Supervisor says SafeTech Solutions to be in county for interviews next month

County VA director gets a substantial pay raise

Commission says decision brings salary in line with other counties, helps keep Bierman By Bob Fenske

The members of the Chickasaw County Veterans Affairs Commission did not want to lose their director so last week, the commission unanimously voted to give her a sizable pay raise.

And on Monday, the Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors, although they expressed some concerns, "acknowledged" the pay hike for Veterans Services Office Director Melissa Bierman.

During the supervisors' meeting, Veterans Affairs Commission Chair Katy Kuehn told board members that when she and her fellow commissioners learned that Bierman had been offered a similar job in Bremer County, they held a meeting last Wednesday and approved bumping her annual salary from $31,050 to $42,240, an increase of 36 percent.

Kuehn told supervisors that Bierman's current salary ranks among the lowest in the state when it comes to fulltime VA directors.

Popular kitchen flooring materials

Kitchens have long been considered the most popular gathering spaces in a home. That popularity compels millions of homeowners to renovate their kitchens each year, and the return on those investments is often significant.

A number of variables, including the value of neighboring homes and how quickly homeowners sell their homes after a renovation, affect the return on investment with a given project. According to Remodeling magazine's "2021 Cost vs. Value Report," homeowners recouped roughly 72 percent of their investment in a minor kitchen remodel at resale. That's a sizable return that outperformed other popular upgrades, including vinyl siding replacement and wood deck additions.

When renovating kitchens, homeowners will have to consider various components within the room, including the floors. Average flooring costs can be hard to calculate because they depend so heavily on homeowners' choice of materials. The following are some popular flooring materials that homeowners can consider as they plan to renovate their kitchens.

• Vinyl: Vinyl flooring is popular thanks in large part to its cost. According to the home remodeling experts at HomeAdvisor, vinyl flooring installation is much less costly than other types of flooring. not the only benefit of vinyl

What is a HEL

Homes symbolize many the amount borrowed to no different things, including an more than 85 percent of the investment in one's future.

Bank of America says a home equity line of credit, often referred to as a HELOC, is a line of credit secured by your home. It is a be used for various expenses. The Credit Union of Southern California reports that a HELOC credit line is issued by a lender and has a limit and variable interest rate that is secured by the equity in your home.

A HELOC is similar to a credit card in that they both provide revolving credit. Investopedia says revolving credit is an agreement that permits an account holder to borrow money repeatedly up to a set dollar limit while also repaying a portion of the current balance due in regular payments over time. But unlike credit cards that may have high interest rates, the interest rates of HELOCs often are lower -asignificant advantage when paying off large amounts of borrowed money.

Home equity accessed through a HELOC can be a great source of value for future renovations, larg purchases such as cars educational expenses, and alternative debt repayment. The credit limit of a HELOC depends on your credit standing and unpaid debts. It also is determined by the market value of the home and how much you owe on your mortgage. According to Credi Karma, banks tend to limit appraised value of the home, minus what is owed on the mortgage. HELOC terms also vary, but they can run for as long as 30 years.

Even though there are revolving credit line that can many benefits to HELOCs, there is a downside to using a home as collateral. Investopedia says home equity lenders place a second lien on the home (in addition to the first mortgage lien). Defaulting on HELOC payments can result in legal action and a home being repossessed. Another potential pitfall is a lender may reduce or freeze your credit line after missed payments. Even though banks attempt to limit how much can be borrowed through HELOCs to help avoid potentially negative situations, they are not without risk.

Borrowers considering a HELOC have other options, including home equity loans. Homeowners can speak with financial advisors to learn more about their options for maximizing equity in their homes.

The different ways to repair a driveway

Asphalt drive ways do not last forever. Over weather time, and general usage can degrade the driveway surface, resulting in cracks, pitting and more. Ultraviolet rays, salt and automotive fluids also can affect the appearance and functionality of a driveway. An unsightly driveway can adversely affect curb appeal and resale potential.

Homeowners have to consider various factors when it comes to repairing driveways. They may have the option of getting the driveway resurfaced, resealed or repaved, and each project is unique.

Resurfacing

According to the home improvement price comparison site Kompare It, resurfacing is simpler and faster than installing a new asphalt driveway. With resurfacing, any cracks are filled in to create an even base. Then a new layer of asphalt is applied over the existing one. That new layer can range in thickness from 1.5 to 3 inches. A heavy rolling machine will then smooth and flatten the layers together. If the driveway has minor pitting or cracking, then resurfacing can be a cost-effective strategy, as it may be a $3,000 to $6,000 job as opposed to $5,000 ly involves the removal of to $10,000 with repaving. Resealing

Resealing a driveway, also called sealcoating, is another the process for a smooth look. repair strategy. HGTV says resealing can be a do-it-yourself project. Resealing helps the driveway last longer.

Pros and cons to open-concept homes recent years. An open-concept home is one in which the rooms flow into one another with limited obstruction from walls or other barriers. According to the National Association of Home Builders, 84 percent of new single-family homes have fully or partially open layouts.

While they may seem like a new trend, open floor plans are anything but. Early American homes featured open, often one- or two-room units built around the central kitchen/hearth. This maximized warmth and functionality. Homes evolved as incomes grew, and soon homes had several smaller rooms with specialized functions.

What's old has become new again. However, before diving head first into a new home purchase or a big renovation to realize an open-concept dream, consider the pros and cons of this type of setup to determine if it's really right for you.

Advantages of open floor plans

Open floor plans facilitate the flow of natural light floor plans throughout a space and can

Open-concept homes have reduce warm or cool pockets space that occurs when walls become increasingly popular in of air in otherwise closed-off rooms.

Open homes make socializing easier, even when people are doing different things. While someone is cooking dinner in the kitchen, he or she can still interact with someone else playing video games in the family room or paying bills in the home office. Entertaining also is easier, as mingling with guests is much more convenient when walls are not getting in the way.

A smaller home can feel much larger if it employs an open concept. The square footage is not divided into smaller quarters, which sometimes are rooms (such as formal dining rooms) that are only used a few times per year. This eliminates underused spaces and opens up sight lines in the layout.

The value of real estate has risen dramatically since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic, and prospective buyers may prefer an open-concept plan because it can help them minimize building costs.

When the kitchen is not separate from the family room space, that makes it easy for noise to compromise the area's comfort levels. There is no hiding from noise in an open floor plan, as sounds from voices, television shows and appliances tend to echo and blend together. And if the home is a single-story layout, those noises from the main living areas also may carry to adjacent bedrooms.

Smoke and smells are another thing to consider. When something on the stove spills over, a small range hood will not be practical for clearing smoke from a large space. Though the aroma of freshly cooked food is enticing, it can make it hard for cooks to keep guests out of the kitchen.

Open-concept homes are popular, but homeowners should weigh the pluses and minuses to see if this trend is

3 factors to consider before converting an attic

At the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic, many homeowners suddenly found themselves in need of more usable square footage in their homes. Required to work from home due to social distancing recommendations, millions of working professionals suddenly found themselves setting up shop at kitchen tables or islands, in alcoves, garages, or even walk-in closets. Those makeshift offices were never supposed to be permanent, but as companies loosen workplace policies and embrace full remote or hybrid working arrangements, professionals are seeking more permanent home office solutions.

Home additions are a possibility for homeowners who need more usable square footage, but add-ons may not be the right option for everyone. If adding on won't work, homeowners may want to look up ... at their attics.

Attics with ample space can make for ideal home offices, as they're away from the hustle and bustle of a home's main floor. That can make it easier to concentrate when everyone is in the house and reduce the likelihood that video calls with colleagues and clients will be interrupted by kids and pets.

Attic conversions are not always possible, and the following are three important factors homeowners may need to consider before they can go forward with such projects.

