As the foam begins to pour out of the “cannon” (above), some kids may have had a little trepidation but by the end of the night (right), pretty much every child — and adult, too — was having a “foamtastic” time at the Nashua Public Library.

Nashua Public Library Director Heather Hackman (above) captures a video of the foam during Wednesday’s program that included free hot dogs (right) for the kids.

It’s a ‘foamtastic’ time at the library

LIBRARY: FROM 1

Heather Hackman said over 200 people attended the fun-filled event. Kids ate hot dogs and received a free book prior to the foam that made its way to the pavement and overtook the street just south of the library. A giant foam cannon dispensed the white, soapy substance that kids played around in and marveled at.

“It won’t hurt grass, it won’t flowers. I wouldn’t want to eat it because there is a little bit of soap in it just to give it the foamy texture,” said Toto Johnson. “It’s about as mild as mild gets.”

Johnson, a former circus clown with Ringling Brothers, was Absolute Science’s featured “entertainer.”

He guided the cannon that sprayed the foam, which built up quickly and created essentially a wall of the sudsy stuff, much like a washing machine does when too much detergent is poured into it.

The foam is biodegradable and FDA approved, Johnson added.

“Foam like this has been around for quite awhile – like at nightclubs and parties and discos and things like that,” said Johnson.

Johnson said Absolute Science travels to nine states – all of the bordering states that surround Iowa. This is a full-time job for Johnson at Absolute Science – which he said is the No.1 foam-producing company in the world. He said it took five years to develop this particular type of foam.

Johnson said he took his foam cannon on Tuesday evening to Monticello and that morning he hosted a bubble show in Ames. On Monday, Johnson was in Yankton, South Dakota. He said Thursday he’ll travel to Ogden, Iowa and end up the evening at the Woodbury County Fair in Moville, Iowa.

Absolute Science brings an exciting brand of interaction with the audience and their science staff, who help motivate youth to learn more according to their website.

In addition to traveling to libraries all across the heartland, Absolute Science also performs at schools, birthday parties, corporate and public events.

Johnson said the company has grown quite a bit since its formation seven years ago. Absolute Science started with one science show and now has five. They also put on two bubbles show and offer a butterfly encounter as well.

During the summer months – obviously the company’s busiest time of the year – Johnson said five Absolute Science entertainers are working seven days a week at various locations throughout the Midwest.

Hackman said the library was fortunate enough to receive two grants for its summer reading program – “Theisen’s More for Your Community” corporate grant and the CPPC (Community Partnerships for Protecting Children) grant.

“I knew that I wanted to give each participant an experience they normally wouldn’t have through our programs and what better way than promoting reading in the process,” Hackman said.

“So that is why I thought outside the box and came up with these last four weeks of programs that are an experience that families can participate in together.”

The theme this summer for all libraries in the state of Iowa is “Find Your Voice.”

The library started out its summer reading program with “Find Your Voice with Ariel.” Ariel, from the “Little Mermaid,” sang for the 100 who attended the magical event. Ariel also read one of her favorite stories, shared in the fun as kids did crafts and took pictures with those that came to the program.

The next week, the library hosted an art program, which saw cartoonist, illustrator and author – Tim Read – entertain folks. The following week an instrument petting zoo took place – as various guitars, drums and percussion sound makers were on display for kids to play with. The musical instruments came from the famous Surf Ballroom in Clear Lake.

Ionia Fun Days kicks off run tonight

It’s been a while — six weeks to be exact — since a Chickasaw County community has held a town festival, but the “drought” ends this weekend when Ionia Fun Days kicks off it’s two-day run Friday evening.

The celebration begins with the crowning of Little Mister and Little Miss Ionia at 7 p.m. on Friday, and at the same time Ionia’s “royalty” is named, the annual Fun Days slow-pitch softball tournament will kick off at the park.

At 7:30 p.m. on Friday, there will be a kids painting class held at the Ionia Community Library and the cost is just $5, but pre-registration must be made by calling Heather Hackman at 641-430-4303.

Also on Friday night, Fun Days will hold “Family Movie Night” in the parking lot of the library. “Surf’s Up” will be shown on the big screen and concessions will be available.

