Council holds off on stoplights

City leaders want to talk to superintendent, also put off decision on Heritage water

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

The New Hampton City Council Monday night tapped the brakes on not only removing stoplights from a city intersection but also once again put off a decision on extending city water lines to the county-owned Heritage Center.

Council members said they wanted more information on both issues

West Prospect Street.

Just after the Labor Day weekend, the Iowa Department of Transportation notified the city that it could remove the stoplights at the intersection just to the north of New Hampton's downtown area without doing a costly traffic study.

Because that section of North Linn Avenue is also designated State Highway 24, the DOT also has control over the stoplights, but a DOT official told City Clerk Karen Clemens that in addition to following state guidelines on the removal of streetlight — basically, the city would have to put up signage and cover the lights for at least 90 days before removing them — the city would also have to extend the 25 miles per hour speed limit for a short distance on the road.

On Monday, though, at least one City Council member said he had concerns

New Hampton's wastewater treatment facility sits just off Locust Avenue on the city's south side, but after 60 years in use, state regulators and city officials say the plant must be replaced by 2036 to meet mandated nutrient-reduction strategies.

OFFICIALS SAY THEY HAVE LITTLE CHOICE WHEN IT COMES TO SPENDING $27.4 MILLION ON NEW PLANT

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

New Hampton Public Works Director Casey Mai put it bluntly when it comes to the city's wastewater treatment plant.

"This is probably the most important piece of infrastructure in our community," Mai said. "Nobody sees it because it's tucked out in a corner, it doesn't smell good and all that, but without it, we can't flush toilets, we can't do laundry, we can't take showers, we can't cook or do dishes. ... No one thinks about it until that wastewater can't go anywhere, and then, trust me, we hear about it."

The rub is this: New Hampton's plant, which was built in the early 1960s, needs replacing.

And it's going to be expensive — like really, really expensive — which is why the City Council held a Committee as a Whole meeting, which is basically a workshop, last Wednesday evening to discuss the city's options.

School Board approves sub pay increases

After finding success with hikes for substitute teachers, district will do same for other positions

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

A decision earlier this year to hike pay for substitute teachers has paid dividends for New Hampton Community Schools, and the School Board on Monday night decided to "double down" when it came to "sub pay."

Board members approved a recommendation from Superintendent Jay Jurrens to substantially increase pay for those who fill in for secretaries, custodians, paraeducators, nurses, cooks and bus drivers.

"I've had a couple of substitute teachers tell me the reason they're coming here is the pay," Superintendent Jay Jurrens said, "and we're having the same issue trying to get subs in other places so I think this is something we have to do."

In July, the School Board hiked pay for substitute teachers from $120 to $150 per day, an increase of 25 percent, and on Monday, board members approved more substitute pay hikes — ranging from 16.7 percent for bus drivers to 31.6 percent for school nurses.

"It's like [Food Service Director] Jodi [Cerwinski] tells me, it's next to impossible to find sub cooks when we're paying $10.50 an hour," Jurrens said. "We need to do something to attract more subs, and this will make us much more competitive."

The raises approved Monday included:

- Secretaries will go for $11.50 per hour to $14.50 per hour.
- Custodians will bump up from $12.50 an hour to $15.50 an hour.
- Paraeducators will increase from $11 per hour to $14 per hour.
- Nurses will go from $95 a day to $125 a day.
- Cooks will increase from $10.50 an hour to $13.50 an hour.

BriefsNew Hampton FFA chapter to hold pumpkin sale this Saturday

The New Hampton FFA chapter is ready to help area residents get into the Halloween spirit this weekend as members will hold a pumpkin sale in the Carquest parking lot that is located near the intersection of North Linn Avenue and Main Street.

The sale will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.

FFA members say all the pumpkins are locally grown and come in all sizes, shapes and colors.

Those who can not attend the sale on Saturday should contact New Hampton FFA Advisor Rachel Bauer at 641-394-2134.

Lettermen holding annual meat bundle sale; orders due by Tuesday

The New Hampton Lettermen's Club is holding its annual fall fundraiser — its meat bundle sale — that will run through this coming Tuesday.

All nine bundles that are being sold will be processed by Elma Locker and Grocery and will be available for pickup between 11 a.m. and noon on Sunday, Oct. 23, in the high school cafeteria. Lettermen Club members also can deliver the meat bundles if that date doesn't work for pickup.

Bundles range in price from $38 for the brat sampler and pulled pork to $58 for the "Stick Snack Pack" and a jerky sampler.

