes are ordinary people who make themselves extraordinary.”

And we have a lot of those kind of people all around us. And I’m grateful for that.

Thank you to all of the dedicated Everyday Heroes!
We are grateful for all you do to serve our community.

This is the view viewers see when they turn into the live streaming of Chickasaw County Board of Supervisor meetings.

Board chair: New website more user friendly

TRANSPARENCY: FROM 1

did add that those who want to access the website can do so by going to the county's website — chickasawcounty.iowa.gov — and look for the "Meetings & Agendas" tab.

He also reminded residents that they must access the meetings through the county website.

"You can't go to YouTube and type in 'Chickasaw County,' for example," he said.

Kuhn said that one of his goals was to expand the live streaming to other meetings, like a number of autonomous boards the county has.

The board chairman also said he was excited last Friday to open his browser and see the new website up and running. In December, the Board of Supervisors agreed to spend $25,000 of ARPA funds to create a better and more efficient website.

"I'd say the big thing is that the new site is just way more user friendly than our old site was," he said. "And the other thing is we just have way more information on it now than we did before."

Slowing down gives bikers a chance to 'enjoy the scenery' along the way

BIKERS: FROM 1

People don't notice bikes because they're so much smaller than a car."

April in Iowa often signals the start to the riding season across the midwest and May is also Motorcycle Awareness Month.

So it seemed only logical that Little Brown Church pastor Drew McHolm — himself a decades-long lover of motorcycles — would bless the bikes before they headed off on the start to their "fun run" journey to Gunder, Iowa — located in Clayton County.

McHolm — sporting a blue-jean, biker jacket with various patches stitched on to the well-worn denim — called it the first annual "Biker Sunday" at the LBC.

The "unique bike blessing" came after the congregation sang from hymnals and listened to McHolm's sermon.

"It's not about how fast you're going — it's the direction you're taking, the road you're following," he said to a packed congregation with some standing in the back of the small, idyllic church that was built in 1864.

The gathering of bikes and ensuing sendoff could be the start of something that could grow significantly in the near future as the Scottish minister said he's considering setting up tents next year with music being played — stories being shared. It'd be somewhat similar to the popular, long-standing tradition of the Marriage Reunion the church holds every summer that allows couples to renew their vows.

The first large-scale bike blessing in the United States took place over 20 years ago in New York City. Nashua's got started after Kenton and Zenda Vikturek — members of A.B.A.T.E. — and other members of the church that rode bikes ran it past McHolm.

He didn't hesitate to help out.

"I really appreciate the groups coming. I was blessed to hear them and share what they stand for," said McHolm, who along with his wife Jesse, moved to Nashua from Austin, Texas in August of 2018.

Dustin's wife, Amy — the events coordinator for A.B.A.T.E. — said members of the non-profit organization come from all walks of life.

"We are an organization made up of a million different kinds of people," said Amy.

Shortly before Amy, her husband and Rod Silber — District 17's Assistant Coordinator — entered the church, the group paused for awhile to look out over the road and witness the bevy of bikes that had made their presence felt — not just in numbers, but in spirit, mostly.

"I'm almost in tears. This is awesome, guys," said Amy.

A.B.A.T.E. was formed in 1987 and was done to educate motorists on the road to the potential dangers associated with ignoring motorcycles out on the roadway. Dustin said he attended a class called "Two Wheel Trauma" on Saturday. There's also a "Share the Road Program" which informs and educates the public. Each training session aims to prevent accidents by respecting and understanding a motorcyclist's needs and rights of the highway.

"The blessing of the bikes is very important to a lot of riders because they're geared up for the season of riding. So they want their bikes blessed and themselves blessed so they can have a safe riding season to enjoy fellowship," said Silber, who lives in Nashua.

Gunder, located an hour's drive away from Nashua, is home to the famous "Gunder Burger." The throng of bikes — which seemed like almost 75 motorcycles facing the Little Brown Church — took off took off toward that destination, some in threes, others in fours.

Another motorcycle group also attended McHolm's sermon on Sunday and said they were bikers against child abuse. That small legion of bikers with a cause, which made the drive to Nashua from Minnesota, received a standing ovation from the congregation.

McHolm said he was offered the chance to ride along with A.B.A.T.E. and perhaps sink his teeth in the gargantuan

"Gunder Burger."

