Three cities ask county for ARPA

North Washington, Lawler and Ionia follow Nashua to county boardroom

BY BOB FENSKA

editor@nhtrib.com

A week after the Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors indicated that it will follow through on using $50,000 of its American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds to help the city of Nashua with dam issues, three more Chickasaw County cities on Monday asked the Board of Supervisors to share some of the county's federal dollars.

Board members agreed to table the requests but only after a relatively lengthy discussion not only about the requests but also the dam project in Nashua.

North Washington and Lawler both made formal requests for $50,000 of the county's ARPA funds while Ionia asked the county for $30,000.

North Washington Mayor David

Geerts, who attended Monday's meeting, said his city would use the funds to seal coat streets and told supervisors that the city's budget has been "depleted" after buying a water tank for the city, along with the added expenses of providing emergency medical services.

Lawler and Ionia, meanwhile, both made written requests to the county and although neither city had a representative at Monday's meeting, Lawler's letter stated that it would use the funds to help fund improvements to city bridges and city streets while Ionia wants the money so that it can continue to make improvements to its city parks.

Geerts brought up both the dam and Nashua's new ambulance service and asked two questions of supervisors.

Supervisors pass on offer to have EMS building come with living quarters

Board members say they would like to take possession of building as soon as possible

BY BOB FENSKA
 editor@nhtrib.com

The Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors want to move ahead with finalizing the purchase of a building that will permanently house the Chickasaw County EMS, despite an offer from the building's current owner to delay the sale so that he could put the living quarters for ambulance personnel into the building before the county takes ownership.

Supervisors, though, were lukewarm to the offer, especially after County Attorney David Laudner told the board it would be walking a legal tightrope on some of the language that might be included in a new purchase agreement.

Chickasaw County EMS Director Joel Knutson said the idea of having the building's living quarters ready for the county came up recently during a conversation with Jeremy McGrath, who along with his wife Lacey, own the building at 204 E. Prospect St. that the county has agreed to purchase for $350,000.

The county is expecting the sale to be finalized by Aug. 1, and the city of New Hampton has already agreed to let the county out of its lease for the two Police Department garage spaces Chickasaw County EMS currently uses.

"The only thing he has concerns with ... is it goes out to bid and carpenter x,y and z says it's $100,000," Knutson said, "but [at the end] the price comes in at $120,000, he wants to make certain that the county will be agreeable to pay for that overage."

If the building already included living quarters for ambulance crews, the county would not have to spend money for an architect or an engineer, which is one reason the county has explored using donations to cover the costs of remodeling the building so that staff will be at the station 24 hours a day.

Laudner, though, has consistently pointed out that if the county spends any money — he's

Teaching 'subs' get a big bump

Board OKs superintendent's suggestion to raise daily pay

Ask New Hampton Superintendent Jay Jurrens about the biggest challenge facing school districts like his, and his answer comes quickly and takes up all of two words.

Finding subs.

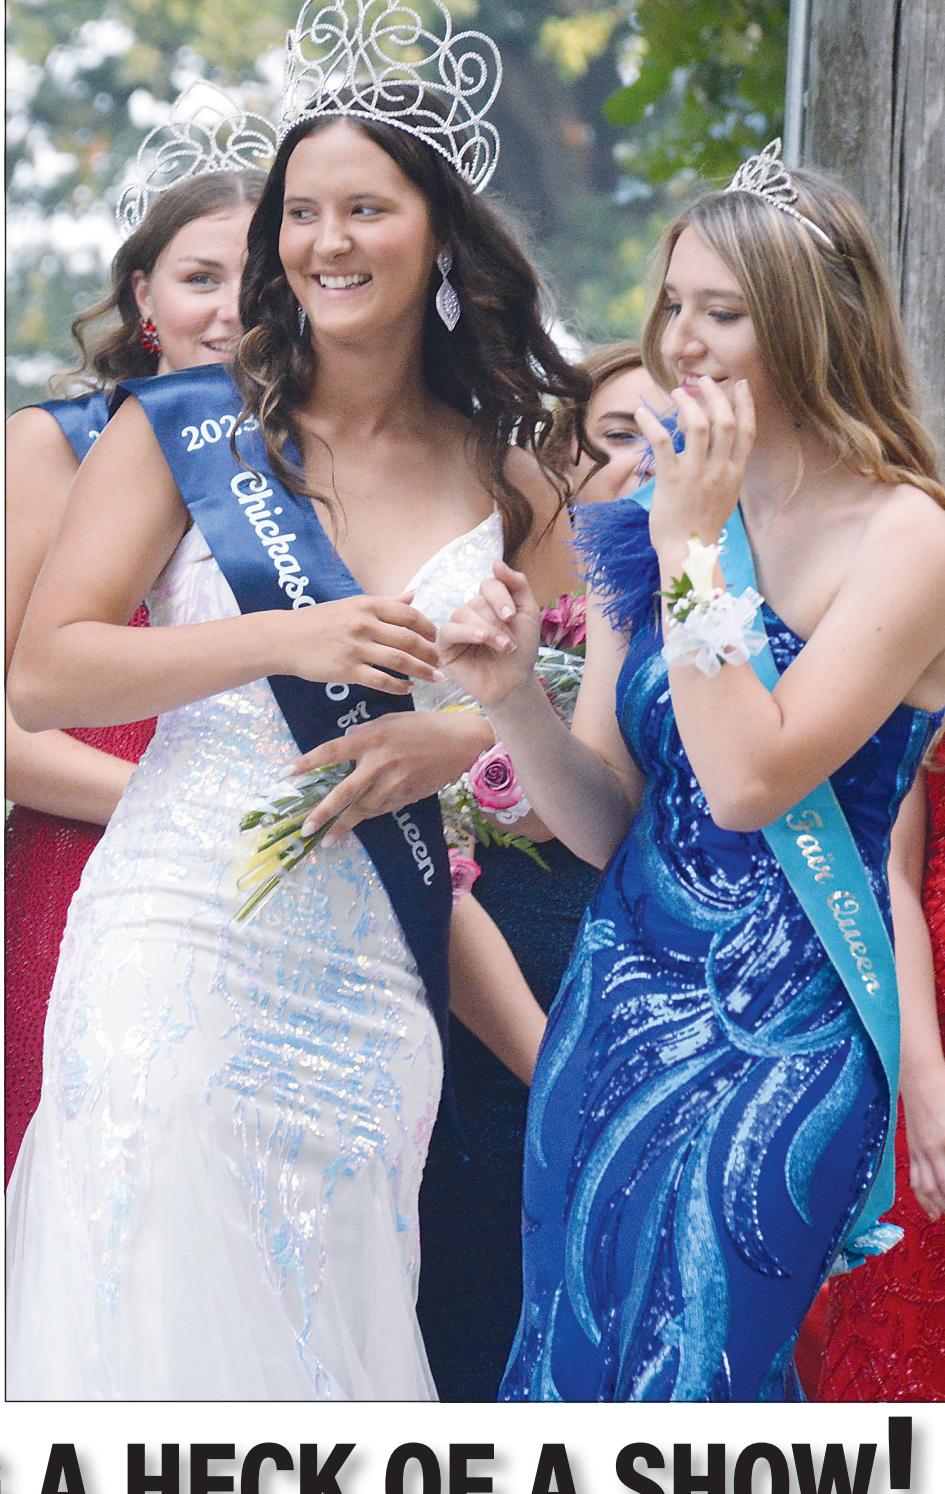

On Monday night, the School Board agreed with the superintendent's recommendation and agreed to raise the substitute teaching pay in the district by 25 percent — from $120 per day to $150 per day.

Jurrens earlier Monday said two issues have made finding substitute teachers difficult in recent years. First, there's the teacher shortage, or as the district's top administrator put it,

Library celebrates new 'home' for one of its most prized pieces of art

BY BOB FENSK
editor@nhtrib.com

New Hampton Public Library Director Carrie Becker doesn't really need a reason to step out of her office; after all, Becker isn't the kind of director who just wants to hole up in her own little space.

But now she has another reason to stretch her legs, for the first thing she sees is the "Path by the Sea," a painting donated to the library years ago on its 50th anniversary and one that has found a new home in the library.

Adam Emory Albright's painting now hangs prominently in the library; in fact, it has its own "wall" thanks to some help from the New Hampton Lions Club members who paid for the new display place for the work of art by a man who grew up in the New Hampton area.

"It was a wonderful partnership, and you know me, I love it when our library can partner with just about anyone," Becker said. "It's absolutely beautiful, and the more and more I learned about Albright and the painting, the more and more I appreciate the fact that so many people have supported this project."

And earlier this month, the painting and its new display space were celebrated during an open house at the library.

"It has such a unique history and it's been fascinating to learn not only the painting but the artist and the painting's meaning to our library," Becker said. "It's a pretty amazing story, and we hope people treasure it has much as we do here."

During the July 8 open house, Rebecca Hassman Splitstoesser was on hand to discuss her research on Albright, who was one of the most influential and prosperous artists of his day.

Albright was born in Monroe, Wisconsin on Aug. 15, 1862, but he and his 12 brothers and sisters, along with their parents Zachariah and Caroline, grew up in the New Hampton area.

