Board agrees to 'clean up' insurance confusion

County employees, supervisors discuss 'penalty' before board says only those 'double insured' to pay fee

By BOB FENSKY
editor@nhtrib.com

The frustration in the boardroom during Monday's Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors meeting was clearly evident as several county employees and at least one spouse of a county employee wanted clarification on one important question.

Were county employees going to be charged a "penalty" if those employees had family members on their health plan who were "double insured" or would the penalty be charged to employees if they family members who had been "offered" insurance plans by their employers?

At the center of the controversy was the fact that a letter given to each of the county's employees seemed to state that if a county employee's spouse had been offered health insurance through their employer, they would be charged an additional $250 per month.

The "spousal exclusion affidavit," however, that was also handed out to employees seemed to imply that only those who were covered both by the county's insurance plan and their employers plan would be charged the monthly fee.

Supervisors last month approved handing out the affidavit in an effort to put an end to employees' spouses being double insured, and they expected that the fee would be brought up during open-enrollment sessions that were being conducted.

"I'm not blaming the department head team, but four weeks ago, we discussed this," Supervisor Jake Hackman said. "I think I made a comment, 'Let's wait a week, let the department head team

First-degree murder trial set to begin on Monday

Patrie is accused of 2012 killing of retired grocer in rural Nashua

By BOB FENSKY
editor@nhtrib.com

A former Charles City man accused of killing a retired grocer in rural Nashua in the fall of 2012 will go on trial this coming Monday.

The first-degree murder trial of Randy Patrie is scheduled to begin with jury selection at 9 a.m. in the Chickasaw County Courthouse's third-floor courtroom, with District Court Judge Richard D. Stochl overseeing the proceedings.

Patrie allegedly shot and killed 70-year-old Kenneth Gallmeyer, whose body was found in his home north of Nashua when Chickasaw County deputies were called to do a welfare check, but although authorities long believed Patrie was responsible for Gallmeyer's death, he wasn't charged until early 2022.

Chickasaw County Attorney David Laudner and Frank Severino Jr. of the Iowa Attorney General's Office will present the case against Patrie, who is represented by Steven J. Drahozal and Theresa Sampson Brown, public defenders from Dubuque.

Laudner said this past Monday that the trial could last up to two weeks and said that a lot of work has gone into being ready to take the case to court.

"Preparing the case for trial has required a team effort and an all-hands-on-deck-approach," he said, "as there was a large amount of data to sort through given many of us were not involved with the initial investigation as well as the general logistical challenges of arranging both evidence and witnesses for trial after so much time has passed."

"I'm grateful for all of the hard work of people from my office, the Chickasaw County Sheriff's Office, the Iowa Division of Criminal Investigation, and the Iowa Attorney General's Office in our joint pursuit of justice for the Gallmeyer family."

Patrie's trial was originally set for December

Zip's AW Direct President Paul Rottinghaus takes a rare moment to relax after taking part in an interview in which he discussed a 50-year-and-counting career at the New Hampton manufacturer.

50 YEARS IN AND PLENTY TO DO

ZIP'S PRESIDENT CELEBRATES A HALF-CENTURY WITH COMPANY BUT HE REMAINS FOCUSED ON THE FUTURE

By BOB FENSKY
editor@nhtrib.com

Paul Rottinghaus just needed a job back in May 1974 when he traveled to Mason City to visit with Harry Zipse about possible employment at Zip's Truck Equipment.

"I was finishing up at college, Harry said he might have something I could do and, you know, I really needed a job so I came," he said as he talked in his office at Zip's AW Direct recently. "He hired me, and I never left."

And after 50 years, Rottinghaus is still going strong and showing absolutely zero indication that he's ready to call it a career.

"I don't think I'd be one of those good retired guys," he said with a laugh, "so they're stuck with me."

Rottinghaus has written a remarkable saga as a businessman and a community supporter, and he has built Zip's into a dominant player in many facets of the towing industry. Zip's trucks can be found in every state of the union, its parts business is one of the best in the world and the company continues to branch out.

"People look at us and they say, 'How'd you do all that in a cornfield in Iowa?' And the answer is we have really good people that work here," he said. "We have a lot of longevity around here, and they're my kind of people. They work hard, they make us what we are today."

So much has changed since he came to work for Harry Zipse a half-century ago.

"Yeah, I've gotten old," he said with a self-effacing smile.

But seriously, Zip's has changed dramatically since Rottinghaus said "yes" to Harry Zipse's job offer.

Back in 1974, the company employed 13

Track starter taking his gun to state meet

Year-around official will be one of eight who will get athletes off and running on Drake's famed 'Blue Oval'

By BOB FENSKY
editor@nhtrib.com

Ray Armel is county assessor by day but an official by night, and at 2:40 this afternoon, he'll raise his gun and get the Class 1A state boys track meet underway.

In a track official career that has garnered him plenty of honors, this might be the biggest.

"It's a really nice honor, but at the same time, you have a job to do," Armel said. "You want to start a good meet, you want to make sure that you're doing the things you're supposed to do, but it does mean a lot to me that I was selected."

The state track meet uses eight starters, and each is responsible for one class of athletes. So while Armel starts the boys 1A races, another starter will do the duties for the girls.

It doesn't mean that Armel will be lounging around when the 1A girls take the track — or when the 4A athletes, who run in the same session as the small schools do — for their races.

For years, Armel, who is the Chickasaw County assessor, has served as umpire at the state track meet. In track, obviously, there are no balls and

Early voting begins for June 4 primary election

BY BOB FENSK
editor@nhtrib.com

Voters who don't want to wait until the June 4 primary to cast their ballots can head to the polls, so to speak, as early voting began at the Chickasaw County Courthouse on Wednesday morning.

Wednesday was also the day that the Auditor's Office will mail out ballots to those who requested that they be sent to their homes.

Voters can cast their ballots in either the Republican or the Democratic primary — as long as they are registered with that party — from 8 to 4:30 p.m. on weekdays at the Auditor's Office until Monday, June 3. The office will also be open from 8 to 4 p.m. on Saturday, June 1, for voting.

Voters who have requested ballots be mailed to them and who may be wondering if they were lost in the mail need not worry.

That's because, under state law, ballots can not be mailed out until early voting commences, and Chickasaw County Deputy Commissioner of Elections Gina Fangman said requested ballots were mailed out on Wednesday.

The deadline for residents to request an absentee ballot be mailed is Monday, May 20, which is also the final day that voters can pre-register for the primary election.

Those that do have ballots mailed to them must be received by the auditor's office on Tuesday, June 4, by 8 p.m. to be considered on time to be counted.

Polls will be open on June 4 from 7 to 8 p.m. for those who like to vote the old-fashioned way.

This year's primary has just one contested race on the county level as Republicans Terry Johnson and Isaac Carter are seeking their party's nomination for the District 4 supervisor seat currently held by the GOP's Matt Kuhn, who decided not to seek a second term.

Republicans running unopposed in the primary are Jake Hackman (District 3 supervisor), Ryan Shawver (sheriff) and Sheila Shekleton (auditor). Democrats running unopposed are Joan Knoll (District 3 supervisor) and Steve Breitbach (District 1 supervisor).