Those who have not been contacted by a Lettermen's Club member can call either Dennis Pagel or Jordan Rommes, the club's two advisors, at 641-394-2134 and they will make sure someone contacts them.

Cross country team holding pumpkin-sale fundraiser today

The New Hampton cross country team will host a fundraiser today for Andrea Burgart, who is currently navigating medical obstacles.

Support for Andrea — the former Andrea Shekleton — can be made by coming to the Carquest parking lot at 2 N. Linn today (Thursday), where members of the cross country team will be selling pumpkins from 3-7 p.m.

The team will donate 100 percent of the proceeds to the Burgart family, and for those who may not want to buy a pumpkin, monetary donations will also be accepted.

Fort Atkinson Rendezvous set for Saturday and Sunday

The 47th annual Fort Atkinson Rendezvous will take place Saturday and Sunday at the fort in the small Winneshiek County town.

Starting on Saturday, the fort opens to the public at 9:30 a.m. and closes at 4:30 p.m. and the next day the hours are 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Cannon drills will start and close the hours and drills will also be held during the day.

Other events held will be a bullwhip contest, cooking contest, 1840's kids games, primitive bow shoot, a kid's tomahawk throw, a skillet throw and music.

In addition, there will be a 5K run/walk and kids fun run starting at 7:30 a.m. Saturday at the community center and a three-piece chicken dinner by Mike Reicks, which includes broasted potatoes, beans, bar and milk on Friday from 4:30 to 7 p.m. at the center.

There is no admission charge and free parking, with a bus carrying people from the community center parking lot — where the Iowa History 101 Mobile Museum will be on site both Saturday and Sunday — to the fort.

Turkey Valley to dedicate Booster Club's latest addition

New concession stand part of a three-phase capital campaign project; AD says it shows 'great support' Trojans have

BY KELLY TERPSTRA

sports@nhtrib.com

Turkey Valley's new concession stand is a hit.

Generous donations and hard work by the Turkey Valley Athletic Booster Club were able to help raise money to construct a $250,000 dual-use concession stand that features a patio with several tables and an excellent view of the football field.

The new building also features bathrooms — which replaced the porta-potties that spectators attending football or baseball games utilized prior to construction of the ADA-compliant lavatories.

The brand, spanking new concession stand — which is located just past the northwest corner of the football field and situated behind home plate of the baseball diamond — was first operational during TV's home-opening football contest against Kee High a few weeks ago.

There will be a ribbon-cutting ceremony Friday night before the start of Turkey Valley's football game with Clarksville to officially christen the facility that is part of a three-phase project spearheaded by the TV Booster Club.

"This new concession stand is a great addition to the Turkey Valley facilities and community as a whole. It's a great representation of the great things happening at Turkey Valley, the hard work that's done at Turkey Valley, and the outstanding support this community has for the kids, the school, and its programs," said TV Athletic Director Anthony Troyna.

Two-thirds of that three-phase project are now complete. The football bleachers were completed in 2019 and then the second part of the project undertaken by the capital campaign committee and project manager Aaron Schmidt was the baseball/football concession stand. The final part of the project will be to upgrade the softball concession stand.

Schmidt said he's hoping to be able to get that finished next year before the start of play in the summer.

The Turkey Valley School District organized a $650,000 capital campaign a few years back to also add a greenhouse that was finished last December. The greenhouse has been beneficial for ag education and the FFA program at TV.

The plan to erect the baseball/football concession stand got off the ground right before the COVID-19 pandemic essentially shut down the United States. That effort to raise funds stalled, but TV boosters continued collecting money to help facilitate the completion of the three-pronged project.

"We were in the midst of going through the process of the football/baseball concession stand when COVID hit. Prices went through the roof, so we kind of had to put that on hold and wait awhile," said Schmidt.

Although it's been a long time coming for TV athletic supporters or fans to see the finished product of the concession stand — it's been well worth it according to Schmidt.

"We're appreciative of the community support," said Schmidt. "It worked out very well."

TV's dream of a new concession stand has come to fruition — thanks in large part to the tireless work of the school, the booster club and community members.

"Throughout this project it takes a great relationship and partnership between Turkey Valley Schools and the Turkey Valley Athletic Boosters (TVAB) — to go along with that amazing support from the community to help make this project a reality," Troyna added.

There is a long concrete walk-way that leads up to the concession area. The building has a men's and women's restrooms, as well as two storage rooms, a utility room and a crow's nest for use during baseball games.