In his book "For Art's Sake," Albright shared that at an early age he liked to "make pictures" and fondly recalled life on the farm along Bradford County, as well as excursions to the Wapsipinicon River.

Both the farm and the river made a great impact on his later life and art.

In 1880, at 18 years of age, finding no satisfaction in physical labor, Albright set out to attend the Art Institute of Chicago, and he later studied art in Pennsylvania, Munich and Paris before returning to Chicago in 1888.

Most of his art depicts children in bucolic scenes. His style being somewhat impressionistic, his works are dreamy, idyllic, and pastoral.

Albright was married to Clara Wilson in 1890 and the couple had three sons — Lisle and twins Ivan, and Malvin. The twins both became artists; Ivan was a famous painter while Malvin was an accomplished sculptor. The father and sons set up shop in an abandoned church in Warrenville, Illinois. Albright selected that town due to its peaceful river and country feel. Today that is the site of the Albright Studio Museum.

Over the years Albright returned to New Hampton, whose people welcomed him warmly. He visited in 1928 to install monuments on his parents' graves in Graceland Cemetery.

In 1949, he returned to attend the 50th anniversary of the New Hampton Public Library, where he presented "Path by the Sea" to the library and its longtime director, Bessie Porter, for the children of New Hampton.

In addition to sharing the story of Albright, Splitstoesser also presented the library several artifacts — including a copy of "For Art's Sake," many black and white images of the artist and his family printed from glass plates found in the Albright Studio Museum in Warrenville.

During the restoration process, the library also had the piece evaluated by an art historian, Mary Louise Kane of Massachusetts, who valued the painting at $30,000.

"It's such a neat story of a boy who grows up here, becomes a famous artist but never forgets New Hampton," Becker said. "It deserves a prominent spot here, and I'm so thankful, with a lot of support from a lot of people, we could do this."

Public hearing on amending county budget set for Monday

often used the phrase "a dime" — on a new building or remodeling one it is purchasing then it must follow state codes that require either an architect or an engineer.

The county attorney was not at Monday's meeting in person but joined board members by phone, telling them the county can't take on any of the risk when it comes to cost overruns.

"You can not, can not, have an agreement with him to have him take on the risk and build the building and then pay extra," he said. "That's very clear in the law."

The issue with collecting donations is that it may take months before a non-profit organization — a "Friends of Chickasaw County EMS" — can be formed, and Board Chairman Matt Kuhn wondered if the board would be setting a precedent.

"Are we going to start asking every other department to come up with donated funds," Kuhn asked his fellow board members. "Why do we single out one department?"

But Supervisor Scott Cerwinski said supervisors only began thinking about using private donations after Knutson brought the idea to the table.

"I don't think we've necessarily singled out this department," he said. "I think this department said way back when that they could get donations."

Supervisor Steve Breitbach said he was in favor of using the county's American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds to build the living quarters in the East Prospect building.

"I think there's some money out there that could be donated," Breitbach said, "but it's going to push this project back so far that I think we want to get that building done sooner."

Supervisor Jake Hackman, too, was in favor of taking possession of McGrath's building sooner rather than later, although he also didn't commit to spending ARPA dollars for the living quarters.

"To stop the purchase agreement that we all agreed to, and now that this is happening, what are we telling the people of this county? I don't think we can wait for the association to get started," he said. "We need to get the staff where the trucks are. I just think we should just move forward with the purchase agreement that we both agreed [upon] and get the building bought."

The biggest hangup, it appeared from Monday's meeting, was a price quote the county has received from an architect that is also helping the county with cost estimates on remodeling parts of the Heritage Building Center.

The architect is charging the county a little more than $10,000 for the work at the Heritage but has quoted the county a price of $35,500 for the work at the East Prospect building.

"Do they really understand what we're looking for," Hackman said. "I think we need to go back to them and see why there's such a big difference."

SCHOOL BOARD: FROM 1

"Anyone who wants a job has a job."

The second reason is rooted in the COVID-19 pandemic. For years, school districts like New Hampton relied heavily on retirees to fill the ranks of substitute teachers, but the pandemic led a number of those subs to eschew the classroom.

"And they haven't come back," Jurrens said. "They realized that they didn't really need the extra money and losing a lot of that core group has really hurt us. We're not alone on this, by any means. Every district in the state has issues finding substitute teachers."

Jurrens said he knows districts in the area that are paying as much as $200 a day for substitute teachers, and he told board members on Monday that Howard-Winneshiek (Crestwood) recently jumped its sub pay to $175 per day, that Riceville is at $150 and that North Fayette Valley is looking to go to $140 or $150.

He said he settled on $150 as his recommendation because it would put New Hampton somewhat in the middle of what districts are offering subs.

"We have to remain competitive and attract people, no question about it," he said, "and I think this is a solid place to start. We won't be the highest, but we won't be the lowest and if we stay at $120, we're going to be at the lowest."

The board's action on substitute teacher pay was part of a busy Monday evening that started with the School Board holding a work session to interview a pair of high school seniors — Olivia Horner and Leander Reicks — who applied to serve as the student board representative this year.

During its August meeting, board members will make their decision on the student board member, who will take their "non-voting" seats during the meeting that is set for Aug. 21.

Among the other items discussed at Monday's meeting were:

- Board members approved a pair of change orders to the new concrete parking lot that is being poured at the high school. Jurrens said earlier Monday that some tiling has had to be added to the project but also noted that the district will save some money because not as much "sub-base" was needed.

Still, he said he expects the project, originally estimated at $650,000, may come in about $25,000 over budget, but he said school officials had a $50,000 contingency set aside in case there were issues that cropped up.

He said the biggest challenge will be the fact that the parking lot won't open until Aug. 11 at the earliest, meaning that fall sports teams will have to park in the high school's "upper lot" when they begin practicing earlier next month.

- The resignations of five parapro-

Rotary Club hands out scholarships

A total of $7,250.00 in scholarships has been awarded by The New Hampton Rotary Club to eight local students enrolled in post-secondary education programs:

Grace Burrett, Kayla Crooks, Hannah Heit, Chance Johnson, Abby Nie, Morgan Nuss, Brooke Usher and Paige Wisner were all awarded scholarships by the service club.

The Rotary scholarship and loan fund was established in 1959 when Ada Johnston gave the Rotary Club a gift of $1,000 in memory of her husband, S. E. Johnston, "...For aiding young people to further their education beyond the high school level."

Later, significant funding was added by Don Iverson, money that was invested by The New Hampton Rotary Club. Scholarships are awarded based on financial need, scholastic success, potential, linkages to Northeast Iowa, and extracurricular involvement. To be eligible, students must have completed at least one-half of their post secondary educational program, at the undergraduate level.

Applications will be accepted starting in January 2024 for the 2024-25 school year. Those interested can contact Pauline Shatok at 641-394-3021 or pshatok@bankfidelity.com.

A more perfect freedom

Jesus gave us the ultimate freedom with his death and resurrection

On the Fourth of July, we Americans celebrated Independence Day. Our founding fathers declared freedom from British rule.

But they weren't looking for freedom to do whatever they wanted.

They knew that freedom without any boundaries, without any laws, would be no freedom at all. They recognized that laws needed to be in place to restrain the worst impulses of human minds and hearts.

The Bible describes these natural impulses and desires in the plainest terms. Writing to a young colleague, the Apostle Paul wrote, "For we ourselves were once foolish, disobedient, led astray, slaves to various passions and pleasures, passing our days in malice and envy, hated by others and hating one another" (Titus 3:3).

Paul states that "doing whatever we want" is not freedom; it is slavery. But then he explained how we have been set free from all that, set free from our sin, from hopelessness, and from death.

"But when the goodness and loving kindness of God our Savior appeared, he saved us, not because of works done by us in righteousness, but according to his own mercy, by the washing of regeneration and renewal of the Holy Spirit, whom he poured out on us richly through Jesus Christ our Savior, so that being justified by his grace we might become heirs according to the hope of eternal life" (Titus 3:4-7, and you might want to read these beautiful words again).

Jesus let Himself be bound and taken to the cross, so we would be set free from our sin by the shedding of His blood. And He let Himself be wrapped in burial cloths and locked up in a tomb, so we would be set free from the chains of death by His resurrection.

Pastor Peter Faugstad serves Redeemer Lutheran Church in New Hampton and the Jerico and Saude congregations northeast of town (<https://saudejerico.com/>).

This declaration of our freedom is conveyed to us through God's powerful Word and Sacraments—a freedom that no one and nothing can undo.

Bernard Wayne Mathews, 79

Bernard Wayne Mathews, affectionately known as Bernie, died Friday, June 30, 2023, at Linn Haven Rehab & Healthcare in New Hampton.

He was born on Feb. 19, 1944, in Vancouver, Washington, the son of Christopher and Margaret (Slifka) Mathews.

A Celebration of Life will be held Sunday, Aug. 6, 2023, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Chickasaw Event Center in New Hampton.

The interment will be at a later date.

Hugeback-Johnson Funeral Home and Crematory in New Hampton has been entrusted with arrangements. Online condolences for the Mathews family may be left at www.hugebackfuneralhome.com.