1. Dimensions: Both the renovation experts at This Old House and the real estate experts at UpNest indicate that at least half of a finished attic must be a minimum of seven feet high and seven feet wide and 70 square feet. Requirements may differ depending on where homeowners live, but that 7-7-70 guideline is generally the minimum requirement. An attic that fails to meet such requirements won't necessarily be a lost cause, but it might be costly to make adjustments that ultimately align with local codes.

2. Access: Access is another aspect that must adhere to local safety guidelines. Many attics are accessible only through pulldown ladders, but that will have to change if homeowners repurpose their attic spaces. A staircase that complies with local laws will need to be installed, and contractors can work with homeowners to build that and estimate the cost. Homeowners who simply want to put desks in their attics without going with full-fledged conversions are urged to adhere to local access requirements anyway, as they're intended to ensure residents can safely escape attics in the case of a fire or another emergency.

3. Climate control: Attics are converted to provide residents with more livable space. Converted space is only livable if the climate within the attic can be controlled so it's cool in the summer and warm in the winter. An existing HVAC unit needs to efficiently heat and cool an extra room. If it can't, bills might spike because the rest of the home likely won't be as comfortable, forcing homeowners to adjust thermostats to offset that discomfort. That also could affect the unit's life expectancy. Before going forward with an attic renovation, homeowners should contact HVAC professionals to determine if attic spaces can be serviced with the existing units and ductwork, or if an alternative arrangement must be worked out to make the spaces livable.

Attic conversions can be great ways to make existing spaces more livable. Homeowners considering such projects should pay attention to three important variables as they try to determine if attic conversions will work for them.

Planning ahead is vital to a successful renovation undertakings. significant Homeowners must consider a host of variables before any such project can begin. While planning ahead may take time, it is essential to ensuring successful completion of a renovation project. Consider these pre-renovation planning pointers to help any job go smoothly.

Determine your motivation for renovating

Renovation projects often involve balancing needs and wants, and determining if a project is a necessity or a luxury can set the timeline and course of the project. Is the roof leaking? If so, immediate action is necessary. Could the kitchen be a bit more functional? If the kitchen is still manageable, a a little bit to get better prices on bulk of the work and keep the the renovation plan.

Remodeling projects are appliances or contracting ser- project on budget. vices.

> Separating needs from wants helps homeowners map out a viable timeline that maximizes productivity and affordability.

Get professional advice

Many homeowners are under the impression that doing the work themselves can save a considerable amount of money. This may be the case for homeowners with renovation experience. But by and large, professional contractors are an asset to any renovation. They can provide a realistic overview are based on a percentage of the of the project, map out projected costs, point out areas that could be troublesome, and may homeowner may be able to wait the job, a contractor can do the fees and processing times into

Get necessary permits

Permits are designed to ensure the work is being done to code and in a safe manner. However, they are not without additional costs and processing time, and that can cause some homeowners to skip this step. According to the home information site The Spruce, building permits cost anywhere from $400 to about $2,200 for new home construction. Building permits for smaller projects can cost $100 or less, and typically anticipated cost of the project.

A permit may be issued the day the application is submithave industry contacts that can ted, while other cities and towns keep supply costs low. Even if a may issue permits up to two or homeowner will do a portion of more weeks later. Factor permit

If it comes to light a homeowner did work without a required permit, he or she may face penalties; may have to tear out work done to have it inspected or redone; some may be unable to sell a home until permits have been obtained and work has been done to code. Homeowners insurance coverage also may be affected if homeowners do not obtain the proper permits. Other considerations when planning a renovation include writing out a strict budget, gathering inspiration, drawing up to-scale renovation plans, pouring over material reviews, and getting recommendations for reliable professionals to do the job. While not every obstacle can be avoided, planning is a good way to start successfully.

Signs a roof needs repair or replacement investment. But roof damage can force homeowners to replace a roof regardless of how much time has lapsed since the roof was installed.

The average life span of a roof depends on when the roof was installed and the materials it is made from. According to Central Homes Roofing, three-tab shingles may last between 10 and 15 years, architectural shingles can endure for 15 to 20 years, and tile may last between 35 and 50 years. RPS Metal Roofing indicates a metal roof may last as long as 70 years. However, climate and color of the roof also will affect its longevity.

Homeowners would be wise to consider these factors when determining if a roof is in need of repairs or replacement.

• Roof age: The age of the roof is a major factor in determining if it will need to be replaced or if repairs can be made to isolated damage. Individuals who live in neighborhoods where neighbors are now replacing roofs will likely find it is time to consult a roofing company. Homeowners also can check to see if they have any receipts that indicate the roof's installation date so they have an idea about its age.

• Grain in gutters: Roofing shingles are designed to overlap, and sealant keeps but the presence of certain them steady. Friction, weather and atmospheric changes repairs will be necessary.

Many homeowners believe can impact sealant and cause a roof is a once-in-a-lifetime degradation. Gutters with grainy material in them could indicate worn out sealant and shingles.

• Ridge damage: Ridges are spots where two separate areas meet and often are important to the structural integrity of the roof. If the roof ridge is showing signs of wear, it could be time to repair or replace it.

• Curled shingle edges: If shingle tabs are curled or cupped, the shingles may need to be replaced. But if curling is extensive, a whole new root may need to be installed.

 Bald spots or lost portions of the roof: Missing granules and missing shingles are reasons to consult a pro for a roof evaluation.

Leaks indoors Homeowners who find dark streaks or moisture in the attic may discover that water is penetrating the roof underlay. Water often comes in around chimney flashing. Other water signs are blistering and bubbling in walls.

• Incoming light: Look up through the attic and see if any light is coming through the roof, which may indicate there are cracks or holes in the roof.

• Aesthetics: If a homeowner doesn't like the look of the roof from a design standpoint, a replacement also may be warranted.

Roofs can last many years, signs indicates replacement or

How Can Gig Workers Fill the Benefits Gap?

Are you a "gig" worker? If so, you've got a lot of companv – by some estimates, more than a third of U.S. workers participate in the gig economy as freelancers, independent contractors or moonlighters. And while gig work offers some attractive features, such as flexibility in setting your hours and no real limits on your income potential, it also comes with challenges. Specifically, you may miss out on the array of benefits available to full-time employees of many organizations. How can you fill this benefits gap?

Let's look at some of the standard employer-offered benefits and ways you can acquire them on your own:

• Retirement plan - When you work as an employee, you may have access to an employer-sponsored retirement plan. These types of plans allow you to save for retirement in a tax-advantaged way. As a gig worker, you may be able to get these same benefits through your own retirement plan. You can always contribute to a traditional or Roth IRA, but you can invest much more in other types of plans, such as a SEP IRA, a SIMPLE IRA and possibly even a "solo" 401(k). A financial professional can recommend the plan that's suitable for your situation.

• Life and disability insurance - Many employers offer life insurance as an employee benefit, and while this coverage may not be sufficient, depending on one's family situation, it's at least something. But as a gig worker, you'll need to get your own life insurance, which is essential if you have anyone depending on you for financial support. You may also want to look for disability insurance to replace part of your income should you ever become temporarily unable to work due to illness or injury. It's worth noting that some organizations for freelancers and self-employed individuals offer access to life and disability insurance, so you might want to do some research online to check out these

• Health insurance – As you know, health insurance is always a pretty big issue for just about everyone, regardless of their work status. Of course, many mid- to-large-size employers offer health insurance to their employees, but as a gig worker, you'll need to find your own, unless you're covered by your spouse's plan. In looking for health insurance, you may want to contact a "navigator," the position created by the Affordable Care Act (ACA) to help individuals find coverage. You can find someone in your area by going to healthcare. gov and following the prompts. Depending on your income, you may be able to receive subsidies through the ACA.