"Having bathrooms attached is obviously really nice! The patio overlooking the football field is my favorite part. It's really a great view of the field. Through our first couple home games it has been a really popular place where fans have enjoyed their food and the game. Inside the concession stand it is very functional for the workers with great space and storage for everything needed in the concession stand," said Troyna.

Softball complex improvements were finished a couple years ago and came at a cost of $50,000. The football bleachers' price tag was $105,000.

Fundraising is still ongoing for the projects and Schmidt said interested parties that want to help donate can send checks or money to the Turkey Valley Community School District, attention capital campaign.

"We are still taking donations and we are still fundraising," said Schmidt. "Some people were waiting to see the brick and mortar part of the building (concession stand) get done before they donated. So now that's done, I'm hoping they will be able to."

Schmidt said the TV capital campaign has raised almost $280,000.

City Council holds off on water main, annexation discussion about removing the light while a New Hampton resident who works in an office near the intersection expressed opposition to removing the lights.

“I’ve heard both sides of the fence,” Councilman Joe Denner said. “Some say yeah great; others [say] don’t do that.”

Community Insurance of Iowa agent Tony Trower definitely was in the don’t-do-that camp.

“Throughout the day — morning and night — No. 1, the school traffic is pretty busy through there,” he said. “We have a lot of kids walk in front of our office so I’m sure they use that intersection to cross. Could they go a block over and cross over at Main? Yes. Will they? Probably not because that’s the path they’ve been taking.”

He also said that traffic is heavier on that stretch of Linn than people believe.

“Just trying to get out of our office or Carquest is about impossible when that light was flashing yellow,” Trower said. “I know there’s a lot of people who can turn off of Main and just shoot out of town, but the cross traffic is not getting across.”

New Hampton Public Director Casey Mai, too, felt the city needed more information and more feedback before making a decision.

“Has anyone had a conversation with the school or [Superintendent] Jay Jurrens to get their thoughts? I think that would be one of the most important ones to reach out to,” Mai said.

Council members agreed and tabled the issue until city officials talk to Jurrens.

Council members on Monday also received more information about a request from the Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors to extend a city water main to the Heritage Center, which is now home to

City will ‘cover’ latest increase in garbage prices

Here’s the bad news: The city’s garbage rates are going up, but the good news, at least for city residents, is that they won’t see the rate hikes that the parent company of Jendro Sanitation say will begin on Oct. 1.

That’s because the City Council on Monday agreed to “absorb” the rate hike by using the city’s Solid Waste Fund to pay for the increase.

In a letter dated Sept. 5, LJP Waste Solutions, which owns Jendro Sanitation, notified City Clerk Karen Clemens that it would be increasing its monthly invoice to the city by 8.4 percent for two reasons — continuing inflation and an added cost that the Floyd Mitchell County Landfill is adding to its dumping fees.

Under the contract the city has with Jendro Sanitation, the company can increase rates each year by the same percentage that the Consumer Price Index (CPU) increases. During the past 12 months, according to the letter, the CPU increased by 5.9 percent.

In addition, Jendro has been notified by the landfill that it will pay $2 more a ton for dumping fees, and Jendro officials say that will result in a 2.5 percent increase.

Clemens asked council members if they wanted to pass on the increase to city residents or if they wanted to use funds from the Solid Waste Fund like council members did a year ago when garbage costs increased.

“We do have room to absorb the cost again,” she said. “That fund is in a solid position. We have $93,000 and then some in there, but it’s up to you.”

Council members chose to absorb the costs — as City Council member Cory McDonald put it, the fund is “taxpayer money and we don’t need to have it just sitting there” — with a unanimous vote.

— By Bob Fenske

a number of county and state offices as well as a number of non-profit organizations.

Although the county would pay for the extension, council members held off on a decision for several reasons — including finding out more information on what size of a water line should be installed and the possibility that the city should consider annexing the areas in which it would extend city services.

City Attorney Todd Prichard shared information about the process of “forced annexation,” one that, as Clemens put it, would be a “lengthy one.”

With two council members — Kalista Porath and Mindy Humpal — absent from Monday night’s meeting, Councilman Cory

McDonald asked his fellow council members to delay the discussion.

“Because the annexation being a big, lengthy process,” McDonald said, “and the ramifications of any decisions being made will potentially be something they’ll have to deal with the next two years of their term,” he said, “I think it would be smart of us to take this.”