Saturday is check full of activities, highlighted by Ionia’s

“2-Way Parade” that will be led by Grand Marshal Mary Link and head east down Main Street, turn around and head back east. Line-up is set for 10 a.m. and the cost for a parade entry is $20 but there is no entry fee for Ionia Fun Days sponsors.

Other events on the Saturday docket include a breakfast at the fire station, a host of afternoon activities and a street dance from 8 a.m. to midnight featuring the band Six Pack Jack.

Best Dam BBQ to take place during Big 4 Fair first three years, it was held in conjunction with the Big 4 Fair. But when fair officials canceled the 2020 event because of the COVID-19 pandemic, Big 4 Chamber officials decided to go ahead and hold the event, and the past two years, the event was held later in September. “We’re excited about it, not that we didn’t like doing it our own,” Big 4 Chamber of Commerce President Val Johnson said. “The big thing is that we’re not tucked away in a corner. We’re right by the entrance so people won’t necessarily just have to go find us.” While the BBQ competitors will be at the fairgrounds for much of the day, they’ll be serving food to the public, beginning at 4:30 p.m. with the “VIP BBQ” ticketholders. Those tickets are $30 and include one rib and one wing from each griller, advance entrance to the event and a vote for the event’s People’s Choice Award. At 5:15, the a la carte portion of the BBQ begins, and tickets for that can be purchased the

BBQ: FROM 1

Lining it up for a pass

A helicopter lines up to spray a field in Chickasaw County this past Monday evening, but area farmers are still being plagued by drought conditions in the area and would love to see some rainfall soon.

The U.S. Drought Monitor’s weekly report released on Thursday painted a worsening situation in the Nashua area as all of Bremer County and good chunks of Chickasaw, Butler and Floyd counties saw the drought intensity increase from “moderate” to “severe” in the past seven days.

The National Weather Service’s Nashua reporting station had just 1.17 inches of rain in July, far off the 4.74 inches that usually fall.

Judge dismisses charges against Nashua woman

By BOB STEENSON

bsteenson@charlescitypress.com

Charges against a Nashua woman accused of seriously injuring a passenger in her vehicle about two years ago in a traffic accident were dismissed last week just before trial was scheduled to begin in Floyd County District Court, after the judge in the case ruled certain evidence could not be used.

Carey Lynn Agnitsch, age 47, had been charged in July 2022 with serious injury by vehicle, a Class D felony, and operating while under the influence, a serious misdemeanor, almost a year after a July 26, 2021, car-versus-semi accident about 7 miles south of Charles City.

Agnitsch, driving a 1999 Buick LeSabre, was working her rural route postal carrier job in her vehicle, a report filed in District Court by a Floyd County sheriff’s deputy said.

She was northbound on Timber Avenue when she struck an eastbound semi-truck in the intersection with 270th Street, the report said. Both Agnitsch and the passenger, who was sitting in the back seat, were trapped and had to be extricated by Charles City and Nashua fire departments.

Agnitsch had serious injuries and was flown to Mayo Hospital in Rochester by helicopter ambulance. The passenger, who is also from Nashua, was taken by AMR ambulance to the Floyd County Medical Center in Charles City, but was soon transferred to Mayo.

Agnitsch was charged with serious injury by vehicle and OWI after authorities allegedly learned that she had tested positive for amphetamine/methamphetamine at Mayo while being treated for her injuries, court documents say.

Last Wednesday, Agnitsch’s attorney filed a motion asking the court to rule on the admissibility of evidence that the prosecution planned to present at trial.

The motion said the Floyd County Attorney’s Office planned to call an unidentified employee of the Mayo Clinic Laboratory to lay the foundation for a one-page document that allegedly showed the results of a drug test, but that page was page 160 of a document with no indication of what was on the first 159 pages or how many additional pages followed it.

The motion also said that there were at least two subsequent drug tests performed on Agnitsch, but the state was not planning on introducing those as evidence, and the prosecution had “cherry picked” the page from at least 160 pages.

The motion also argued that the information was part of Agnitsch’s privileged medical history, and had been obtained without a search warrant and without Agnitsch granting permission.

Last Thursday, July 27, on the day trial had been scheduled to begin and after a jury had been selected, District Court Judge Elizabeth Batey ruled that the witness should not be permitted to testify and was not qualified to lay foundation for the evidence being offered, so the proposed evidence was inadmissible.