Paid time off and unemployment insurance - Many full-time employees are given paid time off for sick leave and vacation. They may also receive unemployment insurance if they lose their job. Since most gig workers won't have access to these benefits, it's important to have an emergency fund available for unexpected (or even expected) income dips. Ideally, you'd want three to six months' worth of living expenses in your emergency fund, but even a few hundred dollars can help create a lot more security to cover life's unexpected events.

Full-time employees receive something of great value in their benefits packages. As a gig worker, you'll have to take the initiative to close this benefits gap but the opportunities are there, so do what you can to find them. It will be worth the effort.

Commission head touts work done by Bierman

Veterans: From 1

"Compared to what we've had, Melissa is the type of person that goes the extra mile for our veterans," Kuehn said, "and we didn't want to lose her to another county. ... What she does for our veterans, what she wards," said Supervisor Jake Hackman, does in the community, we looked at all that and we just felt like this was a decision

Bierman currently works a 35-hour a week schedule and is paid an hourly rate. The commission voted to make her a 40-hour a week salaried employee, effective on Monday, when the pay raise took effect. In essence, her hourly rate will increase from $17.01 to $20.30, an increase of 19.6 percent.

The Veterans Commission is one of several autonomous boards in the county. but because the Board of Supervisors has control of the amount of dollars in each of those boards' budgets, it in effect controls dle of this budget year means supervisors the "purse strings" of the county's autonomous budgets.

"I understand what you are doing, but I think we are going at this a little backwho added that he wished a salary increase would have been talked about when supervisors and the Veterans Commission discussed next year's budget.

"My fear in this is what board's next, what director is next?"

Supervisor Jason Byrne said that didn't worry him as much because other directors are at the "higher end of the scale."

Kuehn told supervisors Monday that she expects the commission to give Bierman a 3 percent raise in the new fiscal year that starts on July 1, although that raise won't be considered for a month or two.

Bumping Bierman's salary in the midwill have to go through a budget amendment before June 30 because the Veterans Commission budget can't cover the entire cost of the raise, FICA and IPERS.

Hackman asked Bierman if the pay raise approved by the commission would keep her in Chickasaw County and she didn't hesitate to answer.

"Yes, absolutely."

And that was good news to Kuehn, who said that Bierman has served the county well since taking over the office in late 2020.

'She does a great job for our veterans, she gets the benefits they're entitled to and she's always in their corner," she said. "Melissa goes to the VFW, the American Legion, the post meetings and does a great job advocating for all of our veterans.

· Law enforcement members, fire chiefs, dispatchers and first responders.

• County officials, including the Board of Supervisors and the Emergency Management Agency director.

• Business and community leaders, including various service club leaders.

Hackman said, in his opinion, it was important for all county residents to not only have a chance to have their voices heard but also have the ability to be open and frank with the SafeTech personnel who will conduct the interviews.

The Not-So-Newlywed Game was first held in 2020 as a fundraiser for the service club, and after taking a year off last year because of COVID-19 returned this past Thursday. Almost 200 residents turned out to see couples see if they could connect on questions like what is your spouse's favorite holiday, what is your husband's most prized possession and what would your husband say is your most irritating habit?

The good news? Everyone left married and the Rotary Club raised funds that it uses to support a number of local scholarships and organizations.

PRIMER ON LENT

CHURCH

T SHOULD NOT BE A TIME OF RESOLUTIONS BUT OF REPENTANCE

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Lenten season begins in less than two weeks with Ash Wednesday set for May 2 this year. We often hear the word "Lent" but what is the meaning behind the season? We turned to christianity.com for some answers.

Many Christians have heard of Lent, but do all know what it means? According to Merriam-Webster, Lent means "the 40 weekdays from Ash Wednesday to Easter observed by the Roman Catholic, Eastern, and some Protestant churches as a period of penitence and fasting."

Between Ash Wednesday and Easter, many Christians observe a 40-day period known as Lent. This name comes from the "Old English lencten springtime, spring" and "from West Germanic langitinaz longdays or lengthening of the day.'

Popularly regarded as a period of fasting, there are many ways to make the Lenten period meaningful without missing meals. What is Lent and why should one take part? Does every participant follow a strict Lenten plan of rigid self-denial?

Meaning of Lent

Lent is meant to be a time of repentance. That's not a feeling of shame, but an awareness that sin separates us from God and of what it cost Him to be reunited with us.

Shame has its place, but feeling shame over sin is not the same thing as repentance from sin" because "our tempter can take our obedience to God and turn it into a source of pride."

Repentant sinners "seek [...] cleansing from sin, but also freedom from shame.³ True repentance leads" to a "180-degree change of [...] direction," requires "true brokenness," but repentance starts with "regretful acknowledgment of sin with commitment to change."

That is why conflating Lent with New Year's resolutions is dangerous.

This time of fasting should not add religious encouragement to a difficult goal: to lose weight, stop watching pornography, or to give money to charity. "Lent is [...] an opportunity to contemplate what our Lord really did for us on the Cross.'

Resolutions focus on meeting self-set, self-motivated goals rather than goals established by God and may even rebel against His purposes.

Resolutions reflect a desire for autonomy from God instead of recognizing that the body is the temple of the Holy Spirit (1 Corinthian 3:16, 6:19) and the work of the potter, to be regarded as precious (Isaiah 64:8).

Resolutions simply focus on "self," not Christ. Lent is a good time to give up one's own resolutions and listen for God's leading. Where God leads might be more difficult than any fast, and, here, Christians realize that they cannot do anything in their own strength either: only the grace of God is sufficient (2 Corinthians 12:9).

HUMBLE YOURSELVES THEREFORE UNDER THE MIGHTY HAN THAT HE MAY EXALT YOU

of Israel, because they had fallen by the sword" (2 Samuel 1:12).

Before going to her husband to intercede for the Jews, Esther told Mordecai, 'Go, gather together all the Jews who are in Susa, and fast for me. Do not eat or drink for three days, night or day. I and my attendants will fast as you do" (Esther 4:16). Jews and Christians have historically fasted to show repentance, to grieve particularly difficult trials, and to "seek God's favor."

While Protestants also take part, Catholic churches are particularly associated with Lent.

Community fasting provided accountability and support, but also led to pressure and judgment. Today, "some still observe fasts that restrict quantity and type of food," but "many view Lent as a time in which to give up a particular vice, bad habit, or pleasurable thing." In the 21st century, Christians frequently use the fasting season to motivate them to continue with New Year's resolutions in a blend of secular and Christian observance.

Lent is also associated with Ash Vednesday, the first day of Lent, where "some Christians mark their foreheads with ash as a symbol of sorrow and mourning over their sin." Then I turned my face to the Lord God, seeking him by prayer and pleas for mercy with fasting and sackcloth and ashes (Daniel 9:3). There was great mourning among the Jews, with fasting and weeping and lamenting, and many of them lay in sackcloth and ashes (Esther 4:3). The word reached the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, removed his robe, covered himself with sackcloth, and sat in ashes (Jonah 3:6). Job 42 associates ashes with repentance, an association borne out over and over in scripture Christians honor the 40 days and nights following Christ's baptism when He went into the wilderness without water and food and was tempted by Satan.

During that time, Christ did what we do today when we fast: wrestle with temptation. This was not the first fast; biblical figures often fasted when petitioning God for something important. "So we fasted What I and implored our God [...], and he listened in Lent? to our entreaty" (Ezra 8:23). The Israelites "mourned and wept and fasted till evening for Saul and his son Jonathan, and for the army of the LORD and for the nation

No church history indicates the year when believers first took part in the tradition or what was required. Lenten fasting "has consisted of abstaining from all animal products" for some, but "for others, fish and/or poultry were allowed." Certain societies have permitted "only bread" for a time.