Bernie spent his formative years in Cresco, where he embraced the joys of small-town life and cultivated his love for hard work and community. A proud graduate of Notre Dame High School in Cresco in 1962, he immediately embarked on a path of service and dedication, working for the Street Department for the city of Cresco.

In 1965, Bernie's life took a turn when he met and married Sharon Lowe of New Hampton. Their union was blessed with four children — Kim, Sheila, Chris, and Danny, who filled their lives with laughter, love, and unforgettable memories. Despite their eventual divorce, the bond they shared as parents remained strong.

Bernie's industrious spirit led him to the John Deere Tractor Works in Waterloo, where he started working in 1965. For 30 years, he poured his heart and soul into his work, earning the respect and admiration of his colleagues. His dedication and commitment were a testament to his character, and he retired in 1995 with a legacy of excellence and integrity.

On May 19, 1995, Bernie embarked on a new chapter in his life, marrying Sandra Reicks at the Little Brown Church in Nashua.

They made their home in New Hampton, where they shared a life filled with joy, love, and shared passions. Bernie's adventurous spirit found a perfect outlet in fishing, classic cars, and truck pulling with his sons. The couple's 1962 Chevy Monte Carlo, a treasured purchase, became a familiar sight as they cruised around town, embodying their love for adventure and each other.

He was preceded in death by his parents and his in-laws, Denny (Katy) Reicks, Bill (Sandy) Reicks, Mike Reicks, Al Reicks and Mark Ahern.

Retired? Consider benefits of part-time work

After spending decades in the workforce, you might look forward to the day you retire. But if you decide, for one reason or another, that you'd like to redefine "retirement" to include part-time work or consulting, you could enjoy exercising your skills and meeting new people. But you can also receive some key financial benefits.

Specifically, bringing in some paychecks in your retirement can help you in these areas:

- You could contribute more to your IRA. During your working years, you may have contributed regularly to an IRA, but once you retired, you might have thought those days were over. But there's no age limit – if you have any earned income, you can contribute to an IRA and boost the financial resources you have available for retirement.

- You could potentially lower your withdrawal rate. Once you're retired, you will likely need to rely on your investment portfolio to provide you with some – or maybe most – of your income. Consequently, you'll need to establish an appropriate withdrawal rate – a percentage of your portfolio that you can take out each year without running the risk of potentially outliving your money. Income from part-time work or consulting may lower your dependency on investment income, thereby reducing your annual withdrawal rate and extending the overall longevity of your investment portfolio.

- You could add to your grandchildren's 529 plans.

When you invest in a 529 education savings plan, the earnings and withdrawals are federally tax-free, provided the money is used for qualified education expenses. As a grandparent, you can contribute to a 529 plan with your grandchildren as beneficiaries. And a 529 plan can be used for more than college – it can fund some programs at trade schools and K-12 expenses in some states. So, by putting some of your earned income to work in a 529 plan, you can help improve your grandchildren's prospects.

- You could reduce your debts. By the time you reach retirement, you may or may not have retired your mortgage, but you might have other debts on your books. If you can apply some of your earned income to these debts, you can improve your cash flow and possibly avoid dipping into your retirement accounts for short-term needs.

Of course, you'll also have to consider some issues if you end up working in retirement, particularly if you bring in a sizable amount of money. For example, if you're earning income and collecting Social Security before you reach your "full" retirement age – which is likely between 66 and 67 – your monthly benefits will be reduced. (However, these "lost" benefits will be restored once you do reach your full retirement age.) Also, the added income could push you into a higher tax bracket or even cause you to pay the Medicare premium surtax on net investment income if your income reaches certain levels. So, before embarking on any employment that may yield a large additional income, consult with your tax advisor.

Overall, though, the financial benefits of part-time employment income during your retirement years may be worth it – so give some thought to "unretiring."

N-P principal ready to dive into new position

BY BOB FENSKE

Dean Youngblut goal is to "hit the ground running."

Considering that the new Nashua-Plainfield secondary principal's contract doesn't technically start until Aug. 1 and he was in his office on Wednesday, it looks like he's going to reach that goal.

"The summer is flying by and Aug. 1 is going to be here before we know it," he said, "and I want us to hit the ground running when we get there so I'm going to be in the office a day or two each week until then. The more I can get done now, the more people I can meet, the better it will be when Aug. 1 rolls around."

The Nashua-Plainfield School Board approved the hiring of Youngblut to replace Karl Smith during its meeting last Monday.

He will replace Karl Smith, who worked at Nashua-Plainfield for the past two years and resigned after accepting an elementary principal position in Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

Youngblut said he was excited to take on a new role.

Raised in Jesup, where he was a member of the Class of 1994, Youngblut attended the University of Northern Iowa and earned a degree in 6-12 math education in 1998. He taught and coached at South Hamilton, North Tama, Union and Jesup before taking a job at Expo High School in Waterloo as a math instructor. He has coached football, baseball, wrestling and softball and has also been a longtime wrestling official – working the past seven state tournaments.

Nashua-Plainfield fans may recognize Youngblut because he worked as an official at the Class 1A regional dual meet the Huskies' hosted this past winter.

"I've enjoyed that a lot, the officiating part," he said, "because it's kept me involved in the sport. Obviously, it's a different perspective when you're officiating, but it's a way to get to meet a lot of great coaches and kids."

And while he isn't going to hang up his whistle, there's no question his first priority is his new job.

"As a leader, I think of myself as a facilitator," he said, "and I've always felt that way even as a teacher so really, the only thing that's different is that now in addition to facilitating for students, I'll be doing it for our teachers and our staff."

"If they want to try something new, I want to be there to help them gain that experience. If they want to get better at something, I want to help them reach that goal. I think it's important to realize that one person doesn't have all the answers but together, we do."

Youngblut said one of the things that attracted him to Nashua-Plainfield was the school district's staff.

"From everything I've heard, we have an outstanding faculty," he said, "and it's a great community. I'm excited to get going. I think you can see that excitement when I'm here on a Wednesday in July. I can't wait to get going."

Area farm fields get much-needed rain

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

Even though the U.S. Drought Monitor's Iowa map remains "ugly," there's some good news for area farmers in this week's USDA's Iowa Crop Progress and Condition Report.

That's because New Hampton in particular and Northeast Iowa in general finally got some decent rainfall last week; in fact, over a five-day period beginning on Tuesday, July 11, New Hampton recorded 3.49 inches of rain.

And while New Hampton may have had the highest rainfall in Northeast Iowa, much of the rest of the area received anywhere between 1 and 3 inches of rain, and it showed in that USDA report that was released on Monday.

Just 3 percent of farmland in Iowa's Northeast District was "very short" of topsoil moisture while 34 percent remained "short."

