Still no decision on vote for holding facility

Former supervisor expresses concerns about project; supervisors remain uncommitted on holding vote this November

By BOB FENSKE

editor@nhtrib.com

All four members of the Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors who attended Monday's meeting agree that sooner or later, the county is going to have to send the question of building a 24-hour holding facility to the voters.

But a longtime former supervisor urged the board to "slow down" and not rush to put a bond referendum to voters this fall during the general election that mostly consists of races for city offices and school board seats.

Arnie Boge, who served on the board for 24 years before retiring in 2010, told supervisors that he believes they have a tough road ahead of them if they expect voters to pass a bond referendum this fall to build a 24-hour holding facility and remodel the current Sheriff's Office building.

He used his morning card club that includes residents in the Nashua and Ionia areas, as an example.

"None of those people are in favor of the type of expenditure that you're making," he said. "But this is a general election question; it affects everybody in the county and it should be on a general election year. That's just my opinion. ... I'm just telling you [that] you should slow it down a little."

Technically, this November's election is classified as a general election, which, thanks to a new law enacted earlier this year, is the only time cities, counties and schools can put bond referendums to a vote. In the past, those entities could call for special elections in March and September.

Board passes on chance to change mind on insurance

Despite board chair's concerns, county to pick up more costs for family health insurance premiums

By BOB FENSKE

editor@nhtrib.com

Although the chairman of the Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors expressed grave concerns Monday morning, it appears county leaders are going to move forward with a plan for the county to pay substantially more health insurance premiums for its employees.

During a special meeting on Aug. 7 that was held at the Chickasaw County Secondary Roads Department, board members voted 4-1 to have the county begin paying a substantial portion of family health insurance premiums.

Currently, the county pays 100 percent of a single health insurance premium, and those county employees who elected to have a family health plan get the same amount contributed to their insurance premiums, meaning the county pays a little more than 41 percent of a family premium.

The only exception is for the sheriff's office. That's because under state law, only unions representing law enforcement personnel can negotiate insurance payments with governmental entities. The county currently pays about 64.2 percent of family health plans for those who are represented by the sheriff's union.

County department heads have said that the lack of county contribution to family plans has made it difficult to attract and retain employees, and on Aug. 7, county leaders agreed as they voted to continue the 100 percent contribution to single health plans and bump the family contribution to 75 percent.

But almost from the time that Aug. 7 vote was taken, county employees have quietly expressed concerns that the supervisors could rescind that vote, and on Monday, Board Chairman Matt Kuhn expressed regret for the vote taken two weeks earlier.

"I'll be up front, I'm not sure we have votes to support the 75-25 today," Kuhn said. "I kind of shared that last week. Yes, I did vote for it, in favor of it. Looking at some numbers, doing my homework like I should have before I voted, I'm at the 64.18 and 35.82 [that the sheriff's employees currently receive]. So if we want to re-vote on this, I'm just saying that's where I'm at."

"I think that vote was pretty hard, Matt, and is going to stay," said Supervisor Jake Hackman,

A warm but fun Czech Days up in Protivin!

It was 90 outside and probably a few degrees warmer under the big tent but no one seemed to mind Sunday afternoon as Mollie B takes the stage during the annual Czech Days celebration in the small town that sits in both Howard and Chickasaw counties. Then again, big crowds were the norm throughout the weekend at the celebration put on by Holy Trinity. See PHOTOS, Page 2

Area enduring heat wave but the good news is that we're going to 'cool' into the 80s Friday; drought concerns continue to grow

By BOB FENSKE

editor@nhtrib.com

Let's put it this way, 88's never going to feel any better than it will on Friday.

It's been hot — like scorching — but after the most prolonged heat wave of the summer extends into today (Thursday), it's going to break on Friday.

Granted, for some of us, 88 is still pretty warm, but it beats the heck out of the mercury approaching triple digits, right?

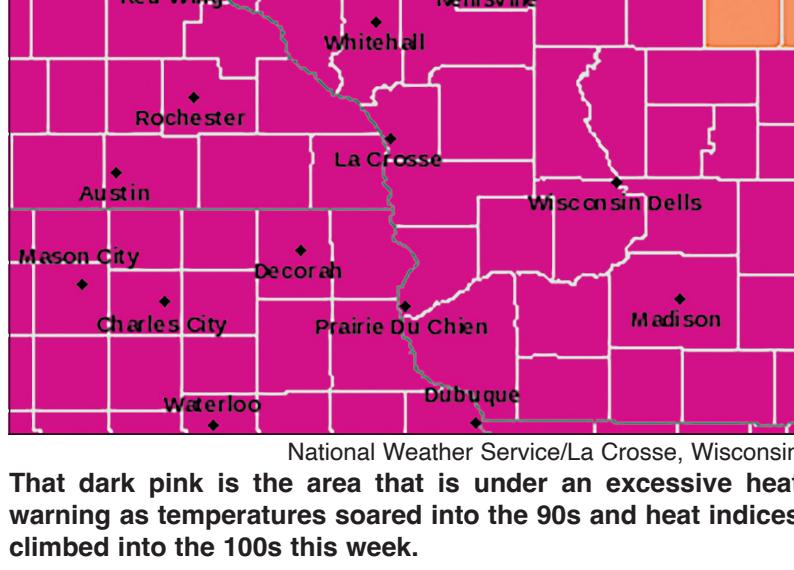

Of course, the heat began almost immediately after the New Hampton Municipal Pool closed for the season.

"It's like clockwork," New Hampton Parks and Recreation Director Tara Hackman said last Friday, the final day the pool welcomed swimmers.

"When the pool closes — doesn't matter when — it's going to get hot. It's a guarantee. I mean we could close in November and the next day would be 90."

The heat wave began building over the weekend as temperatures throughout the area were near 90 on Saturday. Ditto for Sunday and Monday before the heat really began to build on Tuesday, when high temperatures reached the

Nashua-Plainfield hoping to get diamond project on track

By BOB FENSKE

editor@nhtrib.com

Nashua-Plainfield Community Schools is hoping the second time will be the charm when it comes to building a new baseball and softball complex on the site of the old school building in Plainfield.

Earlier this year, district voters overwhelmingly approved selling general-obligation bonds to fund the $3 million project and the hope was that construction would begin on the facility that would include a high school softball diamond, a high school baseball diamond, two youth fields, a concession stand and other items as soon as the 2023 softball season ended.

But the project hit a snag this spring when the district opened mid-90s throughout much of Northeast Iowa.

The forecast for Wednesday was for the first triple-digit readings in almost 10 years and today's high is expected to be around 96. And heat indices that neared 110 led to an excessive heat warning being issued by the National Weather Service.

So, yes, 88 on Friday is going to feel nice and high temperatures in the upper 70s might feel almost arctic.

The heat wave coincided with the start of the school year as students headed back to class on Wednesday, but a number of area school districts — including Turkey Valley, St. Joseph Community School and Nashua-Plainfield — have buildings without air conditioning.

"It's not exactly the forecast you want to see for the first week of school," said Nashua-Plainfield Superintendent Todd Liechty, who oversees a school district that has very little air-conditioning in its buildings, "and we're going to monitor it and make sure we do the right thing for our staff and our students."

Students in grades 6-12 start classes in Nashua on Wednesday, that day has been set aside for intake conferences and pictures at the elementary school, but save for the newer junior high addition at the high school, Nashua-Plainfield's school buildings do not have air conditioning.

"When the heat builds like this, the brick buildings hold it pretty well, unfortunately," Liechty said. "It takes a while for buildings like ours to cool down. We'll keep an eye on it and make decisions as we have to, but hopefully, this is one of those times the weatherman is off."

As the heat wave descended upon the area, the National Weather Service office in La Crosse, Wisconsin, that covers Chickasaw County put out the obligatory suggestions on how to deal with hot, muggy weather. Among the suggestions were:

- Reduce, eliminate or reschedule strenuous outdoor activities until the coolest time of the day. Those particularly vulnerable to heat such as children, infants, older adults (especially those who have pre-existing diseases, take certain medications, living alone or with limited mobility), those with chronic medical conditions, and pregnant women should stay in the coolest available place, not necessarily indoors.

- Dress for summer by wearing lightweight, loose fitting, light-colored clothing to reflect heat and sunlight.

- Eat light, cool, easy-to-digest foods such as fruit or salads. If you pack food, put it in a cooler or carry an ice pack. Don't leave it sitting in the sun. Meats and dairy products can spoil quickly in hot weather.

- Drink plenty of water (not very cold), non-alcoholic and decaffeinated fluids, even if you don't feel thirsty. If you are on a fluid-restrictive diet or have a problem with fluid retention, consult a physician before increasing consumption of fluids.

- Use air conditioners or spend time in air-conditioned location.

- Take cool baths or showers.

And maybe the most important tip is this one: Be a good neighbor. Check on your neighbors, especially older, sick, or frail people who may need help responding to the heat. Each year, dozens of children and untold numbers of pets left in parked vehicles die from hyperthermia.

Maybe the most distressing part of the short-term forecast is the fact that it comes with little, if any, mention of rainfall. Save for a slight chance of showers on Saturday evening, the forecast is, in a word, dry.

That will undoubtedly lead to a worsening report when the U.S. Drought Monitor releases its weekly report.

In the report released last Thursday, all of Chickasaw, Bremer, Winneshiek and Fayette counties and the eastern halves of Butler and Floyd counties were classified as suffering from "severe drought."

"The one positive we had in July is we didn't get a lot of heat," ISU Extension Agronomist Terry Basol said. "When you're dealing with drought, you want other stress factors to be as minimal as possible. Unfortunately, it looks like we're going to have a lot of stress on plants. I've said all summer, that our plants are hanging in there, but this is going to be a real challenge."

Hot times in Protivin

Protivin's official population may be 266, but trust us, there were way more than a few hundred people in town this past weekend for the 45th annual celebration of Czech Days.

From the always-popular cake walk (above) to the bingo tent (left) to the two-hour parade that was held on Saturday to the bevy of live music that was on stage, it was a heck of a celebration, despite the fact that it was hot and muggy for much of the event.

Nashua-Plainfield hoping second time charm for diamond bids

bids on the project and the lowest came in at $4.5 million, 50 percent higher than the engineer's estimate for the complex.

"We have to find a way to keep it at $3 million," Nashua-Plainfield Superintendent Todd Liechty said, "because that's the limit we can sell to pay off with our [SAVE funds]. So we went to work on it, came up with some changes and are hoping that with those and maybe better timing, we'll get there."

During the first bidding process, the district required contractors to begin working on the project as soon as the 2023 season ended and have them ready by the time the 2024 season commences in May.

Part of the issue with the high bids received in the spring was the fact that by the time contractors bid on the project, they had a "full season" of work on their plates. A fall bidding is usually advantageous because contractors are beginning to work on be ready to be used by next summer. But he pointed out that one of the items removed from the bids the second time around was the "restrictions."

During the first bidding process, the district required contractors to begin working on the project as soon as the 2023 season ended and have them ready by the time the 2024 season commences in May.

Part of the issue with the high bids received in the spring was the fact that by the time contractors bid on the project, they had a "full season" of work on their plates. A fall bidding is usually advantageous because contractors are beginning to work on the following year's schedule.

But Liechty said because of a dry summer, there may be contractors who have finished projects earlier than expected and still looking for work yet this fall.

"There just hasn't been that many 'lost days' this year when it comes to construction," he said, "so if they can start working this fall and finish it up in the spring, there could be a chance it would be ready for 2024. But right now, the important thing is the price and we're hopeful that we're going to get there."