As a result of that ruling the Floyd County Attorney’s Office moved that the charges be dismissed, and Batey granted the motion.

There are not enough words to fully express our heartfelt gratitude for the sympathy, memorials, love and support you have extended to our family during this time of loss. A special thank you to St. Croix Hospice, Hugeback-Johnson Funeral Home and Clover Ridge Events. You have been a blessing during this difficult time.

Harrington wraps up multi-sport career at Nashua-Plainfield

HARRINGTON: FROM 8

“That was a nice way to end my athletic career,” said Harrington. “Getting all-state is something that not everyone can accomplish.”

But for all the stats, box scores and trips around the basepaths, it was a freshman season that he got to play with his older brother Luke – a 2020 N-P grad – that meant more than any triple or home run could match.

“It was pretty cool my freshman year. I got to play with my brother,” said Bo.

It was that same freshman season where Harrington starred in relief in an 6-5 upset win over New Hampton. He pitched five-plus innings – allowed zero earned runs – to take down the favored Chickasaws in a game that saw the Huskies cut down a New Hampton runner at home plate for the final out of the thrilling contest. N-P trailed, 5-0, at one point in the matchup with New Hampton.

“Dawson (Lamborn) was struggling pitching so I got thrown into that game and ended up pitching pretty well,” said Harrington. “That was pretty cool as a freshman. I looked tiny as a freshman.”

Harrington was also a part of N-P’s wild, 15-14, victory over Rockford in a marathon, three-and-a-half hour district triumph in 2020 that lasted 10 innings. Harrington gave up six earned runs on the hill, but made the final out of the evening at second base to help N-P advance to the Class 1A district semifinal.

“Probably the No. 1 thing I’d take away from baseball is just it’s definitely the funnest sport. I got to hang out with all my friends, joke around, mess around before game time and walk in and compete,” said Harrington.

That previous winter out on the hardwood, Harrington hit a game-winning shot over Riceville in 2020. Who was the timely assist from? None other than his brother, Luke.

One could make a serious case that Bo Harrington deserved all-state recognition in three sports during his tremendous athletic career at Nashua-Plainfield.