There were full-day fasts; half-day fasts; and the potential to pay money in order to be excused from participating.

What Does it Mean to Participate

In other words, there are numerous ways to approach Lent, some more legalistic than devotional. Still, the origins of Lent seem to be rooted in Christians giv-

Jeff was born on Feb. 1, 1964, to Jerome and Vera (Wilharm) Leach in Sumner, and he grew up in the Fredericksburg area with his parents and his sister Karie and his brother Travis.

He attended school in excelled in football and track; in fact, for many years, Jeff held the school record in the 200-meter dash. He graduated from Fredericksburg High School in 1982 and attended Hawkeye Community College where he studied in the auto Board and enjoyed giving back body program.

Jeff took a job as an auto mechanic with Vern Laures Auto Center in 1986 and spent 30 years "under the hoods" of vehicles. He was one of those guys who always put the customer first. He made sure their cars and trucks were in tip-top condition and was one of those mechanics who believed that his job was to fix vehicles and derful husband to Brenda for not try to sell customers something they didn't need.

He was a hard worker his entire life. For many years, he worked for Reicks View Farms, especially during the planting and harvesting seasons, which meant he'd work a full day for Vern, head to the fields for another "full day," get home at 2 a.m. and be back to work at the shop early in the morning.

Jeff put up a valiant and courageous fight against Stage IV lung cancer for the past six years, and his doctors told his wife and children that he was in many ways, a miracle. Although he had to give up his job at Vern Laures, he worked as a driv-Fredericksburg, where he er for Milkhouse Candles for a while, but more than anything, those that knew Jeff will always remember his tenacity and the positive attitude he showed throughout his tenacious battle.

He served a couple of years on the New Hampton Library to the community where he and his wife raised their family.

Jeff also was so looking forward to the birth of his first grandchild – a boy who is scheduled to arrive this April - but we also know that when that young boy arrives, he'll be the proudest grandpa in Heaven.

Born near New Hartford on Jan. 23, 1914, Paul was the fourth child of five children (three boys; two girls) of German immigrants, Carl and Wilhelmina "Minnie" (Gribbe) Hassman of Bramloge and Neustadtgödens (East Frisia) respectively. Paul often quipped, "I couldn't be more German than if I was born there [Germany]."

When Paul was 3 years old, the family moved to a farm bordering the Wapsipinicon River in Richland Township of rural New Hampton. One of Paul's jokes was, "We weren't born in a log cabin, but we moved to one as soon as we could." Another joke was, "My first job was parking covered wagons."

Paul attended grade school at the nearest country school on the west side of the river. He attended New Hampton High School, graduating in 1933. Paul worked at the Northern Lumber Yard and also worked two summers for the DeKalb Company in DeKalb, Illinois. Paul was the head crew member of a corn harvesting crew.

Paul attended Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa in 1936 and 1937. There he met the love of his life Lucille Reavis, from Ft. Smith, Arkansas. Lucille received a home economics degree in 1938, taught one year and then married Paul on May 21, 1939 in Ft. Smith, Arkansas.

Paul and Lucille went on to raise a large family. Eight children were born from 1940 to 1956.

Their first married year, Paul and Lucille lived near Williamstown and Boyd and farmed both places. In 1940 they moved into New Hampton where Paul expanded his trucking business. MoorMan's feed was delivered to 13 Northeast Iowa counties. Paul also bought and sold grain. Hassman Elevator and Trucking remained in business until the early 1970s. Paul began working as a licensed real estate agent. He sold lots, houses in town and farm properties. Privately, Paul built and sold duplexes. He was part-owner of the Kumeth Baby Bed Company.

After retirement Paul had more time for hobbies. He completed 10 RAGBRAI rides. His daily fitness passions included walking and bicycling around New Hampton. Paul's favorite board game was Scrabble; friends came often to play with him.

Paul was an enthusiastic American Red Cross blood donor; he donated hundreds of pints.

Paul's lifetime community involvements, accomplishments, and honors are legion, beginning with his "Iowa State Wrestling Champion" in the 155-pound class in 1933 and his election to Iowa's FFA vice president position in 1934-1935. It was not uncommon for high school graduates to continue in FFA. To provide

He graduated in 1952 from St. William's High School in Alta Vista. After attending Loras College for a period of time, Tom worked at Borden's Ice Cream in Cedar Rapids for two years before returning home to help on the farm after the death of his father.

On June 29, 1957, Tom Nicholas Gebel was united in marriage to Marian Johanna Wacha at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Lourdes. The "Home of the Seven Gebels," Tom and Marian raised their five children – Deb, Tim, Terri, Mike and Andy, in New Hampton.

During this time, Tom worked for Elma Locker, Liddles supermarket, Jack and Jill supermarket, and Sara Lee. While working for Sara Lee, he also served in a part-time position reading meters for the City of New Hampton and, upon his eventual retirement from Sara Lee, he began part-time delivery for the local flower shop Pocketful of Posies. These part-time positions were perfect for Tom, as he could always socialize with any stranger and enjoyed the opportunity to brighten people's days with flowers.

Tom was a Knights of Columbus member since 1955 and an active member of St. Joseph's and St. Mary's parishes, where he attended mass regularly.

He was a frequent golfer once achieving a hole-in-one and card player, with his favorite card game being euchre.

Other interests of his included fishing, gardening, hunting, traveling with Marian and friends on bus trips, and puttering around in the yard—where he'd survey his raspberry bushes and his bird feeders. Tom kept the neighborhood bird varieties well fed and had an impressive ability to recognize each species.

Thanks to his two favorite hobbies, jam making and jigsaw puzzling, visitors frequently left Tom's company with a fresh jar of raspberry jam or a beautifully framed jigsaw puzzle he had just completed. He also found joy in watching sports with Marian, talking about his baseball card collection, trying his luck at a casino, visiting Dubuque and just spending time with his numerous loving family members and friends.

Jannette Zubrod, 79

Jannette Zubrod, age 79 of Ionia, died Saturday, Feb. 12, 2022, at her home surrounded by her family.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday, Feb. 18, 2022, at Hugeback-Johnson Funeral Home & Crematory in New Hampton with the Rev. Brian Dellaert officiating.

Interment will be held at St. Marys Cemetery, North Washington with Bobby Zubrod, Tucker Colsch, JT Gantenbein, Bryce Wilbur, Peyton Wilbur, Dustin Crowson and Dylan Vassar serving as pallbearers.

Friends may greet the family from 4 to 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 17, 2022, at Hugeback-Johnson Funeral Home & Crematory in New Hampton. Visitation continues an hour prior to the service at the funeral home on Friday.

Jannette was born on Oct. 15, 1942, to Donald and Rosella (Marvin) Crooks and grew up with her two sisters and one brother — first in Charles City and then near Ionia. She attended country school for a couple of years before receiving the rest of her education in New Hampton.

She married Bob Zubrod on Sept. 27, 1959, at the Little Brown Church in Nashua, and the couple settled in Charles City for a few years before moving to their farm in the Ionia area

She was also a one-of-a-kind cook and baker, and those that had her sticky buns or pies always went home happy, and trust us, Jannette kept up a sparking house; in fact, she was pretty OCD when it came to cleaning.

Jannette took a job at Sara Lee and worked on the "Bavarian Line" for 25 years, where her co-workers always said that working a 10-hour shift with Jannette didn't feel like work because she was so fun to be around.

As much as she loved her a mother that was simply the children, she absolutely adored her 11 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren, who could do no wrong in Grandma's eyes!