Week of May 12 1949 (75 years ago)

- The New Hampton Chickasaws tied Clear Lake for seventh place in the district track meet at Charles City. The Chicks competed with the double A schools. Ray Ball and Wayne Moetsch, a pair of fastcoming Chick stars, each took a first, Moetsch in the mile run and Ball in the 440-yard dash.

Both Moetsch and Ball broke New Hampton's school records and will take part at the state track meet in Ames on May 21.

- More than 100 people gathered at the Congregational Church to attend a testimonial dinner in honor of Librarian Bessie Porter, which was occasioned by the golden anniversary celebration of the founding of the New Hampton Public Library.

Miss Porter, who has been affiliated with the library since its inception 50 years ago, announced her resignation effective July 1.

- The new tennis courts at the New Hampton Community High School are nearing completion and will be open this summer for use by students and area residents. Concrete has been poured and the fence installed with remaining work on the courts, including installation of nets and lighting and surfacing applied.

- ShopKo Stores, Inc. and Pamida jointly announced the signing of a definitive agreement for ShopKo to acquire Pamida in a transaction that values Pamida at approximately $375 million. ShopKo will acquire 147 Pamida stores, including New Hampton.

Rich Goodwin, local manager, stated the store will continue to operate under the Pamida name with no changes in staff or management.

- The New Hampton varsity girls track team will be sending thirteen athletes to the 1999 IGHSAU State Track & Field Championships after qualifying in eleven events at the Class 2A District at North Fayette.

The Chickasaws have qualifiers in all four field events, in the hurdles, and both of the sprint and distance events.

Those numbers are believed to be all-time highs for the program, both in terms of the number of events and the number of athletes.

- The Freedom Writers Film Festival will celebrate and recognize the careers of six local veterans. These are the six men interviewed for a school project in English class, Korean War veterans, Gilbert Rosenbaum, Jerome Boehmer and William Weigel and Vietnam War Veteran Gerald Reiss. Also sharing their experiences in Desert Storm and the Iraq War were Leon Blong and Steve Stalder.

- Victoria Speltz finished with a 94 at Oelwein and earned all-conference honors for the third time in her three-year career. Also receiving all-conference honors were Madison Shatek with a score of 100 and Megan Fitzgerald and Ellie Ewert both posted a 101.

2019 (5 years ago)

- After a mediocre start to the season for the University of Iowa baseball team, the Hawkeyes have flipped the switch since an 0-3 start in Big Ten play and now are in the mix for a potential spot in the NCAA tournament.

One of the many reasons for the turnaround is Cole McDonald, a 2015 New Hampton graduate, who is putting together a late-season run in his final year on the mound at Iowa. After a rough beginning he has been one of the hottest pitchers in the Big Ten.

McDonald is currently undefeated in Big Ten play (3-0). Since the Indiana game in March, Iowa is a perfect 7-0 in games McDonald has thrown in. Currently the Hawkeyes possess an overall record of 30-19 and are 12-9 in the Big Ten.

Memorial Day verses

10 verses to remember as we honor those who made the ultimate sacrifice

On Memorial Day, which will be marked a week from this Monday, we remember and honor those who have given their lives and bodies for the service and defense of our country.

Here we have collected scripture quotes to honor our veterans for their love of country and neighbor.

• Greater love has no one than this, that someone lay down his life for his friends. ~ John 15:13

• Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you. Not as the world gives do I give to you. Let not your hearts be troubled, neither let them be afraid. ~ John 14:27

• Share in suffering as a good soldier of Christ Jesus. ~ 2 Timothy 2:3

• Give justice to the weak and the fatherless; maintain the right of the afflicted and the destitute. Rescue the weak and the needy; deliver them from the hand of the wicked. ~ Psalm 82:3-4

• For the word of God is living and active, sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing to the division of soul and of spirit, of joints and of marrow, and discerning the thoughts and intentions of the heart. ~ Hebrews 4:12

• The memory of the righteous is a blessing, but the name of the wicked will rot. ~ Proverbs 10:7

• Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints. ~ Psalm 116:15

• Let love be genuine. Abhor what is evil; hold fast to what is good. Love one another with brotherly affection. Outdo one another in showing honor. Do not be slothful in zeal, be fervent in spirit, serve the Lord. Rejoice in hope, be patient in tribulation, be constant in prayer. Contribute to the needs of the saints and seek to show hospitality. ~ Romans 12:9-13

• Pray for us, for we are sure that we have a clear conscience, desiring to act honorably in all things. ~ Hebrews 13:18

• Blessed is the man who walks not in the counsel of the wicked, nor stands in the way of sinners, nor sits in the seat of scoffers; but his delight is in the law of the LORD, and on his law he meditates day and night. He is like a tree planted by streams of water that yields its fruit in its season, and its leaf does not wither. In all that he does, he prospers. The wicked are not so, but are like chaff that the wind drives away. Therefore the wicked will not stand in the judgment, nor sinners in the congregation of the righteous; for the LORD knows the way of the righteous, but the way of the wicked will perish. ~ Psalm 1

Should Estate Plans Be Equal ... Or Fair?

When you're creating your estate plan, your biggest priority may be taking care of your family — your spouse, grown children, grandchildren, and other loved ones. And as you think of where you want your assets to go, you also may be thinking about how to be fair — but is that the same as treating everyone equally?

In estate planning, "equal" doesn't always mean "fair." Let's consider some factors that can help explain the difference:

- Need — It's highly unlikely that the individuals you want to include in your estate plan — especially your adult children — have the same family and financial situations. For example, you could have one child who is extremely successful and has no children of their own, while another child earns much less income and supports three children. Clearly, your two adult children have vastly different financial needs — so, you need to consider whether you want to treat them equally or fairly.

If you decide you want to treat them fairly, you may want to divide your assets in a way that provides more help to the child who needs it most.

- Abilities — You may well have some assets that you believe are more suitable for one child over another. This can be especially true if you are planning on passing on a family business. If you know that one child is the most capable of running the business or has been primarily involved in the business, then you may want to give that child control as a next-generation owner.

Yet, this may not seem fair to another child, who might also express interest in the business, so you may want to look for ways to provide this child with enough assets to help make the overall inheritance more equal.

- Practicality — In some instances, you might think you can meet both the "fair" and "equal" criteria. Suppose, for instance, that you have a cabin or other vacation home that you think two of your children could share. In theory, this joint ownership might sound good, but in practical terms, it could cause problems. Are both children equally willing and capable of paying taxes and upkeep on the cabin or vacation home? What if one child wants to sell their share? And then, there's the question of who gets to use the property at various times of the year. All these issues should be resolvable, but they can also cause great stress within the family.

There's no simple formula for solving the fair-versus-equal dilemma. But keep this in mind: Communicating your wishes to your loved ones while you are drawing up your estate plan can help reduce confusion — and hopefully lead to fewer hard feelings — when you are no longer around.

By their nature, fairness and equality issues related to estate plans can trigger a range of emotions, and addressing these feelings beforehand can help provide a great service for your loved ones.

You might also find that some objectivity can be valuable. That's why, when creating your estate plan, you may benefit by working with a team of professionals, including your legal, financial and tax advisors.