He said among the changes in the call for bids this time around is the removal of some buildings, including a storage shed, moving the ticket booth and "crow's nests" for both diamonds from required to options" and reducing the elevation of the two youth walls.

"The dirt to raise those diamonds wasn't the issue," he said, "but the trucking in of that dirt was really expensive, and I mean really, really expensive."

And although he was disappointed with the first bidding process, he said the project will still give Nashua-Plainfield what it needs.

"It's still going to be a very nice complex," he said, "and we think one that our communities will not only be proud about but also be well used."

County set to pay more for family health insurance on Oct. 1

INSURANCE: FROM 1

who was the lone nay vote on Aug. 7. "I think today is just on the trust fund."

That discussion came up because the county uses a partially-self funded account to pay down the deductibles for employees, and supervisors have grown concerned about the dwindling amount of funds in the account.

So board members agreed to raise the contributions to the so-called PSF from $25 to $50 a month for employees with single health insurance policies and from $0 to $100 for employees with family health plans.

"Just for discussion," Hackman said, "I will support this today. I do not support the health insurance change, but I will support this just to make sure the trust funds stays afloat."

The trust fund passed unanimously — with Supervisor Steve Breitbach absent — but no motions were forthcoming on rescinding the Aug. 7 vote; instead, board members agreed that county employees should receive a letter in their paychecks this Friday notifying them that they have 30 days to change the level of health insurance coverage they elect to take, effective Oct. 1.

New Hampton welcomes 13 new teachers to school district

The New Hampton High School Media Center was, in a word, full last Wednesday as school district administrators welcomed 13 new educators to the district.

That was the day new teachers reported to work for the beginning of the 2023-24 school year, and the following day, they were joined by the district's returning educators.

The new educators were asked to fill out a questionnaire to share information about themselves with the community.

So without further ado, welcome to the "baker's dozen" and good luck this year.

Who do you say Jesus is?

Jesus is many things but remember He is always with us

Many people want to find out about their family history these days. I guess I'm "one of those" because I sent for a kit to find out what I could find out about my ancestors.

I knew about most of the countries my folks were from but I got a few surprises. It was really interesting, though, to see.

We go through a lot to find who we are, don't we? If we don't want to use the search method, we can ask other people who are available about our identity. What about Jesus? Who did Jesus ask?

The book of Matthew begins with the genealogy of Jesus, which provides us some of the answers..

Jesus is called the son of Mary and a carpenter, a brother, just another human being walking on this earth. But the guys he hung out with, those 12 disciples, had other names for him.

They had seen the large crowds of people who followed Jesus around, they had seen Jesus heal people, they had heard Jesus stick up for them when they broke the Sabbath laws, and they had witnessed Jesus walk on the water.

Jesus asked the disciples, "who do people say the Son of Man is?"

They replied with the names of great prophets due to the belief that they had come back to life as this man.

Jesus then asked the disciples, "who do you say I am?"

The first to answer the question was Peter, "You are the Messiah, the Son of the living God." The same Peter who had gotten out of the boat during a storm, obeying Jesus' command to come to him.

Peter had courage at first as he stepped out of the boat, but then as his attention changed from Jesus to the wind, began to sink. Jesus reached out and saved Peter.

Who do we say Jesus is?

The one who says to come to him.

The one who calms our fears. The one who gives us courage.

The one who is our Savior, who died for our sins.

The one who is the Son of God and is with us always.

Should you downsize when you retire?

When you retire, you'll experience many changes — should one of them involve your living arrangements?

The issue of downsizing is one that many retirees will consider. If you have children, and they've grown and left the home, you might find yourself with more space than you really need.

Of course, this doesn't necessarily mean you must pack up and scale down yourself. You might love your home and neighborhood and see no reason to go. But if you're open to a change, you could find that moving to a smaller house, a condo or an apartment may make sense for you.

Let's consider some of the advantages of downsizing:

- You could save money. Moving to a smaller space could lower your utility bills and upkeep costs.

- You could save effort. A smaller home will mean less maintenance and cleaning.

- You could de-clutter. Over the years, most of us accumulate more possessions than we really need. Downsizing gives you a chance to de-clutter. And you can do some good along the way, too, because many charitable organizations will welcome some of your items.

- You could make money.

If you've had your home for many years, it's certainly possible that it's worth more — perhaps a great deal more — than what you paid for it. So, when you sell it, you could pocket a lot of money — possibly without being taxed on the gains. Generally, if you've lived in your home for at least two years in the five-year period before you sold it, you can exclude $250,000 of capital gains, if you're single, or $500,000 if you're married and file taxes jointly. (You'll want to consult with your tax advisor, though, before selling your home, to ensure you're eligible for the exclusion, especially if you do own multiple homes. Issues can arise in connection with determining one's "primary" residence.)

While downsizing does offer some potentially big benefits, it can also entail some drawbacks. First of all, it's possible that your home might not be worth as much as you had hoped, which means you won't clear as much money from the sale as you anticipated. Also, If you still were paying off a mortgage on your bigger home, you may have been deducting the interest payments on your taxes — a deduction that might be reduced or lost to you if you purchase a less-expensive condo or become a renter. Besides these financial factors, there's the ordinary hassle of packing and moving. And if you're going to a much smaller living space, you may not have much room for family members who want to visit or occasionally spend the night.

So, as you can see, you'll need to weigh a variety of financial, practical and emotional issues when deciding whether to downsize. And you will also want to communicate your thoughts to grown children or other family members who may someday have reason to be involved in your living space. In short, it's a big decision — so give it the attention it deserves.

Nashua resident and former longtime Board of Supervisor Arnie Boge listens to a point made by Sheriff Ryan Shawver during Monday's board meeting.

Board puts off holding facility decision for at least week

SUPERVISORS: FROM 1

Shawver took an issue with a number of points made by Boge in a letter he sent to supervisors and that appears in this week's edition of the Tribune. Shawver emphasized that he has found reports dated as far back as 2010 in which the state jail inspector has expressed concerns about the current Chickasaw County Jail.

He said a report dated Oct. 14, 2010, said "Chickasaw County is an old facility and does not meet the needs" and he also pointed out that in 2019, the county was told it needed to provide a "plan of action" to address the aging facility's deficiencies.

Shawver also told Boge that he came to the Board of Supervisors during its July 10 meeting to find out to what extent members wanted remodeling of the Sheriff's Office to be included in a proposal being put together by Samuels Group.

A week before Monday's meeting, the Samuels Group's Greg Wilde recommended the county proceed with a project that would cost between $6.35 million and $6.91 million that would include the construction of a holding facility that would be located in the Sheriff's Office parking lot, the removal of the current jail and the remodeling of the existing building to make it more "functional."

Boge, though, argued that "this jail is in very good shape now, except it is some antiquated, it does need some redirection."

He also wondered why the county couldn't "test" using the year's ballot.

current jail as a 24-hour holding facility, but Shawver said that simply wasn't possible because "as soon as we change it, we have to bring it up to current standards."

The sheriff pointed out that the current jail allows for only two classifications for inmates and state mandates call for five separate classifications.

That led to an exchange between Chief Deputy Zach Nosbisch and the former supervisors.

"This is a holding facility. We need five classifications," Nosbisch said. "We can not just put two people in the same cell with different classifications like you used to be able to. You came over there, we told you this before, you toured it and you're still reiterating that fact. So I guess what I need to figure out is how can I get through to you so that you fully understand that what you're telling the board of 'misfactual'."

Boge responded that "maybe it's a lack of understanding, I've never been known to broadcast misfacts."

The board members at the meeting — Supervisor Steve Breitbach was absent — agreed something had to be done, but they also expressed concerns about trying to educate the public in what would be just a little more than two months before election day.

"I think it needs to come out at some point," said Jake Hackman, who added that the board needed to meet with a financial advisor before making the decision to put it on this year's ballot.

"It needs to be done, but I don't know if 2 1/2 months is enough to educate people," Board Chairman Matt Kuhn said, "and it's actually less than that because we wouldn't have resolutions done for at least a week."

Supervisor Scott Cerwinski was the lone supervisor to come right out and say he preferred a 2024 vote.

"With the amount of money we have to spend to do that," he said, "I think I'd rather take the time to put it on next year's election ballot."

Boge also urged the county to gather more data, including finding out the costs of transportation costs.

"How long will you burn through $7 million," he asked.

County Attorney David Laudner, though, said if the board is going to have voters consider the referendum in 2024, it needs to continue to work to gather information.

"What homework is going to be done? I guess my comment is I don't want this to then go into a folder in the back there tomorrow or next Monday," he said, "and then it sits there until next June and we blow the dust off of it and get updated numbers and away we go with it. ... What are we going to do differently over the next nine months is what I'm asking."

Hackman said he needed more of financial information before he could support a referendum this fall.

"I think if we could pull that for another week, I don't want to kick it down the road," he said, "but there are a lot of unknowns."

His fellow board members agreed and will work to gather more of the financial information at next week's meeting.

Field Day in Nashua to discuss impact of drought, smoke on crops

The annual fall field day at Iowa State University's Northeast Research and Demonstration Farm near Nashua will feature presentations on how drought and smoke have impacted crops, corn rootworm and short stature corn.

The event will be held Aug. 31, beginning with a complimentary meal at noon, sponsored by the Iowa Soybean Association, and run until 4:30 p.m.

The field day is free and open to the public. It starts at the Borlaug Learning Center Headquarters, located on the research farm. Certified Crop Adviser Credits will be available.

To help organizers plan for the meal, RSVP at neira@iastate.edu by this coming Monday.

Offices will be closed for Labor Day

New Hampton City Council and the Chickasaw County Courthouse will be closed on Monday, Sept. 4, in observance of Labor Day. Both the Board of Supervisors and City Council will meet on Tuesday, Sept. 5.

Letters to the Editor

Former supervisor asks board to 'slow down' on holding facility

To the Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors:

I am writing you regarding the plans for the sheriff's office remodel.

From what I can see from the plans so far there is an excessive amount of demo and reconstruction in areas that have nothing to do with the jail. For example, the second floor and basement areas.

A specific plan to remove the steel roof trusses and remodel of the jail-booking-sally port areas are the only things that I thought were connected with the jail inspector's report.

From what can be seen, there appears to be more of what someone wants rather than what is needed to improve the conditions of the jail and the first floor working parts in that area. Further it is my understanding that you intend to take this matter up and vote on placing a bond referendum on the ballot for this fall.

I am asking you to slow down and discover what is really needed for the sheriff's building and to reduce the nearly $7 million estimated cost by at least 90%. What has happened to the days when we lived within our means?

Since this spring when Doug Strike, Tim Zoll and myself met with you, none of us have received a response to our questions as to what is needed from the jail inspector's report.

To my knowledge no information has been gathered as to what those needs actually are, but more to what someone wants. There seems to be little or no regard to the taxpayer input or needs, most of whom will never use this facility.

We support law enforcement, public safety, and security at our courthouse 100 percent, yet there are limits to what should be expected of the common taxpayer.

During my tenure on the board, a project of this magnitude would be planned and discussed ahead of time long enough to prepare a two-to-three year levy timeline that would soften the impact to the taxpayer.

The jail inspector's letter suggests a five-year or greater timeline to plan for and execute improvements, enabling discussion and informing the public.

There is no indication of an imminent emergency per the inspector's report.

It is apparent to me and others that an urgency by the Board of Supervisors to move this project onto a bond ballot question for this November's election is nothing more than an attempt to run a general election and taxation question onto a historically low voter turnout (off year) year.

I am asking you, board members to please do your homework first, determine the needs, and then present your findings and plans to address this issue to the taxpayers/voters, so they are knowledgeable of this issue.