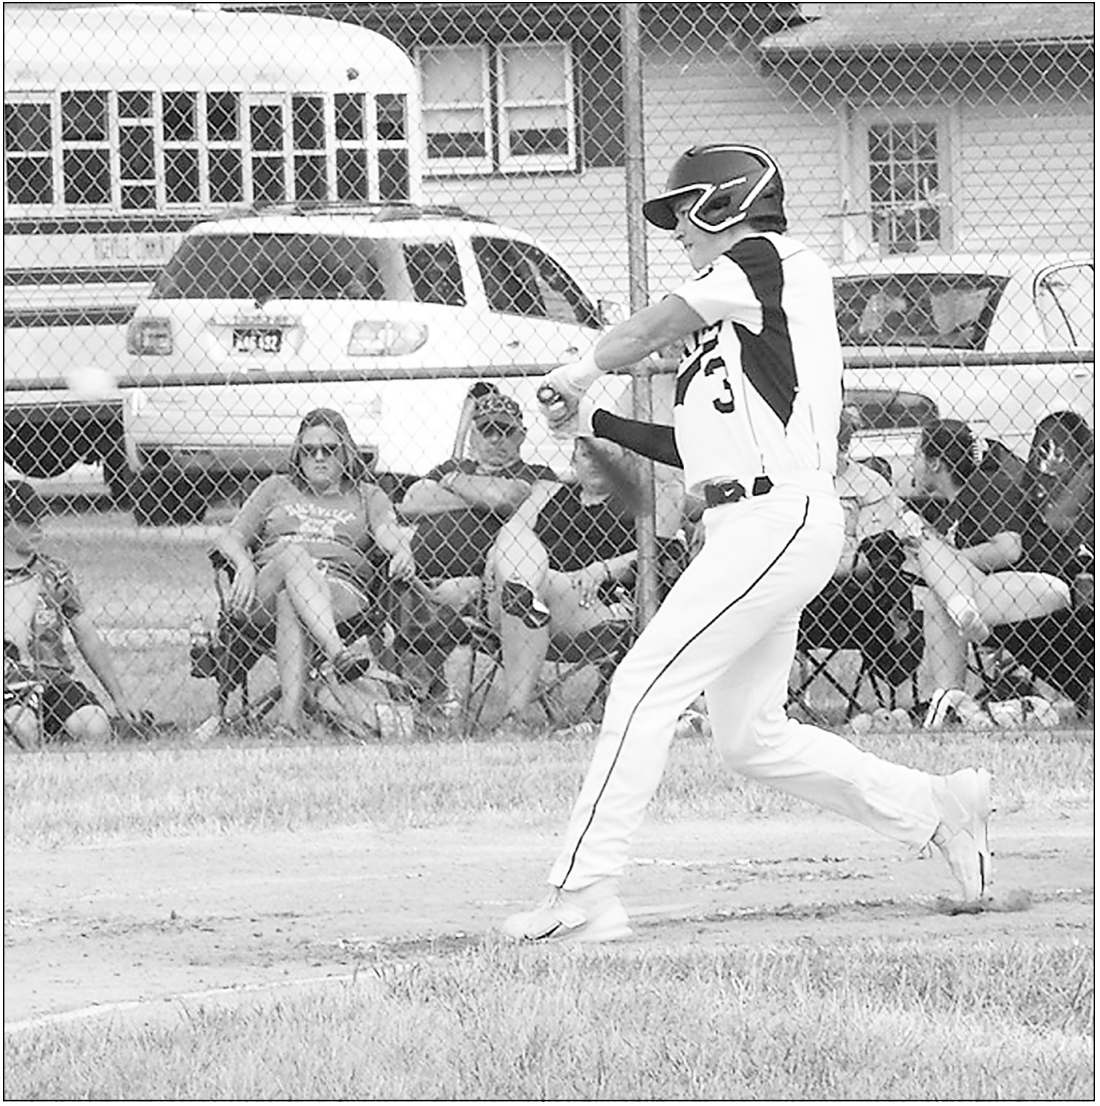

This past winter Harrington was snubbed by the Iowa Print Sportswriters Association, which named their all-state squads in March and did not include N-P’s all-time single-season scoring leader on any one of its three teams.

“It would have been nice if I could have got it in basketball, too,” said Harrington, who averaged over 23 points a contest his senior year at N-P.

He clearly was worthy of such a selection for his exploits out on the hardwood, but Harrington, like several athletes in the small-school class, didn’t make the media’s cut.

“Bo was a difference maker every single game he played. He is a special athlete and is a great person,” said Miller.

Harrington was an excellent defensive back for the Huskies and head coach Andrew Christensen out on the gridiron.

Kelly Terpstra/Reporter

Bo Harrington connects for a basehit in Nashua-Plainfield’s win over Riceville this past summer.

He was an all-district performer in the secondary and also started at quarterback at N-P his final two seasons in football.

Harrington overcame a leg injury his sophomore season which prevented him from running track – which he did compete at his senior season and earned a seventh-place medal in the shuttle hurdle relay team this past spring.

“I think of 2021 when he missed the first half of the season, our team was 8-9. When Bo returned, we went 7-1 to end the season to finish 15-10,” said Miller.

This is Miller’s third Husky to achieve all-state status in his eight years at the helm of N-P. Austin Bienemann was tabbed third team all-state by the IHSBCA as a pitcher in 2021. Max Hillegas was selected by IABaseball as third-team utility all-state pick just last year in 2022.

Master Gardening training applications are due by Aug. 18

The application window for the fall 2023 Master Gardener training cohort this fall season will close on Aug. 18.

Counties in the area offering fall training include Bremer, Butler, Cerro Gordo, Clayton, Fayette, Floyd, Mitchell and Winneshiek.

Iowans wishing to complete Master Gardener training choose a county to complete training through, participate in online learning modules and attend at least four in-person training sessions organized by the county office.

After completing the 10-week training, trainees put their knowledge to work with a 40-hour internship in their training county.

Training for the fall session begins Sept. 5.

For four days this week, band students arose early and headed off to school. They marched, they played their instruments, they practiced their “parade song.” In other words, they began preparations for a season that includes performance at four home football games, a trip to Marshalltown’s Oktoberfest Parade and, of course, the state marching band contest that will be held on Oct. 7.

But long before the Marching Huskies chase a coveted Division I rating at the state contest, they have to start someplace. And that place is on the field on warm, muggy August mornings.