The City Council eventually decided to hold a Committee as a Whole meeting this coming Wednesday to discuss the issue, and although council members won’t be able to make any decisions on the water main during what amounts to a work session, it could have a final decision at its Oct. 2 meeting.

St. Lucas museum to hold Oktoberfest celebration Sept. 30

On Saturday, Sept. 30, from 4 to 7 p.m., the St. Lucia Court 233 of 1891 Financial Life is sponsoring an Oktoberfest meal at the German American Museum in St. Lucas.

The drive-through pick-up meal includes the famous Polashek’s German style brats, buns, sauerkraut, potato salad, baked beans and scotcheroos.

The meals are available for curbside pick up at the German American Museum at 212 East Main Street, St. Lucas. Suggested donation is $12 per meal.

Janet Bodensteiner, Kathryn Kuennen and Helen Pinter are the core team preparing this traditional Oktoberfest event.

We are very excited to bring you a very tasty, wholesome traditional style meal for the Oktoberfest,” Bodensteiner said.

Kuennen added that “we are making the deserts ourselves. We think you will really like the scotcheroos.”

Matching funds from the 1891 Financial Life — formerly the National Catholic Society of Foresters (NCSF) — are helping with the museum roof replacement.

The St. Lucas Historical Society that operates the German American Museum, Library and Family History Center greatly appreciates the kind support it receives from area residents.

New-Horizons-Chamber gearing up for next week’s New Hampton Homecoming Parade

There will be plenty of royalty on display next week during the New Hampton Homecoming Parade; in fact, New Horizons-Chamber has had to add a trailer to the lineup.

The chamber is putting on this year’s parade that will take place a week from today on Thursday, Sept. 28. The parade will begin at 6 p.m. on Main Street near the high school and run through the downtown area.

New Horizons-Chamber Director Liz Zweibohmer said this week that a new addition to the parade — a float with former homecoming kings and queens — has generated a healthy dose of interest.

“We were hoping for a few,” she said, “and now we’re at the point, where we have so many, we’re going to need a second trailer. We think that’s awesome. And we’ll take more, too.”

Former royalty who want to take part in the parade should call the chamber at 641-394-2021, and Zweibohmer also reminded businesses and organizations that the “soft” parade entry deadline is this Friday. The entry fee is $10.

Dubuque archdiocese to install bishop next month

Zinkula says he's 'humbled and overjoyed' to return home as archbishop of Archdiocese of Dubuque

Pope Francis has appointed Most Reverend Thomas R. Zinkula, Bishop of Davenport, as Archbishop of Dubuque. Archbishop-elect Zinkula is scheduled to be installed as the archdiocese's 11th archbishop on Wednesday, October 18.

The Most Rev. Richard E. Pates, Bishop Emeritus of Des Moines, has served as Apostolic Administrator of the archdiocese since April 4 and will continue in that role until Archbishop-elect Zinkula's installation.

Archbishop-elect Zinkula was born April 19, 1957 and grew up on a farm outside of Mt. Vernon, Iowa. He graduated from Cornell College in Mt. Vernon with an undergraduate degree in mathematics, economics and business. He received his law degree from the University of Iowa College of Law in 1983. He attended Catholic University in Washington, DC, where he earned a master's degree in theology in 1990 and was ordained a priest of the Archdiocese of Dubuque the same year. In 1998, he received a licentiate in Canon Law from St. Paul's University, Ottawa, Canada. Pope Francis appointed him Bishop of Davenport on April 19, 2017.

Bishop Richard Pates, Apostolic Administrator of the Archdiocese took note, "Pope Francis has blessed the Archdiocese of Dubuque with a native son. Archbishop Zinkula is very beloved in the archdiocesan community and will exercise service and leadership that will draw Church members closer in their vital mission."

Archbishop-elect Zinkula's past archdiocesan assignments saw him serving faith communities in Dubuque, Rickardsville, Balltown, Sherrill, Holy Cross, Luxemburg, and Cedar Rapids. He also served as judge and judicial vicar for the Archdiocesan Metropolitan Tribunal, and rector for St. Pius X Seminary in Dubuque.

Archbishop-elect Zinkula reflected upon his appointment to Dubuque in a statement, saying, "Although I will be sad to leave the Diocese of Davenport in a couple of months, where the diocesan community taught me how to be a bishop and we walked together on our common faith journey, I am humbled and overjoyed to receive the appointment to return to my home diocese to serve as the eleventh archbishop of the Archdiocese of Dubuque."