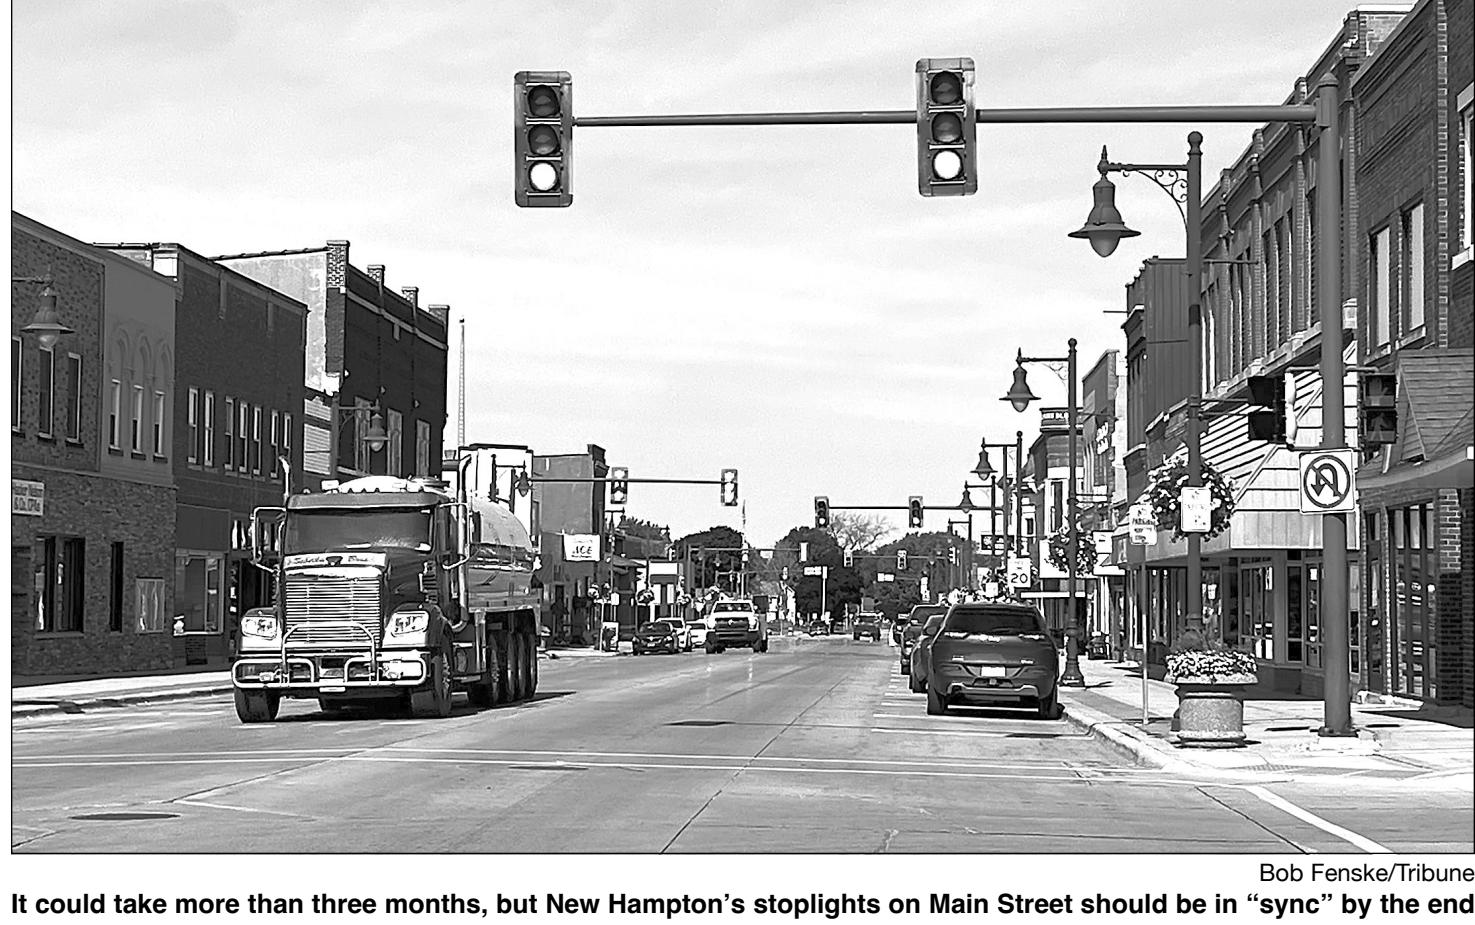

Still, that was much better than even two weeks ago when the USDA reported 41 percent of farmland in the district was "short" of topsoil moisture and 11 percent was "very short."

This week's report showed that 37 percent of subsoil moisture was "very short" or "short," down from 59 percent just before the Fourth of July holiday.

Through Tuesday, New Hampton had received 4.63 inches, more than 1 1/2 inches more than the 3.03 the area normally receives in the first 19 days of the month.

Much of last week's precipitation fell before the U.S. Drought Monitor released its weekly report on Thursday, which continued to classify the southern half of Chickasaw County as enduring "severe drought" while the northern half of the county is dealing with "moderate drought" conditions.

It could take more than three months, but New Hampton's stoplights on Main Street should be in "sync" by the end of the year, thanks to a decision by the City Council on Monday night.

New Hampton will dip into reserves to fix stoplights

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

The New Hampton City Council bit the bullet Monday night and moved ahead with purchasing controllers for five city stoplights at a cost of $26,500.

Council members had discussed the controllers during a meeting last month after they learned that three of the stoplights had controllers that were beyond repair because of their age, but they held off on a solution because they wanted city officials to explore grant opportunities for the city.

The controller on the stoplight at South Linn Avenue and Hamilton Street has not worked for several years, and last week, the controller on the stoplight at North Linn and Prospect Street went out. That left five of the seven stoplights in the city without effective controllers.

"Right now, we just have to fix our lights," Councilman Joe Denner said. "That's what we've got to do."

But City Clerk Karen Clemens had little good news for the council when it came to grants – saying the city doesn't qualify for federal grants and although the Iowa Department of Transportation does have a grant program in place, the earliest the city could receive money from the program is July 1, 2024.

Clemens told council members the city has about $6,000 in the current budget, which meant if city leaders went ahead with the purchase of the controllers for the five faulty stoplights, the city would have to amend its budget and dip into the city's general fund reserves.

During the discussion last month, New Hampton Fire Chief Toby Schwickerath had told the council that he'd like the city to purchase at least some emergency vehicle preemption units, which allow vehicles like fire trucks, ambulances and police cars to "switch" the lights when they are on emergency calls. Those units, Clemens said, are $6,988 apiece.

There had also been talk about purchasing a "video protection unit" for the stoplight at Linn Avenue and Main Street, and that unit runs $14,000.

Councilwoman Mindy Humpal said she felt pursuing the "flashers" – the nickname for the emergency vehicle units – could be put off for a year to see if New Hampton could come up with grant money.

"My thought would be an amendment to the budget for the [controllers] and potential grant application for the flashers," Humpal said. "I think that's a worthwhile avenue to pursue, and I don't know [about] the video."

Fellow council member Katie Fisher said as much as she would like to see the video production unit, the cost concerned her.

"If we can get two flashers on the lights that we want for less than what we would get for one video," Fisher said. "That makes more sense to me."

Council members ended up unanimously approving the purchase of the controllers and seeking grants for the other units, but it will be a while before the city receives the controllers because Clemens was told that it would take about 90 days for them to be delivered once the order is placed.

Syphilis is a sexually transmissible infection (STI). It's more common and easier to get than you might think. Not everyone who has syphilis has symptoms, so people often don't realize they have it. If you do have symptoms, they can include a painless sore or rash. Thankfully, syphilis is easy to test, treat and cure! If you're sexually active, make sure that getting tested syphilis is part of your regular health routine.

Grants available for agencies that provide food and/or shelter

Agencies providing emergency food and shelter programs in Chickasaw County can apply for federal funds to assist their efforts.

The county has been awarded $5,561 through the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Federal Emergency Management Agency under the Emergency Food and Shelter National Board Program.

A local board will determine how the funds, appropriated by Congress, are to be distributed among emergency food and shelter program run by local service agencies in the area.

Eligible local service agencies must be private voluntary non-profits or units of government eligible to receive federal funds; have an accounting system and practice non-discrimination; have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food or shelter programs; and have a voluntary board if they are a private voluntary organization.

Agencies interested in applying for EFSF funds should contact Sheri Alldredge, Iowa Northland Regional Council of Governments, at 319-235-0311 for an application.

Applications must be received by Aug. 4, 2023, and awards will be announced soon after.

Awards are handed out at annual Achievement Show

SHOW: FROM 1

FFA Achievement Show wasn't done Saturday evening — there was still a Dairy Show to be held Sunday and the annual Achievement Show breakfast and auction on Monday — the folks gathered on a beautiful, albeit a bit smoky, summer evening were there to celebrate.

And the show, a rite of July here in our little corner of the world, had plenty to proclaim Saturday.

There were awards to hand out, Clover Kids to graduate, nine-year FFA members to honor, a Hall of Fame to induct and, of course, crown a little royalty.

After handing out a number of awards and honors, Achievement Show officials announced that the late Nancy Demro was Chickasaw County's newest 4-H Hall of Fame member before concluding the Awards Ceremony with the crowning of Little Mr. Chickasaw Lane Van Drill, Little Miss Chickasaw Ava Peterson, 2023 Chickasaw Fair Queen Alternate Elaina Rosonke and 2023 Chickasaw Fair Queen Tori Bearman, who will represent the county at next month's Iowa State Fair in Des Moines.

Throw in a scrumptious meal provided by the Chickasaw County Pork Producers, and it was a heck of an evening at the fairgrounds in Nashua.

"It's been a great show so far," County Youth Director Patrick Dirks said, "and I think for me, when I look out there and see all the people that were here, it shows you just how much people care about our little show here. And that's reason enough to celebrate."

Mobile Food Bank to make stop in New Hampton this afternoon

Bob Fenske/Tribune

Public hearing on amending county budget set for Monday

before you give money away," he asked before diving into the EMS question.

Nashua last year decided not to sign a 28E agreement to be part of the county-owned Chickasaw County EMS ambulance service and instead struck out on its own and Nashua Area EMS went into service on July 1.

"Second question, have you signed a mutual aid agreement with the city of Nashua?" Geerts asked and pointed out if the county has, "then they are getting the same service the rest of the towns in the county are receiving without paying their fair share. It seems to me they are getting everything the rest of the towns are without paying anything, and there's no guarantee as to how many hours a week they will be in service."

