Drought expands; ‘severe’ and ‘moderate’ conditions in area

This probably won't come as any surprise to anyone who looks outside and sees brown lawns, but the drought picture in Iowa in general and in the Nashua area in particular grew more bleak during the last week.

All 99 counties in the state are currently experiencing drought conditions, according to the latest report from the U.S. Drought Monitor that was released on Thursday.

All of Bremer and Butler counties, along with the southern portions of both Chickasaw and Floyd, are enduring “severe drought” conditions while the rest of Floyd and Chickasaw counties are in the midst of “moderate” droughts.

The National Weather Service’s official reporting station in Nashua has recorded just .34 inches of rain in June, and the normal rainfall through June 20 is 3.86 inches.

Svec Memorial Tractor Drive will be on the road Sunday

The Bob Svec Memorial Tractor Drive is scheduled for this Sunday, with tractor drivers starting with breakfast at the Big 4 Fairgrounds in Nashua and then driving to Mikkelson Park.

They will be provided lunch and then return to the Big 4 Fairgrounds. The New Hampton FFA chapter created the tractor drive last year in honor of Bob Svec. This will be the second annual tractor drive.

Bob Svec was a member of the New Hampton community who not only protected the town as a police officer but promoted agriculture in the area with the FFA Chapter. Everyone is welcome to eat, any additional people attending can pay at the door and receive a meal ticket.

LifeServe blood drive set for New Hampton this Tuesday

Chickasaw County’s Freedom Rock is dedicated during a ceremony Saturday that included former Lawler Sons of American Legion Commander Gene Blazek (above) sharing the story of the rock as well as music (below) provided by bagpiper Ewan Ferguson.

Rock honors all those who ‘step into arena’

FREEDOM ROCK: FROM 1

His words echoed the address made by Brian Quirk, the commander of New Hampton’s American Legion Fae Stine post.

Quirk used Teddy Roosevelt’s famed “Man in the Arena” speech as the theme of his talk.

“It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs, who comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who neither know victory nor defeat.”

Quirk pointed out that the Freedom Rock in Lawler not only honors veterans and those who have made the ultimate sacrifice but also those who work in law enforcement, fight fires, answer ambulance calls and respond to emergencies throughout the county.

“To me that’s what this park represents is every man in the arena, or woman in the arena, who serves in each of these branches of our community service,” he said. “It amazes me and humbles me, and it makes me proud to live amongst some of the finest people who have given so generously of their time, talent and treasure for the causes that they believe in that make our community great.”

Blazek shared the trials and tribulations that led to the rock finding its way from a field adjacent to his acreage to Lawler. From finding the 44,990-pound rock to “digging” it out to moving it to his acreage to moving it into Lawler to building a temporary roadway to place the rock to constructing a “shelter” so that famed Freedom Rock artist Bubba Sorensen could paint it to placing the plaques honoring not only veterans but others who serve their communities, Blazek took the crowd through the tale of the rock.

“Eating soup with a fork or mowing lawn with a pair of scissors would have been comparable to this task,” he said. “It got done, but boy, it took a long time.”

But so worth it, or so he and those who attended Saturday’s ceremony will tell you.

Just ask Quirk.

“The things that unite us — America’s past of which we are so proud, our hopes and aspirations for the world and this much-loved country — these things far outweigh what little divides us,” he said. “We are all Americans with heart and hand, and through whatever trial and travail, we pledge ourselves to each other and the cause of human freedom, the cause that has given light to this land and hope to the world.”

And he concluded by thanking veterans, law enforcement, firefighters and EMS personnel with a simple acknowledgment.

“Thank you for stepping into the arena.”

Nashua Area EMS lines up mutual-aid deals

couple of weeks.

"So they've been going out on stuff that's first responders and we're just really excited to give our citizens peace of mind that there is a service closer than Charles City or New Hampton," said Vikturek.