When developing your estate plan, you might well strive for equality and fairness but above all, you want to get things right. And careful planning, open communication and appropriate guidance can help go a long way toward this goal.

Zip's current owners, Paul and Margo Rottinghaus, pose for a photo with the company's original owners, Harry and Vivian Zipse on Friday, when Paul Rottinghaus was honored for his 50 years of service to the company.

Rottinghaus remains 'huge asset' to New Hampton people; today, it has more than 260 employees and the trucks they build, the parts they ship and the clothes they make are among the best — "actually, the best," he says — on the market.

Yet, when he says "the best," it's not cocky; instead, it's the expectation that he has for the company that Zipse founded and Rottinghaus built into an empire. He and his wife, Margo, bought the company from Harry and Vivian Zipse in 1986, and he was asked how the sell came about?

"Harry told me I'd better get the money together because he was ready to get out and he'd find someone else," he said, "so he gave me kind of a push there. I felt pretty invested by then, and so we took that plunge."

And he's never looked back.

"I think the thing about Paul and our company is that he has high expectations for all of us," Zipse's General Manager John Kuhn said. "That's a good thing. He's involved, and he wants to know how to make something good, great and how to make something great even greater."

As Kuhn talked, the Zip's president was looking inside one of the trucks being assembled on the factory floor and got one of his employees to demonstrate how the video sign is designed to keep tow-truck drivers safe when they're making a call on a highway or roadway works.

"Ultimately, that's part of our job," he said. "When we build a truck, when we send out some clothing, whatever it may be, our customers have to be first. ... Get on a highway at night, see a tow truck driver and realize it's not the safest place in the world to be. This is going to help."

As he walked through the factory floor, Zipse's Marketing Department (located in the old Big Ed's Firehouse restaurant) and the company's screen print shop at the old K&W Motors site, he talked to anyone and everyone.

Yet, it didn't come across as micro-managing; instead, he was genuinely interested in what they were working on that day.

"We've invested a lot of money in this facility," he said as he walked around the screenprint shop, "but it fascinates me what these machines can do. We've got bigger and better things to do, and we're going to do our best to accomplish them."

On the tour was New Hampton Economic Development Director

Tammy Robinson, who has a fond appreciation for what Rottinghaus and his company have done for New Hampton.

"Paul has been a huge asset to our community throughout my tenure here," he said. "Along with being one of our largest employers, he has been a donor for the trail, daycare and several other large fundraisers."

But he's also stepped up in both times of crisis and in times where the community has needed Zipse's to help out with a so-called "want."

When Dungey's Furniture and Flooring's building was lost to a fire in 2014, it was Rottinghaus who offered up the old Soy Basics Candle Outlet Store so that the store could reopen in short order.

"That's the kind of guy Paul is," Robinson said. "If we need something, he's going to help."

Rottinghaus joked that he's a little worried when Robinson shows up at his office or gives him a call, and one of the economic development director's favorite stories is about one of those "wants" — the repainting of the iconic "Rocket Slide" at Mikkleson Park about 10 years ago.

"The best was when [then-New Hampton Parks and Recreation Director] Rick Kramer and I went out to his shop. ... When he said yes — I'm not sure he knew what he was getting his employees into," she said with a laugh. "It had to be taken apart piece by piece!"

Ever since that, whenever I walk in his door, his response is, 'What do you want me to do now?"

"I do get worried when she shows up," he said as he pointed to Robinson during the interview. "I'm always wondering what she's going to get me into this time."

Yet, Rottinghaus rarely — if ever — says no.

"He truly is a small town boy at heart," Robinson said, "and understands the importance of giving back to a community."

Gail Allison announces bid for Iowa House

Gail Allison (D-Ionia) announced her election campaign for the Iowa House of Representatives in House District 58. Iowa House District 58 includes Chickasaw County and portions of Floyd and Bremer counties.

Allison is passionate about supporting children and education and believes Iowa can once again be a leader in education instead of a follower of outside special interests.

"A welcoming state where we can make our own choices about healthcare or the books we read without government interference," she commented. "We need to get back to listening to each other and working on solutions to enhance what we have, not tear it all down."

She added a vote for her would be a vote for public schools, AEAs and local control over the communities they serve and women's rights to have bodily autonomy and the right to healthcare in consultation with their healthcare professionals without government interference.

Allison has roots in Plainfield where she graduated from high school, and she attended Hawkeye Tech and later Wartburg College where she earned her B.A. in music education. She later went on to get her masters in education from Morningside College. Allison was employed by Sumner-Fredricksburg schools for 32 years, retiring in May 2023.

She is married to James and lives in rural Ionia on the Allison family farm, and the couple has two grown children, Cassidy (Elyssa) Allison and Valerie Allison. Allison is an active member of ISEA and is the co-chair for the state Board of Church and Society of the United Methodist Church.

Last summer, supervisors agreed to have the county pay a portion of employees' family health insurance plans. For several years before that, the county only paid the cost of a single health plan but employees could pay for a family plan by paying the difference.

At the time, supervisors said they felt by upping the county's contribution to health insurance, it would be easier to attract and retain employees.

It's why the letter came as a shock to employees like Eli Johnson, who works in the county's Secondary Roads Department.

"Now you just go ahead and throw this out after we had this big spiel to try to make it affordable and keep employees who were on the border of like 'well can I stay here or should I go somewhere else or should I put up with this stuff.' I don't know why you guys decided Supervisor Steve Breitbach said he was disappointed that the matter hadn't been talked about at open-enrollment meetings.

"I was under the impression that this was going to be discussed at open enrollment. It sounds like it wasn't."

For almost an hour, the supervisors haggled over the issue, and County Attorney David Laudner said he understood the employees' frustrations.

"The intent was if they're covered elsewhere then they are going to pay the penalty. This says if they're eligible. That's a big difference. ... My understanding was if you're double-covered, then you pay the penalty. ... The five board members need to figure this out. The intent was never to penalize people whose spouses were offered it. The intent was only to penalize those that were double-covered."

Armel has no regrets about officiating trackSTARTER: FROM 1

strikes to call, but instead, umpires are watching to make sure runners stay in their lanes, keeping eyes on relay exchange zones and making sure "interference" doesn't take place.

When he's not starting 1A races during the three-day meet, he'll return to those duties.

"You stay busy at a state track meet," Armel said. "It doesn't matter if you're starting or umpiring, there's a lot going on."

Armel is a year-around official. He works football and volleyball in the fall, basketball in the winter, track in the spring and softball in the summer.

In recent years, he's cut back on three of the sports — volleyball, basketball and softball — but for years, in addition to his full-time day job, he was pretty much a full-time official.

"You have to have a lot of support from your family, no question about that," Armel said. "I was gone a lot; heck, I still am. I love doing it, but I've been lucky that my wife has put up with it all these years."

Track, though, might be his favorite sport to officiate.

The 1976 graduate of Des Moines Lincoln High School wasn't on the RailSplitters' track team — pointing out "that at a big school like that, just because you wanted to participate didn't mean you were going to make the team" — but his father was a championship runner back in his high school days so the younger Armel came to appreciate the sport.