This remarkable woman has left those who knew her with so many good memories, and although her family and friends are mourning her loss, it is those memories that will bring smiles to their faces for years to come.

death came as a shock. Almost everywhere I've been since last Thursday, Paul Hassman has come up in the conversation.

For 108 years, he touched the lives of so many of us, and the people I've talked to used words like "gentleman," "grace" and "amazing" as they talked about a man who remained so sharp for so long.

And even if we were talking by phone, the emotion in their voices was so real it was dang near palatable.

"He was such a gentleman, always a gentleman," longtime New Hampton Rotary Club member Suellen Kolbet said. "and that's one thing I'll always remember about him. He was the kind of man who always held the door for you, who was always so sweet."

She paused for a moment, and although Kolbet was talking to me from Florida, I knew a smile was forming on her face.

humor; in fact, he had the best sense of humor."

Rotary Club celebrates its members birthdays by having them say a few words. Oftentimes, members talk about their families, their children and their jobs, but on this day, when someone asked Paul how old he was, that wry Paul Hassman smile came into view.

"I'm not going to say I'm old," he said, "but I don't buy green bananas.'

All of us in the room lost it that day, but then again, Paul had a way of getting off the best one-liners – some of which are included in his obituary that appears in this edition of the Tribune.

But well past a 100, Hassman still had lessons to teach and values to instill in those around him.

Just ask Jim Russ, the New Hampton FFA advisor, whose organization's motto is "Learning to Do, Doing to Learn, Earning to Live, Living to Serve.³

"He lived that motto, I think every day of his life," Russ said, "and I think for my kids, for my students, he was that historical connection we all need. ... When he met with the state officers in 2020, I remember they were on their way up and they were told, 'He's 105 or something like that so I'm not sure how long we're going to be there.' Two hours later, he was still talking, still, in his own way, teaching young people the value of FFA.

His remarkable life began in 1914, and he was born less than two years after the Titantic sunk and more than six months before the start of World War I.

Bob Fenske/Tribune The day after his 99th birthday, Paul Hassman acknowledges the crowd as he represents the Chickasaws' 1933 state championship team before a 2013 dual meet between New Hampton and Osage.

He saw the world change remarkably in his 108 years, and Russ laughed when he said that "I think my students learned that they really don't have it as hard as they think they do after talking to Paul."

Turn to Page 8 and read his obituary, because if you ever want to read about a life well lived, it's there.

The obituary could stop at his retirement and it would have been an extraordinary life, but for many of us who only knew Paul Hassman as a man first in his 90s and then his 100s, we marveled at the zest for life he had as he neared and then passed the century mark.

"His mind was so sharp, and he was just so much fun," said Bill Riley, who for years picked up Hassman and drove him to Rotary Club meetings. "You'd watch him play Scrabble, and you knew the competition was in real trouble. ... Or you'd be in a room with him that was so calm, and he'd get off one of his one-liners, and he just slayed the entire room."

Riley remembers one meeting in which someone was telling the story they had read about a Charles City woman who was in her 90s yet remained an incredibly active volunteer in her community.

"Paul was past 100, I remember that, and he gave us that smile," he said, "and said, 'Anyone got her number?' and we all lost it."

If the wrestling meet story I started this column with isn't my favorite Paul Hassman memory, then it would have been the RAGBRAI celebration in New Hampton.

Rotary set up a tent announcing that riders could have their pictures taken with the oldest resident of New Hampton, and hundreds of them stopped by, made a donation, had their picture taken and snapped their own selfies with our city's legend.

He got more than a few pecks on the cheek, too, and late in the day, I walked by and he said, "Fenske, I think we might want to have RAGBRAI come to New Hampton next week, too."

A minute before, I was hot, I was tired and I didn't think anything or anyone could make me laugh at that point of the day.

I was wrong.

That was Paul Hassman, though. He brightened everyone's day, he brightened every room he ever entered.

His longtime friend may have said it best.

'The world just isn't going to be the same without Paul, Riley said in a voice chock full of emotion.

True that. But dang, you have to admit, Paul Hassman made the world a better place every day of his 108 years.

Nashua mulls options with sheriff

Council makes no decision but considering reducing hours to 200

BY KELLY TERPSTRA

Of the Reporter

This agenda item got tabled, but a decision eems imminent.

No new contract was signed at last Monday's Nashua City Council meeting regarding law enforcement services provided by the Chickasaw County Sheriff's Department, which currently patrols the streets of Nashua.

Nashua council members are discussing whether or not to reduce the current monthly hour total of 240 hours that deputies provide patrol, investigation and all auxiliary and technical services provided by the Chickasaw County Sheriff's Department.

Nashua no longer has a police force, as police chief Jeremy Iriarte resigned that position last

A rough draft has been worked up but no contract has been officially signed. The services provided by the Sheriff's Department would begin on July 1 of this year and would be for one year if a contract is signed. The current two-year contract runs out on June 30 of this year.

Chickasaw County Sheriff Marty Hemann said he would like to see a contract with the city of Nashua completed by at least spring – around late March or early April.

"At some point we're going to have sign something that everybody's in agreement with," said Hemann.

Hemann and his staff of deputies have been patrolling Nashua for well over three years and the city will not have to pay for dispatch services as there is no longer a police force. Hemann said that will save Nashua around $11,000.

The pay rate for deputies will be increased from $56.81 to $59.50 under the new contract. That's an increase of $7,700, but Hemann said the city's overall savings would be $3,700 because of the removal of dispatch services used by the city. The Sheriff's office would provide all emergency, regular radio and telephone communications according to the rough draft.

The total yearly sum the city would pay the Sheriff's Department, should a contract be signed to agree to 240 hours, would bump up from $163,000 annually to approximately $171,000. Payments would be made semi-annually, with the first half amounting to around $85,000.

Nashua's city budget for fiscal year 2023, which starts on that July 1 date of this year, has increased by just over 9 percent.

Council member Rhonda Dean stated that hourly change was the only potential revision in the contract that the council is discussing. Council members Samantha Johnson and Hal Kelleher said they would be in favor of keeping the hours the same at 240.

Johnson has inquired to obtain call log information concerning how many calls for service Nashua receives in a year. She also said she is going to interview current sheriff's deputies and Nashua citizens to also get more feedback on the proposed contract.

"I know there's more information out there to make everybody more convinced on an option, said Johnson.

Hemann said he would provide that call for service information to Johnson and the council.

"We should be able to give you a couple year's worth of how many calls are in the city of Nashua, just so you can see calls for service per month," said Hemann. "You might be surprised maybe you won't be surprised.'

Johnson also discussed the benefits of having law enforcement close to the city, as opposed to being clear on the other end of the county and having to drive clear to Nashua after a deputy receives a call.

"Somebody who wants to vandalize something sees one of the cops in town, they're going to think twice before doing something because they're going to know the response time is going to be pretty quick," said Johnson.

It was also mentioned at the meeting that the town of Fredericksburg has a contract with the Chickasaw County Sheriff's Department for use of their law enforcement services, but that hourly time spent per month by deputies is less than Nashua's. Nashua also receives more calls for service than Fredericksburg.

"From what I'm hearing, the call ratio is a 2 to 1. So for every one that Fredericksburg gets, we're getting two," said Johnson.

The flipside to lowering hours on the contract would be that the city would still have to pay the sheriff's department should their hours of patrol exceed 200 hours.

"Say we were to drop our hours and the deputies are still spending 240 hours in here because of calls or alarms or whatever, eventually it's going to get to the point where the attorney and everybody's going to say we're spending as much time here. It could turn into a previous billing situation and something we have to pay back,' said Johnson.

Turkey Valley pitches a second quarter shutout in 45-24 victory

By Dorothy Huber dorhubernews@gmail.com

When Hailey Elsbernd grabbed a rebound under the basket, was fouled and stepped up to the line to sink a pair of free throws against Kee High Thursday night, Turkey Valley owned a 36-19 lead in the first round of regional action.

