Board moves ahead with county-only project

Supervisors vote 5-0 to pay Samuels Group $10,000 to study using existing site for Sheriff's Office, new holding facility

BY BOB FENSKE

editor@nhtrib.com

The Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors took another step Monday to "going it alone" when it comes to dealing with issues with its current jail when they voted unanimously to pay Samuels Group $10,000 to come up with options with how it can use the property that houses the Sheriff's Office and jail.

The vote came a week after the board backed off on creating a Joint Authority Board with the city of New Hampton to build a $13.2 million law enforcement center and 24-hour holding facility.

Instead, supervisors decided to contract with the Samuels Group, which came up with the recommendation for the center that would house both the Sheriff's Office and the New Hampton Police Department, as well as booking and dispatching facilities and four holding cells.

"I do want to stress ... this board needs to make a decision in my opinion on what exactly you want the Samuels Group to do," Sheriff Ryan Shawver said. "It's obvious, based on why we're here at this point, that we didn't like what they did the first time. The board didn't like or a few didn't like, whatever it is."

Shawver said he didn't "want to come back in here in 2 1/2 months to three months when they present to you what they found [and have the board say] 'Well we don't like that, let's look at this now' and continually, as the phrase goes, kick the can down the road."

New director gearing up for Heartland Days

Plenty of work remains but city's annual celebration taking shape

BY BOB FENSKE

editor@nhtrib.com

Liz Zweibohmer loves a challenge, so why not be eight months pregnant when it comes to the New Horizons-Chamber director's first Heartland Days?

"I might be on a golf cart a lot," she said of New Hampton's annual big celebration that is set for June 9-10, "but it's going to be a blast. I love event planning. I would like to say it's one of my forte, and I love the fact that this brings our whole town together so, yeah, I'm definitely pumped up for it."

Zweibohmer took over as chamber director last August, but as a 2014 graduate of New Hampton High School, she's very familiar with the festival.

"When we first started talking about Heartland Days, I'll admit it felt a little daunting," she said. "With the history of it, with the success it has had, I don't know if I would say it was pressure but I will say I want this to be good, really good, so yes, I'm trying to add a few touches to it."

Although it may be April, the fact is crunch time has arrived for the chamber's biggest event; after all, six weeks from Friday evening, Heartland Days kicks off with the annual parade that will be led by Grand Marshals Trace and Mark Dungey and their employees.

"We're not done yet with getting ready, but I feel really comfortable with where we're at right now," Zweibohmer said. "We have a great group of sponsors and volunteers, and that makes it so much easier. People need to remember that without them, we can't have a great weekend."

Much of the schedule remains the same — the parade and Family Night featuring the Dweebs and the fireworks show on Friday and a host of events on Saturday — Zweibohmer said one of

Teacher who majored in journalism leads class that will tell stories from midmester

New Hampton Middle School

Chickasaw Communications, taught by Kassie Bercik, was a course offered by New Hampton Middle School during its annual midmester program where the students worked on writing articles about the slew of classes offered during the two-week program (one of which you are reading right now).

Bercik wanted the students to walk away with more confidence, as well as journalistic writing experience.

The students worked on interviewing, writing headlines, and article writing.

"We've gotten to interview people and take some pictures," Emma Praska, a 6th grader, said.

FFA enjoys busy convention

Seven New Hampton students receive their Iowa Degrees

BY MADALYN VANWEY

New Hampton FFA Reporter

The New Hampton FFA chapter traveled to Ames for the 95th Iowa State Convention, which wrapped up its three-day run on the campus of Iowa State University on April 18.

During the opening session of convention, New Hampton vocational agriculture teacher Jim Russ had the honor to be the advisor during the opening ceremonies.

The chapter had seven seniors receive their Iowa Degrees, and they included Kandice Eggerichs, Noah Eichenberger, Josie Fuerstenberg, Gracie Reicks, Quinten Reicks, Ashley Rosonke, and Elaina Rosonke. The Iowa Degree is the highest honor given by the state organization and only about 5 percent of Iowa's FFA members earn the honor.

Students must meet a variety of requirements to receive their Iowa Degrees, including:

- Have received the Chapter FFA Degree.
- Have satisfactorily completed the equivalent of at least two years (360 hours) of systematic school instruction in agricultural education above the ninth-grade level.
- Have a Supervised Agricultural Experience (SAE) program that earned and invested a combination of dollars and hours that are the equivalent value of $1,500 and/or 375 hours in excess of scheduled class time.
- Have a record of outstanding leadership abilities and community involvement as well as a proficient scholastic record while in high school.
- Have participated in at least 25 hours of community service, within at least two different community service activities.

Three New Hampton FFA members represented us with their excellent proficiencies, and they included Tori Bearman, who placed first in Equine Science Placement; Marshall Zeien, who placed second in Landscape Management Entrepreneurship; and Josie Fuerstenberg, who placed second in Equine Science Entrepreneurship.

The New Hampton FFA chapter was well represented at the convention.

- The Farm Business Management team of Ethan Praska, Quinten Reicks, Grace Maloy and Zeien received a silver rating.
- The Chapter Display duo of Maddie Schaufenbuel and Beth Pickar received a silver rating.
- The Biotechnology team of Hayden Hackman, Carrie Schwickerath, Jayden Worpole and Aleah Eichenberger received a bronze rating.
- The Poultry team of Kandice Eggerichs, Gracie Reicks, Emmett Kuehner and Caleb Utley received a silver rating.
- Karla Pickar received a silver rating in radio broadcasting.
- Olivia Eichenberger received a gold rating while Jennifer Eichenberger received a silver rating the Greenhand Quiz.

And New Hampton's FFA musicians also took center stage as Emily Geerts and Beth Pickar were selected for the Iowa FFA Choir while Grace Baker, Hayden Hackman, Aleah Eichenberger and Karla Pickar played in the Iowa FFA Band.