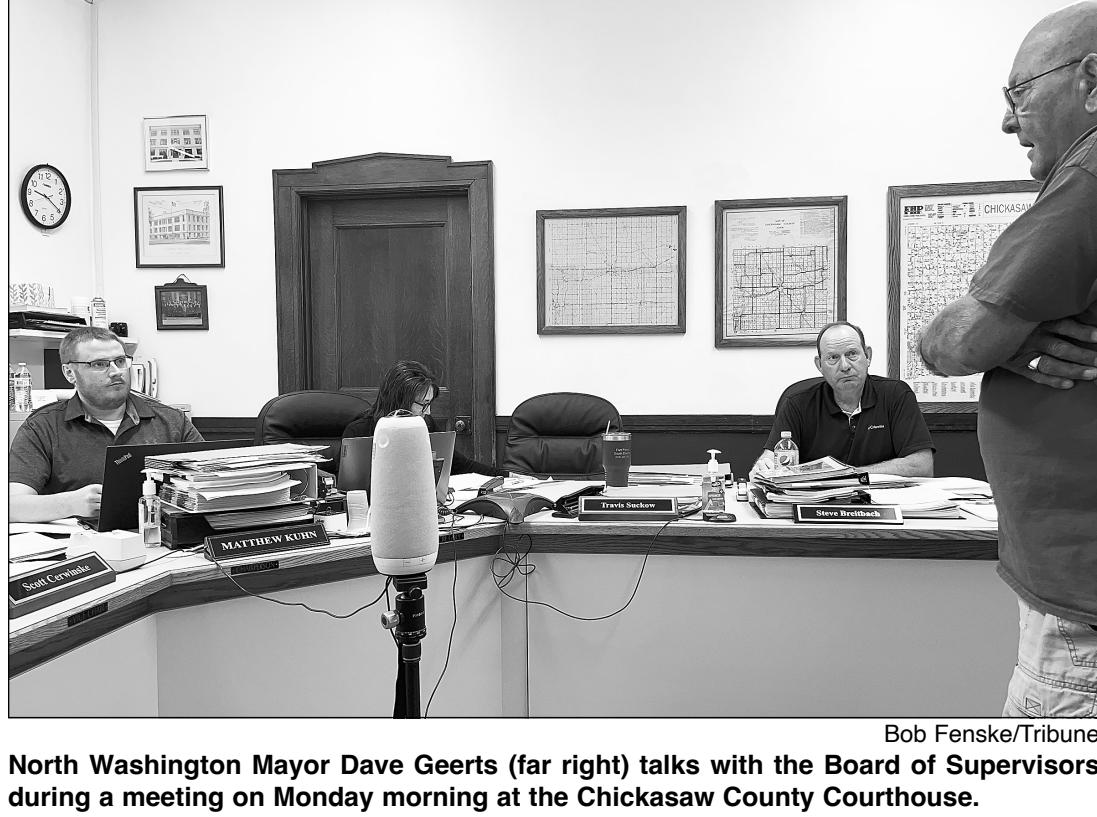

Board Chairman Matt Kuhn, referencing a six-month mutual aid agreement the county has signed with Nashua Area EMS, said that the deal represents "a trial to see how it works."

It was the county's contribution to the dam project, however, that took center stage for much of the discussion. Nashua spent about $1.2 million on a dam repair project in 2020, but issues have arisen since the project was completed.

Earlier this year, Nashua Mayor Alex Anthofer approached the Board of Supervisors and requested that the county help the city with engineering costs and board members agreed to use $50,000 of the interest its ARPA funds have earned to help the city.

Supervisor Scott Cervinske, whose district includes Nashua, stood by the board's decision even though he conceded on Monday that who actually owns the dam remains up in the air.

"I believe there's some question on whether or not some paperwork was filed properly to determine who actually owns the dam at this time," Cervinske said, "but I would say at the end of the day, the city of Nashua is going to fix that dam — whether they own it or not."

Bob Fenske/Tribune

North Washington Mayor Dave Geerts (far right) talks with the Board of Supervisors during a meeting on Monday morning at the Chickasaw County Courthouse.

"I believe the property values that lie in the county along that lake and in the city are well worth the $50,000. ... There are numerous people outside the Nashua area that use that lake that are Chickasaw County [residents]."

County Assessor Ray Arnel said he had done research on the dam's ownership and said that the documents he has been able to locate are "up for interpretation."

In Ionia's request, meanwhile, city officials sounded much like Cervinske when they pointed out that out-of-town residents use the city's park. They wrote that the New Hampton Parks and Recreation Department, for example, uses the Ionia ballfield for youth baseball and softball games and that events like family and celebrations mean "many people from other communities are visiting our park."

Supervisors have a public hearing set for 9:10 a.m. this coming Monday to consider a budget amendment to the county's 2023-24 budget. That amendment includes the funds for Nashua, but does not include the requests from North Washington, Lawler and Ionia. If those funds are eventually OK'd by county leaders, they would need to be part of a future budget amendment.

NEWS BITS FROM OUR PAST COMPILED BY TERRI JOSEPHSON

Week of July 161948 (75 years ago)

The Floyd County Fish and Game Club staged the first carp rodeo at Charles City Saturday and Sunday. More than 600 pounds of carp were booked and registered. The fish were taken to the locker plant to be smoked and later a carp feed will be held by the club.

Prizes were distributed among men, women and boys. Two women registered and one of them, Mrs. Jim Aspley, caught the largest carp, a 12 pounder. Carl Schaefer won first prize for the largest single day's catch of 71 pounds.

The First National Bank has just completed an improvement and decorating program. A new rubber tile floor has been laid in the lobby of the bank, the walls and ceilings decorated and the fixtures varnished. The lighting has been changed and new fixtures added.

1973 (50 years ago)

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Christensen, Larry, Kent and Richie, formerly of Redwood Falls, Minn., are now making their home at 215 S. Walnut.

Mrs. Christensen and the boys moved to New Hampton last Tuesday. Christensen has been here since May when he purchased the Culligan Soft Water Service.

Mrs. Christensen is the former Marilee Tiernan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Tiernan.

Five New Hampton women bowlers split some $400 in prize money they received for their exploits at the State Bowling Tournament in Cedar Rapids last spring. The New Hampton quintette, bowling as Dan's Maindiner No. 1, placed third in the Class C team event and also fared exceptionally well in competition in the individual events.

The Dan's Maindiner Club consisted of Dixie Steffes, Rosemary Huffman, Mary Lou Knight, Sharon Sweitzer and Rita Roberson.

1998 (25 years ago)

With the recent purchase of new state-of-the-art computers, scanners, color monitors and digital cameras, the New Hampton Tribune will be more colorful from now on. Full color pictures and advertising will now be carried each week. Dan Feuling,

Publisher of the parent company, New Hampton Publishing Company, said the combination of the new equipment and three of the best computer designers in the industry, gives them the ability to create editorial and commercial designs that could only be dreamed about several years ago. The New Hampton Shopper will be renamed the "Impact Advertiser."

The New Hampton varsity baseball team really uncorked a flurry of hits in back-to-back wins. The Chickasaw slingers had twenty-three total hits in a 14-9 victory over Independence in a home game, and followed that with fourteen total hits in a 15-8 victory at Clear Lake the following night.

That's thirty-seven base hits in two nights, and it's hard to say if that has ever happened in NHHS baseball history. It's certainly something that hasn't been seen in the past few decades.

2013 (10 years ago)

The New Hampton girls softball team is heading to the state softball tournament in Fort Dodge. The Chickasaws beat 10th-ranked Cresco 14-3 in the regional semifinal game on Friday night. New Hampton finished with 15 hits. Raelyn Webster had two home runs and Jackie Whitman had one for the winners.

On Monday, the Chickasaws beat Iowa Falls-Alden 3-1 in the regional title game. New Hampton, winner of 17 of its last 19 games, will take a 27-9 record to the state tournament. A freshman led the way to Fort Dodge as Jess Crooks tossed a four-hitter from the pitcher's circle and smacked two home runs that accounted for all three Chickasaw runs. New Hampton will face third-ranked Mid-Prairie in a first round game on Tuesday.

Athletes gathered in Mikkelsen Park for the fourth annual Expand Your Horizons Triathlon on Saturday, July 13. There were 68 participants for the 3.1 mile run, 13-mile bike ride and 300-yard swim. Despite the rainy weather during the final leg of the triathlon, attendance remained steady. A lightning warning did close the pool for a few of the finishing runners and delayed the kids' Splash and Dash, but the athletes safety was of the utmost concern.

The Expand Your Horizons 5K run-walk was held Saturday morning. Nick Heying broke the 20-minute mark on his way to winning the event. Amy Reicks was the winner of the female division.

2018 (5 years ago)

Rachel Grober, a 2018 New Hampton High School graduate, was crowned queen at the National Guernsey Convention held in Dubuque the week of July 4. As the national queen, Grober will travel the country for the next year to represent and advocate for the American Guernsey Association. Grober now holds two crowns. She was named Iowa's dairy princess and her reign for that piece of royalty runs through Aug. 31.