But that chance encounter with a behemoth burger such as the one Gunder grills up will have to wait.

McMolm tried to fire up his motorcycle before Sunday's service got under way — but to no avail. It also didn't help matters that the pastor of over 30 years is recovering from knee surgery.

"It's broke," said McHolm of his motorcycle.

While McHolm might not drive to work every day on a motorcycle like he did in his days in Austin, there may be one day soon he'll rev the engine, clean off the cobwebs, grab the handlebars and hop back on the saddle — making sure he's still following the right path and navigating the right road.

"There's a big wide one and there's a narrow one," said McHolm, a member of the CMA (Christian Motorcycles Association).

"It doesn't matter if you drive 190 miles-an-hour," McHolm said. "You're never going to get there if you're on the wrong road."

Even self-proclaimed weekend warriors like McHolm — who doesn't ride like he used to — understands that slowing down prevents riders from zooming past a turn and getting lost.

That also means more time to enjoy the scenery along the way.

Students feel 'included' by sharing story edition of the Tribune came from one of the school's two Spanish teachers.

"When we were planning this, one of the things we really wanted to do is share our story with our community," said Kris Ward, who along with fellow Spanish teacher Tish Macon and the students in Spanish 3 and 4 planned the event that was held on the Thursday before students headed off into their abbreviated spring break. "We thought it would be really nice that if the Spanish-speaking people in our community also could see a story in their language in the paper, so we really appreciate [the Tribune] doing this for us."

Granted, the editor of the paper and the author of this story is not exactly fluent in Spanish, so, for at least this edition, the paper has a co-editor as Ward read over her students' story and translated it into English.

But most of the work was done by Torres and Rodriguez, who may not know it but seem to be natural-born journalists who are also pretty handy with a camera.

As for the experience of presenting the story of the Mexican Fiesta, they summed it up best in their story.

"We enjoyed seeing others celebrate and appreciate our culture. It meant a lot to us that our teachers care about our differences and want to make us feel included."

Chickasaws sweep Comets

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

The New Hampton boys soccer team hit the trifecta versus Charles City this season.

The Chickasaws defeated the Comets for the third time in 2022 with an exciting 7-5 decision on the road on Monday during a chilly Northeast Iowa Conference tilt.

New Hampton (3-4) raced out to a 6-0 halftime advantage and held on for the two-goal victory.

New Hampton was led in the scoring department by senior Edgar Nunez and his three goals. While Nunez hit the hat trick — sophomore Carter Broughton brought the noise with two goals of his own.

Victor Montiel, back from injury, also scored a goal, as did junior Gracie Reicks.

New Hampton opened the season with an 8-0 shutout of Charles City (0-7) and then defeated the Comets 4-0 at the Postville Tournament.

New Hampton's scheduled home match versus Waterloo West on Friday, April 22 was postponed because of weather. That match will be made up on Thursday, May 5.

New Hampton plays North Fayette Valley tonight (Thursday).

Turkey Valley girls lose two, but both by slim margins

TV GOLF: FROM 13

"Bode continues to impress me with his eagerness to learn the sport and he has gotten better each time out. Calen shows a lot of promise for a youngster. We just need to continue to work on a few little things that I think will pay off big for him as the season progresses."

Monday the temps hovered at 37, with, of course, winds. Reicks said the wind chill was around 30. The conditions were rough on the golfers, but with May coming into view, make-up dates are getting hard to come by. And with only three meets under their belts before Monday, the golfers needed the time on the course.

"For the most part the kids did a good job of battling the elements."

The girls lost by an even closer margin against MFL, 271 to 274.

"I was very proud of all our girls. They showed a lot of grit and determination," noted the coach.

Franzen was the meet medalist once again with a 57, while Vsetecka (67), Thronsdon (73), and Alison Leibold (77) also counted for the Lady Trojans.

Schmitt came in at 78 and Rivera 82.

"MFL has a very strong boys' team this year and won going away," said Reicks of the boys' meet. The score was 181 to 251.

"I was disappointed with our boys' play. We need to be more mentally tough and make better decisions regarding course management and club selection."

The strategy Reicks suggested was to "survive the holes that play against the wind and take advantage of holes that go with the wind.

"And DRESS for the weather as well," he said. "The weather conditions were the same for both teams. The Bulldogs just executed their shots much better than we did."

