LOST vote key to city's budget

New Hampton asking voters to approve using fund for ambulance expenses

By BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

When New Hampton voters head to the polls in November, they'll have a slew of candidates to choose from, but they will also answer a question that could have serious ramifications for both city services and employees.

Voters in the city will be asked if they will agree to allow the city to use local-option sales tax (LOST) dollars to fund ambulance service expenses, and if voters don't agree, city leaders say the city's ambulance funding will have to come out of its $1.924 million general fund.

And because the city agreed to pay $362,000 a year to join the new county-owned ambulance service, that would mean the rest of the city's budget would have to be reduced by 18 percent.

"It would be very, very hard on our general fund," City Clerk Karen Clemens said. "It would affect everyone — police, fire, parks and rec, library, the city clerk's office, every single city department would feel it."

Those pushing for the ballot measure say that if it fails, the city would in all likelihood have to cut staff and services and that even vital city services would be negatively impacted.

To educate voters, a committee of four residents, including Mayor Bobby Schwickerath, will hold three community meetings in coming weeks to help voters understand why the ballot measure is needed.

Those meetings will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 5; Thursday, Oct.

20; and Wednesday, Nov. 2, at the New Hampton Community Center, and all three will run from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Hall of Fame will induct a trio Friday

Zwanziger, Webster, Speltz to be honored before homecoming tilt

By BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

New Hampton High School's Athletic Hall of Fame will welcome three new members before the Chickasaws' football team plays its annual homecoming game this Friday.

Those being inducted include Mark Speltz, a state championship wrestler and stand-out football player; Raelyn Webster (Webster) Rouner, a standout four-sport star in the early 2010s; and Alec Zwanziger, an all-state baseball player.

Each year the Chickasaw Booster Club coordinates the Athletic Hall of Fame induction ceremony for the New Hampton Community School District.

The Hall of Fame was initiated in 1995 and, with the addition of the Class of 2022, the hall will have 129 members.

Individuals may be inducted for their success as an athlete, coach or in the area of service as a patron and supporter of the New Hampton athletic programs.

The 2022 Hall of Fame inductees who will be honored Friday night include:

Supervisors make some EMS progress

Board hires medical director, moves ahead with plans to officially create department

By BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

In a Monday morning meeting where the Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors discussed the county's new ambulance at length, county leaders spent the bulk of time discussing the possible purchase of used equipment from the owner of the current ambulance service.

In the end, they said no — at least figuratively — but supervisors did move forward on two decisions — hiring a pair of medical directors for what will be called Chickasaw County EMS and also moving ahead with setting up an EMS department.

Start with the medical directors for the service that is scheduled to begin operation on Jan. 1 and will provide service not only to rural residents in the county but also to the cities of New Hampton, Bassett, Fredericksburg, Ionia, Lawler and North Washington.

Board members unanimously voted to appoint Dr. Lucas Brinkman of Fredericksburg as the medical director and Dr. Jack Kline of New Hampton as the deputy medical director. Both will be unpaid positions.

"Both are willing to do it," said Chickasaw County EMS Advisory Council member Bridget Edson, "and to us, it's a positive to have two."

Board members also voted 5-0 to hold a public hearing on Sept. 26 to offer residents to comment on the ordinance that would allow the county to start a "department to provide

County will not share ARPA funds with cities

Supervisors vote 3-2 to reject giving Nashua and Alta Vista $100,000 apiece for ambulance

By BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

Neither Nashua nor Alta Vista will receive any money from Chickasaw County's American Rescue Plan Act funds, thanks to a 3-2 vote during Monday's Board of Supervisors meeting.

Supervisor Jake Hackman pushed for giving some of the county's ARPA funds to the two cities that decided against joining the new county-owned ambulance service.

"I believe it should be used for the betterment of all county citizens," Hackman said. "To me, it's the right thing to do."

The question of sharing some of the county's $2.3 million in ARPA funds was brought up by Board of Supervisors candidate Scott Cerwinski during a meeting last week. Cerwinski is the lone candidate on the ballot for the District 2 seat, which includes the city of Nashua.

The county will receive $2.318 million in ARPA funding, and it has committed only about $200,000 to various projects, which means it has a little more than $2.2 million to spend. Much of that, supervisors have indicated, will be used for start-up costs for the county-owned ambulance service.

"My thought is those cities had the option of going in on this," Board Chairman Matt Kuhn said, "and they chose not to. If we spent $2.3 million on secondary roads equipment, hypothetically would the cities still receive money because we're going to use that money on secondary roads?"

Infrastructure will get the remainder of LOST funds

“I want to emphasize that not a dime of city money is going into this,” Clemens said, “but as a group, we want to make sure people understand what happens if it passes and what happens if it doesn’t.”

The city receives about $500,000 a year in LOST revenue, and currently, all that money is used for infrastructure — water, sewer, storm sewer and roads — but if voters approve the measure on Nov. 8, the city will use LOST to pay for ambulance service, with the balance being used for infrastructure.

Smoky moon!

Dorothy Huber/Tribune

The Tribune’s Dorothy Huber caught this photo last week of an almost full moon slightly obscured by smoke that is the result of wildfires burning in the western United States, but the good news is the 1.23 inches of rain that fell in the New Hampton area this past weekend helped “clean out” our air.

Hall of Fame to welcome three new members

the Class 2A 145-pound state championship, he could have sworn he was in New Hampton and not inside Veterans Auditorium in Des Moines.

“The sheer number of New Hampton fans on the matside section,” Speltz said, “made it feel like it could have been a home dual meet.”

Speltz not only had an outstanding prep career in wrestling — winning a pair of sectional and district titles and claiming a NEIC crown, in addition to his state title — he was an outstanding all-around athlete.

He was a first-team all-NEIC football player who was the Chickasaws’ MVP in 1988 and an all-state honorable mention selection a year later.

Today, Speltz, who wrestled and graduated from Iowa State University, is the bureau chief of the Iowa Department of Inspections and Appeals, Food and Consumer Safety Bureau.

He and his wife, Beth, have two sons — Jake and Ethan — as well as a daughter-in-law, Emily Dux Speltz.

Speltz thanked his coaches, teammates and the entire New Hampton Community for his success, and said he appreciates the support of his wife and two sons.

“Jake and Ethan ... furthered my love of wrestling by allowing me to teach and coach them and become their biggest fan.”