Nashua decided to sign mutual-aid agreements with the various EMS's in the area, rather than enter into a 28E Agreement with prospective entities. Nashua did not accept a proposed three-year contract with AMR (American Medical Response), Charles City and Floyd County at the Monday, June 5 regular City Council meeting.

The contract with AMR, Floyd County and Charles City would have been for three years, starting July 1, 2023 until June 30, 2026. Nashua City Clerk John Ott said there was a clause that Nashua could have backed out of the agreement, but that would need to be voted on and approved by Floyd County and Charles City.

The cost would have come out to $41,500 in the first year of the contract, with a 5 percent increase each year thereafter.

"If they only come down here four times a year, are you going to pay them $10,000 a call?" said Vikturek. "It's not feasible, you guys. It's not. Maybe if we paid them per call. We will not make $40,000 a year with 100 calls."

Currently the city of Nashua has a 28E

Agreement with AMR (American Medical Response) to provide emergency aid as part of a six-month contract for backup service that runs out on June 30, 2023. The cost for the service is $10,000 and is split 50/50 between Charles City and Floyd County – which is each paying $100,000 annually in monthly installments to AMR for service.

All the paperwork has been sorted out and come July 1 – which is just over a week away – the town of 1,500 will be comforted knowing life-saving capability from its local EMS should just be a few short minutes away.

"That's all done. We got our license on the rig. That's all straightened out," said Vikturek. "We should be able to be there within 10 minutes, for sure."

One reason Nashua wanted its own rig to store in town was the response time of Chickasaw County's EMS.

"We want to take care of our community. That was why Nashua wanted their service because it did take awhile for New Hampton to get down here. People were putting their people in cars and taking them because they didn't want to wait," said Vikturek.

Nashua's volunteer ambulance service has 13 certified EMTs on it – three of which are nurses – and five or six drivers right now according to Vikturek. The Nashua Area EMS crew chief said those first responders get paid per call.

Supervisors agree to pay 'up front' for Sheriff's Office in-car, body cameras

"It came down to how close they are, and the people that we'll work with," he said. "When we have an issue ... the serviceability was the decision point."

All three quotes came with what Nosbisch called a "three-year refresh" for the body cameras, meaning the office would receive 13 new cameras during the third year of the contract.

Supervisors agreed but also spent some time discussing where the funds would come from to pay for the cameras and operating systems. There seemed to be little interest in using ARPA funds; instead, they would rather use ending fund balances to pay for the upgrades.

"There's almost $4.2 million – $2.9 in [General Basic] and $1.2 in [General Service]," Supervisor Jake Hackman said. "That's a huge ending fund balance. We've never gone into a fiscal year with almost $4 million in the bank."

Shawver said that the county did receive a $5,000 grant from the Iowa Governor's Traffic Bureau for camera equipment and supervisors also asked if his budget could take on another $5,000 of the costs, and he said it could.

Board members also indicated that they would support paying for the camera systems "up front" and not use a five-year payment plan that Sector offers. Hackman pointed out that paying an annual fee would cost the county $44,078 more over the life of the contract than if the county just wrote the check for $209,372.

Shawver said later on Monday that he hopes to have the cameras "deployed" my mid- to late-fall.

"We've got a lot of training to do, and that was another real plus for me when it came to Sector and GeTac because they'll do on-site training. ... This is a big step forward for our office and we appreciate the supervisors supporting it."

Also on Monday, board members learned that the county's third ambulance was set to arrive that day, more than two months ahead of schedule.

The "remounted" vehicle will serve as a back-up to the two new ambulances that were purchased last year and have been running since the service started Jan. 1.

Supervisors agreed to sign a lease with the city of Fredericksburg to house the vehicle in that city's fire station.

The county will pay the city $1 that will cover the lease through Dec. 31, 2024.

Charles City poultry plant receives $36.7 million federal loan package

A $36.7 million federally guaranteed loan package has been completed for Pure Prairie Poultry in Charles City.

Greater Commercial Lending (GCL), which provides government-guaranteed loans to businesses and organizations in under-served and rural communities, completed financing to help Pure Prairie renovate and expand its poultry processing plant and purchase additional equipment to ramp up operations to full capacity.