When he moved to West Union in 1986, the North Fayette High School activities director asked him to volunteer at track meets. Soon, the trio of men who "started" most of the meets in West Union were bugging Armel to get certified as a track official.

"I thought why not, and I guess I haven't looked back," said Armel, in addition to working high school meets, he also starts collegiate meets, mostly in the American Rivers Conference. "I think what I love about track the most is the kids. I get a chance to talk to them. In like football and basketball, the only time you might talk to a kid is when you call a foul on them. It's different in track, and I enjoy the conversations with the kids."

And those relationships remain even after those athletes graduate.

"I work enough meets that I run into people who I started — some a few years ago, some a lot longer ago than that — and I love talking with them."

He also says that one part of the job he especially enjoys is that he can be a teacher at times.

"I think that's one of the positives about officiating any sport," he said. "There are teachable moments in track, too."

Starting the 1A meet is just part of what is becoming a banner season for Armel.

He was named the Iowa Track Official of the Year and the NFHS Iowa Cross Country Official of the Year, and those awards came two years after he was honored as the Iowa Girls Track Official of the Year.

The awards are nice; so, too, is serving as the starter at the state meet.

But all those honors pale in comparison to just being in Des Moines this week.

"I think our state track meet is really special here," he said. "The venue is great. Not too many states have a Drake Stadium, but more than anything, it's the people. The officials, the kids, the coaches ... seeing them is why I look forward to state every year."

'Rookies' heading to state track meetTV TRACK: FROM 13

Turkey Valley boys bow out at 1A district tourney

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

The weather was pristine on Tuesday at Highland Golf Course in Mason City.

The mercury touched the 70-degree mark with the sun shining bright and a slight breeze – perfect conditions for a golf meet.

Under that clear blue sky two teams rose to the forefront at Highland's Class 1A district meet – the South Winneshiek Warriors and the Lake Mills Bulldogs.

Each of those district participants at the state qualifier at Highland tied with team scores of 325. A cardback to the fifth golfer's score enabled the Warriors to claim the district title and break the tie. Lake Mills finished second and will also compete in the state meet later this month – held at Ames Golf & Country Club.

Lake Mills' Garrett Ham was crowned the meet medalist with a 72. Central City's Beau Decker (78) and North Butler's Nolan Reser (79) were the individual qualifiers that moved on to the state meet.

There was one club in attendance – John Reicks' Turkey Valley Trojans – that was searching for its first state berth ever.

TV will have to wait another year in an attempt to make school history as the Trojans shot a 348 – led by freshman Nicholas Bernhard's 82.

"This is a good day for Turkey Valley golf – absolutely. The kids played well," said Reicks. "We had a good group. We've got three seniors – we're going to miss them. They've been a staple for us for the last four years."

Those seniors – Caleb Kurtenbach, Oliver Schmitt and Braylen Byrne – played their final golf meet as a Trojan.

"Golf's a lot of fun here at Turkey Valley here with J.R.," said Kurtenbach. "Our teams got progressively better as the years went on."

Kurtenbach carded an 85 and he said the greens were fast on Tuesday at Highland – a course that TV played in this exact same scenario last spring and shot a 368.

"The greens were like rock hard, they were pretty firm," said Kurtenbach.

Schmitt shot a 90 on Tuesday – a somewhat inflated score compared to his 82 that he shot at Highland as a junior at the district meet in 2023.

"I didn't start off too well," said Schmitt. "I never really found my groove."

This week was icing on the cake for the Trojan golf program as the TV boys and girls teams each played in the state qualifying round in the same season for the first time in school history in the span of two days. The TV girls played in the regional final at Nashua on Wednesday.

It was a special season for the Trojan boys, who have been guided by Reicks since 2012. TV came within four strokes of winning the conference meet earlier this month.

"We would have had to shoot crazy well if we would have had to move on" said Schmitt. "There's a lot of good teams here."

Speaking of special, Bernhard is unique in his ability to post low scores in the start of a Trojan career that is beyond promising. The Class 1A sectional found that out last week Wednesday over in Ossian at Silver Springs Golf Course.

Bernhard tied for the individual lead at the sectional with

Trojans sending pair of relays to state track

Turkey Valley boys sending 4x800 while girls taking distance medley to Des Moines to run on famed 'Blue Oval'

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

There were no pins and needles and key members of the Turkey Valley Trojan boys track team didn't need to sweat this one out.

They can thank their head coach for crunching the numbers and doing the math for them.

Of course that would be longtime TV track coach Mark Scott, who was able to figure out early on that his 4x800 relay had indeed qualified for state on Friday morning after a fifth-place finish at the state qualifier the night before in St. Ansgar.

That relay will be the lone Trojan squad sent down this week to Des Moines to run on the blue oval at the state meet. The starter gun will fire off and sound the beginning of the Class 1A 4x800 relay around 5:50 p.m. tonight (Thursday).

Turkey senior Russell Nieman talked about not having to wait until Saturday afternoon when the Iowa High School Athletic Association and Iowa High School Girls Athletic Union released the state qualifiers for each of the boys and girls events – which will all take place during the course of the three-day co-ed state meet in Des Moines.

"We had an idea Friday morning. Coach Scott kind of put all the times together. We kind of knew right away that morning, which was nice," said Nieman.

Nieman did not compete at state as a junior, but he was a member of TV's 4x800 relay that placed 13th at state when he was a sophomore in 2022.

"Getting this relay to state – it's a really big deal for the program," said Nieman.

Another TV senior – Burke Busta – will finish out his Trojan running career on top just like Nieman as he'll run the second leg of the relay – getting the baton from his younger freshman brother Hugo Busta, then handing off the baton to Nieman to help energize the third leg. TV sophomore J.D. Kruse completes the foursome with the anchor leg and three freshmen – Kaden Schmidt, Jayden Rausch and Isaiha Wheeler – are the Trojans' alternates.

Busta ran on the 4x400 relay last year as a junior at state, an event TV placed 10th in.

"It's been pretty fun the last three years to watch both of us get to run down at state – him our sophomore year and me our junior year," said Burke Busta about getting

Regional win is nice but advancing better for Chickasaw girls

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

All that mattered was advancing, not that New Hampton girls golf coach Eric Olson didn't want a win.

His golfers gave him both on Friday as the Chickasaws fired a 362 to hold off Garner-Hayfield-Ventura by two shots to win the Class 2A first-round regional tournament held at the Clarmond Country Club in Clarion.

That sent New Hampton off to Emmetsburg Wednesday, after this edition of the Tribune went to press, for the final round of the regional that will include the Chickasaws, GHV, Estherville Lincoln Central and Spirit Lake.

"We did all right, and the bottom line is we're advancing," New Hampton coach Eric Olson said. "I don't like to leave it in the hands of anyone else so getting the win was nice. For playing a course we had only seen once and was a little different, I'll take a 362 and move on."

Clarmond, the New Hampton coach said, is a course with rolling hills and a "lot of blind shots," but the Chickasaws navigated the course and held off a hot GHV team that posted a score 30 strokes below its season average.

Lauren Nuss finished as medalist runner-up with an 80, two shots behind the Cardinals' Audrey Overgaard while the Chickasaws' Kinsli Dahl finished fourth with an 85.