Caleb Kurtenbach had the Trojans' low score on the night with a 55. Braylen Byrne (61), Brody Hackman (65), and Lance Schmitt (70) also counted for the Trojans.

Chickasaws relish Senior Recognition contest versus area trap squads

By KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

Zach Utley walked out on to the shooting range at Sportsman’s Club Boyd on Saturday morning under an overcast sky with a significant wind whipping its way around the New Hampton trapshooting squad’s home course.

It was Senior Recognition day at the New Hampton Invite, and based off of the smiles on most of the Chickasaws’ faces – it could well have been 80 degrees and sunny, the mood was that good.

Utley, of course, was not alone on his walk-out with his parents. Seven other NH seniors strolled hand-in-hand with their mothers, who sported bouquets of roses during the pre-meet festivities that honored a four-year commitment to the sport for many.

While May is still a few days away, Utley and his teammates will have a full month of competition before the state meet in Cedar Falls begins in the second week of June.

That means plenty of good times left to savor, many days hopefully hit and a terrific end to a senior year and trapshooting career that is so much more than just firing a shotgun toward a moving target.

“I’m kind of happy it keeps going on until June for a little bit, so after you graduate you can kind of still hang out with your friends,” said Utley.

Utley fired a 47 on Saturday for NH Silver – one of seven teams that is led by coach Jay Matthews.

While Charles City 1 defeated New Hampton Red, 234 to 231 – NH Black finished third (229) – it was still a memorable day for the Chickasaws, especially the seniors.

“There’s a lot of emotions that come with days like that,” said Matthews.

Kaeden Havlik, a senior who also competed on Utley’s team – NH Silver – described what it’s like to be on a squad that is 36 team members strong and is one of the better teams in the state.

“It’s the sport. It’s the competition. I like hanging out with my friends,” said Havlik. “It’s just a fun time.

Chickasaw senior Connor Noehl suited up for NH White. He knows graduation is right around the bend. That means summer is fast approaching. He can’t wait to finish his studies and receive his diploma.

“I’ve been ready for it. I’m excited to be done with school, but not necessarily trap,” said Noehl.

One of New Hampton’s seniors, Gavin Rings, was as good as good can be on Saturday. Rings shot a perfect score of 50 for NH Black. NH junior Tanner Njus fired a 48 on that same squad and Nick Brincks tallied a 48 for NH Gold.

Kayla Holschlag, a senior, was the top girls shooter with a 47. Layne Nehl, Ashton Venem and Colin Garman also recorded 47s.

Chickasaws square off against red-hot Clear Lake

By KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

Clear Lake can stroke it.

The third-ranked Lions proved that point by firing a blistering round of 342 at the New Hampton Co-Ed Invite on Saturday.

That easily bested second-place New Hampton’s team score of 376.

All the Chickasaws could do after each team entered the clubhouse was tip their cap.

“There’s no shame in losing to them,” said NH head coach Eric Olson. “It makes us better playing against that kind of competition.”

Clear Lake – which plays in Class 3A – finished third at state last spring, just like the Chickasaws did last year in 2A.

The Lions are led by the DeLong sisters – Meghan (sophomore) and Rebecca (junior). Meghan DeLong earned medalist honors with a five-over par 77. Rebecca DeLong fired an 83. Throw in Macey Holck’s 90 and Jaden Ainley’s 92 and you can see why the Lions are tough to beat.

“They’re third and fourth golfers are really good. They’re just really solid,” said Olson.

Clear Lake bested NH by three strokes (185 to 188) in a triangular at the Mason City Country Club to start the season.

“They have everybody back from last year. They’ve got a lot more experience,” Olson added.

New Hampton still has plenty of firepower back from last year and is looking to qualify for the state tournament for the fifth season in a row.

This was the Chickasaws’ first 18-hole meet of 2022 and two of Olson’s golfers had never played that many holes in a competitive round on the prep varsity level.

“Eighteen holes is a little different animal,” said Olson.

New Hampton once again saw senior all-stater Sanja Noehl continue to fire low rounds. She carded a 45 in her first crack at nine holes on Saturday, then went out and finished with a 41. That gave her an 18-hole total of 86 – good for third place on the leaderboard.

Lauren Nuss, Olson’s high-rising freshman, was right behind Noehl with an 87. NH junior Lydia Olson grinded out a 92.