The financing had been announced in November last year as part of several grants and loans earmarked for a $52 million improvement project for Pure Prairie Poultry. The loan package was announced as completed this week. The loan is guaranteed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture through the Food Supply Chain Guaranteed Loan Program.

"With the government-guaranteed financing, Pure Prairie Poultry will be able to strengthen supply chain resiliency, advance production and restore a market for regional farmers while increasing regional jobs," GCL said.

"USDA-guaranteed loans are a vital tool in building stronger rural communities and enhancing critical supply chains," said Jeremy Gilpin, executive vice president of GCL, one of the largest providers of USDA loans.

"GCL remains dedicated to facilitating access to affordable financing for organizations in rural areas. These loans help bolster local economies and create jobs, while also improving access to essential goods and services for consumers across the country," Gilpin said.

At full capacity, Pure Prairie Poultry will have a network of more than 75 barns located within a 250-mile radius of the plant in order to provide locally-sourced birds for distribution in the region. The plant is expected to bring more than 520 jobs to the surrounding communities.

Pure Prairie Poultry delivers premium quality chicken products raised in cooperation with family farmer partners in Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin, using strict animal welfare standards. Chickens are fed a vegetarian diet with no animal by-products, and without the use of antibiotics. Products are air-chilled, highly trimmed and contain no added ingredients, the company said.

Water Over the Dam Days has plan for rain committee,” Sinnwell said when asked about putting on Water Over the Dam Days. “Everyone has their job, they step up and I think that’s one of the things that makes this so special. People want to make sure this is a success and they’re willing to put the work into it.”

Sinnwell said the location for Thursday night’s events is a positive for two reasons. First, it helps with “logistics” at Cedar View Park, which is home to many of the Water Over the Dam Days events today and Saturday. Second, “it gives us a nice presence downtown and that’s important, too, because we want to put the spotlight on them, too.”

That spotlight moves tonight to Cedar View, where the family-friendly triathlon that includes kayaking, running and biking takes place. The Baldwin Band Shell will also make its debut tonight when the band Kriss Karr takes the stage at 8:30, and the new structure on the “high end” of the park will be busy Saturday as three bands — Ritchie Lee and the Fabulous Fifties at noon, Triple Threat at 3 and Sushi Roll at 8 p.m. — perform.

“It looks great; no, make that it looks awesome,” Sinnwell said, “and the guys that worked on it — the Mike Hannemanns, the Demro guys, Terry Hillesheim, everyone really — made sure it got done on time. We can’t thank them enough because obviously we were looking at a pretty hard deadline.”

The good news is tonight’s activities and a good portion of the day activities on Saturday — including the parade that begins at 10:30 a.m. — look fairly weather proof. The bad news (or even more good news depending on your perspective) is the National Weather Service, as of Thursday, has an 80 percent of showers and thunderstorms in the Saturday night forecast.

If weather hits, though, Sinnwell said the committee’s plan is to move events to the Big 4 Fairgrounds and will make any announcements on the Water Over the Dam Days Facebook page.

“Like I said, we’ll adjust,” he said, “and I’ll say it again, we will not wish any rain away.”

The parade route

It’s the most oft-asked question — what’s the parade route — Nate Sinnwell and his fellow Park Board members here when it comes to Water Over the Dam Days.

And here’s the answer:

The parade lineup is held in and around the Nashua-Plainfield Elementary School parking lot, proceeds to the north down Merril Street, heads east on Woodbridge Street for several blocks and then heads south on Brasher Street to the “diagonal.”

The parade is scheduled to start at 10:30 a.m. and will be led by grand marshals Dan and Lisa Zwanzgier.

Royal start to Water Over the Dam Days

Nashua’s big celebration starts with queen crowning, host of activities in downtown area

Home.

That was the central focus of each and every one of the five queen contestants’ speeches on Thursday night at Water Over the Dam Days (WODD) in Nashua.