Pork producers donate to pantries

Gregg Shattuk and LeAnne Schulz pose for a photo at the Chickasaw County Food Pantry in New Hampton after the Chickasaw County Pork Producers recently donated pork products to food banks throughout the county.

The county organization teamed up with the Iowa Pork Producers, which has a statewide program called "Pork in the Pantry." The state organization's Promotion Committee agreed to reimburse $1,000 to county groups as long as the pork was purchased in the county and donated to food pantries.

The Chickasaw County Pork Producers chose to partner with the New Hampton Fareway and the Ionia Locker for the pork purchased for the Chickasaw County Food Pantry located in New Hampton. The Fredericksburg Food Center was the supplier for the Food Pantry located in Fredericksburg, and the Nashua Area Food Pantry received pork purchased from Miller's Custom Processing located near Nashua.

New Hampton High to hold Coffeehouse Concert this Sunday

New Hampton High School choir and band students will get up "early" Sunday to perform their annual Coffeehouse Concert.

Yes, the concert starts at 2 p.m., but for those attending prom on Saturday, trust us, it's going to feel early!

The concert will feature performances by the Nu-Hi Chorale, the Chamber Choir and the Concert Band. Senior members of the band and choir will also be honored during the concert, which traditionally is held the day after prom.

New Hampton native to speak at Hawkeye commencement ceremony

The Hawkeye Community College commencement ceremony is set for Friday, May 5, at 7:00 p.m. and will feature a speech by a New Hampton native.

The ceremony will be held at the McLeod Center on the University of Northern Iowa campus in Cedar Falls. The event recognizes fall 2022, spring 2023, and summer 2023 graduates.

The student speaker will be Kayla Walter, a native of New Hampton who is graduating from the Liberal Arts program. No tickets are necessary to attend the graduation ceremony. Family and friends who are unable to attend can watch live online at www.hawkeyecollege.edu/graduation.

Ernst staff to hold 'traveling office hours' in New Hampton May 11

U.S. Senator Joni Ernst (R-Iowa) announced today her office will be holding traveling office hours in every county throughout the state during the month of May, including one from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 11, at the New Hampton Public Library.

Senator Ernst will not be at the traveling office hours.

Constituents seeking assistance with federal agencies who are unable to attend the traveling office hours can contact one of the senator's offices directly or submit a casework request online at www.Ernst.senate.gov.

Board members want to know options for using sheriff's current location building a new booking area and holding facility in what is now the parking lot for the Sheriff's Office and for remodeling the building that currently houses deputies and the jail, which the state jail inspector has continually said does not meet current standards.

He said the Samuels Group would not consider tearing down the old building and constructing an entirely new facility for the county.

"I know there were concerns about the cost of $10 million," he said. "I can tell you right now that it will be more than $10 million to demolish and then fit something on the new site."

Board members, meanwhile, expressed concerns about an appendix that came with the contract to do the latest study. In it, the Samuels Group said it would be willing to work with the county if it proceeded with a referendum. If that referendum passed, the document stated that the approximate cost to the county would be 8 percent of the total construction costs for architectural and engineer services and 5 percent of the cost for construction management.

Wilde, though, emphasized that the county would not be tied to the Samuels Group after it presented its recommendations.

"It does not lock you into a number or a rate with us or anything," he said. "We're here to try to provide as much information as we can, to answer questions you would have and provide the kind of data you need to make the decisions that you feel are in the best interest of taxpayers in Chickasaw County."

Supervisors, though, remained relatively quiet.

"I guess I'll ask the question [because] I'm not getting a good feeling here based on the lack of discussion," Shawver said.

"Is the building project something the board wants to move forward with at all? I know it's expensive but I'm just throwing the question out there. If not, I guess we just gamble with the state and see how long of a time limit we have."

"We've been gambling for seven years," said New Hampton resident Chuck Stanton, who in the "public comment" portion of the meeting, expressed his displeasure with the county backing off from a potential partnership with the city.

"I think we need to do something," Board Chairman Matt Kuhn said. "I don't want to get caught with them shutting the jail down and then now we have nothing."

Supervisor Steve Breitbach said he wasn't "real crazy" about spending the $10,000, "but I think we're going to have to see people can realize how much it's going to cost. I think it's going to be prohibitive on the dollar amount it's going to be [compared] to a new structure."

Supervisors then voted 5-0 on the contract — minus the appendix that included the future costs — proposed by the Samuels Group.

Deadline to enter Little Miss Heartland pageant is May 17 her goals is to fill the Saturday afternoon "lull."

"We want the park to be hopping all day," she said with a laugh, "so we're playing around with a few things."

Start with the fact that Heartland Days will welcome "home" New Hampton High alum Madison Kolbet, who will take the stage and perform a number of her songs at 1 p.m.

And then there's the corn-hole — or bags, as most of us call them — tournament that will be held at noon. Yes, bags have been flying at Heartland Days for a number of years, but New Horizons and the tournament sponsors have upped the ante this year with some pretty substantial prizes — $500 to the winners, $250 to the runners-up and $100 to the third-place finishers.

Kolbet, meanwhile, kicks off a day of plenty of live music as Bruce Day will perform during "Happy Hour" from 4 to 7 p.m. and the band Rhino will take the band shell stage from 8 to 11:30 p.m.

"We feel like we have a ton of activities," Zweibohmer said, "and honestly, we're not that far away. We can't wait for a great weekend."

With the celebration fast approaching, Zweibohmer is on the lookout for all would-be "princesses" for the Little Miss Heartland Pageant that will be held at noon on Saturday, June 10.