Thank you for your time and consideration in this matter and your response would be most welcome to all voters and taxpayers.

Arnie Boge, Nashua

Supervisors need to vet plan before sending it to voters

I understand that there may be movement forward for a bond issue regarding the remodel of the Sheriff's Office and demolition of the current jail and building a new 24 hour holding facility.

This needs to be something that the Sheriff campaigns on for next year after it has reached a better assortment of voters for consideration rather than rushing it through for this fall.

Informational meetings need to be held for sounding boards on this with the public.

Some general observations based on the preliminary plans:

1) Asbestos mitigation. What has been done for a cost estimate on this?

2) The office for the Sheriff should be on the first floor to allow easy access for private meetings.

3) Consideration of turning the existing garage into a work room/stations for the Deputies.

4) What electrical evaluation in the existing structure has been done?

5) Consider a six-month trial now on using the existing jail in a holding capacity only transporting all prisoners not released to another facility out of county. This would give you some good cost estimates before moving forward. No remodel would be needed.

6) Remember, there is no fire sale here so to speak. They were awarded the best of the best in small Iowa jails two years ago by the State Jail Inspector. I have reviewed his most recent inspection and there were no glaring violations. His recommendation I believe was to develop a five-year plan for upgrading to a holding facility.

7) Obtain a fiscal note from the County Assessor on property tax increases for this proposed bond issue over the repayment period.

8) How or what formula was used to determine the number of holding cells?

9) In closing the jail and opening a 24 hour hold, is the position of jail administrator to be eliminated? Are the laundry and cleaning needs something that could be assumed by increased custodial staff?

10) Is it absolutely needed to have an office for the Chief Dispatcher? What additional duties will that person assume which would require this rather than being in rotation with the other dispatchers?

These are only a few of my preliminary thoughts/concerns. I am sure myself and others that may look at the plans will have additional.

Denise Holcomb, 59

Denise Holcomb, age 59 of New Hampton, died Monday, Aug. 7, 2023, at her home.

Private services will be held at a later date. Hugeback-Johnson Funeral Home & Crematory in New Hampton has been entrusted with Denise's arrangements.

Denise Ann Holcomb passed away peacefully on Aug. 7, 2023, in New Hampton. Born on April 7, 1964, in Alabama, to the late Rowland and Betty (Chance) Holcomb, Denise's life was a testament to her resilience, creativity and faith.

Being born into a military family, Denise's early years were filled with adventure and a sense of purpose. She received her high school education in both Alabama and an American high school in Germany. This early exposure to different cultures and lifestyles instilled in her a sense of curiosity and a love for learning.

She carried this love for learning into her adult life, earning a bachelor's degree from the University of South Carolina in Aiken. Denise also served in the United States Navy but was honorably discharged due to health reasons. Her military service was a source of pride and shaped her into the strong, determined woman she became.

After her military service, Denise's sense of adventure led her to move many times before finally settling in New Hampton in 2017. Each move was a new beginning, a new chapter in her book of life, and she embraced each with grace and optimism.

Denise was a woman of many interests and passions. The world spun around her grandchildren, and she relished every moment spent with them. Her love for music was infectious, and she found pure joy in every note.

She was a regular attendee at her local church, where she enjoyed the fellowship and the opportunity to socialize with her community. Denise also had a sweet tooth and was known for her love of desserts and candies.

Her collections of angels and Santa Claus items were a testament to her love for the whimsy

Edna Loretta Franke, 86

Edna Loretta Franke, age 86, passed away peacefully surrounded by family on Friday, Aug. 18, 2023, at the New Hampton Nursing and Rehabilitation Center.

A Mass of Christian Burial was held at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 23, 2023, at Holy Family Parish with the Rev. James Goerend celebrating the Mass.

Interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, New Hampton.

Friends greeted the family from 4 to 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 22, 2023, at the Hugeback-Johnson Funeral Home & Crematory in New Hampton where there was a family Rosary at 3:30 p.m. and Parish Scripture Service at 7 p.m. Visitation continued an hour prior to Mass at the church on Wednesday.

Online condolences for the Franke family may be left at www.hugebackfuneralhome.com.

Edna Loretta Franke was born on Feb. 17, 1937, on the family farm northeast of Calmar. Edna was a compassionate soul who left an indelible mark on her family and community.

The second eldest daughter of Edmund and Cecilia Gerleman, Edna was raised with the values of hard work, faith, and community service.

After attending St. Aloysius Catholic School through 8th grade, she graduated from Calmar High School in 1955, and then pursued her passion for helping others by earning her nursing degree from St. Francis School of Nursing in LaCrosse, Wisconsin, in 1958.

It was during her time in LaCrosse that she met Bob Franke while he was visiting relatives. Their meeting at the Avelon Dance Hall was the beginning of a beautiful love story, and the couple married at St. Aloysius Catholic Church in Calmar on June 6, 1959.

After retiring from nursing in 1995, Edna devoted her life to volunteering at Mercy One in New Hampton, serving on the Auxiliary Board for 10 years. Her service at the hospital earned her a place on the Heritage Wall at Mercy One, a testament to her unwavering commitment to her community.

Edna Franke

Edna and Bob were blessed with six children. The family lived in Charles City in their early married life, where their four oldest boys, Michael, John, David, and Patrick, were born. They later welcomed Jeffrey and Sara in New Hampton. In 1961, Edna and Bob moved to a farm northeast of New Hampton and farmed together until Bob's death in 2011.

Edna's dedication to her profession was evident in her impressive nursing career. She began in private duty, then transitioned to the hospital setting at Floyd County Memorial Hospital in Charles City. Her impact on the nursing profession was most notable at the New Hampton hospital, where she served from 1961 until 2021. As a night supervisor for the majority of her nursing career, she skillfully balanced raising her children, working on the farm, and serving her community.

After retiring from nursing in 1995, Edna devoted her life to volunteering at Mercy One in New Hampton, serving on the Auxiliary Board for 10 years. Her service at the hospital earned her a place on the Heritage Wall at Mercy One, a testament to her unwavering commitment to her community.

Edna was not only a dedicated professional but a woman of many interests. She was an excellent cook, a gifted gardener, and an enthusiastic fisherman.

She loved wintering at the Villages in Florida with Bob and enjoyed her many "sisters' days." She considered day trips and the many bus trips with family and friends "good therapy."

A devout Catholic, Edna prayed the Rosary and attended mass regularly. Edna loved to visit with people and was a treasured member of the Putter Pals neighborhood club.

Edna is survived by five sons, Michael (Deniz) of Waukeek, John of Clear Lake, David (Jane) of Nora Springs, Patrick (Melanie) of Johnston, and Jeffrey (Natalie) of West Des Moines; her beloved 13 grandchildren and 4 great-grandchildren; four sisters, Margaret (Robert) Koenigsfeld of New Hampton, Mardell (Larry) Corcoran of Ettrick, Wisconsin, Betty (John) Pell of Urbandale, and Phyllis Prybelski of Austin, Minnesota; sisters-in-law, Rita Gerleman of Calmar and Mary Franke of Cedar Falls; and brother-in-law, Ronald Kreitzer of Cresco.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Edmund and Cecelia Gerleman; her husband, Bob, in 2011; her daughter, Sara, in 1994; her sister, Marie Kreitzer; her brother, Paul Gerleman; and her brothers-in-law, Ron Prybelski, Patrick Weigel, and James Franke.

Kind, faith-filled, and intelligent, Edna's legacy will continue to inspire those who knew her. Her life was a testament to her love for her family, her faith, and her community. She will be deeply missed by all who had the privilege of knowing her.

The family requests memorial contributions to be directed towards St. Croix Hospice & New Hampton MercyOne Auxiliary.

Carol Joanne Burgart, 87*Carol Burgart

Carol Joanne Burgart, age 87 of New Hampton, died peacefully on Saturday, Aug. 19, 2023, surrounded by her family. A Mass of Christian Burial will be held at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 26, 2023, at Holy Family Parish, New Hampton, with the Rev. James Goerend celebrating the Mass.

Friends may greet the family from 4 to 7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 25, 2023, at Hugeback-Johnson Funeral Home & Crematory in New Hampton where there will be a 7 p.m. Parish Scripture Service. Visitation continues an hour prior to the Mass at the church on Saturday.

Online condolences for the Burgart family may be left at www.hugebackfuneralhome.com.

Carol Joanne Burgart, born on June 5, 1936, in New Hampton, to William and Irene (Munson) Ball, lived a life of service, love, and unwavering faith. A woman of exceptional strength and spirit, Carol passed away, leaving behind a legacy of love and an indelible mark on the hearts of her family and friends.

Growing up, Carol's life was marked by hard work and dedication. She attended St. Joseph's Catholic School and later graduated from New Hampton High School in 1954.

Her early years were filled with memorable experiences working at the local Tastee Freeze, which her parents managed, and later at Sullivan Law and Insurance. Carol's youthful days were marked by joy and love, especially during her courtship with Reynold, which included many rides on his Indian motorcycle.

Carol's marriage to Reynold J. Burgart on Sept. 11, 1954, at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in New Hampton, was the beginning of a beautiful journey. To this union, seven children were born. Carol and Reynold worked hand in hand in their farming and livestock opera-week.

Carol's love for her family was profound. She took great pleasure in attending her children's and grandchildren's sporting events, plays, and other activities. She cherished the yearly mother-daughter weekends in the fall.

Carol is survived by her husband, Reynold; daughters, Geralyn (Kim) Wisner and Debra (Tom) Pritts of New Hampton, Julie (Jim) Rausch of Ionia, and Lisa (Gene) Costello of Calmar; sons, John of New Hampton and Mark of Cedar Rapids; 15 grandchildren; Seth, Derek (Jennifer), and Ethan Wisner; Ashley (Tyler) Yearous and Cameron Pritts; Brianna (Justin) Schmidt and Cole Rausch; Nichole (Jess) Ellingson and Jared Costello; Brenna, Eric, Kevin, and Jaidan Burgart; Bailey (Mitch) Hines and Carson (Alex) Hayden; 16 great-grandchildren, Paige, Aliya, Kinnick, Henry, Evelyn, Reid, and Bodie Wisner, Hailey and Adalyn Yearous, Mason Schmidt, Rhiannon, Danielle, Olive, and Lucy Ellingson, Briar and Theodore Hines, and baby Hayden due in December; siblings Marion (Clifford) Burgart, Judy (Darrell) Blake, and Gary (Terry) Ball; and numerous nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents; son, James (twin to John), in infancy; daughter-in-law, Donna Burgart; brother, Ray (Joan) Ball; sister, Sharon (David) Messersmith; and sister-in-law, Celine (Duane) Galligan.

Carol's life was a testament to her loving, spirited, and courageous nature. Her faith, love for people, and dedication to her family will forever be remembered.

Her legacy lives on in the hearts of those she loved and those who loved her. Carol Burgart's life was a beautiful tapestry of love, faith, and service, and she will be dearly missed by all who knew her.

Carol was an avid bridge player and was very talented at the game. She loved to read and would go through a bag of books from the library in a a parishioner at Sacred Heart (Osage) and Our Lady of Sorrow (McAllen). No one was a stranger, as he was a true friend to all and we were all blessed to know him.