What New Hampton is searching for at this juncture of the season is a consistent fourth golfer. Low scores from Olson’s fourth, fifth and sixth players on his varsity roster would be a great luxury to have and could come in due time with more rounds put in this season for his underclassmen.

Sophomores Taryn Smith and Kinsli Dahl each recorded 111’s. Maycen Hackman, a freshman, ended her day with a 117.

“Our 376 team score – that puts us right in the mix. That’s ties the best 2A 18-hole score of the year,” said Olson. “It’s not like it was terrible. Not too many teams have played 18 holes yet.”

Trojan trap shooters working on the little things

TV TRAP: FROM 13

Vsetecka and 41 by Tlusty.

“Marcus is shooting probably the most steady for us now,” the coach said. “If they can hold down those high 40s, that’s what we need. But when we get up to that 45, that’s when we start asking how do we get to 48.”

While no top-3 awards were picked up the rest of the week, Tlusty led Turkey Valley Thursday with a nice 47 and Saturday Kriener and Brady Fischer both scored a 45 on a very windy day.

“We had trouble with the wind, but there were some schools that had good scores. We just have to adjust ourselves.”

Back to the little things that can make a difference. “You adjust your stance, I told them to cheat more to the left, with the strong wind out of the south, you’re never going to get a hard right, you have to move your body so you can get those easier.”

Klimesh wondered aloud if he should get this trapshooters to a yoga class.

“They just need to relax if they miss one and not let it get to them, let it go.

“A lot of these kids are out for track, or out for golf and they’re missing some shooting,” he added. “They try to get here early, maybe shoot quick so they can go run. If they just took shooting we might be more consistent, but we maybe wouldn’t have much of a track team, or golf team. We’re a small school so we work with what we have.”

Coach fine-tunes his TV trapshooters

By DOROTHY HUBER
dorhubernews@gmail.com

Turkey Valley trapshooting coach Kurt Klimesh wants his squads to go into a meet with both eyes open. Literally. “When you trapshoot, little things can make a big difference,” he said after his team competed three times last week. Some have a natural tendency to aim with one eye closed. “I’d rather our kids keep both eyes open — some don’t — but it’s hard, if you’re not one that naturally does that. I can tell you, it’s hard to get them to change.”

The Trojans shot last week against New Hampton Tuesday, hosted Cresco Thursday and fought the wind at the New Hampton Invitational Saturday. Turkey Valley Red, with Brody Hackman, Cadyn Huber, Marcus Kriener, Jackson Vsetecka and Tanner Tlusty had the top Trojan squad score in each meet, with the Tuesday meet against the Chickasaws the best at 226. In that meet the competition was very close, as

NH wins home invite over Denver

The New Hampton boys golf team seems to be trending in an upwards direction. After Saturday’s home co-ed invite against the likes of Denver, North Fayette Valley and South Winneshiek — there was little doubt left as to who the better team was. That would be the Chickasaws — who reeled in the first-place team trophy. New Hampton topped the Cyclones by 10 strokes, amassing a total of 337 to Denver’s 347. “I think they’re playing good golf, but we’re only expecting it to get better,” said New Hampton head coach Bill Glenn. Expectations were high to start the season and after a two-stroke setback at the hands of Charles City in one of the first meets of the season — it looks like New Hampton is making strides toward bettering their game. It’s just a matter of

Chickasaws take down Cadets at home

The New Hampton boys golf team moved to 3-1 in Northeast Iowa Conference dual play as the Chickasaws downed Crestwood by 37 strokes last Thursday at home. New Hampton won the head-to-head conference matchup at the New Hampton Country Club with a 164. Crestwood shot a 201. Adam Ewert, a freshman, won overall medalist honors with a 40. Ewert has taken charge and shown opponents that New Hampton should put out a quality product out on the links for years to come as the Chickasaws sport just one upperclassmen out of their top 12 that played on Thursday. “We talked a week or two ago, coach and I — out of our top four golfers — we wanted somebody to emerge, get out in front and lead us to that 40 barrier and below,” said NH assistant coach Bob Newbrough. “Adam — he’s taken that challenge to done that. We know that we have at least four guys — maybe more — that are right behind there pushing and wanting to do the “Ben Tenge kind of tweaked his back a little bit over at Charles City,” said Jenkins. NH tried again two days later at Denver with the same line-up and improved on their time (45:75), but finished fourth. “We needed everybody at full speed that night,” said Jenkins. “It was a beautiful night, but it just didn’t work out.” New Hampton’s 4x200 and 4x400 also ran season-bests and each placed runner-up. The 4x200 team of Tenge, Gannon Shekleton, Cahoy and McShane ran to a clip of 1:37. The 4x400 team (3:33) was made up of Serie, Ethan Praska, McShane and Dylan Usher. Praska ran a season-best in the open 400 in a time of 55.08 at the Comet Relays. Usher, a senior, PR’d in the mile run at Denver in a time of 4:52.42. Jenkins also said he ran a season-best split in the 800 leg of the distance medley with a time of 2:04. That squad placed third in 3:47 and was comprised of McShane, Cahoy and Praska. That was a sea-