This was small-town Americana at its finest on Main Street as Nashua kicked off its big weekend party by crowning a prince, princess and of course, a queen on the big evening just a stone’s throw down from Cedar Lake.

Faith Franzen — a soon-to-be junior at Nashua-Plainfield High School — received her crown as she bested four other contestants and was named the 2023 WODD Queen.

“I did not think I was going to win, definitely,” said Franzen, who helped the N-P girls golf team qualify for the state tournament this past spring.

Franzen, the daughter of Tom and Dorene Franzen of Nashua, was voted 2023 WODD Queen by the two judges — Renee Knapp of Charles City and last year’s WODD Queen, Makenzie Foelske.

Foelske, whose sponsor for the event run by Ashley Ludemann was First State Bank, talked about the impetus behind her speech.

“My speech — I wanted it to be something different and something that really meant something to me,” said Franzen. “So talking about my personal memories — really why this is home.”

Foelske, a 2022 N-P grad who is a sophomore at Wartburg College, relinquished her crown to Franzen and spoke about what the title of WODD Queen meant to her.

“I guess it’s kind of special to be up there,” said Foelske. “Faith definitely does a lot for the community, so she’s super deserving of it. She definitely has a big impact on Nashua, whether she realizes it or not.”

Ludemann is owner of Posh and Prairie in Nashua — which held a free-will donation meal on Thursday night. She has been in charge of the queen contest for three years now. In fact, she was crowned WODD Queen back in 2011 when she was an N-P sophomore.

“It definitely has grown. This year we added a rescheduled softball game on Thursday night. So we would have had more candidates, but they’re all playing softball,” smiled Ludemann.

The other four contests for WODD Queen were Lillie Caster, Natalie Sinnwell, Maddie Foster and Kadence Huck. Sinnwell and Foster will be seniors this fall at N-P. Huck and Caster will be juniors when school starts back up in August.

Michael Benning was crowned WODD Prince and Reagan Franzen was named WODD Princess.

eight and walked three.

“Credit to Eli — he put it together on the mound,” said Miller. “He really had a high-quality start, which is what we’re really going to need out of him next year. Seeing that out of him this year was fantastic. He was awesome.”

N-P defeated Janesville, 8-3, on Thursday June 15.

Harrington fanned 13 in that victory — which saw N-P plate seven runs in the sixth inning. He also collected three hits and knocked in two runs. Dawson Glaser, Tucker Franzen and Kendrick Huck all had two hits apiece against the Wildcats.

Newman and all-state Iowa recruit Doug Taylor shut out N-P 9-0 the following night in Cerro Gordo County. Taylor (6-0) struck out 18 batters in his three-hitter. He did not walk a batter and now has 73 K’s in just 34 innings of work.

On Monday, Franzen pitched a complete-game over the course of six innings in an 11-1 rout over Central Springs (5-16, 3-10).

Kalainoff homered on the first pitch of the evening from Panther pitching. He leads the team with four dingers and 24 RBI.

Harrington is batting .491 and Kalainoff also sports an identical .491 batting average. Glaser also hits at a terrific clip at the plate as he carries a .407 batting average.

The Huskies committed zero errors versus Central Springs and Janesville.

N-P played at Osage tonight (Thursday). Then the regular season will wind down with a game at North Butler on Monday, Riceville at home on Tuesday and back at Burkle on Wednesday versus West Fork. The regular season finale is scheduled to take place on Thursday, June 29 in West Union against North Fayette Valley before district play gets under way.

One of Nashua's best attractions is that it is home to Cedar Lake, which is created by the dam that has been part of the city for decades. The lake gives residents and visitors ample opportunities for outdoor activities, and Cedar View Park provides a campground, splash pad and dock areas.

Effort is there for N-P even if victories aren't Huskies come up just short in attempt to get third victory at New Hampton Invite

By KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

The clock struck midnight for the Nashua-Plainfield Husky softball team Saturday afternoon in New Hampton.