The pageant is open to all princesses who will be in grades 1-3 in the fall, and the registration deadline to be part of the pageant is May 17, and participants will not only take part in the parade and the pageant but they will also participate in volunteer activities and learn about the importance of community involvement.

midmaster in 2017, and since then, New Hampton Middle School has partnered with the New Hampton Tribune to have "Chickasaw Chat" published as a special section in the newspaper.

The class has been taught by Shelby Eggemo and Abigail Feldman in the past, but this year, the course was led by Berik, who earned a journalism degree at the University of Iowa, where she also worked as a reporter at the Daily Iowan, Iowa's student newspaper.

"I am very passionate about journalism and think that it's a good career choice for students who are interested in English or literacy careers. I also used to teach a class like this when I was teaching in Clarksville, so I was excited to teach something similar again," Berik said.

The instructional coach who taught high school English until this year said she understood the challenges her students faced.

"It's hard to go up to people and ask them questions, especially when you need their answers for your articles to be successful," Berik said. "I also want them to take away some writing skills and time management skills."

Wyatt Sabelka is a seventh-grader at New Hampton Middle School.

Bible verses to celebrate the month of May!

A lot of times when I think of May, I think of all the flowers, the growth, and bright colors.

As Christians, we rely on God's word for growth and maturity in our day to day walk.

So today's blogpost is going to be 10 Bible Verses for May. These are just a collection of Verses that I found that reminds me of May.

1 Corinthians 14:20 KJV: "Brethren, be not children in understanding: howbeit in malice be ye children, but in understanding be men."

2 Thessalonians 1:3 KJV: "We are bound to thank God always for you, brethren, as it is meet, because that your faith groweth exceedingly, and the charity of every one of you all toward each other aboundeth;"

Acts 12:24 KJV: "But the word of God grew and multiplied."

Psalm 65:9 KJV: "Thou visitest the earth, and waterest it: thou greatly enrichest it with the river of God, which is full of water: thou preparest them corn, when thou hast so provided for it."

2 Corinthians 9:10 KJV: "Now he that ministereth seed to the sower both minister bread for your food, and multiply your seed sown, and increase the fruits of your righteousness;"

2 Corinthians 13:9 KJV: "For we are glad, when we are weak, and ye are strong: and this also we wish, even your perfection."

2 Corinthians 10:15-16 KJV: "Not boasting of things without our measure, that is, of other men's labours; but having hope, when your faith is increased, that we shall be enlarged by you according to our rule abundantly, To preach the gospel in the regions beyond you, and not to boast in another man's line of things made ready to our hand."

2 Peter 3:18 KJV: "But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. To him be glory both now and for ever. Amen."

Colossians 1:10 KJV:

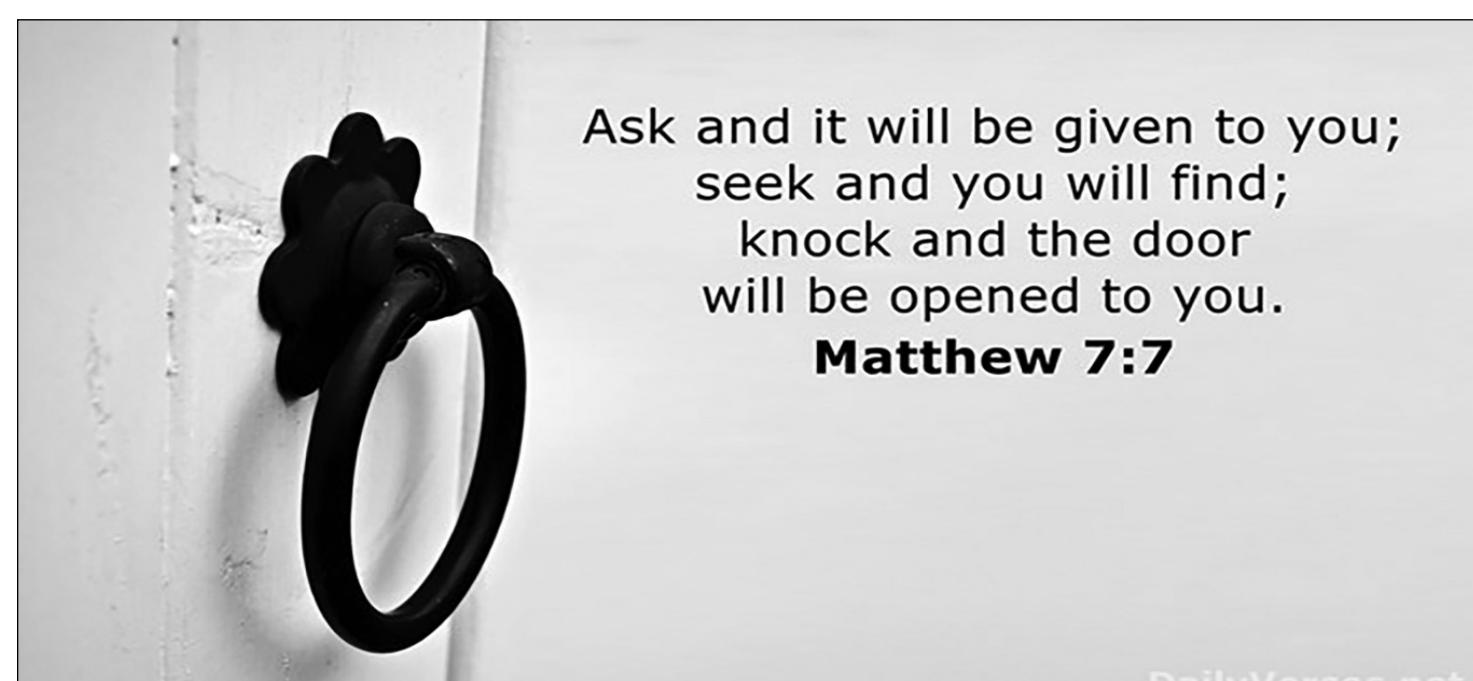

"That ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of God;"

Philippians 1:6 KJV: "Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ."