"Lauren and Kinsli played great," Olson said. "They managed their games really well and gave us what we needed. When you can start with those two putting up the scores they put up, that's a good start for a successful golf team."

Coach celebrates team effort at 2A state qualifier

NH GIRLS TRACK: FROM 16x

Center took third with 99 points while New Hampton, which scored points in 16 of the 17 events it competed in, finished with 98.5.

The highlights, of course, were the six events in which New Hampton extended its season with top two finishes in Denver. The sprint medley (Madison Shawver, Hackman, Ries and Hailee Pesek), the 4x800 (Ries, Megan Pickar, Sophie Glaser and Natalie Nosbisch), Pesek in the 200, Hackman in the 400 and Ries in the 400 low hurdles all punched their tickets with second-place finishes. New Hampton capped the meet with a win in the 4x400 as Ries to Hackman to Pickar to Pesek won a thrilling race.

"Obviously, we're thrilled with the girls who qualified for state," New Hampton coach Jeanette Laures said, "but to score 98 points at a [state qualifying] meet, you need a lot of girls to step up, place and score points. I'm really proud of the girls for the way they performed on a night like that."

Oh yeah, the weather made it an interesting night, especially early in the meet when Denver was the site of a heavy downpour.

But New Hampton got the meet off to a great start as it ran to that runner-up finish in the sprint medley and then powered its way to another second-place finish in the 4x800, a race Ries led off just 30 or so minutes after finishing her 200 leg of the sprint medley.

"I kept telling myself it was just a 200," she said, "but you just have to kind of power through it. I think when you know you're running a relay, it makes it easier because you don't want to let your teammates down."

Pesek, who had a tough night in the long jump, bounced back with a solid performance in the 200 taking second and then anchored the 4x400 to the win — making her a 14-time state qualifier in what has been an outstanding career.

"She jumped after the sprint medley, and we were hoping she'd get a chance to jump before she ran," Laures said. "She wanted to do it, she was having fun with the long jump so I don't regret going that way. Hailee came back strong, and I wouldn't have expected anything else."

New Hampton picked up two more individual qualifiers with Hackman's run in the 400 and Ries jaunt in the 400 low hurdles.

Hackman was running the open 400 for just the third time this season, but sparked by a strong start, she ran to a career-best time.

"I like the relays because you're doing it for a team and there's a lot of good energy," she said, "but with the opens, you're in control. It's kind of all up to you, and I knew I had to get out right away. I liked the start, I felt really good, but I was still kind of in disbelief when it was over."

Ries, meanwhile, will be the first to admit that the 400 hurdles is not her favorite race.

"Run as fast as you can, and jump 10 times, sounds fun, right? Seriously, it's definitely as mental as it is physical," she said. "It's the hardest race for me. I kind of have to talk myself into running it every time."

She paused and laughed.

"But I'm glad I get to do it again."

New Hampton was hoping it might possibly sneak in another state meet entry or two or three — namely Hackman in the 100, freshman Kinslee Rings in the 800 and senior Madison Schaufenbuel in the discus — when the Iowa Girls Union announced the "non-automatic qualifiers" based on times and distances.

But the Chickasaws went 0-for-3.

"It's hard, especially for a senior like Madison," Laures said of the Chickasaw who had a season-best throw of 104.9. "You just want a girl like that to end her career [at state], and I know Kinslee didn't miss by much. She's probably the 'first one out,' but what a great season she had and hopefully she uses this for fuel next year."

For now, though, the Chickasaws are aiming for some career-best times this week on Drake's famed "Blue Oval."

"That's what we're aiming for, that and to have fun with our track family for more week," Hackman said. "It's the last time I get to run with Hailee and Megan on the same relay so I want to do well for them. State's always fun, but it's hard, too, because you know it's the last time you get to run with the seniors."

Injuries, illnesses lead Chickasaws to struggle on the track

NH BOYS TRACK: FROM 16

Class 2A, the top two placewinners in each event automatically punch their tickets to state while the final eight spots in each event are awarded based on times and distances.

That meant Zeien had to play the dreaded waiting game after finishing fourth in Denver with a throw of 136-0.

"I was getting pretty antsy," Zeien said. Friday afternoon, "and I'm not going to lie, I didn't sleep all that well last night. Honestly, I slept like crap."

Zeien was the lone Chickasaw boy to qualify for the 2023 meet and he's had a solid — albeit up-and-down final high school track campaign — and after completing the district meet, he was on the proverbial bubble.

Finally, around 1 p.m. on Friday, the IHSAA released its list of state qualifiers. And Zeien's name was on it.

"Probably the best feeling I've had in a long, long time," he said, "just because I really didn't want it to end like that. I didn't have a good night last night; I can't make it look pretty, but I guess it was enough to get the job done. And being able to go down with a teammate — last year I was the only Chickasaw boy there — it makes it way better."

And now he's ready to go out with a bang.

"I'm just going to go down there and let it all hang out," said Zeien, who is seeded 23rd. "I know I'm better than my seed, and thank God I get a chance to prove it."

The discus provided New Hampton with 15 of the 22 points the undermanned Chickasaws scored at the district meet. Senior Ethan Praska missed the qualifier because of an illness, and junior sprinter Beau Serio had to pull out of the meet after aggravating an injury in the sprint medley.

McShane placed sixth in the shot put and also took eighth in the 100 while New Hampton also got points from freshman Cade Carpenter's seventh-place finish in the 400 and the eighth-place 4x400 relay team that included Kinnick Wisner, Carpenter, Bryce Flugum and Elliot Eiler.

"We knew it was going to be tough on the track, and then to not have Ethan and losing Beau right away, it was an uphill climb," Jenkins said. "We were scrambling to fill relays, and I appreciate our guys stepping up. Getting a medal in that 4x4, with all underclassmen, that was a good way to end the night."

Pemble to lead New Hampton on the gridiron

New Hampton School Board tabs longtime Chickasaw assistant to replace Frerichs as program's head coach

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

New Hampton's new head football coach is no stranger to the Chickasaw sidelines.

Chad Pemble, who has been an assistant coach for the past 26 years, will take over the football program's reins for the 2024 season after the New Hampton School Board approved a slew of new hires during a short meeting Monday morning.

Pemble served as a volunteer coach for one year, coached the freshman team for six years and has been a varsity assistant coach for the past 19 years, serving as the team's defensive coordinator.

He will replace Scott Frerichs, who resigned last month after spending 31 years as New Hampton's head football coach.

"I knew that when coach Frerichs retired from coaching football that I would be interested in being the head coach," Pemble said, "but I didn't really think about it much, as I have enjoyed working with coach Frerichs all these years and was not anticipating the change."

Pemble said that "taking over" is a challenge but certainly doable," and added that he had five main goals he wants to accomplish before the official start of the season in early August.

He said he wants to get to know his football players, saying that "I already know many of them fairly well, but I want to continue to develop those relationships." He also said that he wants to continue to develop what he called "solidarity" between all coaches and players — "common goals, common expectations."

Pemble added that it's vital that those playing football this fall participate in the summer strength and conditioning program and to continue developing football skills in all facets of the game.