Since only 4:42 remained in the game, Elsbernd was confident her team would move on to the next round of action, and they did with a 45-24 win.

Those were the only two points for Elsbernd, while Turkey Valley's Jacqlyn Schmitt led the team with 21 points, mostly from directly under the basket.

Like most nights, it can be a brutal spot to be in and Elsbernd didn't express any interest in trading with Schmitt.

"Yeah, Jacqlyn can stay there, I don't like it down Elsbernd with a said laugh. "But I knew I have to get that rebound." For the third time this season, the Trojan girls defeated the 7-15 Kee Hawks. There were speculations as to whether or not Kee's leading scorer, Reagan Mudderman, would play after sustaining an injury recently. It would be a big loss, since Mudderman is third in Class 1A in scoring with 469 points (24.7 ppg), while leading the Upper Iowa Conference in points, assists and steals. "We didn't know if she would play, we practiced like she was going to," Elsbernd said, "but it's hard to guard her, she's a good player. Mudderman showed that in the first quarter, scoring 10 of her team's 13 points. Her steal and basket put Kee HIgh up 7-2 but by the end of the first quarter the TV girls trimmed the Kee lead to two, 13-11. Turkey Valley's defense then not only held Mudderman scoreless in the second quarter, but shut out the entire Kee team. One of those Schmitt inside baskets put the Trojans up 19-13 at intermission.

Schmitt added 14 rebounds to go with her game-high 21 points; she outscored the league-leader from Kee by four points as Mudderman ended with 17 points and the rest of her team combined for seven points. Chickasaws have plenty of heroes in district win to tonight's (Thursday) semifinal game against top-seeded Denver on the Cyclones' home court.

Wemark wasn't at his best; in fact, his stat line — nine points, six rebounds, one assist and two blocks — was, at least for him, rather pedestrian.

But 10 days after scoring 33 points in an overtime win over Charles City despite suffering a pretty severe bout of the stomach flu, he reminded the old-timers in the crowd of the great New York Knicks' center, Willis Reed, who led his team to the 1970 NBA title with a heroic Game 7 performance after suffering a devastating knee injury several days before.

"I wanted to at least give it a shot," Wemark said, "and it definitely hurts right now. But playing and, honestly, adrenaline kept me going out there."

Shekleton scored six points to help stake New Hampton to an 11-8 first quarter lead, and Wemark didn't score until three minutes into the second quarter when his jumper tied the game at 13.

Both teams, though, struggled to score all night, save for the last 30 seconds of the first half when Adam Ewert knocked down a 3-pointer to give New Hampton a 20-17 lead only to see the Cougars' Peyton Schmitz answer with a long ball at the buzzer.

Making matters worse for New Hampton was that Carter Steinlage, the Chickasaws' second leading scorer, went down with an ankle injury in the second quarter.

"I feel like we're a M*A*S*H unit right now," New Hampton coach Ryan Rausch said after his team improved to 11-11. "We're banged up and bruised and I'm thinking going into halftime, 'What's next?'

But Steinlage returned for the second half, and New Hampton's unselfishness led to a frame in which it outscored Sumner-Fredericksburg 15-10.

Good ball movement led to a 3-pointer by Shekleton, who was coming off a game in which he scored just two points, a Steinlage pass set up Cael Laures for a layup and a Mason Lane assist gave Laures another easy score as New Hampton built a 35-30 lead.

New Hampton's Drake Wemark blocks a shot put up by Sumner-Fredericksburg's Peyton Schmitz during the second half of Monday's Class 2A district game that was played in La Porte City.

fourth quarter for both teams; in fact, more than three minutes went off the clock before the Cougars' Achilles Quigley hit a shot to cut the deficit to 35-32.

A Ben Gilbert baseline jumper, though, sparked a 9-4 run that gave New Hampton a 44-36 lead and effectively put the game away for the Chickasaws. The run was highlighted by a Wemark no-look pass to Laures, who put up a shot off the glass with less than a minute to go

'One of the things I've learned," Laures said, "is that when Drake has the ball, expect you might get the ball. I don't know how he got it to me, but dang, that was an awesome one.'

Laures was one of the unsung heroes Monday night as the sophomore finished with six points, four rebounds and four blocked shots.

"I think I'm just getting a lot more confident," he said, "and a lot of it is the guys have really stuck with me. Even But the well went dry early in the when I've struggled, they're really positive, and that's meant a lot to me."

Then again, there were a lot of heroes on this night. Lane overcame a tough night shooting to finish with seven points, three assists and three steals. Shekleton added three steals to lot of heart. We saw that tonight. That's his 11 points while Steinlage, who finished that key run in the fourth quarter with a fast-break basket, also had three assists.

"We had a lot of guys step up at the right time," Rausch said, "but the big thing was we really got after them defensively. That was everyone stepping up to help out. That was everyone having everyone else's back.'

Rausch and his players didn't care that it wasn't a masterpiece; they only cared that it was a win.

"Survive and advance, right? Seriously, that's all that matters,' Wemark said.

But they also know they must play better tonight against a Denver team that is 16-6 and led by Caylor Hoffer, a sharpshooting senior guard averaging 22.7 points a game.

"We're going to give it our best shot," Rausch said, "and I'll tell you this much, we're going to play hard and play with a all I want. If we do that, let's see where the chips fall.

Tough ending to regular season for Chickasaws New Hampton boys fall to NEIC rival on Senior Night, lose star player and then the game to Oelwein

By Bob Fenske editor@nhtrib.com

This was not the script the New Hampton boys basketball team had in mind when it came to the final week of the regular season. Coming off it's best game of the season – a come-frombehind overtime victory over Charles City – the Chickasaws seemed poise to head into the postseason on a roll; after all New Hampton had already scored a double-digit victory over Crestwood and was closing the season against a 2-18 Oelwein squad.

Instead, last week produced a resounding thud for the Chickasaws.

Not only did New Hampton end the regular season below .500 with losses in both home games - 68-59 to the Cadets Thursday and 58-50 to Oelwein Friday – but also saw its best player go down with an injury.

"I am just sick to my stomach," New Hampton coach Ryan Rausch said Friday night. "I feel so bad for our seniors because obviously we wanted these last two games at home to be high notes for them."

The Cadets and Huskies, though, had other ideas.

After New Hampton honored Drake Wemark, Mason Lane, Tyler Wiltse and Tristan Hanson and their parents Thursday night, New Hampton found itself down early, 11-0.

But a Wiltse old-fashioned three-point play at the end of the quarter capped a 15-3 run and gave New Hampton the lead heading into the second period.

"I think people don't always appreciate the things Tyler does for us," Rausch said, but the minutes he gives us, no one – and I mean no one – outworks him. He makes so many hustle plays for us."

The Chickasaws continued to roll and led 23-15 early in the second quarter. But momentum is a fickle thing, and suddenly, it turned to the Cadets' side as Crestwood ended the half with a 24-5 run to take a 39-28 lead into the break.

"I feel so bad because quite Oelwein, though, didn't fold and scored the game's final nine points to pull off the upset.

Steinlage finished with 20 points while Laures just missed a double-double with nine points and 10 rebounds.

New Hampton star receiver to play at Morningside

Wemark chooses football over hoops because of 'higher ceiling'

Drake Wemark's dream for NAIA national title three of the years was to play college basketball.

But the more success he had on the gridiron, the more the really liked the coaches as soon eight interceptions. New Hampton senior thought about letting go of his dream and focusing on football when his days as a Chickasaw came to an end.

"I love basketball, always have and always will," he said, "but I love football, too, and I thought my ceiling was higher in football than basketball.'