So far, so good, Stroud said after the four-day band camp in which they began to learn their “Don’t Be Afraid ...” show wrapped up.

“This is a great band this year,” he said, “The students learned fast, and I am expecting big things from them.”

This year’s show includes three songs — “The Halloween Movie Theme,” “Creep” by Radiohead and “Ghostbusters.” “The first two things are on the creepy side,” Stroud said with a laugh, “but then we end with Ghostbusters to lighten things up.”

The 2023 Marching Huskies will once again be led by Aiden Sullivan, who also served as drum major in 2022, and Stroud said one of the keys to success for his band is having the upperclassmen lend helping hands to the band’s freshmen.

“Since the incoming freshmen marched in the homecoming parade in middle school band, they already know a lot of the marching basics coming in,” he said. “The toughest part would be for them to transfer that information to marching on the football field. It is way different than just marching forward in a parade.

“That is the great thing about camp. The freshmen get comfortable with how to march and they get to see how it is supposed to be done by watching the upperclassmen.”

Without instruments, members of the Nashua-Plainfield Marching Band “walk through” a drill Thursday morning.

Little Brown Church Marriage Reunion set for this weekend

The 70th annual Little Brown Church Marriage Reunion — which church officials stress is for all married couples, not just those who said their “I do’s” at the famed Nashua church — begins Saturday with the pastor’s reception at 5 p.m.

Sunday’s activities include a doughnuts-and-coffee breakfast at 9 a.m., the weekly Sing-A-Long at 10:15 a.m. and the worship service that will include vow renewals at 10:30 a.m.

After the service, lunch will be served by Johnny’s Southern Seafood and entertainment will include Nashua native and singer Dustin Weiss. Register for the event by going to the church’s Facebook page.

Plum Creek to hold open house Sunday for quilt artists

Plum Creek Art/Connie Mohr Gallery has a current special exhibit of artistic quilts from local and area quilters. There will be an open house to honor these artists on Aug. 6 at the Connie Mohr Gallery, 115 W. Main St., Fredericksburg from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

The group, Northeast Iowa Art Quilters, includes Cheryl Mulder and Elaine Westin of Fredericksburg, Marty Berda of Elgin, Mary Jean Blaisdell of Independence, and Maud Bentley of Rowley. The quilts on display are colorful and intricate and truly art works.

All are welcome to stop in to see the art quilts during the gallery open hours. Or better yet, come to the Aug. 6 open house and meet these interesting ladies while viewing their work. Refreshments will be served.

Plum Creek Art/Connie Mohr Gallery is open Thursday and Friday from noon to 4, and Saturday 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is always free. The organization is an all volunteer, non profit which promotes local artists and art education for children and adults.

Relay for Life’s ‘Revvin’ up for a Cure’ set for Aug. 12 at Mikkelson

The Relay for Life of Chickasaw County will hold an event on Saturday, Aug. 12 at Mikkelson Park, with the benefits going to the American Cancer Society.

There will be a car show, food, live DJ music, a quilt raffle, face painting, bounce house and luminaria ceremony at 6 p.m. The event will go from 2 to 7 p.m.

Luminarias may be purchased at First Citizens Bank before the event, or at the event.

Charles City to hold final Party in the Park Friday

Charles City’s Party in the Park finale for this summer is set for this Friday and will feature a “games night” theme, along with the live music of Model Stranger and Wild Love, a tribute to the Doors.

Organized by Main Street Charles City, Party in the Park takes place from 5 to 9 p.m. in Central Park in downtown Charles City.

Admission is free and there will be food and beverage vendors, a beer garden, and activities in the park.

Harrington caps career with all-state honor

Kelly Terpstra/Reporter
Nashua-Plainfield shortstop Bo Harrington gets ready to fire to first to record an out in a game against Riceville earlier this summer.

Baseball coaches name N-P senior to Class 1A third team

By KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

Bo Harrington has many fond memories of his outstanding athletic career for the Nashua-Plainfield Huskies. So it only seemed appropriate that Harrington would go out as an all-stater on the baseball diamond as the Iowa High School Baseball Coaches Association selected him to its third-team squad at the shortstop position in Class 1A.

“It’s nice to know that you got recognized in a sport that I thought I played pretty good in,” said Harrington. “It’s a nice accomplishment.”