Building a service from scratch

Chickasaw County EMS director says his department is blessed to have the employees it does

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

It's a Monday afternoon in the "EMS House" on South Walnut Avenue in New Hampton.

Carly Clinton and Joel Koehn are looking over paperwork in the spartan-furnished home while Chickasaw County EMS Director Joel Knutson works in his office, one that, save for a large wall calendar is about as bare bones as it can be.

As Knutson talks about the county-owned ambulance service's first four months in operation, he takes some good-natured ribbing from the paramedic and EMT sitting in the living room.

"It's one thing you learn about EMS right away," Knutson said with a laugh. "You're never safe from grief."

He paused for a moment and smiled.

"But this is a great group of people to work with," he said, "and I'd trust my family members with any one of our employees. We — and by that I mean our county — are blessed to have these people."

This isn't a story about the politics of the ambulance service, although it could be; after all, it seems to be a rare week in which Chickasaw County's ambulance issues haven't graced the front page of this newspaper.

However, today's story is — and yes, some will say that we're speaking too soon — about the success story that Chickasaw County EMS has written in a relatively short amount of time. Knutson wasn't hired to run the ambulance service until Oct. 24, meaning that he had two months and a few days to make sure the ambulance service was up and running by Jan. 1.

He had plenty of help obviously.

There was the Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors, who spent some of the county's American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds to purchase equipment ranging from ambulances to bandages.

There was the Chickasaw County EMS Advisory Committee that put in countless hours coming up with recommendations and doing the "dirty work" needed to get a service off the ground in a matter of months.

And there were the legions of folks — many from near and some from far — who wanted to be a part of the new service that not only serves the rural areas of the county but also, through 28E agreements, takes calls in the cities of New Hampton, Bassett, Fredericksburg, Ionia, Lawler and North Washington.

"They are the heroes to me," Knutson said. "A service can have all the equipment in the world, but if it doesn't have great employees, it doesn't matter. And we have great employees."

THEY'VE BEEN busy since Jan. 1, too.

Knutson said that Chickasaw County EMS has answered more than 300 calls in its first four months of service, with about 60 percent those being so-called "911 calls" and the rest being inter-facility transfers — mostly taking patients out of MercyOne New Hampton Medical Center to other hospitals.

But being a paramedic or an EMT is a different kind of job because let's face it, in a county the size of Chickasaw, it's rare to field calls throughout a 24-hour shift.

"It's 90 percent utter boredom," Knutson said, "and 10 percent sheer terror. Seriously, it's the nature of the business."

Some of the employees, especially the paramedics, work for other EMS services. Knutson, for example, is an air paramedic for Gunderson, flying out of Decorah.

A number of other employees work "day jobs" in and around the county.

Those that are on the first crew report to work for 24-hour shifts at 7 in the morning.

They do "truck checks" to make sure that the rigs are ready to roll and have all the supplies they will need. And then they head to the house on Walnut and wait for the pager to go off, often completing paperwork and doing other duties.

If they get called, the back-up crew becomes the main crew. Some who work in New Hampton keep working, but if their pager goes off, they're flying out the door.

"One of the big things that helped us so far is the fact that we have employers who understand the needs we have," Knutson said. "I can't tell you how grateful we are for the TriMarks, the Zip's, the hospital, all of them really, for allowing their employees to do this."

And while most shifts are 24 hours, there are times that Knutson works in 12-hour shifts. The goal is to have paramedic coverage as much as possible, and he estimates the county service has been able to do so about 90 percent of the time.

"One hundred is the ultimate goal obviously," he said, "but at the same time, you do the best you can."

THE "ROSTER" at Chickasaw County EMS includes 30 names.

That's important because one must be on the roster to be

Medic 2, one of two new ambulances purchased by the Board of Supervisors for Chickasaw County EMS, sits in the shop at On Track Signs, which provided the decals for the two new rigs. EMS Director Joel Knutson said that in odd-numbered months, Medic 1 is the primary vehicle used by the service while in even-numbered months, Medic 2 takes over as the primary vehicle. "The idea is to spread out the miles on each ambulance," he said, "because we want them to last as long as they can. This way, one rig isn't just racking up all the miles."

Chickasaw County EMS off to good startEMS: FROM 6

able to provide care to those the ambulance services.

Some are full-timers; most are part-timers, some of whom work maybe just a shift or two a month.

Knutson said he would love to be able to hire a full-time paramedic and he says that his department's roster size is "adequate."

Would he like more? Absolutely.

"It's the reality of the world right now," he said. "When I first got started in EMS, I had to take two part-time jobs because you couldn't get a full-time job. Now, if you're a paramedic, trust me, you can pretty much go anywhere. We're off to a good start, don't get me wrong, but we'd love to see some of our EMTs become paramedics, we'd love more EMTs. If you're interested, we're willing to talk to you about it."

BRIDGET EDSON jokes that she's been an EMT forever.

"OK, maybe I'm not that old," she said with a laugh, "but it's been such a big part of my life for so long. You get to work with super passionate people who just want to be able to help people."

She served as the chair of the Chickasaw County EMS Advisory Committee that was formed this past fall and now works as an EMT for the service.

The new service has also allowed her to return to the field, so to speak. She and her family live in rural Ionia so she didn't work for the Chickasaw Ambulance Service because it did not have living quarters.

But she had seen how emergency services worked in Forest City, which uses a model somewhat like Chickasaw County EMS in that it had both paramedics and volunteers who were paid only when they went on a call.

The Advisory Committee was always meant to be a temporary thing, and it disbanded in January. But as much work as it was, she will always appreciate serving on that board for a several months.