And he said he wants to develop and grow both the enthusiasm and excitement surrounding the program.

"We have a great football tradition in New Hampton, and our boys and community love football," he said. "I want to build on that."

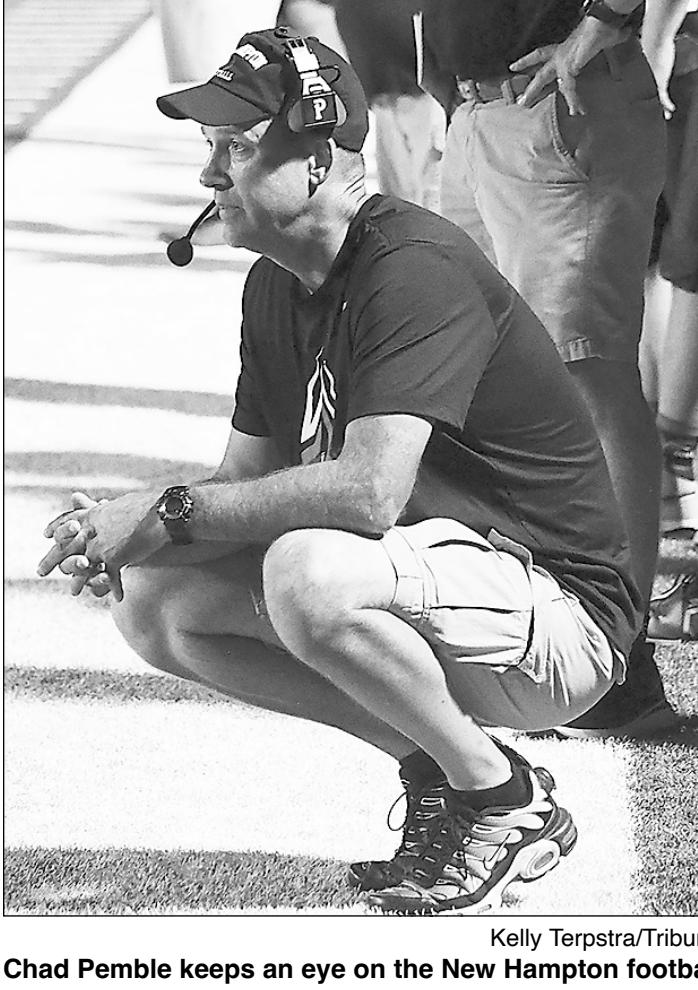

Asked about his football philosophy, Pemble went through a litany of qualities that make up good football teams.

They ranged from tough to playing for each other, weathering storms that come along the way, taking care of the football, defending well, having a balanced offense and putting effective special teams on the field.

And he had one more quality he wants his program to have.

"Good football teams have fun," he said.

Pemble will continue to teach science and computer science classes at the high school, and in addition to his long tenure with the football program, he brings a variety of coaching experience to his new role. He

Undermanned Chickasaws' season ends at 2A sectional

BY KELLY TERPSTRA

Give the New Hampton boys golf team credit where credit is due.

The Chickasaws and head coach Eric Olson did they best they could in a tough sectional meet at Waterloo last Wednesday despite being short-handed.

Ewert

Sometimes the breaks just don't go your way as New Hampton had to overcome the absence of one of its top golfers and quality competition in order to advance to district play, which teed off in Dike on Tuesday (meet was moved from Monday) for the right to play in the state tournament later this month.

Bottom line — the Chickasaws made due with what they had after junior Adam Ewert — New Hampton's No. 1 golfer statistically based off his nine-hole average — had to sit out the sectional meet with sickness.

Ewert is a three-year starter on the varsity squad and son of NH co-coach Paul "Doc" Ewert. Experience matters and even though New Hampton shot a respectable 340 — it wasn't enough to continue its season as the Chickasaws finished in a tie for fourth place.

"Adam's illness hurt us. When you take out your No. 1 it will hurt your team. I thought the guys responded as good as they could. They just went out and played the best golf they could, it just wasn't enough," said Olson.

Hudson shot a 328 and D-NH (335) finished five strokes ahead of New Hampton (340), who tied with Belmond-Klemme (340).

B-K's Ashton Willms (75) and Denver's Creyten Buhr (75) tied for the co-medalist spot.

Jack Shawver, a Chickasaw senior, carded a 77. That meant he missed out on playing in the district meet by two strokes as the top two overall individual players from non-qualifying teams at each site advanced to the next round.

Shawver's nine-hole stroke average this year was just a smidge below Ewert's at 41.25.

Chickasaw seniors get win in final home game first soccer contest in program history. Against the Eagles in the regular season finale, Broughton nailed one in the back of the net five minutes into the contest and added a penalty kick with 17 minutes left before intermission to give the Chickasaws a 4-1 advantage at halftime.

Broughton's tremendous career spanned four regular seasons and he only missed one of those games — an injury that forced him out of a game at North Fayette Valley this spring.

New Hampton head coach Jeff Monteith remembers seeing Broughton first play the game of soccer when he was just a kindergartener.

"It's been fun to watch Carter play the game in the community all the way up since he was about 5," said Monteith. "He was one of the many reasons it was so important to try and get a high school team so he and others could continue to play the game they love. He has put in the work in the offseason on his own and with other area teams and experiences so it is great to see the success he has had."

Broughton netted 16 goals during the regular season — tied for 13th overall in Class 2A. Broughton holds the school record for most goals scored in a game with seven, which happened this year in the season opener versus Charles City.

"This year he also embraced the captain's role and played in different positions so that he could help control and manage the game. He also helped and encouraged some of the newer and younger players in practices and games so in many ways his impact has gone beyond just being a great player, but helping build the future of Chickasaw soccer," Monteith said.

New Hampton improved to 3-8 overall and swept the season series over CR — winning the first contest in Guttenberg, 8-1.

New Hampton added two goals from William Camarillo, a freshman that put home a deflected Jay Pickar cross into the back of the net for the matches first score, not even two minutes into the fray.

Kevyn Torres, a sophomore, got a nice pass from Pickar on a cross and rifled it home at the 23:18 mark of the first half to make it 3-0, New Hampton.

Clayton Ridge (4-8) got its goals from

Effort there, win is not in playoff opener

It wasn't the ending New Hampton coach Jeff Monteith and his Chickasaw boys soccer team wanted, but the first-year coach found plenty of positives Monday.

"We played hard right to the end," Monteith said after his team dropped a 6-1 match to Solon in the first round of the Class 2A postseason. "Obviously, going down 5-0 at halftime put us in a hole, but the effort was strong the entire way."

New Hampton avoided the shutout with a late goal from freshman Jay Pickar as it finished the season with a 3-9 mark.

"We had 13 guys available, and that might be the most we had all year," he said. "We need more depth, no question about it, so it's time to get out there and recruit because there's no question, we were tired at the end."

Eagle sophomore Colton Hoeger.

New Hampton had to battle through several setbacks during the season with a schedule that wasn't easy. The Chickasaws were also low on numbers and that problem was exacerbated by injuries. Several times the Chickasaws brought out only 10 starters to the pitch in matches, one below the maximum number of players that are allowed to compete for each team.