Consider Financial Gifts for Grandchildren

If you have grandchildren, you probably enjoy spending time with them and watching them grow. And to help them achieve a bright future, you might like to make some financial gifts — but which ones?

You have several options. Let's look at three of them:

- 529 plans — When you invest in a 529 education savings plan, any earnings growth is distributed federally tax free, as long as withdrawals are used for qualified education expenses. (Withdrawals used for expenses other than qualified education expenses may be subject to federal and state taxes, plus a 10% penalty.) And in-state residents who invest in their home state's 529 plan may also receive state tax incentives. A 529 plan can be used for college, approved trade school programs, qualified student loan repayments and even some K-12 costs. And if the grandchild you've named as a beneficiary of a 529 plan decides to forego further education, you can generally switch beneficiaries to another immediate family member. You can contribute up to $17,000 in 2023, per grandchild, to a 529 plan without incurring gift taxes. Furthermore, as of the 2024-25 school year, grandparent-owned 529 plans won't affect financial aid eligibility. However, tax issues for 529 plans can be complex, so consult with your tax advisor about your situation.

- Roth IRA — Any earnings growth in a Roth IRA is distributed tax free, provided the owner is at least 59½ and has had the account at least five years. If your grandchildren earn money from babysitting or a part-time job, they can open a Roth IRA with the help of a parent or other adult. You could "match" your grandchildren's contributions, possibly on a dollar-for-dollar basis, to provide them with an incentive for saving. In fact, you could fully fund the Roth IRA, up to the annual contribution limit, which is $6,500 or the amount of your grandchild's taxable compensation, whichever is less. (The annual limit is $7,500 for those 50 or older.) And your grandchildren can withdraw the contributions — not the earnings — at any time to pay for college or anything else.

- Custodial account — You can open a custodial account, also known as an UGMA or UTMA account, for a grandchild, and fund it with most types of investments: stocks, mutual funds, bonds and so on. For that reason, it can be a good way to teach grandchildren about the nature of investing — risks, returns and the value of holding investments for the long term. Plus, there's an initial tax benefit to custodial accounts: The first $1,250 of your grandchild's investment income (dividends, interest, capital gains) is tax free, and the next $1,250 is taxed at the child's rate. Anything above that amount is taxed at the parents' marginal tax rate. However, once your grandchildren reach the age of termination — usually 18 or 21, depending on where they live — they take control of the account and can do whatever they choose with the money. So, while a custodial account could be considered as a funding source for college, it might alternatively serve as a gift that could eventually enable your grandchild to fulfill another desire or goal — take an overseas trip, pay for a car or maybe even start on a path to entrepreneurship. Making financial gifts to your grandchildren can be rewarding — for them and for you. So, consider the possibilities carefully and put your generosity to work.

Slowly but surely, Kindness Square takes shape

Work continues on Kindness Square, the new inclusive park that is being built in New Hampton's Runion Park, and the building that will house the park's bathrooms and a storage area has gone up in recent weeks. "We're making progress, slowly but surely," New Hampton Parks and Recreation Director Tara Hackman. The park may be ready to use later this fall, but officials are planning to hold the grand opening for Kindness Square next spring.

Board puts 'wraps' on two big summer projects

SCHOOL BOARD: FROM 1

• Bus drivers will move from $30 for subbing on either a morning or afternoon route to $35.

The action came in the same meeting in which board members approved spending about $120,000 over the next six years to purchase new high school band instruments.

Band Director Justin Adam told the board that his proposal was similar to one that the middle school band undertook several years ago and that spreading the costs over six years would make it more manageable.

In other news from Monday's meeting:

- During the public comment period of the board meeting, New Hampton cross country coach Jamie Ohrt and two residents — Shirley Gessner and Jennifer Monteith — urged the board to reconsider a policy when it comes to assistant coaches in the district.

Currently, the board will consider hiring an assistant coach if a sport has more than 30 participants, and earlier in the meeting, the board approved hiring Bob Vorwald as an assistant coach because this year's Chickasaw cross country team has reached that threshold.

But Ohrt, Gessner and Monteith all said that the policy was not only confusing because some sports have less than 30 participants and have assistant coaches in place but it also causes safety concerns for a sport like cross country.

- Board members also put the wraps on two of the district's biggest summer projects — approving final payments for both the new high school parking lot and the work done on the elementary school walls this past summer.