No, the hands of the timepiece at the invite hosted by the Chickasaws that kept track of the softball games' time limit didn't actually touch the number 12. But game officials did wrap up Game No. 2 against Denver a little early for the Huskies and head coach Jessica Stastny-Hall at the New Hampton Invite.

Yes, Cinderella is still searching for her glass slipper or in the case of the Huskies – they're still looking for another victory before regional play starts soon and the regular season ends.

No word if Prince Charming has sent out a search party for that slipper yet, meaning N-P could use a little assistance to help break its current 13-game losing streak.

Denver ended up winning that game this past weekend – holding off N-P's rally in the second such installment between the two teams. The Cyclones – which topped N-P at the Hudson Invite earlier this year by a score of 15-4 – topped the Huskies, 7-6. The game was stopped after an hour-and-a-half because of time regulations.

The Huskies stormed back from a 6-0 deficit to tie the contest at 6-6 with five runs in the bottom of the fifth inning, only to see the Cyclones win 7-6 with a single run a half inning later.

Stastny-Hall – which saw her team's record fall to 2-21 overall after a 12-2 loss at St. Ansgar on Wednesday – had this to say about the Denver contest.

"Our Denver game our fielding was a lot better than the last time we played them. Our hits were a lot better – base running was good," said Stastny-Hall.

The N-P head coach also talked about the pace of play at the New Hampton get-together.

"We were very pushed. It's a very aggressive – get in, get out," said Stastny-Hall. "It has its pros and cons. That's how tournaments work. You're not guaranteed the whole seven innings, especially when an inning goes long, so you're going to play what you can for an hour-and-a-half."

While this hasn't been a fairytale season for the Huskies – which sits in last place in the Top of Iowa East with a 1-12 mark – there was some encouraging news that came out of the NH Invite.

"One of the umps I talked to earlier today, he's watching us progress and it's getting better from the first time he saw us. It's the little things," said Stastny-Hall on Saturday. "It's making sure everyone's in the right position. I've seen a lot of progress today."

N-P began the tournament against the Chickasaws and lost that fray, 14-2. Area squad Turkey Valley played N-P in the last game of the afternoon for the Huskies and won 14-4.

N-P had another near-miss at a victory – like Denver – against Northwood-Kensett (2-15, 2-9) on Wednesday, June 14. The Vikings stunned N-P with four runs in the top of the seventh to claim victory by a score of 10-7.

"In the Northwood game, even though we lost, we showed a lot of good signs," said Stastny-Hall. "We just need to put everything in place."

Errors and inconsistent pitching has been N-P's Achilles' heel this summer. The Huskies committed four errors apiece against Denver and New Hampton on Saturday. N-P lost at Janesville on Thursday, June 15 by a score of 12-0 and were saddled with five errors. Central Springs (18-5, 12-1), ranked third in Class 2A, capitalized on six Husky errors en route to a 17-1 win this past Monday.

Mason City Newman (22-6, 10-3), rated No. 13 in Class 1A, topped N-P, 14-0, last week Friday. The Huskies made just one error in that contest and did the same in the field against St. Ansgar (17-8, 6-5).

N-P sophomore Paige Franzen doubled, as did

BATTLING ON THE DIAMOND

HUSKIES PICK UP WINS OVER CENTRAL SPRINGS, A-P, FALL TO TOP-RANKED NEWMAN, ST. ANSGAR

By KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

Let there be lights. Nashua-Plainfield sure hopes so.

While N-P's new sports complex in Plainfield should be less than a year away from being completed – with said lights – the Huskies and head coach Levi Miller sure could have used some illumination on its home diamond in the coming weeks.

The state released the post-season pairings for the small-school classes on Thursday in prep baseball and the Huskies understood one simple fact right off the bat – N-P would not be hosting any district games because Stan Burkle Field does not have lights.

With that said, N-P definitely deserved at least two post-season home games as it garnered the No. 2 seed in the Class 1A Substate 3, District 5 bracket that was released by the Iowa High School Athletic Association (IHSAA).