This was the first season that the boys broke away from the girls team and formed squads of their own. The previous three seasons saw the Chickasaws compete as a co-ed unit.

"It has definitely been an interesting season from start to end with a lot of unforeseen situations. We knew we had a smaller, younger squad coming in after the group that graduated last year and then starting the new girls team," said Monteith.

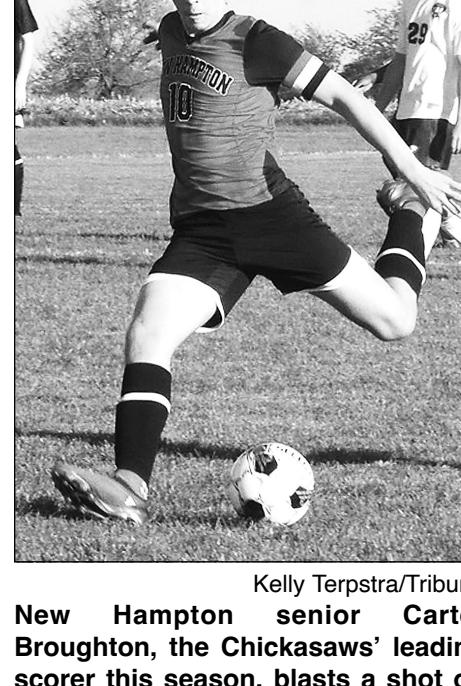

Chickasaw junior Xander Meyerhoff and sophomore goalie Easton Monteith played in all 11 regular season games for New Hampton. Meyerhoff was second on the team in goals during the regular season with three — tied with Camarillo. Monteith came up with 115 saves prior to postseason.

play and freshman Israel Ortiz saved 24 shots at the keeper position.

"Injuries are one of those unpredictable things and we seemed to have more than our share of and they just kept lingering and/or reappearing throughout the season. We had a tough schedule run lately with multiple games in a row against ranked opponents and it can be extremely frustrating when the scoreboard doesn't show the results of the work players are putting forth," said the NH head coach.

Chickasaw senior Olandreon Saunders (D/MF) also celebrated Senior Night after the conclusion of the girls game versus Clayton Ridge.

"Senior Night is always an exciting, but bittersweet end. It is great to get a win for the two senior captains. The team came out with a lot of energy right away and played well as a team, controlling the possession game we have been working on and talking about it and it really paid off," said Monteith.

Punching tickets to state track!

New Hampton girls send six events to Des Moines

BY BOB FENSKE

After a season that included scavenger hunts, a swimming party, ice cream runs and, oh yeah, a lot of running, the New Hampton girls track team wanted one more week of "family" time.

And the Chickasaws, thanks to an inspired performance at last Thursday's Class 2A state qualifying meet in Denver, got that extra week as New Hampton qualified six events for the state track and field meet that kicks off its three-day run Thursday in Des Moines.

"I think it's the atmosphere that comes with track that makes it so much fun," said junior Kinsley Hackman, who qualified for state in the 400 and two relays. "Yes, it's running. Yes, practices are hard work, but maybe you have to be a track person to understand it, but the meets, the joking around, becoming friends with girls you hardly knew before the season, it's such a family. It's hard to explain but it's real."

Taylor Ries — Hackman's classmate who qualified in three relays and the 400 low hurdles — won't argue with her teammate.

"Yes, you do run a lot," she said with a laugh, "but it's so much more than that. It's the meets, it's the joking around, it's the teammates, it's the coaches ... they all make it fun."

And New Hampton had plenty of fun Thursday in Denver as, up and down the lineup, the Chickasaws made a spirited run at the team title before settling for fourth place in a loaded qualifier.

Jesup won the team title with 108 points, 1.5 more than runner-up Crestwood. Grundy

Chickasaw boys to take 1-2 discus punch to state

BY BOB FENSKE

Braden McShane let the discus fly last Thursday evening, and the New Hampton senior thought his throw "could be decent."

Oh, it was much more than that as McShane's throw landed 150 feet, 6 inches from the ring and not only gave him the title at the Class 2A state qualifying meet but also extended his high school track career another week as he earned a trip to the state meet that begins today (Thursday) in Des Moines.

Not bad for a kid who had never competed in the event during his stellar high school athletic career.

And he'll have some company in Des Moines as fellow Chickasaw Marshall Zeien, who endured a sleepless night Thursday, learned that he would get a chance to compete in the discus at state for a second consecutive year.

McShane, though, may be the most unlikely Chickasaw state qualifier in years.

With a bum hamstring keeping him off the track when the season started, he decided to give the shot put and the discus a try.

"I wanted to see what it was like, I wanted to compete in something at least," the four-sport athlete said. "Now, I sucked at both at the start but I got better."

Did he ever, and now he's off to state with the Chickasaws' best throw of the season to become New Hampton's first champion in a state qualifying field event since Noah Fenske won the shot put and the discus in 2019.

Chickasaws get much-needed win on Senior Night

New Hampton senior Carter Broughton started it and he finished it on Friday night — at least during the regular season.

Broughton scored two goals to help his Chickasaw boys soccer team to a 5-2 victory that halted a seven-match losing streak on Friday night at home versus Clayton Ridge on Senior Night.

Broughton — NH's all-time leading goal scorer with 46 — scored New Hampton's first goal ever in the Chickasaws' inaugural season clear back in 2021. That was a 6-1 loss to Charles City in New Hampton's

Morgan Pierce's first-half goal stood as her Clayton Ridge Eagles blanked the New Hampton girls soccer squad by a score of 1-0 on Friday night.

The Chickasaws also celebrated Senior Night after the regular season finale was put in the books.

It was a match of near misses for New Hampton, who repeatedly had scoring chances that the ball somehow did not manage to find the back of the net.

"We had no luck tonight," said NH first-year head coach Fayssal Talib.

So what's to eat? Planning a wedding reception menu

Lots of details require a decision when planning a wedding. Engaged couples may or may not enjoy tending to much of the minutiae involved in wedding planning, but the reception menu is typically one popular point of interest.

When picking a wedding reception menu, couples typically get to sit down with their venue operator or caterer and take a taste test so they can decide what to include and exclude come the big night. That typically results in some happy hearts and full bellies. But there's more to picking a reception menu than taste, and the following are some pointers couples can consider as they aim to provide a tasty meal for their wedding guests.

- Resist the urge to make the menu reflect your personal preference. Couples, particularly those footing the bill for their own weddings, may be tempted to pick exclusively foods they like for the reception. Though it's important that couples get to enjoy their first meal together after tying the knot, it's good to ensure that guests get to have an enjoyable meal as well. Resist any urge to let personal preferences dictate the menu, particularly if you have a restrictive diet. For example, vegans need not insist everyone eat a vegan meal at the reception nor should meat lovers insist that every plate end up with some red meat on it. Diversify the menu so people with various preferences can fill up and enjoy their dinner.

- Inquire about food allergies. When inviting guests, ask them to cite any food allergies they may have when they RSVP. Many banquet halls and caterers are now accustomed to accommodating diners with food allergies, but the earlier that information is communicated, the more time couples have to pick delicious foods that won't compromise the health of guests who must avoid certain dishes or ingredients.