Jurrens said both projects came in under budget — pointing out that the elementary school masonry work, which was budgeted at $150,000, cost about $135,000 and the parking lot project still has almost $33,000 of its "contingency" funding remaining.

The superintendent did recommend that the district "retain" the parking lot contingency for "any issues that may come up," but he also said he was pleased with how the lot turned out.

"It looks great," he said, "and we've had a lot of people who have come to our events tell us that they really appreciate it."

Mobile Iowa history museum to be in Fort Atkinson this weekend

The State Historical Society of Iowa's mobile museum is hitting the road again as it continues its journey to all 99 Iowa counties.

Housed in a custom-built Winnebago, the 300-square-foot museum on wheels launched in 2017 and completed its first 99-county tour in 2019, making 175 stops along the way and attracting nearly 65,000 visitors, including 11,400 students. The current exhibition, "Iowa History 101: Iowa's People & Places," debuted in 2021 and will continue its 99-county journey through the end of this year.

The public is invited to take free self-guided tours of the mobile museum during the Fort Atkinson Rendezvous. The mobile museum will be located at the Fort Atkinson Community Center on Friday from noon to 7 p.m., Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The exhibition shares stories from Iowa's past with an eclectic array of artifacts from the State Historical Museum of Iowa's permanent collection, plus a video narrated by former WOI-TV host Jackie Schmilen.

City grappling with how to pay for new wastewater treatment plant

WASTEWATER: FROM 1

In 2016, the city was notified by the Iowa Department of Natural Resources that New Hampton would have to comply with nutrient reduction strategy mandates by 2036, and city officials learned then that to build a new plant would cost approximately $15 million. But the city had little money to move forward on constructing a new plant. Six years later, the city again asked an engineer to come up with a cost for a new plant and the price tag is now $27.4 million.

"People can say we have 13 years, but really we don't. It's not like you build one of these things overnight," he said, "and do we really want to wait until the last minute? Look at how much the cost has gone up. I don't even want to think about how much it would cost if we waited until 2030, 2031 or 2032."

Neither do city leaders, which is why they called last week's meeting and did their best to get the word out to both residents and New Hampton's plethora of industries.

TriMark, ATEK Metal Technologies and Deb El Foods all had representatives at the meeting, and they shared not only their concerns but how they're "pre-treating" wastewater that goes through their plants.

The council also heard from Piper Sandler representative Travis Squires, who shared thoughts on how the city could potentially pay to bill for a new plant, and the bottom line is this: Water and sewer rates will have to go up.

Mai said the city would in all likelihood work to borrow the money from a state revolving loan fund, which right now has a 2 percent interest rate but that rate looks like it may go up.

"There's not a lot of grant funding out there," Mai said, "and there's a lot of communities out there in the same boat we're in. ... The bottom line is that even if there were grants out there, the first thing they're looking for is what you're contributing. We've never put money away ... there's not much in reserves. The only way to raise that kind of money is to raise rates."

Mai said Squires presented several options on raising rates — including raising rates equally for all users, increasing rates to individuals only, increasing rates for industry only and increasing rates by different percentages for residential, commercial and industry.

The public works director said that currently the average water and sewer bill in New Hampton is between $35 and $45 a month, much lower than the state average, which is somewhere between $80 and $100.

But he understands the angst that water and sewer uses will have when they hear that the city may have to raise rates by around 25 percent annually for the next five years.

"That brings our average bill to where the state average is right now," he said, "and obviously, that state average is going to go up over the next five, six years, too, so we'll probably be under the state average then, too. But I get it, I get that people are going to say what's going on?"

Council members agreed, but they also pointed out that they will have to make tough decisions soon when it comes to the wastewater treatment plant.

"The biggest thing that came out of the meeting Wednesday was that the council knows that educating residents is going to be critical," City Clerk Karen Clemens said. "They want people to know they're not doing this because they want to, but because they have to."

Council members didn't make any decisions during the work session, but Mai said his is that a facility plan can now be submitted to the DNR by the end of the year. Once that plan is approved, engineers can put together full-blown civil plans so that bids can be taken in 2025 and construction on the new plant — which will be located next to the current plant — could begin as early as in 2026.

"It's going to take two or three years to get it built," he said, "and you can't tear out the old plant or components of the existing until the new one is built. Obviously, if you want to flush a toilet, you need a plant in operation. ... I know this is going to be a tough one decision, but honestly, the city is at a point where we don't have much of a choice. We've got to keep moving forward on this or it will only cost us more in the end."