Trojan trapshooter Brady Barta fist-bumps teammate Ryan Franzen at Saturday’s New Hampton invite. TV Red finished second to NH Black by one hit but was one shot ahead of NH Gold’s 225. “Everybody is always thinking I need one more, but they shot well,” said Klimesh. “New Hampton is always so good so if we can keep up with them, we’re doing well. We had a perfect weather day and I think the kids thought they’d shoot some super-high scores.” He laughed, “I think it was too nice a day. We’re not used to shooting when those targets aren’t going every which way.”

Hackman tied for second place Tuesday with his 48, but had to leave so he took third place instead of a shootout for second place. Cadyn Huber was second to New Hampton’s Kayla Holschlag by two hits with a 47. Both Hackman and Huber contributed to TV Red’s score, with another 47 by Kriener, a 43 by attacking the course and playing smart golf.

“I think having a bar set is important in anything you’re doing,” said Glenn.

Chickasaw freshman Adam Ewert once again led the charge for Glenn’s team and won medalist honors at the New Hampton Invite with a 79. That was four strokes better than Denver’s Clayton Liddle — who came into the clubhouse with an 83.

Ewert has exploded onto the scene for the Chickasaws and made a name for himself already in only his first varsity season of competition.

“Obviously he makes a lot of pars. When he has a bad shot, he quickly can turn it around. He doesn’t compound it with another bad shot. He rarely if ever hits two bad shots in a row,” said NH assistant coach Bob Newbrough. “He takes away the doubles and the triples. That’s his biggest strength.”

Ewert fired an opening, nine-hole round of 41 and then topped it off with a impressive finish — a 38.

That was the first time a Chickasaw has gone under 40 for nine holes this spring.

“We challenged them to break the 40 barrier and Adam was our first guy to do it this season,” said Newbrough. “The other guys were excited because they also wanted to be able to do that as well.”

NH senior Mason Lane carded a 84, followed by sophomores Kyler Glenn and Jack Shawver’s 87s. Tate Schwickerath, another freshman, hit for a 92 and Kam Josephson, a sophomore, tallied a 96.

New Hampton sophomores Kyler Glenn and Jack Shawver tied on their scorecards with rounds of 41. Mason Lane, a senior, finished with a 42. Tate Schwickerath, a freshman, fired a 45 and Ty Robinson, a sophomore, worked the course to a 50.

Kam Josephson, another sophomore, led the JV squad with a 43.

Chickasaw head coach Bill Glenn was happy to see another round where his team is lowering their scores.

“Way back on the first day of practice, the two things we really talked about if we wanted to be good this year was to be more consistent...and to improve from week to week. We’re seeing both of that,” said Glenn.

Weather is nice, not so nice as Trojans compete at home

By DOROTHY HUBER
dorhubernews@gmail.com

Although Turkey Valley dropped both the girls and boys golf meets to North Fayette Valley last Thursday, both Trojan squads took the runner-up medalist as the Trojans were competing in only their third meet of the season.

But lest the Trojans get used to the beautiful weather they had to compete that day, it was back to normal on Monday as the Trojans competed at home against MFL.

The girls’ loss to North Fayette Valley Thursday was by a narrow seven-stroke margin — 251 to 258 — as Trojan senior Tess Franzen and her 57 finished as the runner-up score.

“Hole No. 4, the long par five, played especially tough into the wind and cost Tess a couple of strokes,” coach John Reicks said. “Meanwhile, the pesky pond on Hole No. 1 gobbled up a few Valley errant tee shots but overall the girls played well.”