Raelyn (Webster) Rouner

There are few female athletes in New Hampton with a resume quite like Raelyn

Webster, a 2013 graduate who earned 15 letters while competing in softball, basketball, track and cross country for the Chickasaws.

She was an all-state softball player her senior year and was named to the all-NEIC team three times. In basketball, she earned all-conference honors three times. On the track, she helped the Chickasaws to two state meet medal-winning relay runs, and in cross country, she was a two-time all-NEIC finisher.

And she was a star in the classroom as well — earning academic all-state honors in three different sports.

Ask her about her favorite memory, though, and it’s the final season she wore the red and black for New Hampton.

“The 2013 softball season was my final sports season, but it also included one of the most selfless team atmospheres and the on-field results reflected that.”

Did they ever.

The Chickasaws caught fire midway through the season, winning 17 straight games, including an upset of Mid-Prairie in the first round of the Class 3A state tournament, where New Hampton finished fourth.

“We had so much fun playing that season,” she said, “and I took away lessons on leadership and teamwork that I still lean on today.”

A graduate of the University of Iowa, today she is married to Cody Rouner and lives in the Twin Cities, where she works as a financial analyst at Land O’ Lakes.

Alec Zwanziger

Back in the summer of 2012, New Hampton baseball coach Cory McDonald was asked to describe Alec Zwanziger, the Chickasaws’ senior catcher.

“He just looks like a baseball player,” McDonald said. “He lives and breathes it, and I like to think I’m competitive, but Alec is the kind of kid who would run over his mother if it meant winning a game.”

A three-year starter for the Chickasaws, Zwanziger had one of the greatest senior seasons in New Hampton history — recording a .457 batting average and an on-base percentage of .598, while hitting 16 doubles, two triples and a home run. He also stole 23 bases and threw out 8 of the 16 runners that tried to steal a base against him.

Yet, ask him about his favorite memory as a Chickasaw and it comes several years later.

“Having the to chance to give back and coach for the Chickasaws alongside coach McDonald for three summers provided countless memories and relationships that I will cherish forever.”

After graduating from New Hampton, Zwanziger attended Coe College, where he played baseball and helped Coe to the Iowa Conference tournament title in 2015.

It was at Coe where he met Mallory McArtor, a standout softball player for the Kohawks, and today, the couple lives in Decorah, where Alec works full-time for the Iowa Army National Guard, and the couple is raising their 2-year-old son, Crue.

A nice night to check out some classics!

Three New Hampton businesses — Josie’s, the Blue Iris and Butch’s — held their latest Classic Car Night last Thursday, and as dusk approaches, plenty of residents are still out on the street not only checking out some great cars but also enjoying catching up with friends.

The journey worth it for rally attendees

Those who come to New Hampton like family-friendly aspect of the annual event

By DOROTHY HUBER
dorhubernews@gmail.com

There's a saying: It's not the destination, it's the journey.

But Karen Swanberg kind of enjoyed both while traveling to the New Hampton Motorcycle Rally this past weekend. From northern Wisconsin, Swanberg has been making the trip to what was originally the Davis Rally since 1984. Sporting a Sturgis t-shirt, she laughed about the differences between the two venues.

"This is more family-friendly, way less drinking. I like the destination, but I like the ride too."

The forecast of rain for the weekend may have kept some of the bikers from coming, though Stacy Trower thought the small number of people in the park on Friday may have been deceiving.

"A lot of them are doing a run, right now we have an organized ride to the Veteran's Memorial and Freedom Rocks in the area," she said, "and some of them are just out for a ride on their own."

Trower and Lacy Carolan were manning the information booth — a trailer provided by Grant Anderson — and the pair enjoyed talking to the bikers.

"We have one father-son couple over there," Carolan said, "the father was unable to drive anymore, so the son drives and the father rides along behind him. There's a couple that came all the way from Indiana..." "One from Canada," added Trower. "One guy went to the west coast and back for the rally," continued Carolan, "and it showed. The front of his motorcycle was plastered with bugs. But it's fun to visit with people."

"For the most part they remember you from year to year," said Trower. "People come because they just enjoy the town."

They make a lot of friends here. A lot of women riders are here, too."

Swanberg estimated her ride to get to New Hampton at 250 miles, riding her 1994 Yamaha Virago. Although some of the rigs at the park set their riders back some pretty pennies, she is of the frugal variety.

"I started with a smaller bike years ago to go to work and I upgraded, I bought this one new and have had it ever since. My husband used to ask me if I wanted a newer bike, but I was fine with this one. I asked him, 'have I ever not been able to keep up with you?'"

She came by herself — her tent packed on the back of her bike — but met up with friends when she got here.

"I enjoy tenting. My husband passed 19 years ago, but I'm so glad he pushed me to do this way back when."

Change is upon us!

Families can help each other by prioritizing everyone's mental health

New beginnings ... we all have them – sometimes more often than we want or need. Change can be stressful and cause people to be irritated and impatient but their reaction to change can depend on the type or reason for the change.

We all realize the COVID pandemic caused many disruptions in families, schools, and workplaces in the last couple years. The way we communicate, care for others, educate our children, and work have all changed resulting in a shift in behaviors, the economy, in medicine and so many others.

Even though the variant viruses continue to be present and cause disruptions, there are many people trying to get back to a normalcy of life ... or create and initiate a new normal – some using guidelines and protective gear.

As children head back to school, many parents and teachers are encouraging students to “get back to basics” – especially those who spent time (or were supposed to be) with long distance learning.

Some students have fallen behind in the learning curve for their grade level. Whether students are studying for tests or catching up on missed assignments, students need encouragement and motivation.

It has been interesting to watch the younger children who don't remember the time before COVID and think nothing of seeing people walking around with face coverings.

Still, they need the reminder to look inside themselves for their own creativity, resilience, and strength to allow them to problem solve unexpected issues that they may encounter. Parents and teachers can empower kids to face situations and conceive solutions.

Adjusting to new schedules including getting up earlier, being on a time schedule, meeting new friends and teachers, and the challenges of a new grade can be daunting and demanding.

As summer has come to a close and children are back in class, parents and teachers work together to help motivate and maintain excitement for the year. Some students are influenced by inspirational quotes or passages to help get them into the spirit of trying new things or experiences – these can be included in a lunch box or school bag.

Families can help each other by committing to prioritize everyone's mental health. This can be done in a number of ways including encouraging a good night's sleep, staying active, and eating healthy meals. Small acts of family togetherness can be the anchor that helps kids deal with any uncertainties that they're facing.