City, school candidates need to have nominating papers in today

Residents who want their names on the ballot for the Nov. 7 election don't have much time to get their nominating papers filed.

In fact, they're down to a matter of hours as the deadline to file papers for the upcoming municipal and school elections is today (Thursday) at 5 p.m.

The city of New Hampton will have six offices on the ballot as the terms of Mayor Bobby Schwickerath; City Council members Cory McDonald, Joe Denner and Jason Speltz; and Park Board members Andrea Rochford and Perry Laures are all coming to an end.

As of Tuesday, the only nomination papers that had been filed with the City Clerk's Office are from Melanie Schmitt for the mayoral race, although Schwickerath has indicated that he will run for a second term.

Both Denner and Speltz have also indicated that they plan to seek another term on the council while both Laures and Rochford have said they will not be running again for the Park Board.

New Hampton also has two School Board seats up for election and both incumbents — Jay Matthews and Nate Schwickerath — have said they plan on filing papers to run for a second term.

Dirk Firman, 66

Dirk R Firman of Nashua — a man known for his selflessness, incredible sense of humor and huge heart — passed away at 66 years old on Saturday, Sept. 9, 2023.

A celebration of life will be held from 4 to 8 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 22, 2023, at Dirk's favorite place, his backyard.

Dirk was born Sept. 19, 1956, in Charles City. He was the youngest son of Bruce and Margery (Scheu) Firman.

Dirk graduated from Nashua High School with the Class of 1975. Throughout high school, he worked at Shep's Standard Service Station. After graduation, he attended Rochester Community and Technical College. Dirk also worked for KLEU Radio Station in Waterloo and was a DJ at the Poison Apple in Cedar Falls.

Dirk always fondly told the story of how he met the love of his life, Jamise E Abrams; they locked eyes from across the room while The Beatles' song “I Saw You Standing There” played in the background. They were inseparable ever since, making things official on Oct. 26, 1985, with a beautiful wedding ceremony on a houseboat on the Mississippi River. They were later blessed with two daughters, Tehrene and Karlissa.

In 1985, Dirk and Jamise moved to Rochester, Minnesota, where they started their business TransVideo Teleproductions together. In 1990, they moved back to Nashua to raise their girls as they continued running their business.

Dirk adored his family and always made sure they knew it. He loved movie nights with his girls, tending to his tomato plants and garden, backyard bonfires with his wife, spending time with friends, jet skiing and boating, wearing his endless collection of funky shirts and Crocs, sitting in his favorite chair with his cat by his side (Kitty Kat), listening to his favorite records, cooking up steak dinners with Harrington Sweetcorn and keeping up with the latest technology and gadgets.

Dirk was truly one-of-a-kind. To know him was to love him. He noticed the little things that make life so beautiful and always took the time to appreciate them. He was always thinking of others and never passed up the chance to lend a helping hand whenever someone was in need. He was sunshine in human form and you always felt better after being in his presence. He was Cool with a capital C. The world won't be the same without him in it.

Dirk is survived by his wife of 38 years, Janise Firman of Nashua; two daughters, Tehrene (Clancy) Quinn of Asheville, North Carolina, and Karlissa (Beau) Westpfahl of Marion; his brother Steve (Jean) Firman of Cedar Falls; and many amazing nieces, nephews and grandpupies.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Bruce and Margery Firman.

In lieu of flowers, donations to the family would be humbly appreciated beyond belief. They can be directed to Janise Firman to assist with expenses.

They loved to entertain and were part of a large bridge club in New Hampton and helped with many parties at the New Hampton Golf and Country Club. In the early 1980's, they started to go to Arizona in the winter months where Amy and Bryon lived. Patricia loved nice clothes and could outshop anyone who tried to challenge her.

She loved her family deeply. She attended all of her seven grandchildren's high school graduations in Iowa and Arizona and six grandchildren's weddings that have taken place in Iowa, California and Arizona. Her Catholic faith was a mainstay for her. She was extremely proud of the fact that a baptismal gown that was made by her mother, Olivette Roark, in 1951 has been worn by all 21 of her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

In the years before Gerald's death in May 2014, Patricia was a caregiver for him. After moving from New Hampton to Clear Lake 2015, Patricia then moved to La Siena Senior Living in Phoenix in 2019.