Chickasaws turn season around in postseason

NH/TV: From 22

Although Howe would lose his finals match, his trip to state was clinched when Schemmel survived an upset bid in the third-place match to claim an 8-6 win.

"It was a little weird, because all I wanted to do was beat him in the first round,' he said, "and then after I got pinned [in the finals], I've never wanted someone to win as much as I wanted [Schemmel] to find a way. I would have been ready to wrestle [a true-second match], but I didn't want to."

Tenge, meanwhile, came into the tournament after two straight weekends — first at the Northeast Iowa Conference meet and then at the sectional tournament – of just missing out on titles because of overtime losses.

The Chickasaw junior dominated Dike-New Hartford's Cavden Buskohl – racing out to a 9-1 lead before recording a second-period pin — in the opening round to set up a finals rematch with Mitch Johnson of Independence.

After a scoreless first period, Tenge got a quick escape to start the second and his relentless attacks paid off with a takedown late in the period. Although Tenge would give up a third-period escape and be dinged for one-point stalling call, that was enough to give him a district title.

"I'm still not there shape wise," Tenge said after improving to 23-7, "but today was better. That second period was some of the best wrestling I've done this year. ... The third period should have been better but all that matters is getting to state, right?'

McShane and Herold would agree, although both had to put in some extra work on Saturday.

Since dropping down from 195 after Christmas, McShane had been unbeatable at 182. His first-round pin ran his winning streak to 20 at the weight, but fourthranked Nick Reinicke ended the streak with a dominating 7-1 win in the finals, forcing the seventh-rated McShane into a true-second match. "I had to just forget about it," McShane said, "and get my mind back to where it had to be. No way was I going to come this far and then lose here.' For two periods, McShane simply dominated Independence's Marcus Beatty. Not only did he pick up two takedowns on his way to a 5-0 lead, the Chickasaw sophomore rode Beatty for more than three minutes in the opening two periods. That was enough to give him an 8-6 victory, despite giving up three takedowns in the final period. "I had a big lead and I just knew I had to be smart and not get in a bad position," he said. "It should have been better that last period, but all that mattered was winning the dang thing so I could get to state." And then there was Herold, the Turkey Valley senior who came into the postseason with all of two regular season matches because of concussion issues. Herold, though, won last week's sectional title, and then bounced back from an opening round loss Saturday with two Bob Fenske/Tribune

"Our plan was that if they were going to leave one of us alone, we'd go for it," coach David Leichtman said. "Molly's been practicing her shot and that was a huge reward."

With some aggressive defense, NFV worked their way back and took the lead in the final 40 seconds of the first quarter. A pair of free throws by Rochford and the NH girls were up 15-12 in the second period, but the TigerHawks, aided by Chickasaw turnovers, scored nine points in a minute to go up 21-15.

"We knew it was going to be an all-out physical contest, and unfortunately on their home court," said Leichtman. "North Fayette Valley, they're double teaming Carlee and faceguarding her and she couldn't get open enough to get good shots."

Aided by a Kirsten Reicherts we took some lumps but if we wrestled the putback, a Rochford layup and Wegner's fourth 3-pointer of the half, the Chickasaws good. The TigerHawks, like many North Fayette Valley, led by Kenlin Schmitt's seven scored the Chickasaws 12-8 in the final period for the win.

"The second half we didn't said. "We tried getting into the lane but of course we had some shots blocked, their length and momentum changer for us. We weren't able to take care of the ball and they were able to get into those passing lanes and disrupt our offense.

While New Hampton only shot eight free throws - making half – the TigerHawks were 14-for-19 from the line. North Favette Valley was only charged with three second-half fouls. 'We didn't get the number of free throws we were looking for."

Wegner's 18 points was the high total for the game and Rochford, despite the attention awarded her by the NFV defense, gathered 13 for a season total of 490 points, the top point total in the Northeast Iowa Conference. North Fayette Valley was led by Schmitt with 16 points.

New Hampton finished its season with a record of 7-14 while the TigerHawks will take their 17-6 record to 17-4 Clear Lake.

Wegner had one more comment.

"Thank our senior," she said impressive wins to claim a trip to state.

^{*}All I could do was keep working, hope the headaches would go away and get a chance to wrestle," Herold said when asked if he had ever given up hope about wrestling this season? "And here I am. Man, this is the greatest feeling.'

He definitely earned it. After falling to Dike-New Hartford's Will Textor 5-2 in the opening round, Herold manhandled Crestwood's 12th-ranked Drew Jackson 11-1 in the third-place match to set up a true-second match against Indepedence's Brady McDonald.

And just like at the sectional tournament, Herold used the move - the Russian - he loves the most to take down McDonald, and just like the week before, he finished McDonald off with a pin and celebrated.

"I knew as soon as I took him down, he was done," Herold said. "He kind of went limp for a second and I knew I was going to pin him and go to state. It was really cool, I mean really, really cool."

And while it wasn't a perfect day for his Chickasaws – two seniors, Gavin Rings at 160 and Jacob Burgart at heavyweight saw Turkey Valley did have 24 turnovers to 12 for Clayton Ridge, but the Trojans excelled rebounding, with 42 boards compared to 16 for the Eagles.

Reicks shared the scoring lead with Kurtenbach, each with 12 points; Reicks added 16 rebounds and Kurtenbach four steals and each had a block. Hanson was also in double figures with 10 points and Calvin Bodensteiner turned in 10 rebounds. "Garrett, we put him in more of a

It's been a banner year for New Hampton FFA

Chapter president feels blessed to lead his chapter for a year

The past year serving as the New Hampton 2021-22 FFA president has been one to remember.

From thriving at the chapter's highs to its lows by losing very influential people, it has been a rollercoaster of events. Overall it has been more than a positive experience! I am very blessed to live and serve in a chapter as we have here in New Hampton.

Me knowing everything, I walk into my eighth grade year knowing everything about ag, just because I have been around the family farm my whole life. Man was I in for a treat!

Reicks

After learning about how much more there was to agriculture then just your traditional family farm, I knew there was something for everyone.

As president this past year that is what I highlighted most with members. No matter what we were doing — whether it was planning an event, working in our very own grape vineyard or designing something in our new industrial technology shop — there was always something for everyone.

Being a part of the New Hampton FFA chapter is a blessing. I would not want to be anywhere else.

From the vast resources, to state of the art technology, this is where to be.

But most importantly I give credit to our two advisors, Jim Russ and Steve Pfaffle. These two men have taught me more than I could ever imagine and those lessons I will use the rest of my life.

Overall, I am blessed to have been able to lead a great organization like we have here in New Hampton.

I am excited to see what the future holds because I know it will be a very bright one for the New Hampton FFA.

I want to thank the parents, members, alumni, and most importantly our advisors. This has been one of the best experiences I have had the opportunity to be a part of. Thank you to everyone who has helped guide me along the way.

Quinten Reicks, 2021-22 New Hampton FFA president

FFA pays tribute to legendary alum

Last Thursday was a sad day for the New Hampton FFA chapter as they bid farewell to one of its own and the first New Hampton student to ever serve as a state officer.

Paul Hassman, age 108, made a difference in the lives of hundreds, if not thousands, of students in the FFA program, and he was honored to visit with FFA members and officers.

In 2020, he sat down with the New Hampton officer team (above) during a meeting with state officers while wearing the jacket of one of the state officers.

That led to New Hampton FFA to later present Hassman with his own as well as his first –

FFA jacket and he then offered them a few words (above). Longtime New Hampton FFA Advisor Jim Russ said he will always remember the words Hassman spoke that day. "Whatever you're doing, apply yourself and work on it. It's part of our responsibility to help those who need some help. Be a good neighbor and friend. Don't be selfish and think too much of yourself."