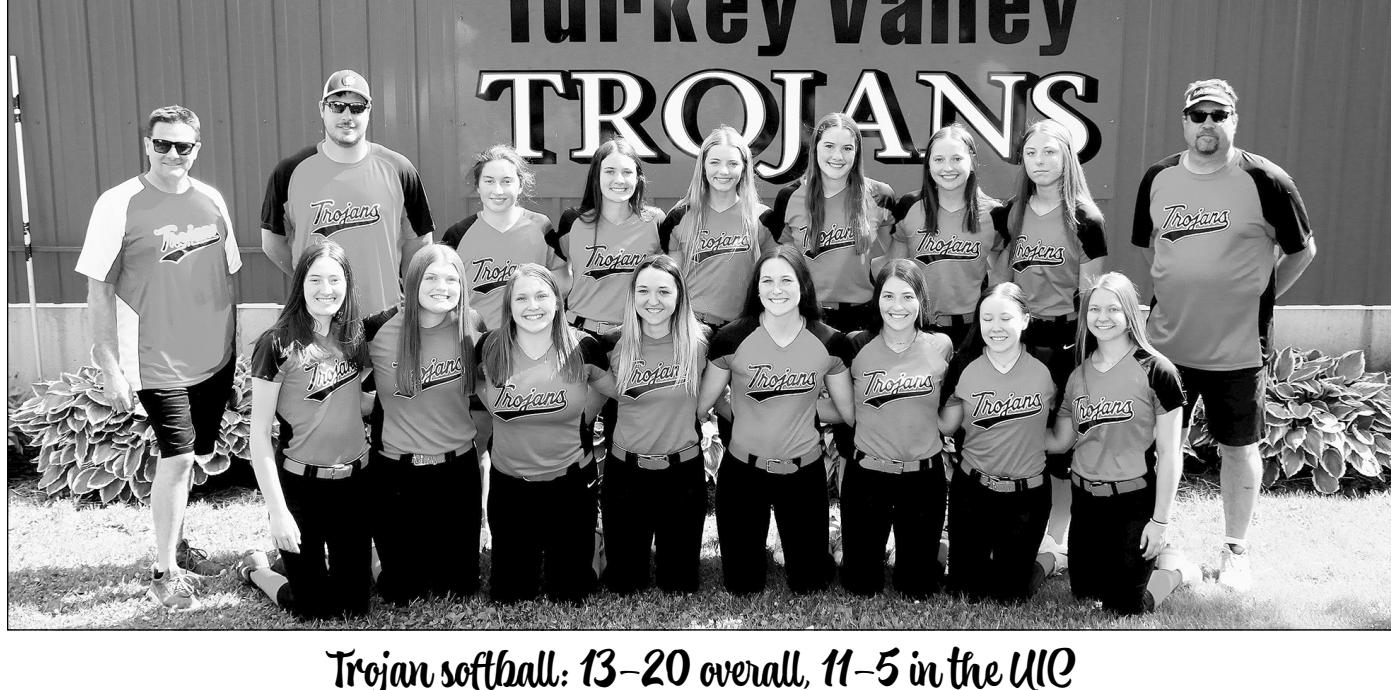

The New Hampton Parks and Recreation is ready to celebrate. The New Hampton Municipal Pool will have its "grand opening" to mark the completion of a $725,000 renovation project that has pumped new life into the old pool. The event will include free swimming, a ribbon cutting and a free meal consisting of a hot dog, chips, drink and cookies.

Show's a blast from the past for celebrities

CELEBRITIES: FROM 1

Neither of those famous thespians were in attendance at the Big 4 Fairgrounds on Friday afternoon during the Chickasaw County 4-H and FFA Achievement Show.

But "Beth" was.

Tyler Krug – the judge that picked winners of the Celebrity Beef Show – quizzed Goddard about the name of her entrant in the field.

"Beth" was one of 16 heifers – along with their handlers – that helped raise funds to keep county achievements shows like this one in the state thriving.

Goddard's response to Krug's query was to playfully plead the Fifth.

"I said the heifer's name was Beth Dutton. He asked what Beth Dutton likes to do in her free time and I utilized the right to remain silent," smiled Goddard.

It's those witty back-and-forth moments that highlighted the celebrity beef show. Those light-hearted moments also provided spectators in attendance a few laughs as well as showcased some pretty prime, Grade A beef that entered the show arena.

Think ribeye, sirloin or filet mignon – medium rare, of course.

"It's more for the crowd. It's fun just to make it comical a little bit," said Megan Bierschenk, who advanced to the finals of the celebrity show with her heifer named "Blackstone" – named after one of the best-selling outdoor cooking grills on the market.

All entrants were sponsored for $100 by businesses or organizations like Chickasaw County Youth Development, Bank Iowa, Little Wapsie Legends or the Fredericksburg Futures – to name a few.

This year's celebrity show was beef. In prior years it's been swine, sheep or horses. This was the fifth year the celebrity show has taken place. Last year's proceeds from the sheep showmanship competition bought valuable equipment for 4-H and FFA members to utilize.

"The sheep one was awesome last year," said Bierschenk, who along with her husband, T.J., helps run Bierschenk Club Lambs. She's an N-P grad and is currently a grain merchandiser manager for POET – a bioprocessing plant in Shell Rock.

There was $2,300 raised last year courtesy of the celebrity show and that bought a new scale for the sheep and pigs to be weighed on this summer.

"It's a good fundraiser for the 4H program," said Jada Goddard, a Sumner-Fredericksburg High School grad, who also advanced to the final round with her show heifer – of which there were nine finalists.

Megan, Jada and another celebrity handler – Mary Wards – all grew up together showing animals in FFA and 4-H. Those aforementioned supporters of those agriculture organizations, which help instill many positive attributes in youth growing up, all graduated high school in 2009.

"We have a lot of youth, but you don't have to be a farm kid to be involved in this," said Jada Goddard. "We have some of the best producers in the world that are willing to help city kids out. This is all for the kids."

The achievement livestock shows often pit familiar faces and families against one another to see who can reel in the most blue or purple ribbons.

"We used to show here. Now all our kids are showing here," said Megan Bierschenk.

The winner of the celebrity show this year was its elder statesman – Garth Griffin, aka "Garth Brooks." The judge gave him that name, by the way. His heifer – "Top Gun" – bested the other 15 cattle vying for first-place honors. Griffin owns and operates Griffin Red Angus Farm in New Hampton and raised "Top Gun."

"I told Will Maurer, three guys and all these girls – it's just a funeral. The girls were our pall bearers," said Griffin jokingly about alluding to the fact that he was older than all of the celebrity handlers.

Griffin was gracious in accepting the judge's decision – which selected his cow as top heifer.

"It was definitely my skills," he laughed. "It was a thrill and an honor."

The celebrity show's runner-up – Craig Kolthoff with his heifer "Phyllis" – offered another take on getting older and still being involved in shows like this one so future generations can benefit from the rewards of grooming and taking care of livestock.

"He's just "seasoned," said Kolthoff, a 2003 New Hampton High School grad who works at P&K Midwest, a John Deere dealership in nearby Sumner.

Kolthoff also cut to the chase when it comes to how the Big 4 Fair Board is attempting to expand the structures on site to house the animals. The goal is to keep the fair's buildings modern and up to date so it can handle all the livestock that make its way to the fairgrounds every year.

"The fair board has been very proactive to where it's not letting this fairgrounds go," said Kolthoff. "We show quite a bit and we've been to plenty of fairgrounds that you can tell when there's a fair board that gets after it. That is building buildings, that is fundraising and is giving back to their communities. When you give back to the community, the community gives to them."

To give you an idea as to the participation numbers for Chickasaw County and its FFA and 4-H programs – they're running out of room according to Megan Bierschenk.

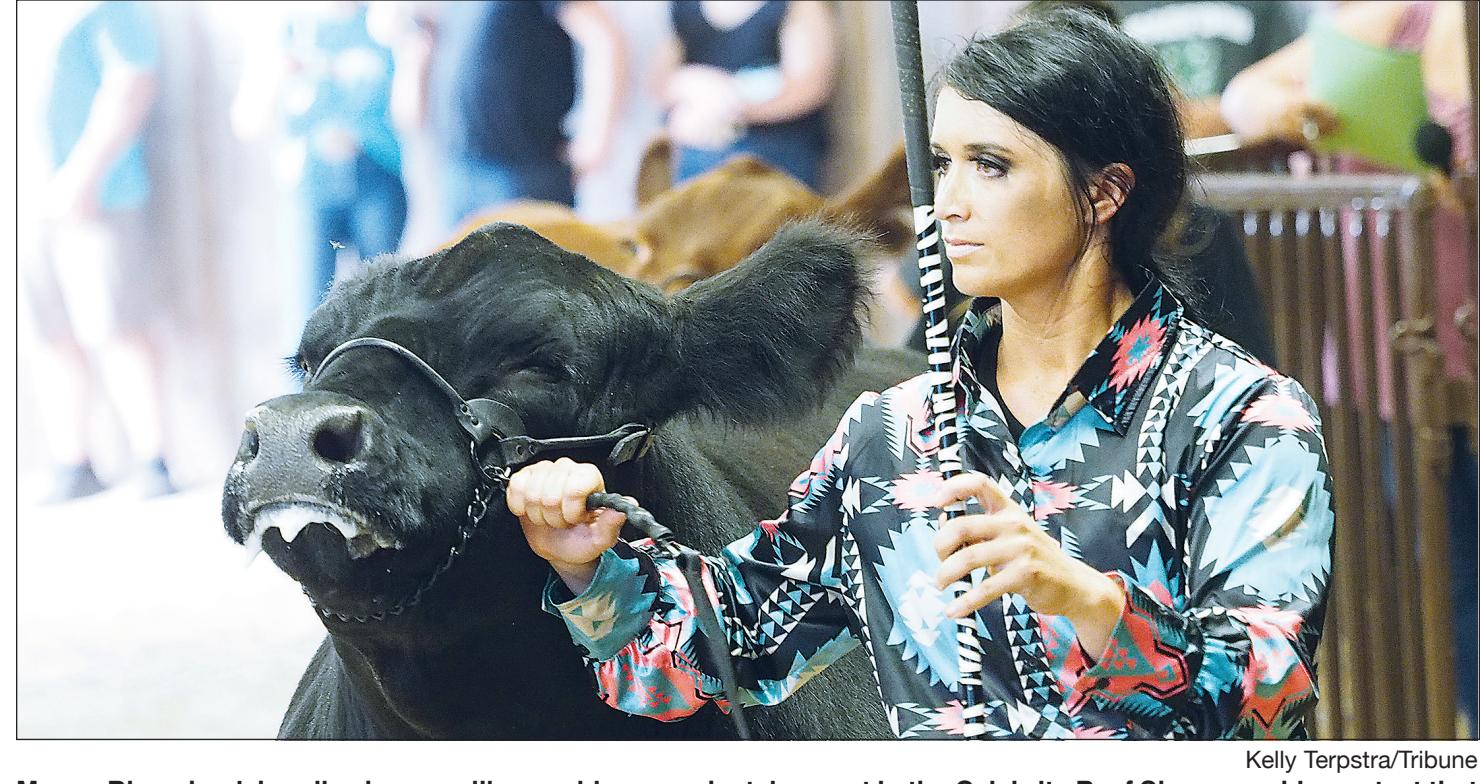

"This barn is so full, we can't fit any more pens in here. We're at max capacity," said Bierschenk.