Harrington will have many amazing achievements to look back on after a sensational senior season for the Husky was officially put in the records books this past summer.

Harrington was the second-best bat as far as batting average goes in Top of Iowa East Conference with a .462 clip. Harrington led the league in triples (4), was third in slugging percentage (.712) and amassed 57 total bases – fourth-best in the conference. Harrington knocked in a team-leading 31 RBI and scored 24 runs.

“IT’S INCREDIBLY DESERVING FOR BO TO FINISH HIS CAREER AS AN ALL-STAT-ER. ... EVERY TIME HE WAS IN THE FIELD, ON THE MOUND OR AT THE PLATE, YOU KNOW SOMETHING SPECIAL COULD HAPPEN.”

— N-P BASEBALL COACH LEVI MILLER

finish his career as an all-stater. Bo is one of the top players we’ve had in my time here. Every time he was in the field, on the mound, or at the plate, you knew something special could happen,” said N-P head coach Levi Miller, who was also selected TIC East Coach of the Year for 2023.

With a 3-4 mark and 2.72 ERA, Harrington was also one of TIC’s best hurlers on the hill. Harrington struck out 60 batters in 36 innings pitched.

Harrington, a slick fielder at short-stop, led the TIC in assists with 45 – tied with Central Springs’ Eddie Pruin. Harrington committed just four errors in 75 total chances.

Harrington was perfect on the base-paths, stealing 16 bases in as many attempts. Harrington’s on-base percentage was .543 – fourth-best in the league.

FALL SPORTS SEASON BEGINS AS HUSKIES LOOK TO BEAT THE HEAT AT FOOTBALL AND VOLLEYBALL CAMPS

By KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

Beat the heat? That’s a tough task in a hot and humid state such as Iowa.

That’s why Mindy Foelske and her Nashua-Plainfield volleyball squad held its week-long camp – which culminated on Thursday of this week – when the sun started setting.

Getting acclimated to playing in hot gyms is a definite issue if one is not prepared to take on the humidity that can make gymnasiums like N-P’s – which does not have air conditioning – feel like a sauna.

“I decided to hold a night camp this year hoping the gym would be a little cooler. Monday wasn’t that bad, but as the week progresses it is warming up,” said Foelske, in her third year as N-P head volleyball coach. “Mornings are also not something my girls are a fan of so I was hoping to get more out of them at night.”

Foelske said she had about 40 attendees of the camp – which started with a middle-school camp at 5:30 p.m., followed by high schoolers at 7 p.m.

Foelske also has members of her squad that participate in band camp in the morning, so she said it was either deal with the afternoon heat during camp or workout in weather inside that isn’t quite as balmy at night.

High school members of Foelske’s varsity squad help instruct and teach junior high students in any number of drills prior to the start of their camp.

“We let the drills we do condition the girls. If we can practice in game-mode, conditioning should start to take care of itself,” said Foelske.

Foelske also brought in former Osage coach Andie Olson to talk to her team during the first two days of camp. Olson helped guide Osage to numerous state tournaments in her tenure for the traditional-power Green Devils. She was also co-head coach at Charles City in 2020.

“She talked a lot to them about how they get what they put in...that this team is theirs, not the coaches,” said Foelske.

Foelske, who saw her Huskies play to a 9-18 record last year, said her Top of Iowa East Conference bunch is stressing sets and moving the ball around.

“Passing – which we really struggled with last year – is a main focus, along with serving,” she said.

While the X’s and O’s are vitally important, these workouts that precede the official start of fall sports practice on Monday, also feature the type of environment that Foelske wants to foster in order to rack up the wins this fall.

“Camp is more focused on what kind of culture we want in our gym this year and how we get that,” Foelske added.

Back again this season on Foelske’s coaching staff are assistants Hannah Holthaus and Keegan Ulrichs.

N-P’s season opener is scheduled to take place on Tuesday, Aug. 22 in a triangular at Jesup. New Hampton will also open its season among those three schools.

For the Husky football team and head coach Andrew Christensen, his on-the-rise program hits the practice field at 5 p.m. every night this week. N-P’s drills and workouts – which feature about five separate water breaks – finish up around 7:30 pm. The camp ends tonight (Friday).