FFA MAKES A DIFFERENCE

The National FFA Organization is an integral part of agricultural education by helping make classroom instruction come to life through realistic, hands-on applications.

FFA makes a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education. FFA membership today is comprised of 735,038 student members in grades seven through 12 who belong to one of 8,817 local FFA chapters throughout the United States, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

FFA operates on local, state and national levels. Student members belong to chapters organized at the local school level. Agriculture educators serve as chapter advisors. Chapters are organized under state associations headed by an advisor and executive secretary, often employees of the state department of education. States conduct programs and host annual conventions.

The National FFA Organization is governed by a board of directors, charters state associations and provides direction, program materials and support for local chapters and state FFA associations.

FFA was organized nationally in 1928 in Kansas City, Mo. In 1950, Congress granted FFA a federal charter, making it an integral part of public agricultural instruction under the National Vocational Education Act. FFA receives no federal funding

The U.S. Department of Education provides leadership and helps set direction for FFA as a service to state and local agricultural education programs.

Science, Business, Technology

The National FFA Organization has evolved in response to expanded opportunities available in the industry of agriculture. Today's FFA helps members prepare for careers in agribusiness, agrimarketing, science, communications, education, horticulture, production, natural resources, forestry and many other diverse fields.

Career Preparation

The agricultural education program provides a well-rounded, practical approach to learning through three components: Classroom education, hands-on supervised agricultural experiences and FFA, which provides leadership opportunities and tests students' agricultural skills.

Student Leadership

FFA members elect their own officers and plan and conduct activities with supervision from their chapter advisors. A team of six national officers, typically college students taking a year away from their studies, plays a key role in planning the annual National FFA Convention & Expo and other events. The National FFA Officer Team travels more than 100,000 miles during its year in office.

Programs and Activities

Local, state and national FFA programs and activities help members develop public speaking skills, conduct and participate in meetings, manage financial matters, strengthen problem-solving abilities and assume civic responsibilities.

National FFA Convention & Expo

The National FFA Convention & Expo is the organization's premier gathering during which all FFA competitive events and programs are recognized nationally. The event brings FFA members together to learn, be inspired and celebrate their accomplishments in the organization.

National FFA Alumni and Supporters

Agriculture teachers rely on more than 685,226 FFA Alumni and Supporters in 2,481 alumni and supporters chapters and countless volunteers to help ease the outside commitments of teaching.

Turkey Valley boys open playoffs with upset win

Trojans fight back from 10-point deficit to beat Clayton Ridge, advance in 1A district tournament

By Dorothy Huber dorhubernews@gmail.com

The word of the day is tenac-

Turkey Valley's boys were down by 10 points midway through the third period in their district opener against Clayton Ridge, but the Trojans used a 9-0 run the rest of the period to come within a point of the Eagles, then closed the game in exciting fashion for a 43-41 win.

That never-give-up attitude was exemplified by center Dylan Reicks. Early in the fourth quarter he missed a shot, grabbed the rebound, missed another shot, got the board, and on his third try gave the Trojans the lead, 32-31.

"Being a senior I knew I didn't want this to end," said Reicks after his team cleared the floor. "I knew we were still in it, 10 points isn't a lot for our team, the way we can score."

Clayton Ridge (16-5) played a very aggressive defense, which may have bitten them in the rear, as the Eagles committed 23 fouls to 14 for TV and the Trojans converted that into 10 more points at the line than their counterparts. Of the nine points in that Trojan comeback finished with a 16-7 record. late in the third quarter, seven points came at the line.

"We needed [Clayton Ridge] to cool off in the second half,' coach John Izer said. "I reminded the guys sternly at the half who their shooters were. And Oliver Schmitt came in and really helped us out defensive-quarter a Garrett Kurtenbach steal and his ensuing 3-point shot put the Trojans up 37-32, a free throw by Reicks and two by Carson Busta put the TV boys up 40-32, but the Eagles came back to within one, 40-39 with 1:40 remaining.

Although Turkey Valley missed some free throws down the stretch, two made by Noah Hanson — he was 6-for-6 on the night - and one by Schmitt gave the Trojans the slim win.

Whether the season ends at the state tournament or - like the 2021-22 Turkey Valley girls' season — in the second round of regional action, coach Carla Nymeyer will never get used to the tears that come with the final contest.

"I told the girls at the beginning of the season that no one expects that much of us after we lost all that talent last year."

With a full lineup, Chickasaws grind out a playoff victory

New Hampton boys get lift from their star, but everyone contributes to 2A district win comes up with next; after all, in the last two weeks, he has given us his version of the "Michael Jordan flu game" and his rendition of the "Willis Reed game."

Just three days after suffering what appeared to be a Chickasaw lineup and helped his team to a 45-41 victory over Sumner-Fredericksburg Monday night in the opening round of the Class 2A district tournament. "When we found out he Let's be honest, New was going to play," said New Hampton basketball fans can't Hampton junior Gannon wait to see what Drake Wemark Shekleton, "we knew we were going to win. Maybe he wasn't the same old Drake, but he was still Drake. I mean he basically was out there playing with one arm. Having him was huge."

Having everyone was huge. Sure, Monday's victoseason-ending elbow inju- ry wasn't a work of art - not ry, Wemark returned to the even close, really - but the even close, really – but the Chickasaws found a way to grind out a victory and advance gymnasium Saturday. There was Isaac Howe, the New Hampton/Turkey Valley 195-pounder, winning a mad overtime scramble with Crestwood's Landen Schemmel in the opening round, and then a few hours later, there was Marcus Herold, the Chickasaws' 220-pounder, putting Independence's Brady McDonald on his back in a true-second match to claim what just a couple of weeks ago seemed an impossible trip to the Class 2A state tournament.

"It was electric, wasn't it? Both those matches, man, that's what district wrestling is all about," NH/TV coach Matt Paulus said, "and to hear our fans like that ... dang, it doesn't get much better than that."

In between the "bookends roars," the Chickasaws punched two more tickets to the state tournament as Ben Tenge claimed the 170-pound title and Braden McShane bounced back from his first loss of the season at 182 to take second at that weight. Start with Howe.

All season long he has been the Chickasaws' "utility man" - wrestling at 182 at the start of the year before becoming the "chess piece" that Paulus could use to help NH/TV secure dual wins after McShane dropped from 195 to 182 after Christmas. Howe came into Saturday's meet with a 16-18 record and faced Crestwood's fourthranked Landen Schemmel in the opening round. Few gave him a chance; Howe and his coach were among the few. The Chickasaw junior took an early lead with a takedown 40 seconds into the match, but Schemmel responded by scoring four straight points before Howe came up with escapes midway through the second period and early in the third period to knot the match at four. Overtime arrived, and Schemmel midway through the one-minute sudden death period appeared poised to end the match as he got in on both of Howe's legs. But Schemmel couldn't finish the deal and a wild 20-second scramble ensued before Howe came up with a takedown that would ultimately send him to Des Moines. "I'm not going to lie, I have no idea what happened except that all I was thinking was I can't let him get this [takedown]," Howe said, "and then I'm on top of him, the whistle blows and I kind of went nuts.'

New Hampton girls rush out to 9-0 lead but NFV gets region win

By Dorothy Huber

dorhubernews@gmail.com

New Hampton's Molly Wegner started the scoring in the regional first round at North Fayette Valley with a 3-point shot just over a minute into Saturday's game. Then she hit another. And another. With less than three minutes of the game played, the Chickasaws owned a 9-0 lead over the TigerHawks. The shots surprised many, even Wegner.

"Actually, a lot," she said. "But I knew this could be our last game of the season and I wanted to come out strong."

The early lead would evaporate and the TigerHawks would go on to win the game