"There was a lot of give and take," she said, "and I loved the fact that you had a group of people who really believed in this and really wanted to make it work. We didn't always agree, but we worked through a lot of issues in a short amount of time."

As an EMT, she is almost always part of the service's backup crew, which means if a truck heads out, she drives into New Hampton to stay at the house and wait for the next call.

"I think it has gone well," she said. "We have different kind of people — all types, if you will — but what impresses me and what I really enjoy is their professionalism. I was with someone at the house who's also a firefighter and during our down time, that's what he was working on. You look at the number of people who are dual-trained and it shows you how much they care about their communities."

THERE ARE still many hurdles to clear for Chickasaw County EMS.

As much as Knutson appreciates the house on Walnut, he can't wait for the day that the service has a permanent home, and he has been outspoken in saying the service needs a third "backup" rig — be it used or new.

The reasons are many, but chief among them is the fact that having three ambulances means the service will almost always be able to be available to do inter-facility transfers.

"It's where the revenue is," he said, "and I'm sure everyone is sick of hearing me say that. But it's the truth."

Still, four months in, he has few regrets.

"I will tell you that we had a good service," he said, "that's never been a question. But we were charged, if that's the right word, to come up with a plan in a very short amount of time."

He paused one more time and waved his hand toward the living quarters in the house on Walnut Avenue.

"Because of people like them, our employees, I think we have a lot to be proud about. Do we have more work to do? Without a doubt, we do, but we're off to a good start."

Spotlight on the Chickasaw County Rescue Squad

The Chickasaw County Rescue Squad is a sub-agency of the Chickasaw County Emergency Management Agency and was started in the early 1970s.

The Rescue Squad is composed of approximately 50 paid-on-call volunteer individuals that are highly trained in specialty types of rescue including; hazardous materials, vehicle extrication, agriculture extrication, grain bin rescue and recovery, water rescue and wide area search among other specialties.

The Rescue Squad responds to nearly all incidents within Chickasaw County to supplement the response of local agencies. Rescue Squad is the home base for the county-wide First Responders in Chickasaw County.

As listed below, there are state-certified Emergency Medical Responders in or around every town in Chickasaw County. First Responders are the ones that show up in your time of need before the ambulance arrives.

Some 'Did-You-Knows' About Estate Plans

If you've done any estate planning, or even if you're just familiar with it, you probably know the basics — that is, a comprehensive estate plan can help you pass on assets to your family while also achieving other goals, such as designating someone to take care of your affairs if you become unable to do so. But you may not know about some other estate-planning issues that could prove important in your life:

• Power of attorney for students — Children heading off to college may be considered legal adults in many states. Consequently, you, as a parent, may not have any control over medical treatment if your child faces a sudden, serious illness or is involved in an accident. Instead, a doctor who doesn't know your child or your family may decide on a course of action of which you might not approve. To help prevent this, you may want to have your college student sign a medical power of attorney form, which will allow you to make decisions on your child's behalf if doctors don't think your child can make those choices. You might also want to combine the medical power of attorney with an advance health care directive or living will, which lets you specify actions you do or don't want to happen. In any case, consult with your legal advisor before taking any of these steps.

• Community property versus common law — Not all states treat married couples' possessions equally. If you live in a community property state, the property you acquire during your marriage is generally considered to be owned in equal halves by each spouse, with some exceptions. But if you live in a common law state, the property you obtain while you're married is not automatically owned by both spouses. In these states, if you buy some property, you own it, unless you decide to put it in the name of yourself and your spouse.

mean, however, that your spouse has no rights, because common law states typically have rules that guard surviving spouses from being disinherited. But here's the key point: If you move from a community property state to a common law state, or vice versa, you might not want to assume that your and your spouse's property ownership situations will remain the same. Consequently, if you do move, you may want to consult an estate-planning attorney in your new state to determine where you stand.

• Pet trusts — You always strive to take good care of your pets. But what might happen to them if you become incapacitated in some way? Unless you have a close family member or friend who's willing to take over care for your pet, you might want to consider setting up a pet trust, which can take effect either during your lifetime or after you pass away. A trustee typically will make payments to the caregiver you've designated for your pet, with payments continuing for the pet's lifetime or a set number of years. Again, an estate-planning attorney can help you with this arrangement.

Estate planning certainly involves the big-picture issue of leaving a legacy to the next generation. But the issues we've discussed can also be meaningful to you, so you'll want to address them properly.

German students bringing mobile museum to St. Lucas next Thursday

On Thursday, May 4, from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., students from the Universität Erfurt in Germany will bring a mobile history lab to the German American Museum in St. Lucas. The 2023 BUS-eum tour will be traversing the Midwest in the coming months.

This mobile history laboratory (housed in a retrofitted school bus featuring two exhibits) dramatically explores several hidden historical topics and contemporary issues like climate change. The purpose of these historical exhibits is to challenge our awareness and understanding of raging political and social issues from World War I to the beginning of WWII, 1914 to 1939.

This mobile BUS-eum exhibit, sponsored by the Iowa-based TRACES Center for History and Culture, is titled "Hidden and Forbidden No More: Prequels to the Greatest Generation, 1914-1939". This wide-lensed historical exhibit highlights five social topics: "The Kaiser" (anti-German hysteria in the Midwest in WWI), The Ku Klux Klan ("America's White Cancer"), "The Killer" (the influenza pandemic of 1918-19), "The Cow War" (farmer rebellions during the Great Depression), and "The Whiskey Cookers" (Prohibition-era bootlegging, e.g., Templeton, Iowa).

The Universität Erfurt students are bringing their innovative mobile exhibit about climate change to the Midwest as part of their efforts to raise awareness and spark meaningful discourse on this pressing issue. Their "Heartland's Future" project explores "How Can We Live Together on a Changing Planet?" The exhibit features a series of engaging presentations and panel discussions, exploring the latest research, innovative solutions and practical actions which can help mitigate the effects of climate change.