Left to cherish his memory is his loving wife of 66 years, Beverly; daughter, Sandy (Rod) Harang of Mapleton, Minnesota, children Nicole and Sabrina; daughter-in-law, Laurie Boehmer (Bruce) of Osage, children Vanessa, Cassandra, Emma; son, Ken (Kathy) Boehmer of Osage, children, Natasha and Bronson; daughter, Donna (Mike) Kuennen, Fort Atkinson, children, Madalyn, Micaela, Mara and Max; daughter, Mary (Carl) Bethke of Osage, children Matthew and Erin; son, Jim (Angie) Boehmer of Lake Mills, children, Lincoln, Grant and Cael; 19 great-grandchildren; three brothers, Dick, Duane and Tim; along with numerous nieces and nephews.

He is preceded in death by his parents; mother and father-in-law, Roy and Minnie Randall; three brothers, LaVerne, Jerry and Leonard; son, Merle; and grandson, Jason Anderson.

Ed was known for his love of life, family and friends. Always a jokester — dressing up as a bag lady, jumping out to scare you and always willing to dress up for skits at Paradise Park.

Ed had a very strong faith and was a true servant of God, building a home filled with love and warmth in rural New Hampton.

In 1970, Carol began working for the federal government at the then Farmers Home Administration in New Hampton. She served diligently until her retirement in 1991, gaining a wealth of knowledge about real estate and financing.

Even after retirement, Carol's industrious spirit led her to work part-time at Raleigh Hill Golf Course, Edward Jones, and later at Phillips Modern Ag, where she served for 13 years until her second retirement in 2010.

Known for her creative talents, Carol was an accomplished seamstress, often sewing clothes for her daughters and their Barbie dolls. She also upholstered furniture, showcasing her artistic flair.

A lover of the outdoors, Carol enjoyed fishing, golfing, and annual family trips to the Minnesota lakes.

She cherished the simple moments of life, like Saturday mornings with her daughters, catching up on the week's happenings around the dining room table.

NOTICE OF MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE MUNICIPALELECTRIC UTILITY OF THE CITY OF NEW HAMPTON, IOWA, ON THE MATTER OF THE PROPOSITION OF APPROVING AND CONSENTING TO THE AMENDED AND RESTATED LEHIGH-WEBSTER TRANSMISSION AND WEBSTER TERMINALS FACILITIES AND OPERATING AGREEMENT, AS FURTHER AMENDED, BETWEEN AND AMONG CORN BELT POWER COOPERATIVE, MIDAMERICAN ENERGY COMPANY, THE NEW HAMPTON MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC UTILITY, NEW HAMPTON, IOWA, AND CERTAIN OTHER MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC UTILITIES

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the Board of Trustees of the Municipal Electric Utility of the City of New Hampton, Iowa, will hold a public hearing on the 11th day of September, 2023, at 5:00 o'clock PM. At the New Hampton Municipal Utilities office at 112 East Main Street, New Hampton, Iowa, at which meeting the Board proposes to take final action on the matter of approving and consenting to the Amended and Restated Lehigh-Webster Transmission and Webster Terminals Facilities and Operating Agreement, as further amended, in substantially final form, on file with the Secretary for public inspection.

At the above mentioned meeting, the Board of Trustees of the Municipal Electric Utility proposes to take final action on the matter of approving and consenting to the Amended and Restated Lehigh-Webster Transmission and Webster Terminals Facilities and Operating Agreement, as further amended, between and among Corn Belt Power Cooperative, MidAmerican Energy Company, the New Hampton Municipal Electric Utility, New Hampton, Iowa, and certain other municipal electric utilities.

The amendments to the Amended and Restated Lehigh-Webster Transmission and Webster Terminals Facilities and Operating Agreement reflect the sale of the ownership interests of certain municipal electric utilities in the Amended and Restated Lehigh-Webster Transmission and Webster Terminals Facilities and Operating Agreement, and certain facility improvements including the expansion of the Webster Substation to a ring bus configuration, installation of a new terminal and associated upgrades at Webster Substation to accommodate connection of a 345 kV transmission line from Irvington Substation, such line to be owned by MidAmerican, and expansion of the Webster Substation yard, including addition of a 161 kV bus tie breaker with relaying and a 161 kV dead-end structure and switches to accommodate connection of a 161 kV transmission line from Holiday Creek Substation, such line to be owned by MidAmerican, (the "Facility Improvements") and include other changes deemed necessary or beneficial.

The adoption of the Amended and Restated Lehigh-Webster Transmission and Webster Terminals Facilities and Operating Agreement, as further amended, will reflect the City's proportionate share of ownership of a portion of the Facility Improvements and will result in an additional cost to the City based on the City's proportionate share of the cost of operation, maintenance, renewal or replacement expenses on the jointly owned portion of the Facility Improvements.

The proposed form of Amended and Restated Lehigh-Webster Transmission and Webster Terminals Facilities and Operating Agreement, as further amended, in substantially final form, is on file with the Secretary for public inspection.

CHICKASAWS LOOKING TO BREAK THROUGH ON GRIDIRON THIS FALL

BY BOB FENSKY
editor@nhtrib.com

As Braden McShane piled up the yards and the touchdowns in 2022, his big boys in the trenches couldn't help but smile.

"We don't have stats that we get, but yeah, we feel like we're a little part of that," said Kam Josephson, one of three linemen returning this year who have been starting for the past two years. "Plus, Braden's just one of those guys who always lets us know that he appreciates what we do for him. I mean he's a really special player, really special."

And McShane is part of a senior class that wants to accomplish big things this fall on the gridiron.

The Chickasaws have certainly set the table for a banner season. Two years ago, they went 5-4 and claimed a surprise district championship. Last season, they were 6-3 but all three losses — two came down to the final play — were games New Hampton thought it should have won.

But they want more, especially a deep playoff run.

New Hampton hasn't won a playoff game since 2017, when the Chickasaws advanced to the Class 2A state playoff quarterfinals, but this is a group that, as veteran coach Scott Frerichs put it early in preseason camp, "likes football and like each other."

That's a good place to start. So is McShane, who led Class 2A in rushing yards (1,733), all-purpose yards (1,998) and rushing touchdowns (22) last fall. On the other side of the ball, he had 38.5 tackles, including five for losses, recovered four fumbles and picked off three passes.

"Braden is a hard worker and a dedicated athlete," said Frerichs, who picked up his 200th career victory a year ago. "He is coming off of a pulled hamstring from baseball and this is still a concern, [but] he brings confidence as well as a very good understanding of the

Chickasaws gear up for plenty of miles

New Hampton girls aim for return to state; boys look to gain experience on the course

BY KELLY TERPSTRA

sports@nhtrib.com

Eight was great last year at Fort Dodge.

That was the New Hampton girls cross country team's finish at the state meet held last year – a season where the Chickasaws made a return trip to Lakeside Golf Course at Kennedy Park in Fort Dodge for the first time in 24 years.

What does the magic 8 Ball project for the Chickasaw harriers this fall?

It's safe to say "outlook good" as a likely reply from the plastic sphere fortune-telling toy that became popularized back in the mid-20th century.

While success is never guaranteed – Jamie Ohrt's Northeast Iowa Conference squad returns three of its top runners that shined on the big stage last October in Fort Dodge.

"We're going to make some noise," said Ohrt about both her girls and boys squads.

Anybody that follows NH XC would be remiss by not mentioning the graduation of last year's senior Campbellle Kolbet, who turned her Cinderella season into an eighth-place individual state finish – which allowed her to medal in Class 2A.

While Kolbet has since moved on due to graduation – sophomore Tegan Dungey and junior Natalie Nosbisch will battle it out for the No. 1 spot on Ohrt's roster.

Dungey just nipped a hard-charging Nosbisch at the tape at last fall's state meet. The good-natured competition amongst friends should help propel the Chickasaws to possibly even greater heights in 2023.

"I think that kind of ignied a fire for some people that weren't involved in cross country before," said Ohrt. "They kind of wanted to be a part of it. It was exciting."

Dungey placed 24th at state as a freshman and sports a personal-best of 20:22 out on the course. Nosbisch is a two-time competitor at state and wound up just behind Dungey in 26th place. Nosbisch's career PR is 20:06 and she also placed 35th individually at Fort Dodge when she was a freshman in 2021.

Back for her sophomore season is Ella Knutson, who crossed the finish line in 124th place at state in 2022.

New Hampton is looking to reload its varsity top seven as four seniors – including Kolbet – used up their eligibility in seniors Bailey Cox, Kandice Eggerichs and Catherine Pethoud.

Sophie Glaser, just a freshman, is one to watch this fall. She starred as a middle-schooler and will look to jump up to the varsity level and reach new heights as well.

"They kind of have a little bit of sticker shock from middle school to high school because it's different – kind of swimming with the big fish," said Ohrt. "She'll handle it well."

Megan Pickar – a quality middle-distance for Jeanette Laures' Chickasaw track team – will give it a go this year in cross country. The senior will be Ohrt's captain on the girls side.

Other runners looking to make an impact this year are juniors Zoey Dreckman, Aleah Eichenberger, sophomore Rebecca Wickman and freshmen Kailynn Gebel, Kassidy Meyerhoff, Zoey Kellogg and Alexis Nosbisch.

The boys team will have to replace two-time state qualifier Peyton Anderson, who graduated. Anderson placed 50th at state as a junior and 65th the previous year.

New Hampton will also have to fill a void due to the graduation of senior Treyce Orr, who finished 38th at the state qualifier.

New Hampton's top runners back are junior letterwinners Calyb Zeien, Braiden Schaufenbuel and Jarrin Robinson. Schaufenbuel was 66th at the state qualifier, followed by Zeien (68th) and Robinson (75th).

Ohrt said senior Carter Newbrough is out for the sport this year. He competed for the Chickasaws as a freshman. He'll be a senior captain alongside senior foreign-exchange student Ramon Conde.

"Bob (Vorwald) says he runs like a deer," said Ohrt about Conde.

Senior Landon Bruess and juniors Xander Meyerhoff, and Eddie Arnold have their sights set on running near the front of the pack for New Hampton.

Sophomores Easton Monteith and Colin Shatek, along with freshmen Connor Stummie, Israel Ortiz and Taylor Dowd are also on Ohrt's roster.

Rebecca Wickman

Calyb Zeien
Junior

"We all look strong," said Ohrt.

Ohrt, in her 11th year as head coach, said she was wowed by a time trial run last week.

"We did a timed two-mile today and it was pretty awesome. Bob and I were blown away at the potential on both teams," said Ohrt. "Just the depth of talent that we have – even being a pretty young team – is pretty exciting. It's fantastic."

The New Hampton girls team competed at the state meet for the first time last fall since 1998.

That capped a three-year run at the state meet as the Chickasaws ran in consecutive state meets from 1996-1998. The NH girls won the NEIC title last fall as well, the first league crown since 1998.

Turkey Valley cross country coach loves team's unity as Trojans head into the season

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

The Turkey Valley cross country teams won't be competing for team titles this fall, but it isn't because of quality, which the Trojans have both on and off the course.

Blame quantity.

The Trojans have four boys and three girls out for the sport, and because cross country teams must have at least five runners to compile a team score, Turkey Valley will have to concentrate on individual accomplishments in 2023.

That, however, doesn't mean Turkey Valley doesn't have a team concept this fall.

Asked about her team's strengths and Sarah Bakula, who is entering her seventh season at the helm of the Trojans, had a quick response.

"Unity, determination, friendly how they support each other and look after each other," she said. "Those are some of the strengths I see in both the girls and the boys teams."

The Trojan boys will be led by senior Russell Nieman, who like he did a year ago, will be doing double duty this fall — playing both football and running cross country.

A year ago, he had a breakthrough season on the course as he ran to all-Upper Iowa Conference honors and just missed out on a trip to the state meet — finishing 11th, or one spot away from punching a ticket to Fort Dodge — at the Class 1A state qualifier.