Reminding people that uncertainty and indecision are to be expected during times of change. Talking about how one feels and being encouraged to be flexible and adaptive in the face of change will help them feel more resilient, confident, and at ease.

Look Closely
At Open Enrollment
Choices

Once again, it's the season for football games and back-to-school activities. And if you work for a medium-size or large employer, it will soon be open enrollment season – the time of year when you can review your employee benefits and make changes as needed. What areas should you focus on?

Actually, it's a good idea to pay close attention to all your benefits. Some of the offerings may have changed from last year – and you might have experienced changes in your own life, too, which might lead you to look for something different from your existing benefits package.

You may want to start with your health insurance. If you're satisfied with your coverage, and it's essentially the same as it's been, you may well want to stick with what you have. However, many employers are increasingly offering high-deductible health plans, which, as the name suggests, could entail more out-of-pocket costs for you. But high-deductible plans may also offer something of benefit: the ability to contribute to a health savings account (HSA). Your HSA contributions are made with pre-tax dollars, so they can reduce your taxable income for the year. Also, your earnings grow tax-free, and your withdrawals are tax-free, provided the money is used for qualified medical expenses. (Withdrawals taken before age 65 that aren't used for qualified medical expenses are taxable and subject to a 20% penalty; once you reach 65, the penalty no longer applies, although withdrawals are still taxable as income if not used for a qualified expense.)

Your next benefit to consider: Life insurance. Your employer may offer a group life insurance plan, but you'll want to evaluate whether it's sufficient for your needs, especially if you've experienced changes in your personal situation over the past year, such as getting married or adding a new child. There's no magic formula for how much life insurance you need – you'll need to consider a variety of factors, such as your income, family size, mortgage and so on – but it may be necessary to supplement your employer's coverage with a private policy.

Your employer may also offer disability insurance as a benefit. Some employers' disability policies are fairly limited, covering only short periods of time, so you may want to consider a private policy.

Beyond the various insurance policies your employer may offer, you'll also want to closely look at your 401(k) or similar retirement plan. Typically, you can make changes to your 401(k) throughout the year, but it's important to make sure your investment selections and contribution amounts are still aligned with your risk tolerance and goals. Also, are you contributing enough to earn your employer's match, if one is offered? And if you've already receiving the match, can you still afford to put in more to your plan if such a move makes sense for you? Your employee benefits package can be a valuable part of your overall financial strategy. So, as open enrollment season proceeds, take a close look at what you already have, what's being offered, and what changes you need to make. It will be time well spent.

Let's put it this way, Justin Schmitt had a pretty good Saturday; not only did his Iowa State football team win the big Cy-Hawk game but he got to have some pretty tasty food as a judge at the Best Dam BBQ.

Despite weather, it's still the 'Best Dam BBQ'

Big 4 Chamber of Commerce event faces challenges from Mother Nature, football

By Kelly Terpstra
sports@nhtrib.com

Corbin Johnson raised both hands on Saturday afternoon at Uncle G's Pavilion in Nashua.

Little did he know at the time – but with his sauced-covered fingers signifying how many chicken wings he had just consumed – he was a champion.

Johnson won the first-ever kid's wing-eating contest at the 6th Annual "Best Dam BBQ Challenge" put on by the Big 4 Chamber of Commerce on Saturday.

Johnson – a seventh-grader at Nashua-Plainfield Middle School – tied with sixth-grader Allison Miller of Nashua as they both finished six wings apiece. Johnson won the tiebreaker as judges claimed he consumed more meat off the bone-in wings than his female counterpart did.

Each thought the other had won, but Miller still was able to bring home an apron for second place. Johnson raised his hardware near the grandstands in admiration of his chicken-wing conquest.

Corbin Johnson lets everyone know he's just finished – at least almost finished – off his sixth wing during a wing-eating contest held at the Best Dam BBQ Saturday.

"I got the trophy," said Johnson, his answer to what was the funnest part of trying to consume as many wings in the two-minute allotted time.

Johnson's advice to wing lovers that may want to enter a competitive-eating contest? Don't choke.

"Make sure to swallow when you eat fast," smiled Corbin.

There was just a single entrant in the main wing-eating contest – which has been taking place since Nashua first started the barbecue challenge in 2017.

That was just part of the celebration that took place on the Big 4 Fairgrounds amidst an overcast sky and sporadic rain that came down throughout the morning and into the afternoon.

Of course there was the actual barbecue competition that brought nine teams to Nashua to see who would claim first place in categories like "everything bacon," chicken, wings and ribs.

Val Johnson, President of the Big 4 Chamber of Commerce and who also happens to be Corbin's mother, handed out prizes for grand champion and reserve champion.

The teams vying for the top prizes that helped the local fundraiser for Nashua came from as far away as Oskaloosa. Those barbecuers hailed from southeast Iowa and were named Smokin' Suckers. There were other competitive entrants that hailed from Nashua, Charles City, Mason City and even Des Moines.

The turnout – well, it wasn't as good as it's been in prior years. One has to remember the Iowa-Iowa State football game was also taking place the same time the challenge kicked into high gear.

The soggy and damp weather didn't rain on this Nashua barbecue "parade," though.

"It will have some effect. We are up against the Cy-Hawk game, too," said Val Johnson. "We do have it on in here."

The first three years the challenge was held during the Big 4 Fair.

Now it's held the week after the fair, which has worked out well according to Val.

Eating and tasting good food was the main order of the day.

Everyone in attendance did that and then some at Nashua's barbecue get-together that is still going strong.

"Having the BBQ as a separate event was something else to look forward to," said Johnson. "It brings another thing back to Nashua and it gives the town something to do for another weekend."

Judges tasted the delectable concoctions and made their picks as to who had the best dishes underneath the grandstand of the fairgrounds.

Val said she was able to have four certified judges this year. She reached out to local first responders to fill the gaps so there could be as many palates as possible to deem who was "the best of the best."

"We talk to our local heroes. Whether they're a EMT, a nurse or fire department," said Johnson.

This wasn't the worst weather the challenge has experienced. Val said it was either 2017 or 2018 when the rain came pouring down.

"The ladies that are in there judging. They were here that year. It was like walking around puddles just to get to people," said Johnson. "It was craziness. We got here at six o'clock in the morning and we sat in our vehicles for 45 minutes before we got out because it was raining that hard."

Flatland Ridge, a band out of Independence, hit a high note with classic rock tunes, country and pop that kept VIP-ticket holders entertained.