Visitors will have the opportunity to interact with the historical exhibits, participate in panel discussions and learn more about the impacts of climate change on their community and the world at large.

The German American

Museum is pleased to host this lively exploration of historical topics and contemporary issues like the climate and our agricultural future.

Trojans run several season-bests

Franzen, Hanson record PR's in open events at Kee, Sumner

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

Noah Hanson and Ryan Franzen are heating up.

That's a good thing, especially when the temperature remains a tad on the chilly side.

Those two Turkey Valley seniors ran to season-best performances at the Trojans' last two meets – the Gary Bottorf Invite at Kee High on Thursday and the Cougar Invite at Sumner this past Monday.

Franzen stretched his lanky legs on his 6-7 frame and came up a winner in the open 400 and 800. He won both races in personal-best times of 52.7 and 2:07.48, respectively.

TV head coach Mark Scott's main sprinter – Hanson – was also electrifying in the 100 dash as he scampered to a time of 11.42, good for second-place in Lansing at the meet hosted by the Kee High Hawks.

The Trojans also won the 4x400 relay with the squad of Burke Busta, Troy Schmitt, Chase Hayek and Franzen in 3:48.62 in Lansing.

Trojan junior Russell Nieman placed runner-up in the two-mile run (3,200) in a time of 11:30 at Sumner.

Hanson was second in the open 200 with a clip of 23.47.

TV's sprint medley relay placed first at Sumner with a season-best run of 1:39.12 with the quartet of Schmitt, Hayek, Hanson and Franzen.

Turkey Valley's 4x200 relay won gold in 1:36.44 with the team of Busta, Franzen, Hayek and Hanson.

Busta led off the silver-medal-winning 4x400 relay, followed by Hanson, Hayek and Franzen. The foursome ran to a finish of 3:38.92.

The Turkey Valley boys golf team shot a season-low 182 at the Tri-City Golf Course in Luana on Monday to outdistance Postville (226) by 44 strokes.

Oliver Schmitt, a junior, was the overall meet medalist with a 44.

Four Trojans, including Schmitt, all shot in the 40s as evident by Calvin Bodensteiner (45), Caleb Kurtenbach (46) and Carson Busta (47).

"The weather was still cold, but at least the wind finally died down enough to make it bearable on the tricky par 34 layout over the hilly terrain," said TV head coach John Reicks.

"Consistency was the name of the game tonight on both the girls and boys' scorecards."

The TV girls fired a combined score (top four individual finishers) of 248 – 22 strokes back of Postville's 222.

Trojan freshman Annika Bodensteiner led the Trojans with a 60. Bodensteiner fired a 57 against South Winneshiek on Thursday of last week at Spring Hills Golf Course in Ossian.

"The Trojan girls had all six of their varsity golfers post scores in the 60's tonight, the first time that has happened in a long time," said Reicks.

Those scores in the 60's featured Annika Bodensteiner (60), Sofia Rivera (62), Morgan Vsetecka (62), and Halle Weber (69).

The Warriors defeated the TV girls, 229-254.

Schmitt shot a medalist round (41) as well against South Winn.

Chickasaws look to build momentum

New Hampton boys pick up with three-stroke road victory

By KELLY TERPSTRA

sports@nhtrib.com

The Chickasaws have state on the brain – as well they should.

Just how low can the New Hampton boys golf team go?

Whatever it takes might be the correct answer.

After orchestrating a breakout round of 153 last Tuesday at home – tied for the best NH nine-hole round in the last 17 years – the Chickasaws and head coach Bill Glenn are thinking big.

That includes a potential trip to the state tournament next month – which would be Glenn's third state team berth if he can guide them there in what he has said will be his final year of guiding the Chickasaws program in 2023.

"They've grown up some," said Glenn. "Mentally and physically they're all bigger."

That major state goal to knock down is at the forefront of every Chickasaw on the squad – including junior Jack Shawver.

How often does state cross his mind – something Glenn has guided New Hampton to as recently as 2019?

"All the time," said Shawver. "It's definitely there. That's a big milestone."

New Hampton took another step forward last Friday – albeit 12 strokes off of last week Tuesday's incredible effort – to silence Crestwood on its home country club course, 162 to 165.

Shawver described the unpredictable nature of the weather on that day versus the Chickasaws' NEIC foe, which saw two different Cadets shoot in the 30s in medalist Cade Corsmo (37) and Landen Bergan (39).