"One of the things we know we'll get from Russell is maximum effort every time he steps on to the course," she said. "That's just the way he is, it's in his DNA."

He'll be joined on the boys side by seniors Bode Balk and Luke Langreck, as well as Avery Franzen.

The top returning Trojan girl is sophomore Haylee Hanson, who will be joined on the Turkey Valley squad this year by freshmen Bella Stika and Hazel Nieman.

"We are a small squad so everyone will have a role to play in the success of our team," Bakula said. "We want to keep the fun alive and help everyone enjoy the season in its entirety."

Bakula added that she sees some "huge potential" with her Trojans but will also keep it simple this year.

"The end result of the season," she said, "is to accomplish our individual goals that we set and do the best we can."

The Trojans were set to open their season at Edgewood-Colesburg on Tuesday and will then have nine days off before traveling to Charles City a week from today (Thursday) for a meet that will have races set by grades — 9-10 and 11-12 — instead of the usual varsity/JV breakdown.

Trojans aim for a UIC title repeat

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

Roster turnover and graduation are challenges that every sports team usually has to deal with.

Seldom does a team not lose key players from the year before.

The Turkey Valley volleyball team is no different.

The bright spot for Shelbie Balk's Trojans this fall is that she'll return two key all-conference players that helped win a share of the Upper Iowa Conference in 2022.

Back this year is first-team all-UIC senior outside hitter Adriana Tiedt. She'll be joined by all-league defensive specialist/libero senior Halle Weber.

That powerful tandem will go a long ways to determine whether or not the Trojans will have what it takes to repeat as conference champs — an accolade TV shared with Clayton Ridge last year.

Two players do not a team make, though, and Balk will count on several newcomers on her roster to keep the ball rolling and the spikes continuing to rocket down to the hardwood.

overall and 7-1 in league play last fall.

The Trojans picked up steam late last season and won eight straight matches to close out the regular season. While Edgewood-Colesburg knocked off TV in the opening round of regional play — 3-1 — the Trojans have plenty of motivation to make a serious run in the postseason in 2023.

Tiedt is fun to watch and can take over matches when she starts rolling. She was fifth in the league with 175 kills a year ago and possesses a dangerous jump serve. She struck 26 aces to the floor as a junior.

Weber was third in the UIC in digs (423) and was one of its most reliable servers. She was second in the conference in serve efficiency (95 percent).

TV is tasked with the likes of replacing seven seniors on its roster and three all-conference performers in middle hitter Brianna Busta, defensive specialist/libero Clare Courtney and outside hitter Olivia Snyder. Also seeing their eligibility expire due to graduation are Jaclyn Schmitt, Alison Leibold, Abigail Schmitt and Sierra Morris.

Letterwinners that will have a serious impact on TV success in 2023 will be sophomore setter Maici Weber, senior setter Mariah Thronsdson and junior middle/outside hitter Kinsey Reicks. Morgan Vsetecka, a junior outside hitter, and senior right side hitter Ryann Schmitt also earned letters last year for the Trojans.

Maici Weber was third in the UIC in assists (348) and registered 39 blocks — tied with Reicks for fourth-best in the league. Weber is also adept at serving — based on her second-best league total of 43 aces.

Reicks accumulated 70 kills and Thronsdson dished out 160 assists, coupled with 149 digs.

Other members of the Trojans that will attempt to get solid court time in Balk's rotation are sophomores Addison Steinlage, Annika Bodensteiner, Karstyn Lukes, and juniors Delaney Busta, Alexis Elsbernd and Layni Schuchhardt.

The Trojans open the regular season in a triangular with New Hampton and MFL-Mar-Mac at home on Monday, Aug. 28.

game for a high school player. Braden gets in the weight room every chance he gets and always shows up. We are hoping for a strong season for this team and Braden is a big part of that."

But he's not the only reason there's optimism in Chickasaw Country as fall nears.

New Hampton also welcomes back experience up front as Josephson, Marshall Zeien and Gatlin McCumber all return with two years of varsity experience under their belts.

"We all appreciate what is going on up front," Frerichs said. "I think that their experience is one reason why we executed so well on Friday at Decorah. Defenses are changing and it can be a challenge to block all of the different fronts you see."

That's where the experience really comes into play.

"It helps a lot," Josephson said. "We've seen a lot of different things so we're ready for almost anything. When we made varsity, the big difference was just how fast the game got and we're used to that now."

The Chickasaws aren't lacking for size, at least from their three returning starters up front. McCumber tips the scales at 273, Zeien, who is moving to center this season, is a solid 246 while Josephson weighs in at 240.

The Chickasaw guards — senior Leander Reicks (180) and junior Caleb Rochford (181) — make up for their size with quickness and savvy.

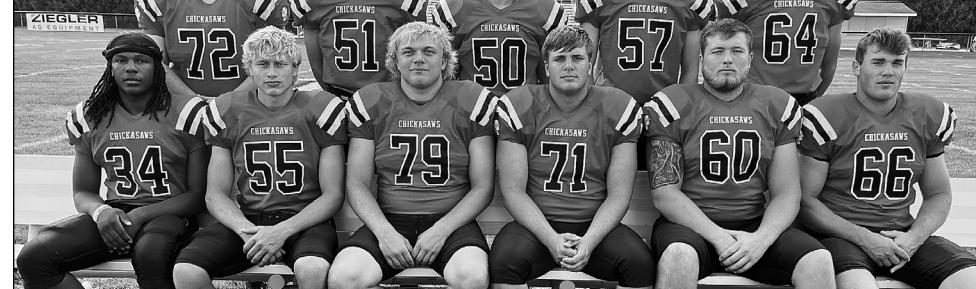

But the rest of the offense is, in a word, inexperienced.

Graduation cost New Hampton its quarterback and much of its receiving corps, but Frerichs believes that he has players who are ready to jump into the lineup. New Hampton threw 112 passes a year ago and 107 of those passes were thrown by players who graduated this past spring.

Of the 67 receptions New Hampton made in 2022, 53 were caught by seniors. The only "returning receptions" were the 13 by McShane and one by senior Cael Laures.

Both senior Ben Gilbert and junior Reid Rausch had their moments during last Friday's scrimmage at Decorah while Laures and junior Beau Serie both caught touchdown passes against the Vikings.

"We will be playing a new quarterback this year," Frerichs said when asked about his team's signal callers. "It has been a good competition as they have some of the same strengths. It will be ongoing but I am first and foremost looking for communication and running the football team. I feel that both could possibly do the job."

Bob Fenske/Tribune

Defensively, the Chickasaws are slightly more experienced with five returning starters — McShane, the three senior linemen and Gilbert, who played a solid defensive back in 2022.

But New Hampton must replace two outstanding linebackers — Ben Tenge and Isaac Howe — who were both all-district players last fall.

"We will move Braden to the middle of our defense," Frerichs said. "We have some young men working hard to replace a couple of good linebackers from a year ago. It is undecided who they will be for sure at this time."

Frerichs, though, believes that his team is on the right path, saying his Chickasaws have had an excellent preseason camp and first three weeks of workouts.

"I like the way our team listens in practice," he said. "I think that we have a good amount of experience coming back. They may not be returning starters but they did play on the varsity level. We have some players who have had success in other sports and that carries over. I think that we have another group of kids who like to play football and that will go a long way as we get deep into the season."

And three weeks from Friday, New Hampton will begin its trek in a district filled with schools, as Frerichs put it, "where football is a big deal."

In addition to New Hampton, Crestwood, Osage, North Fayette Valley and Waukon all made the playoffs a year ago, and Frerichs said while he believes his team is "one of the strongest" in the district, the schedule is a "challenge."

PUTTING THE SPOTLIGHT ON THE WOMEN WHO MAKE OUR BUSINESSES AND ORGANIZATIONS TICK!

SHE MAKES MEMORY MAKERS!

SCREENPRINTS OWNER WEATHERS CHALLENGES TO KEEP HER NEW HAMPTON BUSINESS THRIVING

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

It's a Monday morning and the lights in the storefront part of Screenprints are off, but in the shop area of the New Hampton business, lights blare and Amannda Pemble is settling in for another busy day.

There are "online stores" to set up and monitor, orders to be placed, screens to be made and shirts to be "printed."

A decade after becoming a partner in the business located on New Hampton's west side and five years after becoming the sole owner of the business, Pemble still loves her job, still enjoys owning her business.

"For me, the best part of this is the design work and the interaction with customers," she said. "Over the years, you learn a lot. I think I knew coming into this that there were hectic times, times where you run around like that chicken with its head cut off, but I still love what I do."

Granted, Pemble has faced some challenges in recent years. There was COVID-19, and there was the health issues she had to battle.

But she is quick to say that she and her business are here for the long haul.

"We live in a great community, a really supportive community," she said, "and yes, I'll admit it's been challenging but the athlete in me I think has helped. I'm competitive, and I'm going to give it all I have. That works in sports and that works in life."

PEMBLE GREW UP in Cresco and graduated from Crestwood High School, but she's a full-blooded Chickasaw these days.

Her husband, Chad, is a science and computer science teacher at New Hampton High School, where he is currently an assistant football coach and has coached a variety of other sports over the years. Three of her children are New Hampton High School graduates, with Zach receiving his diploma in 2017, Alexa walking across the stage in 2020 and Drake graduating in 2022. A fourth child, Jersey, is heading into her final year at New Hampton Middle School.

Nashua's Johnson pulls off her version of 'balancing' act

Big 4 Chamber of Commerce president strives to balance work with family life in effort to keep Nashua vibrant and ever-evolving

BY KELLY TERPSTRA

sports@nhtrib.com

On occasion, one has to take what Val Johnson says with a grain of salt.

Meaning, she often displays her wit and humor intertwined in a serious sentence.

If you haven't met Johnson – president of the all-volunteer Big 4 Chamber of Commerce in Nashua – you walk away from an encounter with her feeling energized.

She has that kind of positive vibe when tackling any number of subjects.

She also doesn't mince words and is refreshingly honest. Couple those attributes with her funny bone (see sentence above) and it's easy to see why she gets along with almost anybody.

Johnson always stays busy, as evident by her time spent while not working. While she's not punching the clock – she's raising four children along with her husband Adam, who live just north of Nashua on their family farm.

Oh, she's an independent insurance agent and fledgling farmer as well.

This is a juggling act few dare to dream.

So when Johnson says she has an "unhealthy addiction" with Nashua – she means it, but in a good way.

"I openly started admitting that last year," said Johnson, explaining the time she has spent involved in trying to get Nashua's name out there and for its residents to reap the benefits of her effort to revitalize and reinvigorate the rural, small-town sandwiched between Charles City and Waverly.

IT SEEMS HER work is never done in attempt to keep the town of 1,500 that rests right near the beautiful Cedar Lake in northeast Iowa – relevant, vibrant and ever-evolving.

"As volunteers we continue to try and work piece-by-piece to try to get some of that accomplished. Obviously, as volunteers, that's not something we can do overnight," said Johnson. "It's not an easy task."

That process can be tedious and tireless at times – especially when it's not a full-time job and you need to get people on board to help facilitate and foster a committee's vision of what the future may hold for Nashua.

"Nashua, of course as we know, is a bedroom community. We have a lot of assets that we've never capitalized on," said Johnson. "As the Chamber and the Community Foundation – we try to continuously keep that vision alive by working on various projects and doing fundraising activities."

As Johnson said – that's not easy to do in a society that has gravitated to larger metro areas in droves across the nation – often leaving small town, rural America with voids across the board. City High School grad.

Whether that's downtrodden downtowns, lower student enrollments in the school district or just lack of interest by community members – those key factors can severely hurt or limit a town's chance at success.