- Align food with degree of formality. It's important that couples consider the ambiance of the wedding when picking a reception menu. A pig roast might be ideal for a backyard wedding, but something more formal is called for when dining in a lavishly decorated banquet hall. Couples can keep this in mind when choosing the menu. It's also notable that caterers tend to have a creative side, so they might be able to present certain foods in ways that match the vibe of the wedding even if those dishes would not ordinarily align with the ambiance of the reception.

- Leave the experimentation to the cocktail hour. If couples have certain exotic foods in mind, they can still serve those items but do so during the cocktail hour. Guests can simply turn down the chance to try exotic foods during the cocktail hour without going hungry. But a sit-down dinner should ensure every guest has something to fill their belly.

Make it a trip of a lifetime

Experts offer variety of tips to make it a safe and enjoyable honeymoon

Couples have much to look forward to when planning their weddings. In addition to the momentous occasion when they say "I do," couples can look ahead with excitement as they anticipate spending time with family and friends in a fun setting.

Though the wedding day is the focal point of couples' planning efforts, the post-wedding honeymoon also merits ample consideration.

A honeymoon is the first trip many couples take together after tying the knot, and many will never forget this special excursion. As couples pore over the details of wedding planning, they may want to consider these tips to ensure their honeymoon is a trip to remember for a lifetime.

Identify your dream trip

There are no rules regarding honeymoons. Though couples' budgets and professional obligations may factor into where they can go and how long their honeymoon can be, couples can discuss their dream trips and then determine if they can make those dreams come true on their honeymoon.

Couples who have always aspired to backpack through Europe should consider that a possible honeymoon trip. If a food tour of Italy is on couples' bucket list, then investigate how feasible that might be for your honeymoon.

Stay up on current events

It can be easy for couples to get lost in the weeds while planning their weddings and miss what's going on across the globe. However, knowledge of current events can be vital when planning a honeymoon.

Faraway and exotic locales may seem tailor-made for a honeymoon, but that's only the case if such destinations are not plagued by civil unrest, conflict, natural disasters, or other events that can affect how safe it is to visit such places.

The U.S. Department of State maintains a free, easily accessible list of travel advisories at travel.state.gov. The Government of Canada maintains a similar list at travel.gc.ca.

Couples are urged to visit these sites before booking their honeymoon, particularly if they hope to travel internationally.

Consider amenities and all-inclusive packages

All-inclusive packages can be a great deal, particularly for couples who want their honeymoon to be all about relaxing at a single resort destination. All-inclusive packages cover the cost of food and most beverages, making these options both convenient and budget-friendly.

When going this route, couples also should decide which amenities they want to access on their trip.

Access to a gym and/or spa, activities like parasailing, and other perks are just some of the potential amenities couples can look for as they choose a honeymoon destination.

Collaborate

A honeymoon may be the first trip couples take after tying the knot, and it can lay the foundation for future collaborative efforts.

Planning travel is not always so easy, so couples can work together and make any necessary concessions so each person gets what they want out of the trip.

Graduation, even for an old reporter, always bit bittersweet

It was a cold winter day in January 2010 when a former Tribune employee dropped by for a quick visit.

Misti Shawver had her two kids — Jack and Madison — in tow and soon was chatting up her old friends at the newspaper where she had once sold advertising. The women in the office oohed and aahed over little Madi while Jack stood off to the side so I went up to him, said hi and gave him "knucks."

We talked a bit, but either Misti and her husband, Ryan, had given young Jack the "stranger danger" talk or the 4-year-old wasn't much of a talker because our conversation was brief. Still, I felt good that I had given the little guy some attention and headed back to my desk and that was that.

As I sat down at the computer today, that day popped into my head.

For years after coming to the Tribune, I would sit down to work on this section — our annual graduation tab — and figure out what grade the graduating seniors were in when the Fenske Boys moved to New Hampton back in December 2009.

Those days are gone; in fact, I'm not too far away from putting together a graduation tab full of kids who weren't born when Josh, Noah and myself set up house in Chickasaw County. I guess that proves two things: I'm getting old and I've been here a while.

When Misti and her children popped in for a visit that day, I had been at the Tribune for a month or so, and while I may have seen a Class of 2024 member or two at the Breakfast with Santa program the previous month or ran into one at church, I'm guessing that little Jack Shawver was the first Class of 2024 member I had really met.

There are times when that day seems like it was just yesterday, and I'm guess-

Bob Fenske has been the editor of the Tribune since 2009, and he can be reached by email at editor@nhtrib.com.

Bob Fenske/Tribune

Jack Shawver, the first Class of 2024 this editor met many "moons" ago, studies the green as he prepares to putt during the New Hampton Invitational last month.

ing Ryan and Misti might be thinking the same thing as they gear up for Sunday and commencement. Time really does fly, especially when it comes to kids.

Over the years, I've gotten to know quite a few of the young men and women who will walk across that stage Sunday to receive their diplomas and depart the gym as New Hampton High School alums.

I umpired some of their youth baseball games (sorry, inside joke here but remember the Bosco games, guys?), coached them in Park and Rec basketball (sorry, one more inside joke coming) where we learned to dribble with our left hand, worked with them on putting out the story of what was then called Midmester when they were in middle school and covered their games, meets, concerts and plays throughout their high school years.

They've grown up ... in more ways than just height, weight, facial hair, etc., etc.

A couple of years ago, for example, I interviewed Braden McShane for the first time after he had a huge breakout game against Oelwein, running for a gazillion yards and scoring plenty of touchdowns. I'd look it up, but I'm really pushing deadline here so, trust me, he was a monster on the football field that night.

Braden had a lot of "yes" and "no" answers, and the last place in the world he wanted to be that night was talking to a reporter. Fast forward more than 2 1/2 years, and Braden has turned into a superb "interview."

Even members of the Class of 2024 I don't know very well have impressed me along the way.

A couple of weeks ago, I sat down with Miranda Buckley and Natalie Hidding after the annual Coffeehouse Concert and they shared not only their thoughts on what took place the day before but also provided wonderful insights on why music is important to them and why the rest of us should value it, too.

Heck, even Jack Shawver talks to me now.

But in all seriousness, one of the things I love about living in a small city is I literally get to watch kids grow up. Jack was the cutest little boy back then — sorry Jack, I hope that doesn't totally embarrass you, but you were — and now he's a young man who will graduate on Sunday and begin the rest of his life.

The Class of 2010 was the first I saw graduate from New Hampton High School, and those kids are now 32 years old. Wait a minute, now I really do feel old.

The Class of 2024, like the classes before them, has given all of us a lot of memories — most good, a few not so much — but for me, it's always bittersweet to cover a commencement ceremony because while I know "it's time," I've come to know and appreciate the young men and women who are moving onto the next chapter in their lives.

When Josh and Noah graduated, I figured some of those bittersweet feelings would ebb, but they haven't. The fact is I've said it virtually every year since we moved to New Hampton. I'll miss this class.

So congrats to those I've known "forever" like Jack and those I've known for just a brief time, like Natalie and Miranda. You did well. And we'll miss you.