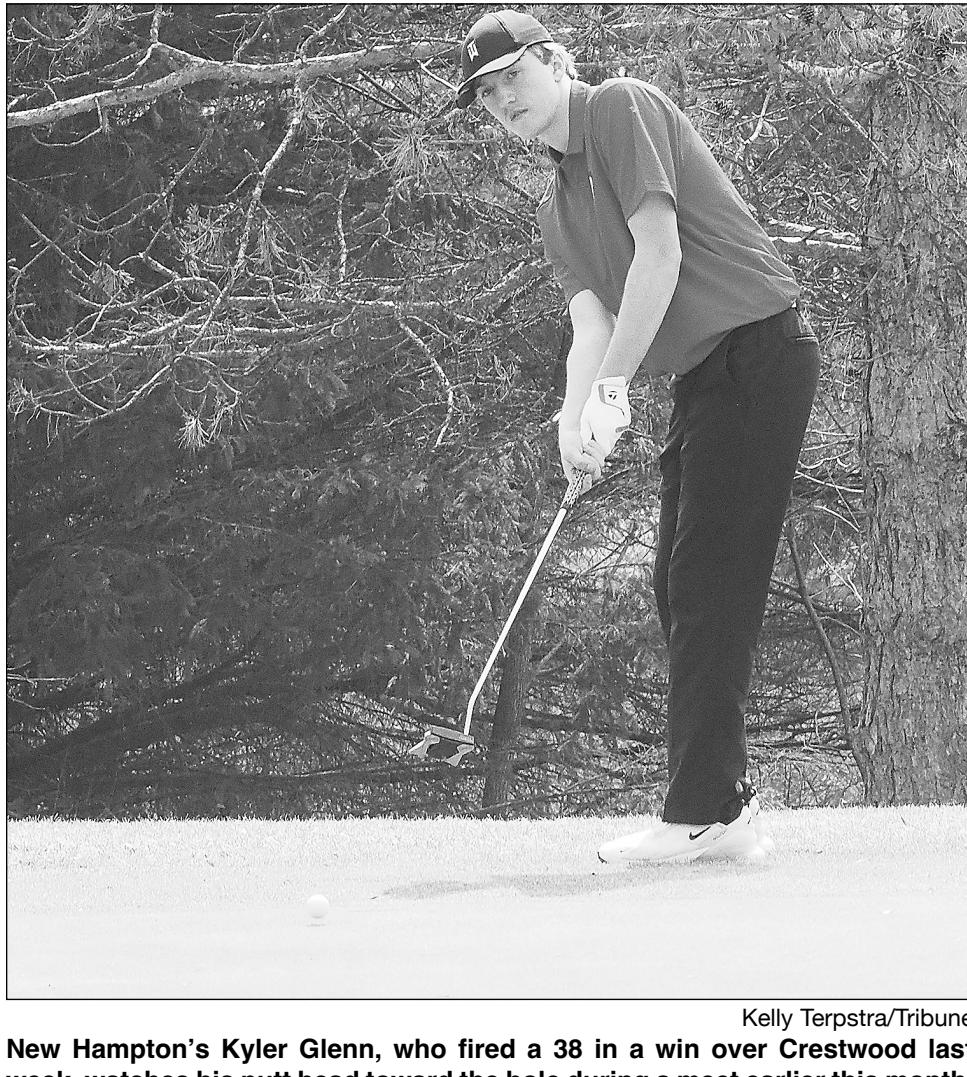

"It was like snow, then it would be sunny – then windy. Then it would go back to snow, then back to sun. It was weird," said Shawver.

Shawver was still on top of his game, though, and finished with a 40 against Crestwood. He shot an even par 36 on Tuesday. The goal is to not score 40.

"Tuesday I had 10, 12-foot par putts and they were dropping instantly," said Shawver.

Shawver also understands that in order to come up with consistent, low rounds that will help his teammates out – he doesn't need to do too much, too fast.

"The main thing I put in my head when I'm going out to tee off is just play your Kyler Glenn stayed there on Friday on the road in the tough weather with a confident 38. Glenn, along with Mason Lane, qualified individually for state last year.

He wants some company with him there this year – mainly Chickasaw black and red.

Kyler Glenn – Bill's son – is confident New Hampton can be playing at the same Class 2A state venue as last year, Coldwater Golf Links in Ames.

"We can all be in the 30s – no problem. We're that team," said Kyler Glenn. "You just have to keep a level plain – you don't want to get too high on yourself or too low on yourself."

New Hampton found out last Friday what that route will look like to get to state. The Chickasaws will once again host sectionals like they did last year. Then if NH advances to district play, that site is at Fox Ridge Golf Course in Dike.

The pairings aren't easy as top teams in Class 2A – Hudson, Grundy Center, Colo-Nesco, MFL-Mar-Mac and Aplington-Parkersburg – could all be playing at NH's district, should they advance from sectionals.

Hudson, Grundy Center and A-P all sport top five nine-hole round averages. New Hampton is ranked 14th in Class 2A with a 169.65 nine-hole average.

But this New Hampton may be a different squad now after that 153. They not only believe they can be the best – that's the standard now the Chickasaws want to live up to.

"I think that was a major breakthrough for them from believing that they could do it to knowing that they could do it to expecting to do it," said Glenn. "Now they're kind of upset when they're in the 40s. But I'm okay with my 5's and 6's – if they can come in with like a 42, that's a great stopper for us."

Chickasaws crush Comets

New Hampton sets program mark for wins with 9-2 victory over Charles City

By KELLY TERPSTRA

The New Hampton soccer squad was glad to be back home on Monday versus the Charles City Comets.

The Chickasaws and head coach Shannon Maas faced little resistance from the one-win Comets after coming up with a flurry of goals en route to a 9-2 win over Charles City.

NH junior Carter Broughton scored four goals and he was aided in the scoring department by seniors Treyce Orr and Brian Perez – who each scored two goals apiece.

With the win, New Hampton has now achieved the most wins in a season with five in just its third year of competition. The Chickasaws improved their record to 5-6 overall and have already won one more game than it did a year ago when it went 4-8.

Plus it was good to get another victory and snap a two-game losing streak. New Hampton lost 8-0 to Decorah last week Tuesday. Mason City continued the scoring barrage over NH with a 9-1 win on Thursday.

"They just played better as a team than us. Sometimes we got a little frustrated with each other," said senior goalkeeper Carver Bouillon. "They just showed up and wanted it more compared to us."

Different opponent, different outcome on Monday in a Northeast Iowa Conference matchup on Monday that once again got away early from Charles City (1-10). New Hampton riddled the Comets' defense in the season-opener with a 10-3 win.

"This was definitely the confidence booster that we needed," said Maas. "I love that we got everyone involved."