And of course, Miller had perhaps the best answer to a query on what her goal was for the day.

"To eat something. I was hungry," said Miller.

Burial will be held at Holy Trinity Cemetery with Joe Vsetecka, Quentin Vsetecka, Roger Dreckman, Ron Maher, Joe Shileny, and Bill Figanbaum serving as casket bearers.

Online condolences may be left at www.conway-markham-fh.com. Memorials may be directed to Phyllis' family.

Phyllis Ann was born March 24, 1929, the daughter of Phillip and Clara (Gebel) Sabelka.

She attended country school west of the family home in rural Lawler.

On April 15, 1947, she was united in marriage to Frank Vsetecka at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Jerico. The couple made their home on a nearby farm that Frank had purchased a few years earlier. Together, they farmed side by side and welcomed their seven children — Larry, Diane, Leon, Karen, Keith, Rick and Dave.

In 1981, Phyllis and Frank retired from farming; however, they remained on their farm the rest of their days.

Phyllis enjoyed gardening, canning, raising chickens and caring for her lawn with her John Deere. Weekends were often spent dancing at the Starlight Ballroom or the Inwood in Spillville or playing cards with friends and family. She and Frank enjoyed traveling to Florida and bus trips to casinos.

Phyllis was an active member of Holy Trinity Catholic Church. Those left to cherish Phyllis' memory are her children, Leon (Barb) Vsetecka of Fort Atkinson, Karen (Dan Knop) of Ida Grove, Keith Vsetecka of Lawler, Rick (Shawn) Vsetecka of Jerico, and Dave (Robyn) Vsetecka of Lawler; her 14 grandchildren; 16 great grandchildren; brother-in-law, Alvin (Patricia) Vsetecka of Lawler, and several nieces and nephews.

She was born on Dec. 3, 1939, in Charles City, the daughter of Edwin and Doris Mashek.

Sondra attended Elementary School in Charles City and moved in with her Aunt Sylvia and Uncle Phillip Lund in Curlew.

Sondra graduated from Mallard High School in 1957. She went on to attend the University of Northern Iowa, where she graduated with a master's degree in library science.

Keith William Weigel, 66

Keith William Weigel, age 66 of Maple Grove, Minnesota, and formerly of New Hampton, died Monday, Sept. 5, 2022, at North Memorial Hospital in Robbinsdale, Minnesota, from complications of pneumonia.

A Mass of Christian Burial will be held at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 18, 2022, at Holy Family Parish in New Hampton.

A visitation will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 18, 2022, at Hugeback-Johnson Funeral Home in New Hampton.

Keith was born on Nov. 19, 1955, in San Diego, California, where his father was serving his country in the U.S. Navy. His birth began an extraordinary life of selfless giving to not only his family, but, to his legions of friends and to his community.

Keith was the oldest of William and Marlene (Laures) Weigel's eight children, and he was a wonderful big brother to Wes, Rick, Bruce, Joe, Luann, Mary and Connie. They remember that Keith "made sure that no food was wasted at the table" and his sisters still fondly recall Keith coming to the breakfast table, massaging their ear lobes and wishing them a good morning.

He grew up in New Hampton, where he was a stellar student at St. Joseph Community School and New Hampton High School. Keith grew to be an outstanding athlete for the Chickasaws — quarterbacking the football team, playing guard on the basketball squad and starring as a switch-hitting, all-state third baseman for the baseball team. Keith also was his class president and active with the National Honor Society and Letterman's Club at New Hampton.

After graduating from high school in 1974, Keith headed to the University of Iowa, where he played baseball for the Hawkeyes during his freshman year and was a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity, serving as the chapter president for multiple years. Even after he gave up baseball, he remained active — playing intramural sports and quarterbacking the flag football championship team that included his brother Wes and won that title in Kinnick Stadium.

Keith had a zest for life, and, as successful as he was in high school and college, that was really just the beginning.

Keith Weigel

After receiving his BA degree in business administration, with an emphasis in finance, from Iowa, he worked for a couple of years as a field representative for Delta Upsilon, visiting fraternities in a number of states and sharing his ideas and helping chapters reach their goals.

Moving back to New Hampton, he ran a successful independent financial service for a number of years and was elected to the Iowa House of Representatives, serving four terms representing residents of Chickasaw, Winneshiek and Howard county at the Statehouse in Des Moines. Keith was elected as a Democrat. He was proud of the fact that he was more about people than party. Some might have thought Keith was "too honest to be a politician," but for eight years in Des Moines, he did his best to represent his constituents, once writing "you, the people of this district, are important to me."

The many accomplishments in athletics, school, and in life don't tell the entire tale of Keith Weigel's life. The rest of his story is the most important part, for it attests to the fact that at his core, Keith believed in love and kindness.

In 1990, Keith met Wendy Miller Sorensen at a Knights of Columbus softball tournament, and they eventually began dating and fell in love. They had a long-distance relationship — Keith lived in New Hampton; Wendy in Maple Grove, but boy oh boy, they made it work because they shared the same values. They were married on Aug. 2, 1997. Keith's friends often joked about Keith's "Vera," referring to the popular TV sitcom in which one of the characters, Norm, talked about his wife who never appeared on screen.

Wendy had four children —

Daniel Jerome 'Dan' Kuhn, 60

Daniel Jerome "Dan" Kuhn, age 60 of Waverly, passed away Sunday, Sept. 4, 2022, at the University of Iowa Hospitals following a short and sudden illness.

Dan was born on March 21, 1962, in Decorah, to Jerome and Carlene (Martin) Kuhn.

He graduated from New Hampton High School in 1980.

Dan was a public servant his whole life, working for the New Hampton Community Schools and then the U.S. Postal Service, retiring in 2020.

Dan is remembered for his contagious smile, his amazing energy level, his love of genealogy, his handyman skills, his giving nature, and his love of the outdoors and travel, but his biggest love of all was his family.

Dan is survived by his parents, Jerome and Carlene Kuhn; his wife, Gretchen Armstrong; his five daughters, Deborah Collins (Brian), Andrea Lind

Dan Kuhn

(Chris), Julia Stone, Sarah Elder (Jason), and Tess Breitbach (Jay); twenty-three grandchildren; and one great-grandchild. He is also survived by his siblings, John Kuhn (Barb), Joe Kuhn (Arlene), Rita Waldron (Brian), Joyce Pingel (Brad), Jane Angstman, Joann Lynch; numerous nieces and nephews;

Eric, Paul, Kara and Krista — and Keith won them over. He was, quite simply, always there for them, and they can't say enough about what Keith meant to them and did for them. Yet as good as a father as he was, Keith was a rock star as a grandpa to Mikayla, Mason, Levi, Caleb, Grace, Kaylee, Logan and Eliana. He rarely missed any of their activities, be it sports, dance or anything else.