Sophomore Mariah Thronndson (63) and freshmen Morgan Vsetecka (69) and Kaitlyn Schroeder (69) also counted for the Trojans, with junior Abby Schmitt making her season debut with a 78 and freshman Sofia Rivera at 83.

“With four of the six girls being newcomers to the sport, and Mother Nature wielding an iron fist, I am pleased with how the season has started. Losing four all-conference performers to graduation, we knew we might struggle a bit. The girls so far have done a good job with the limited practice time we have had.”

The boys lost to the TigerHawks 194 to 214, but Reicks liked the “bounce back” Garrett Kurtenbach had while collecting his runner-up medalist spot with a 46.

Kurtenbach started with a tough three opening holes and played the last six holes three over par.

of the season.

“I like his consistency and he doesn’t get rattled too easily,” said Reicks. “Now we just need him to start bringing his score down a little at a time. Rolin Schmitt (59) had a good round as well.”

Braylen Byrne and Lance Schmitt both tallied 60s, while a pair of “rookies” in junior Bode Balk (63) and freshman Calen Franzen (67) rounded out the Valley roster.

Chickasaws vault into Drake Relays at Wahawk Invite

Rochford will compete in four events at famed blue oval

By KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

The sun was shining down on the track at the Wahawk Invite on Thursday in Waterloo. On one of the more pleasant evenings to compete in track field this spring, the New Hampton Chickasaw girls track team had themselves a day. The Chickasaws led the field after five events and went on to place a respectable fifth in a field that included Class 4A squads and much bigger schools than head coach Jeanette Laures' talented New Hampton bunch. In fact, the Chickasaws were the smallest school in attendance.

It didn't seem to matter as New Hampton came away with stellar times and finishes in a key meet this season that proved the Chickasaws pack some punch.

So much so that they'll be well represented down in Des Moines this week at the tradition-rich Drake Relays.

"We had a great day of competition at the Waterloo meet. It was beautiful weather and everyone got to compete," said Laures. "We love that we competed against bigger schools because even though we didn't walk away with many gold medals, our times dropped tremendously. That shows the true competitive nature of the girls."

NH junior Carlee Rochford will compete in four events at Drake – the 100 hurdles, long jump, high jump and the 4x400 relay.

Rochford cracked the Drake field in the 100 hurdles on the last day of qualifying at Waterloo West. She ran a season-best 15.7 in the challenging race, finishing second.

Rochford placed 10th in the long jump last year at Drake in and she'll look to improve on that finish after she leaped 17-6.25 at Waterloo to place first. Rochford also won the high jump (5-3) on Thursday. She ran the second leg of the runner-up 4x400 – which qualified in the second-to-last spot for Drake, just ahead of Class 4A's Waukee – who filled out the final 24th slot.

"Carlee's athleticism really shows with the events she's qualified for Drake. Jumping and hurdling require a lot of coordination and agility. We are excited to see her perform with such an elite group at Drake," said Laures.

NH's 4x400 foursome of freshman Taylor Ries, Rochford, freshman Kinsley Hackman and sophomore Hailee Pesek ran to blazing second-place time of 4:10.21 – just back of Dubuque Hempstead's 4:09.33.

"Our 4x4 is just plain gritty! We look for their time to continue to drop as the season progresses," said Laures.

Natalie Nosbisch, another one of Laures' fast freshmen – placed runner-up in the 3,000 run in a time of 11:02.96. NH junior Campbell Kolbet placed fifth in that same event in 11:21.87.

Chickasaw sophomore Claire Geerts threw a season PR in the shot put as she placed third (36.5).

Chickasaws entering latter portion of season

By KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

New Hampton ran at Osage on Tuesday and finishes off the regular season on Monday at home. Then the Chickasaws will gear up for conference and districts.

That's it. Believe it or not, the New Hampton boys track team's season is winding down and in a hurry.

That's why it was important for head coach Scott Jenkins' squad to get two meets in over the past week when the Chickasaws competed at the Comet Relays on Tuesday, April 19 and then at Denver on Thursday.

NH produced many season PR's at Charles City and Denver in a season that has seen quite a few meets cancelled because of inclement weather.

That bodes well for the stretch run and trying to qualify for the state meet in Des Moines next month.

NH's 4x100 relay of Ben Tenge, Carter Cahoy, Hunter Serie and Braden McShane placed second at Charles City in 45.86. Jenkins was hoping to get that relay down to the Drake Relays this week.