It was much of the same as NH raced out to a 4-0 halftime lead. Broughton – a top-five scorer in Class 2A with 14 goals on the season – let his left foot do the talking on this night as he opened the scoring with a goal in the back of the net and added another first-half goal underneath 13 minutes to play before intermission. Orthaus had a great run last week as he also fired a 49 at home versus Cedar Falls last Thursday. NH Red won that meet with a team score of 238, while NH Black was 16 shots back of that top total with a 222 – one better than Cedar Falls' No. 1 team (221).

"Those top two squads – Red and Black – could really go back-and-forth any day," said Matthews. "We've got two squads behind them that are fully capable of getting up there in the mix as well."

NH senior Layne Nehl was right behind Orthaus as he shot a 49 on Saturday. He lost to shoot-off to Kail Schmelzer of the Cresco Area Clay Crushers – 22-16. Nehl did beat out Nashua-Plainfield's Micaiah Groothuis in a sudden-death shoot-off for third place.

NH senior Teigen Howe was perfect – just like Orthaus – against Cedar Falls as his shotgun would not miss en route to a stellar round of 50. Chickasaw junior Ethan Svehla won a shoot-off over Orthaus – 22-20 – to snare the runner-up slot on Thursday behind Howe.

Chickasaw senior Joshua Scott led New Hampton with a 48 at Nashua on Tuesday. New Hampton Red (228) won that meet and NH Black (227) was second. Charles City's top squad finished third with a 217.

"We're really happy where we're at at this portion of the season. Our kids are doing a really good job," said Matthews. "I think the last three meets for sure we've had some scores to improve our E-League score."

Tori Bearman (46), Jaiden Fettkether (44) and Josie Fuerstenberg (43) were top scores for the girls last week.

Nine NH seniors were honored on Saturday in Fuerstenberg, Howe, Scott, Orthaus, Nehl, Tanner Njus, Kendra Pickar, Jaiden Fettkether and Noah Eichenberger.

This Chickasaw senior class were freshmen when the COVID-19 pandemic wiped out their season.

"They've had a little bit different experience through the last four years than all the other groups that we've had. They definitely step up and lead the team," said Matthews. "You really kind of think about it on the front and the back side. The group that was seniors and the group that was freshman – I think probably have the biggest chips on their shoulder from what occurred."

Hampton's eighth goal with just over 10 minutes to play.

Perez scored New Hampton's final goal with 8:20 remaining in the match as he out ran the Comet defense and put a slow roller past the Comet goalie to cap the Chickasaws' frenzied scoring assault. Perez's first goal score came from a Broughton pass that he kicked on home with 14:26 left in the match.

Perez broke down what might have led to last week's losses to Decorah and Mason City.

"I think the only thing that kind of slows down the team is they like doubt themselves, so they put their heads down," said Perez. "Our team definitely has potential to do good."

It was a great bounce-back win for the Chickasaws, which took on North Fayette Valley on Tuesday on the road. New Hampton hosts No. 9 Hudson on Monday, May 1.

Bouillon said communication may be the number-one key to New Hampton improving on its five-win total with a third of the regular season left to play.

"It's a team sport. You have to talk to each other," said Bouillon. "You gotta know what they're going to do. It's like you're reading each other's mind at that point."

Chickasaws Drake bound

New Hampton girls come up in the clutch to qualify for Blue Oval in four events

BY BOB FENSKA
editor@nhtrib.com

As Taylor Ries settled into the blocks last Thursday, the New Hampton 4x400 relay team knew it had work to do if it wanted to make a trip to Des Moines for the Drake Relays this week.

"It was do or die," New Hampton coach Jeanette Laures said. "They knew it, I knew it, everybody knew it. We were on the outside looking in, and we needed to come up with something big."

And Ries to Carlee Rochford to Natalie Nosbisch to Hailee Pesek came up clutch, running to a second-place finish in a season-best time of 4:09.76, which turned out to be just enough to punch a ticket to the famed Blue Oval.

It also meant for a second straight year that Rochford, New Hampton's versatile superstar, has qualified for four events at a meet some consider even bigger than the state meet because there are no "classes" when it comes to qualifying for the Drake Relays.

Rochford will long jump this afternoon (Thursday), run the 100 hurdles Friday morning, get a quick break, high jump later in the morning and then compete with her teammates in the 4x400 Friday night.

"To qualify in four events for Drake — for anyone, let alone someone from our size school — is an amazing accomplishment," Laures said. "It speaks volumes about what kind of athlete Carlee is."

Chickasaw boys end four-year drought, qualify for two events

BY BOB FENSKA

It took 45 seconds and change back in early March for Scott Jenkins to realize that his Chickasaws had a legitimate chance of earning their first trip to the Drake Relays since 2019.

"Honestly, I didn't think about it much going into the season," the New Hampton coach said, "and then we go to that track coaches [indoor] meet in Ames and win the 4x1 and it hit me. We might have something here."

It turns out that the Chickasaws have something there and something somewhere else as the 4x100 team of Beau Serie, Carter Cahoy, Hunter Serie and Braden McShane will compete Saturday morning on the famed Blue Oval in Des Moines. They will compete a day after Marshall Zeien throws the discus, making him the first Chickasaw to compete at Drake since Noah Fenske in 2019.

Both the 4x100 relay and Zeien wrapped up their Drake qualifications at New Hampton's coed meet on April 13, but both entries had to survive a week of track meets throughout the state.

In meets at Charles City and Denver, New Hampton couldn't improve on the 44.73 time that it had put up at home, but Jenkins said considering the cool weather, he was pleased that the quartet broke 45 seconds in both meets.

"We still have things we can clean up," he said, "but getting to Drake, that became a pretty big goal for those guys. I do think we can go faster, no doubt about it. I'd love to see what these guys can run with clean handoffs around the track, but right now, I'm just happy for them that they get a chance to run down there. Drake's a big deal."

The 4x100 relay will mark the first time New Hampton has qualified on the track at Drake since 2015, when the 4x100 and