Keith eventually moved to the Twin Cities. He spent several years as the advocacy director for AARP in Minnesota, but his focus during his "Minnesota years" was on his family. He loved traveling with Wendy, and together, they led tours spanning the globe. Once you traveled with Keith and Wendy, you were hooked because they were such gracious, helpful hosts.

Keith was a natural leader, but he also had a tender heart. He always rooted for the underdog, and anyone who knew him, will never forget that infectious smile or the integrity that he carried with him throughout his life.

We all wanted Keith to spend more time with us, but for 24,398 days, he made the world a better place, a much better place. He was a guiding light to so many, and he leaves a legacy built around family, faith and values.

As difficult as it is to say goodbye to this special man, those who love him the most not only know that Mom and Dad greeted him in Heaven but they also will carry their cherished memories of Keith with them for the rest of their lives.

Survivors include his wife, Wendy of Maple Grove, Minnesota; sons, Eric (Melissa) Sorensen of Otsego, and Paul (Sarah) Sorensen of Plymouth, Minnesota; daughters, Kara (Ryan) Caldwell of Plymouth, Minnesota, Krista (Kevin) Asmus of Ramsey, Minnesota; eight grandchildren, Mikayla, Mason, Levi, Caleb, Grace, Kaylee, Logan and Eliana; brothers, Wes (Terri) Weigel of Fitchburg, Wisconsin, Rick (Luann) Grinnell, Bruce (Callie) of Elma, and Joe (Pat) Weigel of Clear Lake; and sisters, Luann (Jeff) Woodward of Waterloo, and Mary (Phil) Mahoney and Connie (Dennis) Njus, both of New Hampton.

He was preceded in death by his parents; his mother & father-in-law, Laura Mae and Lester Miller; brother-in-law, Scott Miller.

and Rachel Kiffel.

Dan was preceded in death by his brother Jerry Kuhn, son-in-law Kyle Stone, and grandparents Joe and Rita (Croatt) Martin and AJ and Barbara (Shindelar) Kuhn.

A public visitation will be held on Friday, Oct. 7, 2022, from 10 to 11 a.m., followed by a Celebration of Life at 11 a.m., at the Crosspoint Church, 215 3rd Street NW, Waverly IA 50677. Please use the northwest entrance if you need an elevator.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to Dan's favorite non-profit, Be the Match — National Marrow Donor Program (<https://www.bethematchfoundation.org/>); or better yet, register to be a donor and help save lives as Dan so selflessly did.

Online condolences may be left at www.kaisercorson.com. Kaiser-Corson Funeral Home is assisting the family.

Park Sunday afternoon, the Troop 48 scoutmaster said, "We're having a rally on the weekend after Labor Day next year. That's an absolute positive."

While attendance at the first-ever New Hampton Motorcycle Rally paled in comparison to the heyday of the Davis Rally, Trower said the Boy Scouts had plenty of reasons to celebrate the rally they put together in just two months.

The community support was outstanding and reviews from almost 300 motorcyclists were mostly positive and the scouts had a blast.

- Kevin Moses, a 2000 Nashua-Plainfield graduate, played a big part in making sure the game between the White Sox and the New York Yankees was played on an immaculate, unbelievable manicured baseball field. "To say I'm proud to be part of the first Major League Baseball field ever played in Iowa, well, yeah, that would probably be an understatement," Moses said. It was a great night for Iowa, that's how I'm always going to remember it."

Turning this food pantry over to the kids

The pantry is located in the upper entrance of the high school and is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, for students, families and community members to use. It opened early this summer, and Rotary Club members are now “turning over” the restocking to members of the club it sponsors.

Rotary Club member Jennifer Monteith said the pantry has been heavily used in recent months, and she added that both clubs were appreciative of the New Hampton Dance Team’s Stuff the Truck drive that was held this past Friday. Team members collected $154 and 283 items to donate to the pantry.

The New Hampton Knights of Columbus Council 1697, would like to thank the New Hampton Community and beyond for your generous support to our Tootsie Roll Drive. This Drive took place on the weekend of September 10th. One hundred percent of funds we have collected will go to support programs for the mentally challenged people in the state of Iowa and our community.

German American Museum to serve Oktoberfest meal on Oct. 1

The annual Oktoberfest meal will be offered at the German American Museum in St. Lucas on Saturday, Oct. 1, as a drive-through/pick-up dinner from 4:30 to 7 p.m.

This event is sponsored by 1891 Financial Life, formerly National Catholic Society of Foresters, as a matching fund event for the St. Lucas Historical Society, states Virginia Manderfield, treasurer of the St. Lucia Court of 1891 Financial Life insurance.

Janet Bodensteiner and Kathryn Kuennen, the organizers of the event, says the delicious meal includes a tasty Klement’s large brat and fresh brat bun, sauerkraut, potato salad, baked bean dish, and fresh apple strudel pieces.

A donation of $12.00 per meal is most helpful to the Museum causes.

You can pick up the meal at the curb in front of the German American Museum, Library and Family History Center at 212 East Main Street in St. Lucas.

“The proceeds from the Oktoberfest meal will help preserve the building and sustain the growth of the Museum,” says Clair Blong, president of the Society.

Carl Most, recording secretary of the Society, notes “This traditional meal is a key means for the Society to maintain the Museum whose annual operating costs, such as fuel, electricity, and insurance keep increasing.”

“These Museum expenses include current operational expenses, but also the need to save for a new roof on the entire building. Just this summer we had serious rain water leaks and extensive repair work done on the kitchen roof and ceiling of the museum,” says Diane McCarty, treasurer of the Society.

“We are looking forward to the tasty meal,” says Joe Bodensteiner, a long time supporter of the Museum.

County Attorney David Laudner said that while he believes the county leaders can create the department by resolution, which would not require a public hearing, “I think the ordinance is the best avenue.”

He added that a number of ambulance decisions can be made through resolutions, but “think about it as a house. You need to build a basement and put the sidewalls up with an ordinance and then you do the shingling, the siding and decorate it with the resolutions. That needs to be done at some point, in my opinion.”