Nashua doesn't have that problem for the most part and Johnson is a big reason why. Being a team player doesn't hurt, either.

"I think we've come a long ways," said Johnson. "There is a some forward motion in working together as a group."

What's the secret to success when it comes to helping build up a community and remain viable?

"I can talk until I'm blue in the face – the number one problem in a dying community is communication," said Johnson, a 2004 Charles

THE CHAMBER WAS formed in 2015 and the Nashua Community Foundation soon thereafter. Johnson's been president of the Chamber since 2018.

The insurance work helps pay the bills for the Johnson family. Adam started farming in 2007 and went from a 100-bushel-an-acre harvest to double that total since he started working the land over 15 years ago. Adam also owns a trucking company – Country Express Inc. The couple has been married since 2008.

"I got into insurance by mistake. I only got into insurance because I don't know what I want to do with my life," said Johnson. "I'm a doer, so if I did insurance – then I could learn it, maybe understand it, and help some people along the way, because I like to help people."

VAL WILL BE the first one to tell you she didn't get involved in the farm until 2020. The farm two miles north of the fairgrounds has six feeder cattle, 20 head of sheep, chickens and ducks.

"We've grown that to over 200-bushel-an-acre on untiled river bottom ground, for the most part," said Johnson. "We've made some big accomplishments in the first 12 years that were there. We had hit a plateau while we're listening to everybody else grow. So I started doing my own research. Back in 2020 we went to this field day. It was just kind of eye-opening."

New city employees embark on new journeys

Economic Development assistant is ready for new challenge

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

Kristi Pederson won't get quite the exercise in her new job as she did in her last one, but she's excited nonetheless to join New Hampton Economic Development as an office assistant.

That previous job? Shopping for Fareway customers as part of the grocery store's online shopping program.

"I'll tell you what, I'm going to have to figure out a way to get my steps in," Pederson said with a laugh, "but trust me, I'm not complaining. Basically, you shop all day in that job, and we're talking about 20,000 steps a day."

She won't be walking that much as Economic Development Director Tammy Robinson's assistant, but she will be learning a lot as she takes over for Megan Baltes, the longtime assistant who took a new office job with Omega Machine and Tool, a company owned by Robinson's brother, Travis Lechtenberg.

Pederson is the wife of New Hampton Police Chief Tim Pederson, who began work with the city in May while his wife remained in Harlan to "close up shop."

She'll be the first to admit that the move was one she faced with a bit of trepidation; after all, she had lived her entire life in Harlan, a city of 4,912 residents located in southwest Iowa.

"I think any time you make a move like this — especially when you've lived in one city your whole life — can be a little nerve-wracking," she said, "but at the same time, we've been so impressed with New Hampton, it's all worked out well."

The Pedersons have two children — Andy, a sophomore at New Hampton High School, and Madison, a seventh-grader at New Hampton Middle School.

Andy was able to "test out" of his freshman year at Harlan and joined his dad when he moved to New Hampton so that he could play baseball for the Chickasaws this summer.

A few weeks later, after Madison finished the school year, the "Pederson girls" joined the boys in Northeast Iowa.

"It was a great opportunity for Tim — not just for his job but to be closer to his family," Pederson said, whose husband's family lives in the St. Ansgar area. "It was his turn to be close to his family and it's not like we moved half a country away."

Kristi Pederson, the new assistant at New Hampton Economic Development, poses for a picture with her boss, Tammy Robinson, during Pederson's first week of work in the office.

In Harlan, Pederson worked for a number of years as an administrative assistant at Myrtle Medical Center, Harlan's hospital.

"I really enjoyed the people I worked with at Fareway," Pederson said, "but I'd also had an IPERS job for quite a while so that was one thing that really interested me about this position."

She will admit that she has plenty to learn in her new job, but Pederson said it will provide her an opportunity to really "get to know" her new town.

"Even just a few days in," she said, "I've realized that we have a lot of businesses and industries town and I'm really looking forward to help grow our town."

And the fact that Harlan and New Hampton are similar in size and atmosphere certainly helped make the move more palatable.

"Honestly, New Hampton reminds me a lot of Harlan," she said. "Maybe Harlan was a

Parks and Recreation assistant Kayla Flick takes a quick break to pose for a picture, while Tara Hackman, her boss and the department's director, finishes up a project.

Parks and Rec assistant loves job, lack of commute

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

Growing up in North Washington, Kayla Flick remembers that it was a "treat" to go to the New Hampton Municipal Pool.

"We didn't live in town so I didn't get to do a lot of the Parks and Rec stuff," she said, "so now, it's kind of nice to be able to help kids get some of those opportunities. We have so much to offer, and that's what I love about this job. I get a chance to help keep kids busy, active and looking forward to the next thing."

Flick has served as the assistant to Parks and Recreation Director Tara Hackman since April, and she appreciates the job for a couple of reasons — not only does she get to help make sure New Hampton-area kids have plenty to do but she also doesn't have to make the daily commute to Decorah.

She replaced Brodie Bohlen, who worked for the department just a few months before accepting the director position at Solon Parks and Recreation last month. Bohlen, of course, replaced current Parks and Rec Director Tara Hackman, who took over as the department's administrator when longtime Director Rick Kramer retired in early January.

Flick graduated from New Hampton High School in 2011 and then attended North Iowa Area Community College in Mason City to become a physical therapy assistant. After graduating from NIACC, she worked for nine years in Decorah.

"Loved the job," she said and then added with a laugh, "but the drive was another story. I really did enjoy working with the patients but I was at the point where spending an hour and a half in the car every day had gotten really, really old."

Now, she's a mere minutes from the office, and although she admits that there has been a learning curve — "until you work here, you have absolutely no idea how many programs we actually have" — she's enjoying the work, her new boss and her co-workers at the New Hampton Community Center, which is also home to the City Clerk's and Economic Development offices.

"Everyone really pitches in, and it makes it a fun place to work," she said. "I work with a great group of people who have a lot of fun but also get a lot of things done for the city."

One thing she has really come to appreciate about the Parks and Recreation Department is the fact that it's much more than just a sports-based entity. Don't get her wrong, she loves the games kids play — be it soccer, football, volleyball, basketball, baseball and softball — but she likes the fact that she's part of a department that also sponsors a number of arts programs.

"One of the things I'm already really proud of is that we not only have the sports," she said, "but we also accommodate the creative side. I couldn't have asked for a better few months and I can't wait to see what Tara comes up with next."

Turkey Valley fourth-grade teacher Robyn Vsetecka has always had a sense of adventure — like the time she rappelled down the school building — but her heart remains with her students that fill her classroom each year.

Teacher loves seeing kids excited about school

Scores of Turkey Valley students thankful that Mrs. Vsetecka gave up accounting and went into education

By DOROTHY HUBER
dorhubernews@gmail.com

When Robyn Vsetecka was a student at Turkey Valley — then Robyn Hageman — she thought her career path would lead her to a job in accounting.

Her dad was into math; it was in her blood.

So as the teacher prepared last week for her fourth-grade students to come back from their summer vacation, Vsetecka — back at Turkey Valley — talked about the twist her plans took.

"When I was taking accounting at UNI, I thought 'I can't sit behind a desk all day long, I have to move!'"

Growing up on a farm with seven

"IN FOURTH GRADE THE KIDS ARE SO EXCITED ABOUT SCHOOL. I'VE HAD KIDS WHO DIDN'T WANT THE SCHOOL YEAR TO BE OVER AND THAT MAKES ME FEEL REALLY GOOD."

— TURKEY VALLEY FOURTH-GRADE TEACHER ROBYN VSETECKA

siblings, she was used to a lot of activity.

After graduating from UNI in 1991 she taught four years at De Sales in Ossian and another four years at St. Joseph Community School in New Hampton, before taking a job at Turkey Valley, where she's taught for the last 24 years. During that time she went back to get her masters from Viterbo University in 2005.

That desire to be active led to some questionable decisions made by Vsetecka as an adult, but deciding to become a teacher wasn't one of them.

"I enjoy children and have a desire to learn," she said. "And fourth grade is my favorite age, it's an exceptional age."

She's also taught second and sixth grades. "In fourth grade the kids are so excited about school. I've had kids who didn't want the school year to be over and that makes me feel really good."

BEFORE GRADUATING from TVHS in 1987, Vsetecka was in cross country, track, and was a wrestling cheerleader. But her love of running is what led to some of those questionable decisions. Like the mud run she entered in the Des Moines area. "Sharon Samec talked me into that one. There was rain the night before, so that might have made things worse, but the mud was nearly up to my waist. It was horrible, not pretty!"

There was apparently a photo taken after the race, but Vsetecka courteously declined to provide a copy to go along with this article.

The St. Lucas native also had some other so-called "dumb ideas" — the kind that inflict misery at the time but make great stories afterward. Like the seven-mile Quad Cities Bix 7 ("big hill at the start, nearly killed me"), half marathons or the winter event held on Lake Superior called Book Across the Bay, where participants snowshoe a total of six miles, across the lake and back. The trek takes place at night; organizers try to pick a time during a full moon. "Oh yeah, I've had a lot of bad ideas."

VSETECKA'S ACTIVITIES this summer centered more around family. During her time off she spent time

PEMBLE: FROM 1

After graduating from high school, Pemble attended Waldorf College in Forest City, where she received an associate of arts degree in business and played volleyball for the Warriors. She then transferred to Iowa State University, where she received her bachelor's degree in business and marketing.

"I've always been a people person," Pemble said, "and really, that's what business is. If you want to succeed in business, you have to be comfortable with different kinds of people. Your customers are always different. Some are talkative, some are quiet, some know exactly what they want, some have just a concept, some want you to tell them what they need. It's important to realize - like anything in life - that no two people are alike."

After college, she worked for Von Maur, where she was working to become a buyer for the Dubuque-based department store. Eventually, after a stop in Decorah where she worked as the clothing manager for the Luther College bookstore, she made her way to New Hampton.

For almost four years, she worked as an advertising representative for the Tribune.

"It really gave me a great start in getting to know New Hampton," she said. "I met so many people, and I really enjoyed it."

AFTER JERSEY WAS born in 2010, Pemble took a job with Janet Gage, the then-owner of Screenprints.

The long-term goal when she accepted Gage's offer was to become a partner in the business, but first ...

"I wanted to make sure this was something I really wanted to do," she said, "and it didn't take me long to realize this was an incredible opportunity and something I enjoyed. That first year — those first few years really — I learned a lot."

She paused and laughed.