That's why the fair board and others have hatched a five-year plan to build two new buildings on the property owned by the county. That proposed idea would build a brand new 4,800 square foot open-air show ring and a 12,000 square foot beef barn.

"The fair board has to be

Garth Griffin talks with Celebrity Beef Showmanship judge Tyler Klug during the show held last week at the Big Four Fairgrounds in Nashua.

Kelly Terpstra/Tribune

commended on where they've gone with this. There was a point in time where they could easily just say, you know what, use the buildings we got and it will be what it will be," said Kolthoff. "There was a handful of them that just absolutely refused to allow that to happen."

Kolthoff said he grew up at this county fair. He mentioned the numbers as far as participation are concerned have gotten bigger every year – whether that's at the achievement shows in the summer or the actual fair in the fall.

"Getting to show at this one was kind of fun," said Kolthoff. "The kids thought I needed to."

While participation numbers might be dwindling at other county fairgrounds across the state, Chickasaw County remains strong.

"I think we're lucky here in this area, it's really growing and it's become stronger," said Griffin. "It's generation after generation. We're still against you and you're still against me. It's a friendly competition."

Asked for the meaning behind Kolthoff's heifer name – "Phyllis" – and he said that it's her registered name. He then added this well-intentioned barb to finish off his sentence.

"Her barn name is something else, but you probably shouldn't put that in any paper," laughed Kolthoff.

The proposed pipeline route traverses within Chickasaw County public road rights-of-way and private property owned by Homeland Energy Solutions. The proposed pipeline includes approximately 2.5 miles of 4-inch diameter steel pipeline and approximately 1 mile of 6-inch diameter steel pipeline. The project begins at a proposed interconnect station with an existing Alliance Pipeline which is located on the south side of 205th Street in the Southwest Quarter, Section 10, Township 95N, Range 12W.

The world's just not going to be the same without Pat Ipsen

I remember it like it was yesterday even though the first meeting between Pat Ipsen and myself took place more than 13 1/2 years ago.

I had been the editor of the New Hampton Tribune for all of one day when Pat came into the newspaper office, glanced to her right, spied me at my desk and said, "Welcome aboard, young man."

It was Dec. 9, 2009, and little did I know, a friendship that I will cherish for a lifetime was born.

Pat Ipsen, the longtime director of the New Hampton Public Library who had a heart of gold and a mischievous sense of humor that had impeccable timing, passed away on Sunday.

And I — along with I'm sure many others — wept.

She was one of the first "New Hamptonites" I met, although truth be told it was Noah who actually made Pat's acquaintance first.

Dec. 9, 2009, was a Tuesday, and the day before, after I picked Josh and Noah up from their first day of school at New Hampton Elementary and dropped them off at home, my youngest — with no homework to do — walked the few blocks up to the library to, as he put it back then, "check it out."

How was it? "They have a really cool librarian," Noah said. "She's really short, but she's really cool. I talked to her for a long time."

When Pat came into the Tribune, she mentioned that she had met Noah.

"Boy, he can talk," she said with a laugh. "Did he get that from you?"

A few years later, I finished an interview with Pat — one that took about two hours because we got off the subject a time or two or three — and she laughed.

"Remember that first time I met you and I asked you if Noah got his gift of gab from you," she asked. "He does."

Then again, she, too, had the gift of gab, which made trips to the library so much fun for both me and my boys. If it interested us, it interested her, and that is a gift — one so few of us in this hectic world have been bestowed.

I have so many memories I want to share with Pat.

There's the day she talked me into trying to use chopsticks as part of a library promotion. When I got done, I needed to change shirts and she gave me that quick smile that told me a punchline was coming. "Yeah, I think you might want to stick with a fork."

There was the day that the bond referendum for an addition to the library failed. I saw the feisty side of Pat that day, and I reminded her that she still had a wonderful facility and a lot of people who couldn't imagine life without her and the library she led.

There were the meals at her house — sometimes with just Bill and Pat; sometimes with their wonderful group of friends — that always left my stomach in knots. Oh, the food was great — anyone who hasn't had Bill's bread has missed out — but not only was I stuffed but also I had laughed so hard that I literally had a stomach ache.

Over the years, we had our share of serious talks. Pat was an unabashed liberal, and we talked politics a lot, but we also dealt with even more serious issues. She helped me through my depression by sharing stories of hers, and as a friend, I was so proud of her willingness to step up and share her saga with people.

There was also the day in 2018 when she called me and asked me to stop at the house.

"Bill made bread," she said to make sure I immediately made the trek down Kenwood, and when I got there, we not only broke bread but they told me that they wanted to help Josh through his first year of college.

"We're not going to take no for an answer," she said. "We're going to buy his books and supplies this first year."

I hemmed, hawed, stammered, saying things like "that's a lot of money" and "we can't have you do that."

"Bob, may I remind you of what I first said," Pat said. "No is not an option."

It made a huge difference; then again, the Ipsens always did make a difference — in the lives of so many people.

The following year, Noah was in California for Christmas, and the Ipsens called again.

"Come to our house for Christmas dinner," Pat said. "We're just having a few friends over. It'll be nice."

Josh wasn't so sure — he knew Pat and Bill, was very appreciative of what they had done for him but "I don't know anyone else." I talked him into it; of course, the clincher was the "Bill's-making-bread" line, but I digress.

Three hours after arriving at Ipsens, I had to tell Josh that "we should be going soon." Honest to God, he'd still be there, but I could see that Pat and Bill were running on fumes.

When we got into the car, Josh gave me a quick smile. "Best Christmas dinner ever," he said, "and the food was good, too."

Yes, the conversation was that good. We laughed until we cried, and maybe that's the memory I will cherish the most when it came to Pat Ipsen.

She had a wonderful ability to connect with anyone — from library patrons to Rotary Club members to lifelong friends to total strangers.

It didn't matter if they were 9 or 90, she had that gift, and the world just won't be the same without this spunky, amazing woman.

Chickasaws sported the top three ERAs in the league.

"In three years of varsity baseball, he has only been injury-free for one summer, so we are looking forward to a completely healthy Braden McShane for an exciting senior season of baseball," McDonald said.

McShane earned four saves in 12 appearances. He worked his way to a 4-2 mark in 27 innings and fanned 34 hitters.

"If we kept a school record for saves, I am confident that Braden broke that record this season. In all my years as a coach in the NEIC, I can only remember one other time that the coaches voted a reliever as one of the four all-conference pitchers, which speaks to how dominating Braden was just in that limited role due to his season-long injury," said McDonald.

McShane batted .294 in just 34 at-bats. He hit a pinch-hit homer versus Waukon and collected 10 hits. He scored 12 runs.

Bohaty is one of the best catchers in his class and in the conference. Bohaty's .984 fielding percentage was fourth-best in the NEIC. He threw out 12 runners on the basepaths — second only to Waukon's Carter Schellsmidt's 21. He was first in the NEIC in total chances in the field (250) and putouts (224).

Bohaty's bat was steady as he ripped five doubles, came up with 26 hits and knocked in a solid 27 runs. He averaged .263 at the plate and was one of the leaders in hit-by-pitches in the NEIC with 10. Meyers was second in the league in HBP at the plate with 13 — tied with Gilbert.

lead in that category had she had more opportunities at the plate with additional at-bats? Randall led the state with 21 blasts cranked over the outfield fence.

Hofmeister sure thinks so. "You add another 15, 20 games — she's probably getting 20 or more home runs," said Hofmeister.

Randall and her Panthers (24-11, 17-3), which play in the Hawkeye Ten in southwest Iowa, won that league and played 35 games this summer.

Heeren was first in the league in slugging percentage (.952) and second in the NEIC in total bases (59). She also sported a .500 on-base-percentage, which was fifth-best in the conference. Heeren led the Chickasaws with a .387 batting clip and amassed a team-leading 22 RBI to go along with her 24 hits.

Heeren's defense helped save runs for New Hampton with a .922 fielding percentage. That included just four errors in the field in 51 total chances. She also was successful inside the pitcher's circle as she went 3-3 with a 1.04 ERA in 33.2 innings pitched.