But when it came to equipment for the ambulances that the county has already ordered, supervisors made no decisions.

Chickasaw Ambulance Service owner Jeremy McGrath offered to sell the county a variety of used equipment for $42,970, and although the advisory council voted to remove some of those items from purchase, Edson said that she felt it was important that the county move forward.

“If we don’t purchase Jeremy’s equipment, we need to know today,” said Edson, who added that some new equipment is “12 weeks out” in the supply chain. “I’m trying to have as much equipment here as possible now. It’s good equipment. It works. I feel that public perception is important, too, that we’re being responsible.”

Emergency Management Agency Director Jeff Bernatz asked the board to hold off on purchasing ventilators — either new or used — because he is working on the possibility of getting ventilators through the federal Homeland Security Department.

“I understand that,” McGrath said, “and if there is a chance to get them for free, I totally think that’s what you should do.”

McGrath said his calculations showed that the county would pay about 58 percent of the cost of new equipment.

“[The price] is so close to new, I don’t know why we wouldn’t go new if we can,” Supervisor Jason Byrne said. “We’re only talking $10,000 to have new equipment.”

McGrath countered that Byrne’s figures were off, and Board Chairman Matt Kuhn said he figured the county would save a little less than $12,000 by purchasing used equipment.

The discussion on purchasing equipment from McGrath dragged on for more than an hour, but in the end, despite Kuhn asking three times for a motion, no board member made that motion, effectively killing the deal.

And while supervisors also approved allowing the advisory council to start a Facebook page to, as Edson pointed out, “get the word out about our service,” they received a push from their legal advisor.

“You guys have been talking budget amendment for six weeks now, and we still haven’t gotten anywhere,” Laudner said. “We’ve had the meetings the last six weeks and talked about, ‘We need a budget amendment, we need a budget amendment, we need a budget amendment’ and here we sit. We’re talking about $45 CPAP machines and replaceables and looking up prices in the meeting. I think we need to focus on the large things here.”

Board votes 3-2 to not give any of its ARPA funds to cities

ARPA: FROM 1

Hackman said he understood Kuhn’s point, but reiterated that he felt the county should help the two cities with their ambulance situations. Nashua is exploring starting its own service or joining with Floyd County for EMS services while Alta Vista is going to contract with an ambulance service that will be stationed in Elma, a Howard County town that is located just 4.3 miles away.

Supervisor Jason Byrne pointed out that cities also received ARPA funds.

“They all received money, too, so are we asking for some of that money back from them? They have just as much as right their money as they want, it’s their money,” he said. “This is considered our money. They got their money in my book to help them out, and they could use their money anyway they wanted to, just like we can.”

Kuhn also wondered what happened if the two cities eventually join the county ambulance service, asking “then do they pay us back that ARPA money?”

Hackman, though, persisted, and at first said that the county could possibly look at using a “per-capita” formula to help the two cities that opted to strike out on their own. But in the end, he made a motion to give each city $100,000, despite the fact that Nashua has a population of 1,551 while Alta Vista’s population is just 233.

He also pointed out that if a rural resident near Alta Vista, for example, needed an ambulance, they should be able to use the service the city is using.

“I hope we can work together,” he said, “and serve our citizens of the rural part [of the county] with a closer rig.”

But New Hampton resident Terry Johnson expressed his opposition to sending any of the county’s ARPA funds to the two cities.

“Nashua got their ARPA money, [and this] doesn’t say you’re not going to service the rural area around Nashua,” Johnson said. “They’re the ones that opted out — not the rural area. So it’s like getting your cake and eating it, too. From the taxpayers’ standpoint, they got their money, you’re going to service the rural area so why give those two cities more money?”

Byrne added that “I think this is the most appropriate to help the most people in the county, doing it this way.”

And a majority of the board agreed as Kuhn and Steve Breitbach, whose district includes Alta Vista, voted with Byrne against the measure and just Hackman and Tim Zoll voted for it.

leave defenders in the dust. “That’s the only time in my career where I’ve ever seen open field and just ran,” said Steinlage. Speltz was an efficient 4-for-4 passing for 104 yards. His favorite target against the hapless Huskies was senior receiver Hunter Serie, who hauled in three passes for 36 yards. Speltz, who also played some receiver last year for New Hampton, talked about the big play. New Hampton scored on three touchdowns of over 50 yards. “It was a drag, so he was like the last option. I rolled out left and there was a d-end right there, so I rolled to the right and threw it. I got a little excited and probably over threw it a little bit, but he caught it, went up for it and he went 70 yards,” said Speltz. The game was – for all intents and purposes – over at halftime as New Hampton cracked up chunk after chunk of yardage on the ground.

New Hampton led 40-0 at intermission. New Hampton bulldozed its way 378 yards on the ground. This physical effort in the trenches where New Hampton once again owned the line of scrimmage came a game after NH piled up over 350 rushing yards in a Week 2 romp over Charles City.

Once again, junior all-state running back Braden McShane put on a clinic of how to run the ball between the tackles. Whether it’s juking, stiff-arming, shucking, running over or around defenders – McShane is a treat to watch and a beast of a back.

McShane scored four times – the last two on electrifying runs of over 50 yards. He even had a 70-yard jaunt into the end zone where he made a cut reminiscent of Steinlage’s called back because of holding.

McShane rolled up 161 yards on the ground on just 10 carries. He has now accumulated almost 500 yards of rushing this fall and leads Class 2A in rushing touchdowns with eight.

His first touchdown scamper came from four yards out and gave NH a two-touchdown lead on the second play of the second quarter. His 24-yard scamper and ensuing two-point run made it 20-0, NH just eight seconds later. McShane’s fumble recovery on a lateral pass led to that third score of the night for New Hampton.

New Hampton scored on its first seven possessions and McShane went untouched straight up the gut for a 51-yard blast to paydirt on the first play of New Hampton’s fourth drive.

Steinlage’s catch and run vaulted the scoreboard up to 34-0.

Ethan Praska bolted past the goal line from 10 yards out with 28 ticks before half. That final score of the second period – 34 of them in all – made sure the clock would run continuously in the second half as the 35-point rule was engaged.

The final score of the second half was perhaps the most impressive.

McShane shook a would-be tackler right sideline and ran past all defenders for a 52-yard burst toward to the pylon. McShane ran into the end zone standing up as he capped his night with yet another score.