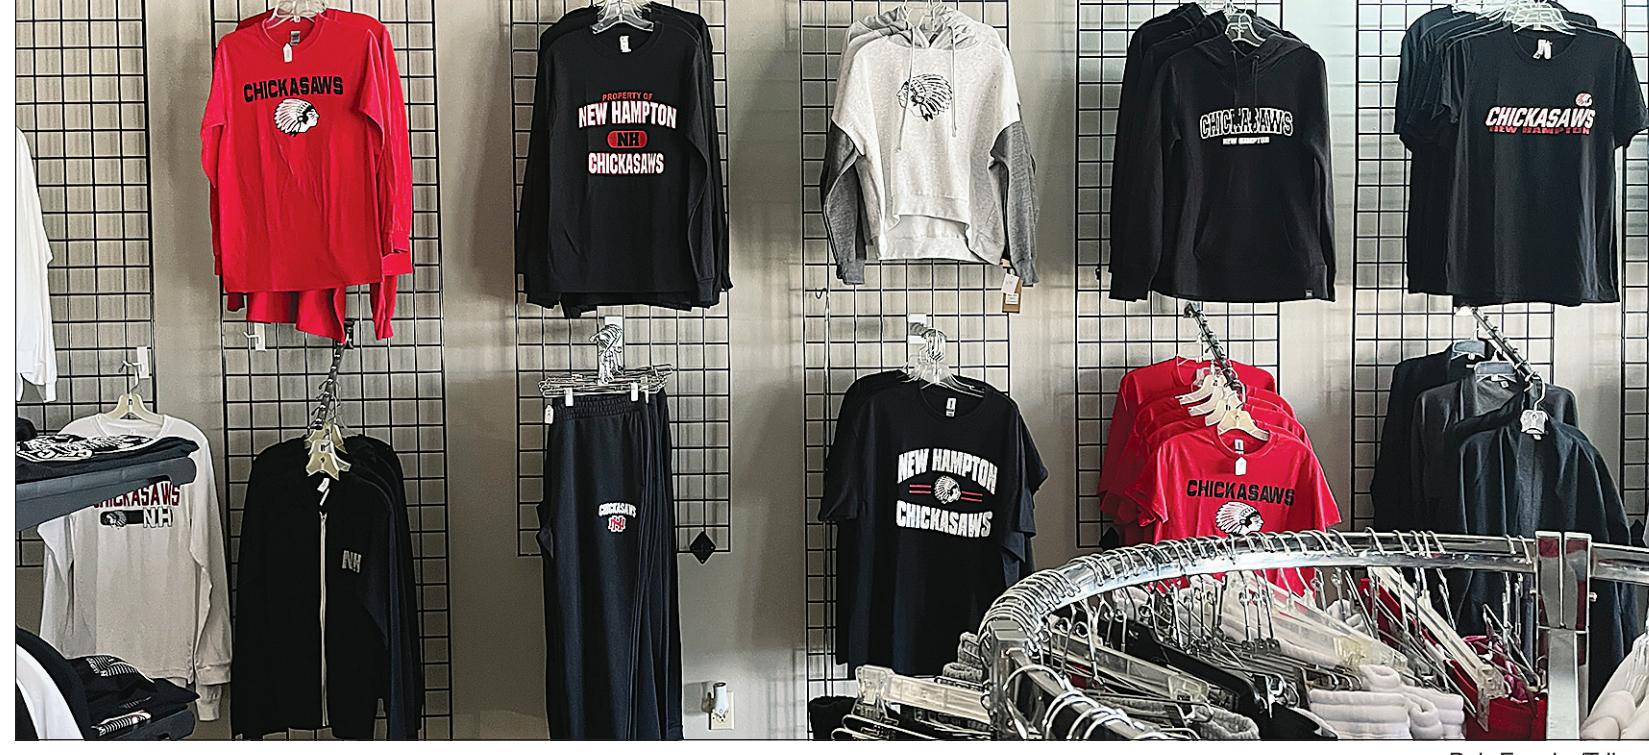

"Like those shirts don't just magically happen."

If there is a lesson for those who aren't screenprinters, it is this: It is labor intensive, with the emphasis on intensive. If there's a second lesson, it is the fact that there are times there isn't, well, a lot of time.

Start with the labor intensive part.

Pemble begins every project at her computer, coming up with the design that she and, more importantly, the customer like.

Screens are made, and yes, for most jobs, it is plural. That's because every color needs its own screen. So a shirt with five colors needs five screens. After the screens are ready, the shirt is laid down, the screen is applied and the shirt is run through a dryer. And for each color, the process is repeated.

Also in her shop is an embroidery machine that is used for caps, but the point is — be it a shirt or a hat — there isn't a machine to drop said shirt or cap into and that does all the work.

"In the end, when I get to see a shirt — be it for a school, a business, a benefit or anything else — finished," she said, "it is rewarding and it comes with the realization that a lot of work went into it."

IN 2018, PEMBLE took over the business as its sole owner, and for a couple of years, things went, in a word, smooth.

And then came 2020. To be more precise, then came March 2020 and the onset of the pandemic. For a while, she had to close the business, but the lingering effects of COVID were felt for years.

"The biggest problem was with shipping," she said, "and you never knew if you were going to be able to get product. That was so frustrating because it was something you really didn't think about before COVID. Now, all of a sudden, we were ordering shirts and just praying that they would show up sometime."

The good news is that the supply-chain issues are finally sorting themselves out. In recent months, Pemble has had fewer and fewer problems with getting product.

"It might be four days, instead of two," she said and then added with a laugh, "but that's way better than it was when it might be three weeks or never."

YET AN EVEN bigger challenge popped up just before Christmas in 2021, when Pemble was diagnosed with breast cancer.

"I've had better Christmas presents," Pemble said, "and as hard as it was, the support from Chad, my kids, my family, our friends, the community ... it shows you what a special place this is."

As she went through her medical treatments, she cut back the hours that the store was open because "every doctor and nurse told me to listen to my body."

Yet, Screenprints didn't turn down a single job. Her daughter, Alexa, and her employee, Kiersten Tenge, both stepped in and did a yeoman's job filling in for Amannda when her illness kept her at home.

Her customers were also understanding.

"There were times we had to say, 'We can get it done but we might need an extra day or two,' and they didn't bat an eye," Pemble said. "It's times like those that you know the community, your customers, really have your back. Grateful doesn't even come close to how I feel about how people were there for us and lifted us up."

NORMALCY HAS RETURNED to Screenprints in recent months, and the business' owner has embraced the changes she has seen since she first reported to work at 651 W. Milwaukee Street in the fall of 2010.

For years, all orders were done on "paper" so when this team or that team put together a clothing order or this team or that team made it to the state tournament, the sheer volume of paperwork was immense.

Now, Screenprints opens its "online stores" and folks can look through a store's "catalog" and pick out what they want and at a touch of a button, Pemble and her staff, which these days also includes New Hampton High School student Addison Trower, knows exactly how many t-shirts, sweatshirts, stocking hats and caps have been ordered.

That's doubly important on those quick turn-around orders.

For example, a wrestling team doesn't know how many wrestlers have qualified for the state tournament until a Saturday evening, but that team wants its shirts ready for the state tournament that begins on the following Wednesday.

"It's exciting and all that," Pemble said, "but it's nerve-wracking, too. Remember how I told you this business is labor intensive? Those weeks, that doesn't even come close to what it's like around here. ... It's why you'll see my vehicle here at some really strange times."

IT HAS BEEN a busy summer for Pemble.

Zach married Emily Schwickerath on July 1 and just accepted a new job, one that will have him return to Ames. Alexa graduated from Iowa State in just three years and has settled into her new job at U.S. Bank in Waterloo. Drake was home for the summer but is getting ready to shift from playing football at Morningside to picking up a basketball at Wartburg. And Jersey is getting ready for eighth grade, which means she'll be a high schooler next year.

"Don't make me cry," Pemble said with a quick smile. "I can't believe how fast time goes. When we're younger, people tell you that it speeds up as you get older and I hate to say it but they're right."

Meanwhile, on New Hampton's west side, the owner of Screenprints is gearing up for another busy year — getting all kinds of shirts, sweatshirts and hats ready to be worn not only by proud Chickasaws but also employees of area businesses and supporters of those going through tough times.

"This is a great community filled with so many supportive and caring people," Pemble said, "and we're excited for the future. We're not going anywhere, that's for sure. Yes, it's work but it's fun work and it's nice to see our work out there in the community."

She paused for a moment and smiled.

"When I see a shirt from back when Zach played — or any of the kids played — it brings back great memories. That's pretty cool."

N-P teacher, coach stays true to her roots at alma mater

With child No. 3 on the way, McCall adeptly juggles family life, teaching career and her duties as a Husky coach

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
sports.nhtrib.com

Amber McCall was raised smack dab in the middle of Nashua and Plainfield here in northern Iowa.

That meant she rode the Plainfield school bus, while her address was technically Nashua.

She's a true blue Husky any way you slice it.

So it only made sense for the 2014 Nashua-Plainfield High School graduate to return to her roots. That meant she stayed in the area as an educator/coach to help plant the seeds that have produced countless and successful N-P students in the school district ever since the two schools merged in the 1990s.

"I grew up here. I went here my entire life. My dad actually graduated from Plainfield," said McCall.

McCall – who is pregnant with her third child (daughter) – works a balancing act between mom, teacher and coach that is rewarding, yet challenging at the same time. That means there's joyful moments as a parent and instructor – which also include juggling any number of important tasks and duties.

"I saw a meme this morning and it was moms – and they have like 50 tabs open in their head and it's like just rotating through the tabs. I felt like I could relate to that a lot," said McCall, N-P's junior high physical education teacher and health instructor.

The former standout N-P volleyball and softball star for the Huskies knows she can't do it all alone. She says the help she receives – just like a pass or throw from a teammate in the sports world – is vital to not only herself, but to her student athlete's success as well. Understanding that is what helps make McCall the influential leader and devoted wife and parent that she is.

"Honestly, it takes a village. I'm very, very blessed with my husband. He's an absolute rock star at home," she said about her husband Zade, a 2015 N-P grad that works for the city and took over for Dan Zwanziger, who retired recently as head of Nashua's street department.

Zade and Amber are more than just high school sweethearts – as they started dating back in junior high.

"We've been together for 13 years," said Amber, who was head coach of the N-P volleyball squad for several seasons and helped lead the Huskies girls track team to its first ever girls state championship in track two years ago as an assistant coach. The Huskies placed runner-up at state in Class 1A this past spring under the direction of McCall, who was head coach in 2023.

Just like in athletics, life's path can incur bumps in the road that sometimes derail one's plans.

That means kids get sick – which is just a fact of life. So when Amber needs to be by their side to get them back up to full strength – she knows she can count on her "team" to provide the assistance she needs in order to keep things running smoothly. That "squad" would be her mother, grandparents and Zade – who come to the rescue on occasion to give Amber a helping hand.

Late nights can be par for the course in Amber's chosen profession.

"There's sometimes I don't get home until 10 o'clock. He has the kids fed, he has them bathed. A village, thankfully, goes beyond that, too. My husband's very involved. He's on the fire department. He drives for the EMS and he has fire calls or fire meetings, too. Thankfully, his grandparents, or my grandma and my parents will fill in and take the girls no matter what. We have a really awesome village. That helps allow me to have the opportunity that I do have."

When her daughter Karter was born over three years ago – she had to make some sacrifices. That meant not staying to help the kids lift weights late in the evening as much as she used to.

"I try to tell my students and for sure my athletes – you guys are student athletes, I'm mom-coach. I'm mom-teacher before. You guys, they are my family – but there's gonna be days that I have to be gone. My daughters were sick quite a bit in the spring and thankfully Toni (Nelson) was an absolute rock star and she filled in. I had to make priorities with that as well."

Perhaps that's one of the reasons why her sports teams are so successful is that team work that she is used to implementing. It's essential in order to come up with a winning, finished product – whether that's out on the track, on the volleyball court or raising a family.

"The group of girls, they are the ones that make that happen. Obviously, I have to provide instruction and help them with that as well, but having girls that have goals and that set those standards really high are obviously what get that done," said Amber about her N-P track squad.

Team work and unity also involve dealing with adversity and things that don't go your way. In order to succeed, there are times one must fail first.

"I think the most important thing, too, is just being real with them," said McCall. "The hard stuff – that is part of life. Our job as teachers and coaches is to help teach them life skills – help prepare them. It's not all about track. It's not all about volleyball. It's about those life skills that will help prepare them for the real world."