"Defensively, I wasn't worried about that. She's always been a good fielder for us. Pitching — she really helped us out a lot this year," said Hofmeister.

She was also a positive presence in the dugout for the Chickasaws.

"Last year she was pretty quiet. Going into the season I told her I definitely needed her to be more of a vocal leader," said Hofmeister. "She definitely stepped up to the plate and did that. She knew when to be positive with the girls and then she also understood when she needed to be stern and firm with the girls saying that we gotta get going."

For seniors Kandice Eggerichs and Elaina Rosonke, it was a season to remember for the inseparable pair.

"They're best friends, for sure," said Hofmeister.

home plate twice after coming up with home runs. She batted .256 and accumulated 20 hits. She scored 16 runs and knocked in eight at the dish.

Despite nine errors, which came out to .769 fielding percentage, Rosonke made plays in right field — often in dramatic fashion. Rosonke's final game — a 9-0 loss to Sumner-Fredericksburg-Tripoli in the Class 3A regional opener — saw her do just that. She also came up with several critical catches and terrific defensive plays down the stretch for the Chickasaws.

"Sometimes when you look at stats, it's kind of deceiving. I don't think it always tells the whole story about a player," said Hofmeister. "She made phenomenal plays throughout the whole season."

One shining example of Rosonke's commitment to the team came in the form of her sacrificing her overall offensive production in order to benefit the Chickasaws in certain situations.

"Elaina did whatever I needed her to do this year," said Hofmeister. "I remember going into that Sumner game and the focus was try to play small ball as much as we could. Before the game, she came up to me and said, 'if you ever need me to bunt throughout the game, just give me the sign and I'll go ahead and do it for the team.' That right there just kind of describes the kind of person and the athlete Elaina is. She's willing to do anything for the team, regardless of what it is."

awarded for their fine seasons with second-team All-NEIC recognition.

The bond between New Hampton's only seniors on its roster was strong and that also helped everyone's production out on the diamond.

"I've been very blessed to have great seniors," said Hofmeister, in his second year as NH head coach. "It's great to have and it also lets those juniors know that they gotta step up and do the same thing next year when they're seniors."

Eggerichs blasted four home runs and slugged (.595) — both key power stats ranked her third in the NEIC. She also batted .333 and led the team in hits (28) and tied with Heeren for most runs scored on the team with 19. Eggerichs tied with eighth-grader Caycee Crawford with a team-leading eight doubles. She plated 16 runs with her potent bat.

One key stat that sometimes is overlooked is the amount of times a batter doesn't strikeout. Eggerichs only fanned 11 times in 84 at-bats. That's the same amount of times Heeren struck out, but in 22 less at-bats.

"She's putting the ball in play or getting on base with a walk. She had a tremendous year," said Hofmeister. "She's very deserving of second-team all-conference. I thought she possibly could have got first team, but first team this year for conference, it was just stacked."

Eggerichs was also a reliable glove at second base, as evident by her .914 fielding percentage. She was charged with eight errors on the season in 93 total chances.

New Hampton's Gannon Shekleton delivers a pitch to the plate during a non-conference game against Wapsie Valley late in the season.

Quintet of Chickasaws named all-NEIC

Shekleton, Meyers, Eckley named to all-conference first team while McShane, Bohaty tabbed by coaches for second team

If there were headliners this season in the Northeast Iowa Conference – it starts with New Hampton's Kael Meyers and Gannon Shekleton.

Those two Chickasaw standouts out on the baseball diamond this summer flexed their muscles in a big way in 2023.

So did sophomore Jaxon Eckley – who like Meyers and Shekleton – was chosen by NEIC coaches as one of the best players the league has to offer.

Braden McShane and Talyn Bohaty also strengthened their bold resumes with powerful contributions as well for New Hampton head coach Cory McDonald's Chickasaws and received all-league recognition.

Meyers and Shekleton – who played to an all-state level this summer – were awarded for their fine seasons with first team all-league distinction as the NEIC handed out all-conference status recently. Eckley joined them as well on the first team.

McShane and Bohaty – both juniors – earned second squad All-NEIC honors.

This was the first time Shekleton, Eckley and Bohaty were selected by NEIC coaches as all-league performers. Meyers and McShane were tabbed on the first team all-conference squad last year as sophomores.

Shekleton, a senior, did not lose a game on the mound as he worked his way to an 8-0 record and a sparkling 1.31 ERA. The bona-fide ace of McDonald's staff was one of only three pitchers in Class 2A with a least eight wins to go undefeated.

"That's extraordinary," said McDonald, who has coached New Hampton for 15 seasons.

Shekleton became the first Chickasaw ever to earn at least eight wins on the mound without a blemish.

"Gannon is one of many great success stories of this outstanding baseball team full of over-achievers. Gannon has always had nasty stuff, but he struggled with control," said McDonald. "But for his senior season, Gannon was able to put it all together and had one of the best seasons of any Chickasaw baseball pitcher in school history."

Shekleton walked 37 batters in over 24 innings toiled on the hill as a junior. He limited those free passes to just 20 in 53.1 innings of work his final season as a Chickasaw.

"Gannon is a positive example to any younger Chickasaw pitchers who struggle with control – stick with it, like Gannon stuck with it," said McDonald.

Shekleton was productive at the plate as well.

He collected 24 hits and hit .250 for the year with 27 RBI and 21 runs scored.

Meyers is flat-out one of the state's best hitters and is now also a New Hampton record holder.

Meyers, who bats left-handed in the leadoff spot for the Chickasaws, broke the school record with his on-base-percentage of .617. That old NH OBP mark was held by Tanner Weigel and set 14 years ago in 2009.

"That's awesome," said McDonald.

Meyers' OBP was fifth-best in Class 2A and led the NEIC.

Meyers was at the top of the leaderboard or in at least the top three of a plethora of important statistical offensive categories in the NEIC. He led the Chickasaws in runs (41), hits (40), doubles (10), home runs (3) and RBI (29). He also walked 26 times, also first on the team. He stole 24 bases in 25 tries.

Bear in mind, Meyers' impact more than likely would have been even more far-reaching had he not torn a ligament in his elbow in the first week of the season and was lost for the year as a pitcher.

Meyers was also an elite fielder at first base – evident by his .981 fielding percentage (just three errors in 158 total chances).

"In what started as his worst nightmare with a torn UCL while pitching in the conference opener, Kael showed remarkable maturity by physically and mentally adjusting on the fly with a switch to first base and then proceeding to put together one of the best offensive seasons by any Chickasaw baseball player in school history," remarked McDonald.

Meyers' transformation into one of the state's top players didn't happen overnight. McDonald was beyond impressed by his award-winning work ethic that allowed him to put in a superb season at the plate and in the field.

"From sheer hard work, Kael has developed into one of the best pure hitters that I have ever coached in my 27 years. No one devoted more time and effort into this baseball season than Kael, so he is getting everything that he worked so hard for. We are excited for Kael to recover from Tommy John surgery and be a team leader in 2024," said McDonald.

Eckley, batting in the two-hole for McDonald, was another great table-setter for the Chickasaws. He batted .313, sported a .515 on-base-percentage and scored 29 runs – tied with teammate Ben Gilbert. Eckley was 17-19 in stolen base attempts and proved his worth as well on the hill.

Eckley amassed the second-best ERA in the NEIC with a 1.40 percentage. He was 4-1 in 40 innings of work and struck out 47.

The sophomore third baseman could also pick it. He committed just four errors in 71 total chances – good for a .944 fielding clip.

"Jaxon is a tremendous baseball player in all facets of the game and this was his breakout season with coaches in Northeast Iowa taking note. Only a sophomore, Jaxon's best is still yet to come," McDonald added.

McShane overcame injuries during the year to have one of the better seasons for New Hampton in the pitching department as junior. His ERA was 1.56 – third-best in NEIC hierarchy. That meant the

The softballs just kept leaving the yard and there was nothing opposing pitchers could do about it – except tip their cap. New Hampton junior Jenna Heeren elevated her game in 2023 – which included a home run hitting tear through the middle to latter portion of the regular season for Tate Hofmeister's Chickasaws.

That's one of the reasons Heeren was named to the first team All-NEIC softball squad.

Heeren – who possesses one of the most explosive bats and strongest arms in Class 3A at shortstop – played to second-team all-league recognition as a freshman and sophomore.

This summer, Heeren's bat caught fire and stayed hot through most of the regular season.

After smashing five home runs a season ago, Heeren doubled that total and entered double-digit dinger territory with 10.

She was tied for seventh in Class 3A with those round-trippers and led the NEIC in that category.

"When you have somebody that can hit home runs, not only that, but she was also able to get extra-base hits. Anytime you can do that you're definitely confident when she's up to the plate if somebody's on base to score that person. She improved tremendously. She was good last year, but she definitely stepped up a notch this year, compared to last year," said Hofmeister.

The question is what would have happened to Heeren's offensive power numbers had her team increased its number of games played?

New Hampton went 11-14 overall in 25 games this year. The Chickasaws played to a 5-10 league mark.

A large portion of teams, regardless of class, play upwards of 40 games in a softball season.

Sure it's a hypothetical scenario, but could have Heeren challenged Creston senior Nevaeh Randall for the state title.