“He’s unreal,” said Speltz. “He’s doing good. As long as McShane keeps doing what he’s doing and everyone keeps playing 100 percent, we should be fine.” Not to be outshone, senior fullback Ben Tenge swallowed up plenty of real estate on the ground. He scored the game’s first touchdown on an 8-yard run and amassed 80 yards on just six carries.

“We have good speed. Braden knows when to stretch and when to put a foot in the ground and make his cut,” said Frerichs. “Half of running a good offensive play is running a play that your kids understand.”

Frerichs – coaching in his 30th season at the helm of his Chickasaw program – talked about his two-headed monster that is sure to keep giving fits for opposing defenses the rest of the season.

“The thing I like about those two guys is neither one will say a thing. They’re just football players,” said Frerichs. “They’re humble and they work hard. They don’t take things for granted. They work hard every day of the week, not just on Friday night.”

The game didn’t start out the way New Hampton had planned.

On the first series of the game – Oelwein chewed up almost six minutes of clock and converted a fourth-down play to the extend the drive. The NH defense forced a turnover on downs with 6:04 remaining in the first quarter.

“They took up a good six minutes. It’s frustrating standing on the sideline that whole time,” said Frerichs. “Oelwein did a good job using all four downs to get a first down. You gotta settle in. You see the things and it takes a series or two for the boys to really settle in and feel good about what they were doing.”

Ethan Detemmerman’s 56-yard kick-off after New Hampton’s first score gave Oelwein a window of hope. The Chickasaw defense backed up the Huskies a good six yards on that drive and forced yet another turnover on downs with just over a minute before the start of the second period.

Steinlage talked what he likes the most about his 3-0 Chickasaws after New Hampton finished off non-district play and now the games really start to matter.

What was the message leading up to the Oelwein game?

Steinlage had an answer for that, too.

“All we said all week was stay humble,” said Steinlage. “We kept that mindset up until we were in the locker room coming up. We said, ‘stay humble the whole time.’”

New Hampton has tallied 892 yards on the ground as a team – the top total in the Chickasaws’ class. Two southern Iowa teams – Clarke of Osceola (825) and Red Oak (824) – are the second and third-best running teams, respectively, in Class 2A.

It’s homecoming week for New Hampton next and the game on Friday night will be against the 0-3 Garner-Hayfield-Ventura Cardinals.

Turkey Valley, now 1-5 overall, had not competed since the opening two meets of the season in a triangular at New Hampton on Aug. 30.

TV senior Brianna Busta (six) and junior Adriana Tiedt (five) led the Trojans in the kill department in the loss versus Crestwood. Halle Weber, a junior, was tops on the team in digs against the Cadets with 10. Clare Courtney, TV’s senior libero, was on top of her defensive game with nine digs against NFV.

Turkey Valley took on NFV once again on the road this past Tuesday. Then the Trojans will travel to the Waukon Tournament, which will host Kee High, Crestwood, MFL-Mar-Mac, Postville, Riceville as well as two squads from Minnesota – North Crawford and Spring Grove.

and 15-8. Dunkerton also outlasted the Chickasaws in three – 9-21, 21-11 and 15-12.

“Honestly I feel like we should have left there with a few more wins. Playing to our potential could have had us winning any one of those matches,” said Geerts. “We played hard in the games we won. We played together and used our full potential. We talk a lot about the importance of the point gap. We were able to keep that gap where we wanted it.”

Geerts feels like even in loss – the top-notch competition is making New Hampton better and will have her Chickasaws battled-tested when regional play starts next month.

“It is always great to have tough competition. That is why we wanted to enter this tournament so badly. Hopefully it will help us in the postseason,” said Geerts. Cedar Falls defeated NH 21-14 and 21-12. The Green Devils topped New Hampton 21-13 and 21-9.

“We have a lot of talent, we just need to figure out how to put it together. We need to be happy for each other and play as a team,” said Geerts. DUNKERTON 2, NEW HAMPTON 1

this summer!” said Ohrt.

Kolbet finished just ahead of Nobsisch at Decorah. Nobsisch paced out in 20:47 – good for 33rd place. Nobsisch was fifth overall in the 9/10 girls race at Waverly in a time of 21:31.

Anderson finished in 57th place at Decorah in 18:19 and was 16th overall at Waverly in 17:41. Ohrt feels Anderson can slide down into the 16-minute range.

“That kid is hungry! He’ll be in the 16’s this season and I cannot wait to witness that moment! I still cannot believe how far he has come since his first day of practice where he thought running more than a 400 was absurd!” said Ohrt.

New Hampton freshman Tegan Dungey hit a personal-best by 1:13 at Luther in a time of 21:57. That slotted her in the 77th spot overall. Dungey ran a 23:10 in the first varsity race of her career at Waverly. She crossed the tape as the 22nd-fastest finisher in that race.

“It is amazing to witness Tegan’s confidence after each race! She (along with many runners) was reluctant about the mileage increase between junior high and high school; however, I’ve always known she was going to be a fierce competitor,” said Ohrt.

NH junior Cam McMorris (18:42) placed 31st overall at Waverly and senior Treyce Orr was 39th in 19:08.12 – just a few ticks of the stopwatch ahead of junior Jack Shawver in 40th place (19:08.3).

Shawver ran side-by-side at Luther with Orr once again. Shawver defeated his teammate this time around as he crossed the finish line in 119th place in 19:36. Orr ran 19:38, one spot behind Shawver in the 120th position.

New Hampton rolls by Cadets

Chickasaws sweep Crestwood and remain unbeaten in conference play

By Kelly Terpstra
sports@nhtrib.com

The New Hampton Chickasaws had plenty of gas in the tank on Tuesday night at home versus Crestwood. But sometimes any team has to make a pit stop now and again to check the tires and clear the windshield of any debris that may hinder a volleyball team's cruise around the corner to victory lane.

That turn took a few detours, but Jess Geerts' Chickasaws got right back on the beaten path to sweep the upstart Cadets – 25-23, 25-10 and 25-11.

It was New Hampton's second win in as many tries in league play after sweeping Charles City last week in the league opener.

New Hampton found itself in an 8-2 hole early, but reclaimed its mojo and dominated the rest of the way.

NH sophomore middle Braelyn Rosonke talked about New Hampton's slow start, which soon transformed into a pretty good all-around effort for the Northeast Iowa Conference squad that is playing one of the toughest schedules in the state.

"We weren't really like together at first," said Rosonke. "As the game went on we just figured out what we needed to do and came together and got our energy back."