Christensen’s pigskin camp is a lot more than just getting your sweat on and getting game ready for when the first football game will take place at Postville on Thursday, Aug. 24.

There’s filling out forms, getting physicals completed, taking instruction from coaches, treating your body right and getting mentally prepared for the rigorous season ahead.

“I view it as that and getting kids accustomed to the heat. Plus, with us going 5-12, it gives the older kids a chance to be role models for the younger kids,” said Christensen, in his fourth year at N-P.

Christensen also gets his first peek of his group as a whole. That includes seeing each student athlete’s progression when it comes to succeeding out on the gridiron.

“You really start to see where kids are going to be. It is usually the first time where we can see everyone together as during the summer kids are pulled in so many directions this is the first time close to all of them are together,” said Christensen.

Christensen, who helped orchestrate back-to-back playoff appearances for his Huskies last fall, said he has about 40 high school attendees of camp and 25 for middle school.

Time is of the essence and getting the opportunity for his Huskies to improve is also very important in the grand scheme of things.

“I think it is another chance for four more days to get better, both mentally and physically,” said Christensen.

N-P’s coaching staff is the same as it was last year. Those varsity assistants are Chase Sudol, Taylor Wedeking and Nick Henningsen. N-P’s middle school coaches are Brad Theilen and Austin Newbrough.

THANK YOU FOR A GREAT 2023 4-H & FFA ACHIEVEMENT SHOW!

"No act of kindness, no matter how small, is ever wasted."

The Chickasaw County 4-H & FFA Achievement Show wouldn't be successful without all our wonderful volunteers. These volunteers go above and beyond and deserve a huge "thank you" for all their dedication and hard work which benefits the youth of Chickasaw County. Thank you to everyone who played a part in making the 2023 4-H & FFA Achievement Show a success. We do not feel like we could thank each of you enough for everything you did over this past year.

A huge thank you to our livestock superintendents, Youth Development Committee members, and Extension Council members for attending all the meetings and for the work done all year around to make the Achievement Show come together.

Thank you to the volunteers who worked countless hours behind the scenes before, during, and after the fair. Thank you to the volunteers who showed up to help set up pens, panels, gates, clean, sweep, and place sawdust for exhibitors. Thank you to the clerks, announcers, ring help, photographers, queens, and runners that helped during the fair to ensure that each show ran smoothly.

Many, many thanks to Charlie Edson and Dave Bucknell for their overall coordination to help make our achievement show run so smoothly. Thank you to the following: Bodensteiner Implement for the use of the Gator; Chickasaw County Farm Bureau for bagged bedding, the bouncy house, and milkshakes for exhibitors; and Hanawalt & Son Lumber for additional bedding. Thank you also to Bank Iowa for sponsoring exhibitor premiums; Chickasaw County Pork Producers for providing the meal for the BBQ; and Farm Credit Services of America, Iowa Corn, and POET for sponsoring exhibitor meals on check-in days.

Thank you to Greg Miller for auctioning our 4-H & FFA Auction. Thank you to Homeland Energy for sponsoring the pancake breakfast by Chris Cakes.

We would like to send a special thanks to Plainfield Veterinarian Service, New Hampton Veterinary, and Fredericksburg Veterinary Clinic for checking in livestock.

Thank you to Megan Mueterthies, Rhonda Welhing and Trinity Brincks for their coordination of the Little Mr. and Mrs. Chickasaw and the Chickasaw County Fair Queen Competition.

A special thank you to volunteer Ashley Heine for attending every day of the fair and assisting staff with everything!

Many thanks to the members of the Big Four Fair Board for being vital assets to our achievement show, for the use of the fairgrounds, and for all their hard work throughout the entire year to maintain the fairgrounds. Thank you for coordinating with Extension staff and helping to ensure buildings and equipment were ready for the fair week. Thank you, thank you, thank you.

Thank you to all the parents, grandparents, and other family members who support and encourage their youth to do their best throughout the year in preparation for the fair!

To all our superintendents, project leaders, 4-H leaders, County Council members, FFA advisors, and those who worked behind the scenes, we cannot thank you enough for making the best better for all the youth involved.

Finally, thank you to all the youth of Chickasaw County for your participation in our 4-H & FFA programs and achievement show. We thoroughly enjoyed supporting you and watching you grow in preparation for the fair. We cannot wait to do it again next year!