Instead, N-P will have to pack its bags for a bus ride that will consist of over 70 miles one-way and well over an hour away in Winthrop – the site of No. 3 seed East Buchanan's home playing field. That first round of district play for N-P gets underway on Saturday, July 1 against No. 7 seed Central City (3-18). The winner plays the victor between No. 3 East Buchanan and No. 6 Edgewood-Colesburg. North Linn, ranked No. 5 in Class 1A, is the No. 1 seed in that District 5 bracket and received the bye. The Lynx face off against the survivor of No. 4 Maquoketa Valley and No. 5 North Tama on Wednesday, July 5.

"We're going to focus on what we can control and that's it," said Miller. "We're used to traveling for playoffs. Although, we technically should have two home games – yeah, we gotta go an hour-and-a-half away – but our guys don't care."

Miller said this is the first time under his direction – he's been head coach at N-P for eight seasons – that his Huskies have been awarded a No. 2 seed for district play.

And for good reason.

N-P (13-5) – as of Thursday afternoon – still holds on to second place in the Top of Iowa East Division Conference standings with a mark of 10-3.

The Huskies suffered their third league loss on the road against St. Ansgar Wednesday evening, 4-0. The tandem of sophomore starter Jayce Schwiesow (4 IP, 8 K) and senior Tate Mayer (3 IP, 7 K) managed to pitch a combined no-hitter against N-P. The Saints' arms allowed just three base runners all evening – which amounted to three walks.

"We know we got some dog-fight games. Last night against St. Ansgar didn't go our way. We had a lot of things work against us, but that's how baseball works and we focus on what's in our control," Miller said.

That victory by the Saints – which avenged a 7-0 loss to N-P back in late May – could well have been the deciding factor on why St. Ansgar (19-5, 9-3) snared a No. 1 seed in Class 1A, District 4.

The Huskies other two league losses came against top-ranked Mason City Newman (24-2, 13-0) – 16-0 and 9-0.

"We've had a lot of really good wins this year," said Miller. "We're focused on building on success."

One of those victories by N-P came in a non-conference tilt against Aplington-Parkersburg (10-8) at home this past Tuesday. The Huskies held off the Falcons' charge to come away with a thrilling, 4-3, triumph.

"They threw their ace. That kid was huckin'" said Miller. "That's a good 2A team. You couple that with a win against Saint and Osage – sure we've had a couple letdown games – but, oh well, that's baseball."

Miller is talking about victories this season that hold weight and Osage (10-8, 8-5), St. Ansgar and A-P are such key victories for his talented squad.

"If you talk signature wins, we've had 'em," said Miller.

N-P senior Bo Harrington belted a two-run homer in the third inning of the A-P win. Let's just say the sound off the bat of Harrington's powerful swing sounded a lot like Omaha.

"He absolutely blasted the ball," said Miller. "He annihilated that baseball. It sounded like College World Series with one of those boys."

Behind the superb pitching of freshman Eli Kalainoff – who worked into the sixth – and two more runs plated in the bottom of the sixth, N-P took a 4-0 lead headed into the final frame.

That's when things got a little dicey.

No worries, Miller summoned sophomore hurler Nic Brase to the rescue. Two errors and a misplayed ball had A-P thinking victory – down just 4-3. With runners on first and third and two outs in the top of the seventh, Brase and the Huskies found a way to put out the Falcon fire and extinguish the threat.

A-P tried the ole' 1st-and-3rd trickery play by pulling the runner off first as a decoy to bait the Huskies into not paying attention to the runner on third – who made a beeline towards home to steal a run and tie the game.

It didn't work.

"Brase just ran after him like crazy, tossed it to Landon (Pratt) and tagged him. It was so fast that that guy on third, I think he was just halfway down the third baseline to score. It wasn't even close," said Miller.

Had the runner on third scored before the final out was made, the game would have been tied at 4-4 and headed into the final frame in the seventh.

Kalainoff pitched over five innings, allowed four hits and zero earned runs. He struck out