NH (10-10, 2-0) chipped away and finally gained enough speed to crank out a 6-0 run to close to 21-20 in game one. New Hampton tied it at 23-23 and senior Carlee Rochford's powerful kill ended New Hampton's game one the right way – with a Chickasaw victory celebration.

"We fought back. We definitely didn't give up, so that's good," said Geerts. "It's good to see a little fight. We just kind of had to get in our groove."

New Hampton has an active middle with several interchangeable parts. That includes Rosonke – who is first cousins with senior middle Elaina Rosonke.

"We're best friends," said Braelyn.

Rochford and all-state middle-outside hitter Marissa Cahoy also take turns slamming shots down near the middle of the net for kills.

Cahoy's kill ended the match.

But it's been the emergence of Braelyn Rosonke – seeing the first varsity action of her prep career – that's been a key cog for the Chickasaws, which are searching for their second state berth after cracking the state field for the first time in school history four seasons ago in 2019.

"Our passing was pretty strong tonight so we were able to hit her a lot more," said Geerts about Braelyn Rosonke. "It's what we need and want, for sure."

New Hampton pushed the pedal to the metal in the second game and jumped out to lead 18-4. The Chickasaws put it on cruise control from there to win by 15 points.

Game three saw several ties early before New Hampton raced away from the Cadets to lead 17-10 after an Elaina Rosonke ace. By that time, Crestwood was almost in New Hampton's rear view mirror and looking to warm up the bus.

"We just hyped each other up and stayed together. It brought our energy, which helped us to win the game," said Braelyn Rosonke. "It's the most important thing in volleyball because it's a mind game."

Nine out of the Chickasaws' 10 losses have come at the hand of ranked teams.

New Hampton's Marissa Cahoy (above) jumps serves against Crestwood on Tuesday night and Jenna Tank (below) comes up with a dig in the NEIC clash with the Cadets.

It's tough sledding but Chickasaws find positives at Osage tourney

Saturday tourney follows similar pattern for New Hampton as nine of its 10 volleyball losses have come at the hands of ranked teams

sports@nhtrib.com

One can ignore the New Hampton volleyball team's record at this point in the season.

Sure, Jess Geerts and her Chickasaws would have liked to have had accumulated some more wins than they currently have – but butting heads against the quality teams on New Hampton's schedule is not an easy task.

That was evident on Saturday at the Osage Tournament, which sported four ranked teams – No. 3 Cedar Falls, No. 7 Waverly-Shell Rock, 14th-rated Dunkerton and the host Green Devils, which are currently listed as the 10th best team in Class 3A according to the Iowa Girls High School Athletic Union's latest prep poll.

New Hampton – which fell out the most recent rankings – lost to all them. The Chickasaws' lone win was over Forest City in straight sets – 21-11, 21-17.

“We have been waiting to get into this tournament for a few years now. It did change a bit with a few teams like Dike not attending, but was still a great tournament with four teams rated at that time,” said Geerts.

Of New Hampton's 10 losses – all but one have come against ranked opponents. New Hampton has lost to ninth-ranked Don Bosco and No. 5 Denver twice. New Hampton is 9-10 overall and 1-0 in the Northeast Iowa Conference after sweeping Charles City last Tuesday in the league opener. The Comets were the only unranked squad to defeat NH. That was a setback that took place at a Denver quad in the first week of the season.

NH challenged NEIC rival Waverly-Shell Rock, in a three-setter that the Go-Hawks prevailed in 21-15, 16-21

BIG-PLAY CHICKASAWS

NEW HAMPTON DOMINATES IN EVERY PHASE OF THE GAME ON WAY TO 47-0 WIN

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

Carter Steinlage hadn't seen this much green grass in well – ever.

The Chickasaw standout senior wideout utilized that wide open space on Friday night in what turned out to be dominating effort for head coach Scott Frerichs' ninth-ranked New Hampton football team against an outgunned and overmatched Oelwein squad.

Steinlage – New Hampton's 6-2, sure-handed weapon in the passing game – made one of several eye-popping plays for the Chickasaws – which lead Class 2A in rushing with a two-pronged running attack that's as good as any in the state.

Long and exciting plays were the order of the day on this evening as New Hampton rolled over Oelwein – 47-0.

Example No. 1 came from Steinlage, whom Chickasaw senior signal caller Brady Speltz found running all alone in the flat midway through the second period. Steinlage was so wide open, the accurate Speltz almost over threw him. Steinlage still came up with the catch, as he extended his arms and raced to the end zone from 68 yards out. Steinlage maneuvered his way down the right sideline and then made a cutback toward the middle of the field to Chickasaws show they're 'mudders'

Chickasaw runners get to experience both spectrums of weather during a busy week

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

Jamie Ohrt and her Chickasaws called the 49th Annual Luther College All-American Invitational an appropriate name on Saturday.

The “mud run” it was for her determined bunch that tackled a cross country meet in Decorah that rivals any in the state as far as top-notch competition is concerned.

With the rain falling down and the ground becoming soggy on the challenging course – New Hampton more than held its own against elite squads from Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The New Hampton girls team finished 16th overall and the Chickasaws boys squad wound up 17th in the standings.

Ohrt was more than happy about her team's performance – led by seniors Campbell Kolbet and P.J. Anderson.

“The word ecstatic is an understatement. I don't think I've ever been more excited about a season! Our numbers are down from last year, which was a little disheartening at first, but we have a solid core of athletes with incredible goals and work ethic!” said Ohrt.

Kolbet finished 32nd overall in a field of 229 runners with a clip of 20:44. Her time of 20:28 at the Dick Pollitt Go-Hawk Classic in Waverly last week Tuesday was a career-best by almost eight seconds. She garnered a top-five finish in third

Trojans finally get back on court

After lengthy layoff, Turkey Valley drops four at Crestwood tourney

After almost a two-week hiatus, the Turkey Valley Trojans once again hit the hardwood of a volleyball court on Saturday at the Kepros Tourney in Cresco, hosted by Crestwood.

Facing much larger schools, TV didn't win a match in four tries, but was competitive in several games against the likes of the host Cadets, North Fayette Valley and Waukon.

Sixth-ranked Lisbon swept the Trojans, 21-8 and 21-11.

Crestwood topped Shelby Balk's squad 21-12 and 21-18. The second Northeast Iowa squad to take on TV – Waukon – turned back the Trojans, 21-17 and 21-7. NFV prevented TV from victory with a 21-17 and 21-11 triumph.