McCall, who played volleyball at NIACC as a libero/defensive specialist, also made quite an impact on the softball diamond at second base and center field for the Huskies. She was an all-conference player in that sport in addition to her all-league recognition where she dug out many a spike from hitting the hardwood.

McCall graduated from the University of Northern Iowa in 2018 and started coaching at just 20 years of age at N-P while she was still going to college.

She understands now what she didn't know back then about her teachers and mentors – many of them who are now her academic colleagues. It's an extremely rewarding profession as an educator – but it can be challenging at times dealing with young adults that are growing up in an ever-changing society that is still filled with many potential pitfalls.

"The number-one thing to me is that I've gained from all this is a lot of respect for the teachers and coaches that I have. When you're in high school, you see a different perspective. You see the commitment that they make, but you don't see how much that they are away from their family. You don't really understand that process until you kind of go through that," said McCall.

McCall talked about N-P's storied state track run – a streak of success that has never happened before in the school's history in the sport.

"I don't know how many times I said, 'wow, did I just see that?'" said McCall, explaining the last two years at the state track meet. "It's just a 'wow' moment – like you're just so thankful and so blessed to have that opportunity and to have the opportunity to be able to coach such amazing individuals and the team. To have the support that we do – it's just a blessing."

The due date for the McCall's third child is amazingly the same day as her second child's birthday. Her name is Kayzlea and that date is Oct. 9. She'll be two years old in what amounts to little over a month from now.

"I'm due in October with number three," smiled McCall about Karter and Kayzlea's future sister.

Coincidentally, Zade's mother and uncle also share the same birthday.

Zade and Amber live on their grandparents' acreage – a place the McCalls purchased two years ago. In turn, grandpa and grandma moved into Zade and Amber's house in town.

No matter the residence – N-P will always hold a special place in the heart of the hometown girl and her junior-high sweetheart.

"We plan to be there forever. Nashua-Plainfield's always been home. These communities are just outstanding. The amount of help that is provided – the amount of support – is awesome," said Amber.

Amber's influence and guidance from her teachers made it an easy decision for her and Zade to stay close to home. Now she's part of guiding and enriching the lives of teenagers who will soon be adults that may also choose to teach just like McCall did.

"We had teachers and we had coaches that had such a big impact on our lives that we knew we wanted our kids to have that same experience," said McCall. "We knew this is where we wanted our family to be."

Implementing solutions to help solve problems is a big thing with Val. That's just part of who she is and what she does.

"Of course it was a huge learning curve, because we didn't have any influence from anyone," said Johnson. "It was something interesting."

Adam and Val also started their own agri-business.

"Now we do starter and micro-nutrient sales," said Val Johnson.

Of course, the Johnsons have other ideas in the works as well for their homestead.

"We have more business ventures ahead," said Johnson.

Val also owns real estate. She bought a second property in downtown Nashua that she is remodeling.

"Last summer, Adam decided I needed to buy a second building on Main Street," smiled Johnson.

Cedar Valley Hospice women embody mission to enrich families' lives

Living with a serious illness or dealing with the death of a loved one doesn't come with a set of directions. At Cedar Valley Hospice, a team of experts comprise our circle of care to help families know the next steps to take.

In Waverly, the office is made up almost entirely of women who every day make it their goal to embody our mission: To enrich lives with knowledge, respect and compassionate care.

Here is what a few of them have to say about serving the community.

How do you help "Make Each Moment Matter" in your daily work?

Making Each Moment Matter (our organization's tagline) starts from within. I work hard to promote an office that is inclusive and promotes a positive work culture.

We set the tone by having time to debrief, making sure staff are heard, celebrating life events with one another, and more importantly, providing them with the tools they need to be successful out in the field.

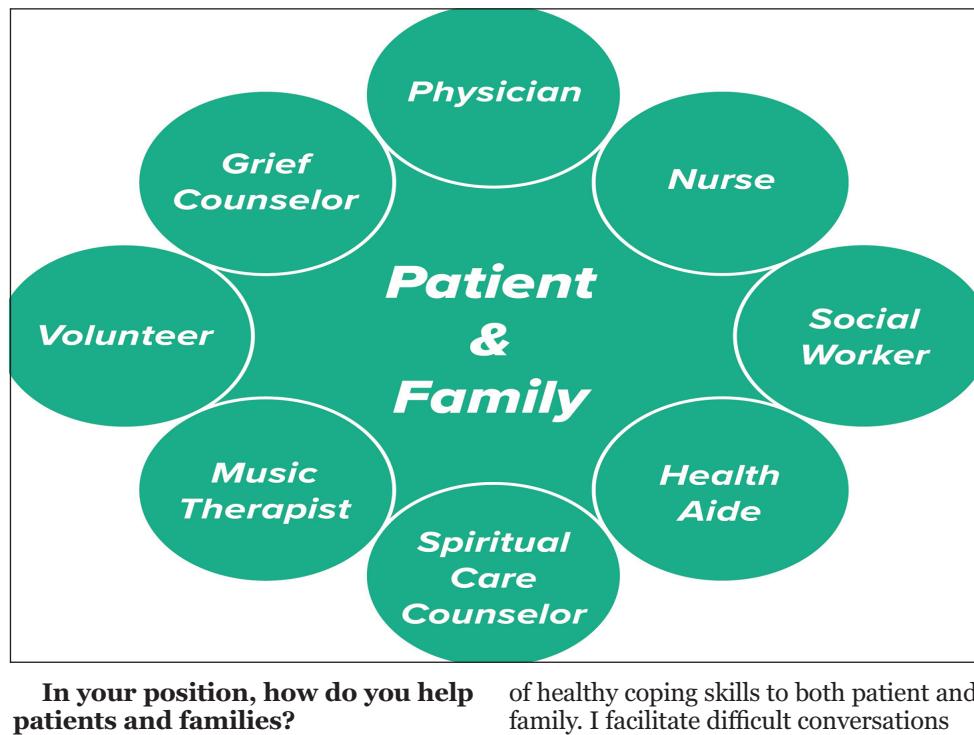

I also am proud to witness the eagerness of our volunteers to serve our communities. They feel they are a part of the team. We provide them with the education needed to be an advocate for Cedar Valley Hospice out in their day to day lives. It's an honor to work alongside of them and see their true willingness to serve others.

Cortney Manning, office and volunteer coordinator

What is the best part about working for Cedar Valley Hospice?

All of it – I love my coworkers and serving the community. Our staff goes above and beyond, providing excellent and top-notch care for every patient, every day. Everyone employed here embodies our mission: To enrich lives with knowledge, respect and compassionate care. From those who take the initial phone calls, to our wonderful hospice aides, knowledgeable social workers, nurses and providers. Even our office staff that aren't directly involved with patient care go above and beyond every day. It's truly an honor to be a part of this team.

Taylor Kramer, clinical services manager

In your position, how do you help patients and families?

In my role as a nurse, my goal is to provide education and resources to ensure patients and families are set up for success. I predict needs ahead of time so that when a new situation arises, families know what to do. This helps families feel more confident and comfortable as a caregiver, which allows them to focus on spending quality time with their loved one, living in the moment and enjoying the things they love the most.

I feel the most important aspect of my job is showing patients that they are loved, important and valued. I enjoy spending time reminiscing with patients and families about their loved ones, accomplishments in life and hobbies they have enjoyed. I encourage patients to continue doing those things they love, to remind them that although they may be in their final days or months, they can still find happiness in each day.

Kelsey Peters, hospice nurse

In your position, how do you help patients and families?

I listen and learn what's most important to them and allow them to share their life's memories. I provide validation of feelings and encourage/educate on the use of healthy coping skills to both patient and family. I facilitate difficult conversations on end-of-life care and desires for the patient and advocate for them to ensure these desires are followed. I then provide them with the tools they need to help themselves and their loved ones throughout their journey.

Ella Aldrich, social worker

What is the most rewarding part of your job?

My role as a grief counselor provides me the opportunity to walk beside people through their journey of grief. I love building relationships with these clients, who are brave enough to seek help to ease the pain of loss. It is truly a privilege.

Lynette Jordan, grief counselor

Share a memorable moment from your career?

There are many memorable moments that have impacted my 16 years of service to Cedar Valley Hospice patients and families. One couple comes to mind that touched my life in such a way that it couldn't have been anything other than a divine appointment.

I went to visit a patient for a "trial" respite visit so his wife could run errands. While there, it was a blessing to witness her love for and devoted service to her husband. The patient shared a beautiful cross his skillful hands produced in the wood shop. I marveled at the intricacy of his carving and felt richly blessed to be a part of their journey.

He later admitted to me with a smile, "I really thought that 'trial' babysitting was NOT going to work out, but I'm so glad it did." It warmed my heart and touched my life in such a way a special friendship still endures. It is such a privilege to meet and serve families and grow in servitude alongside the amazing people I work with. For this I am eternally grateful.

Paula Spurlin, hospice aide

Teacher appreciates support from families

VSETECKA: FROM 4

helping her daughter Emma care for the little lad that gave Vsetecka the title of "grandma." Though he's not so little any more.

"Three months old and he's 17 pounds! He's a bruiser. I got a lot of Nicholas time in this summer which was great, I was glad to be able to be there and help Emma out."

She and husband Dave — who works at Homeland Energy — also have sons Phillip and Jacob.

Plus all the children she gets to know through the school year.

"One of the great things about this job is the relationship with the students and the families, I think I'm really fortunate at Turkey Valley with how supportive the families are. I enjoy the people and the joy that the kids bring to the classroom."

In the past, Vsetecka thought, being in a larger district would give teachers more access to information, but that divide has closed.

"Now with the internet I can get into Facebook groups and connect with other teachers, that's a way to get ideas. No, I like it right here. I like green space and we have a lot of that at Turkey Valley."

And she hasn't stopped learning, as technology changes every year. "We have a new reading series that has a lot of use of instructional materials on smart boards," she related. "Kids can connect with the smart board with their Chromebooks and can interact with the lesson while I'm teaching it."

Slightly different than when she was in high school. "I took office procedure and we learned how to use electric typewriters.... There were not many computers in our classes."

One of Vsetecka's goals this year is in the area of robotics.

"We experimented with that last year. Coding is so good for problem solving, to understand how that robot is going to move. Just seeing the perspective."

"It's very basic — not like what they're doing in high school — but I'm hoping to do more of that this year."

GOOGLE THE PHRASE

"teacher shortages" and you'll come up with a variety of reasons some districts are scrambling to fill open positions before the school year starts — pay, working conditions, lack of support, and the changing curriculum.

"We have all our spots filled but we're still seeing the effect of the shortages," said Vsetecka. "A lack of subs, the list [of substitute teachers] is not super long, which makes it tough if we have to take off because of an emergency."

With 32 years of teaching under her belt, she's happy with her wages, which started out as $13,000 a year in 1991.

SCHOOL STARTED

Wednesday, and even before she welcomed back her students, Vsetecka was looking forward to another year of making an impression on young lives.

"I don't always see the immediate impact I have on their lives until I run into them years later and they have families of their own and they thank me for inspiring them to go into the science field," she said. "One young lady recognized me at the Cresco Fitness Center and told me she became a dermatologist because of my love for science, it inspired her! And of course, Dave loves it when they recognize me and then say 'this must be Mr. V'.... LOL!"

More women are working, and they're putting in longer hours

Work is essential to women's economic security, social equality, and a robust and sustainable economy for all. Three-quarters of so-called prime-age women — those ages 25–54 — hold down a job today, compared with slightly more than two-thirds that was reported a decade ago.

Women are also working longer hours: Today, 84 percent of employed, prime-age women work full time. These gains come despite the coronavirus pandemic's disproportionate impacts on women's employment.