Surviving Patricia are two sons, Dr. Patrick (Kathy) Carney of Clear Lake, and Bryon (Danna) Carney of Phoenix; one daughter, Amy (Dean) Sandell of Chandler, Arizona; seven grandchildren, Megan (Brian) Blackwood, Nate Carney, Chris (Nikki) Carney, Carly (Jared) Lepore, Jeff (Marissa) Sandell, Bronte Carney, and Peyton (Ben) Disbrow; 11 great-grandchildren, Hannah and Stella Blackwood, Hudson, Finn and Laken Carney, Colton, Harper and Chase Carney, Adalyne and Camille Lepore, and Max Sandell along with Jacob and Alex Buggie. Legal Notice - Legal NoticeCity of Alta Vista Council Meeting Monday, September 11, 2023

The regular meeting for the City Council of Alta Vista convened on Monday, September 11, 2023, at 6:00 pm with the following Council members present: Dean White, Rick Heying, Adam Roethler, Samantha Slick, and Amy Laures in the Alta Vista City Hall. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Kevin Crooks.

A agenda was discussed. White made the motion, seconded by Slick to approve the agenda. All ayes. Motion carried.

August 14, 2023 regular meeting minutes were discussed. Laures made the motion, seconded by Heying to approve the August 14, 2023 regular meeting minutes. All ayes. Motion carried.

Visitor concerns were discussed. Wanda Folkers was present and discussed the weeds on her neighbor's property. A letter has been sent to renter, a letter will now be sent to owner. Kayla Pride discussed people living in an RV on a property and a potential outdoor shower being used. Clerk will contact Emergency Management Director Jeff Bernatz on what can be done.

Library was discussed.

Fire Department was discussed. Chief Larry Laures gave an update on the utility truck.

Fences were discussed. Laures made the motion, seconded by Heying to open the public hearing for the fence variance for 208 E Wilson St at 6:14 pm. All ayes. Motion carried. Clerk read a letters from Tom Heying and Bill Elkwall, both of whom are not in favor of the fence variance due to lack of space to access their garages and concern over snow removal. Clerk read a letter from Dan Mahoney stating that the fence rule in the ordinance should be followed. Mike and Emily Nehl were present and discussed the difficulty it would cause Dale to remove snow from the alley and that the alley would be very narrow if there was an abundance of snow. Kayla Pride and Lori Johnson stated that they had no issues with the variance as it would not affect them. Councilmember Slick, who's fence variance is being discussed, informed the council that rather than a fence, survey markers would be used and stated that no variance is needed for survey markers. Mike and Emily Nehl were concerned on how far apart these markers would be and if they were ground level or taller and who'd be responsible if a car slid on ice in the alley and punctured a tire. Slick stated the markers will go the length of her property, on the property line, between 6 and 10 feet apart and are not ground level, but a couple feet tall, and that she would be responsible if a tire was punctured. After all comments were read and heard, Heying made the motion, seconded by White to close the public hearing for the fence variance on 208 S White Ave at 6:28 pm. All ayes. Motion carried. After discussion, there is no longer a fence, so approval/rejection is no longer needed. Fence on the city alley was discussed. Todd and Deb Koester sent a couple documents for the council to view. The documents showed the width of the alley and how far their garage is on the alley, showed that a LP truck could get in the back of the property with the alley blocked off due to the new driveway Koester's installed, a letter from Stacyville LP stating how much easier it is to fill the lp tanks with the new driveway, the concern of people using the alley irresponsibly. Roethler will speak to Koester's to see what can be done. White made the motion, seconded by Roethler to table this issue until the October meeting.

S White Avenue and W Weber Street project was discussed. Roman Lensing sent a Form of Agreement for Professional Engineering Services from Erdman Engineering. The total design cost will be $144,000.00 with the City being responsible for 60% of that. This amount would be due in 12 to 18 months.

Street Finance Report was discussed. Resolution 2023-9-7 approving the FY 2023 Street Finance Report was read. White made the motion, seconded by Heying to approve Resolution 2023-9-7. Roll call vote. Ayes: Slick, Laures, Roethler, Heying, White. Nays: none. Motion carried.

CD's were discussed. Clerk presented rates from local banks. Resolution

Game was great; family time was better

To say last week was strange for me would be an understatement.

Spent several hours in the emergency room on Monday and I got to know my little home office very well the rest of the week.

Put it this way, I am not made for full-time working from home.

But by Friday night, I was back to normal, and yes, you are welcome, even encouraged, to insert the joke here about me and normalcy.

Decision time had arrived as I made my way home from the New Hampton-Osage football game. Play it safe, rest up and spend a quiet weekend at home or get in a car and drive 7 hours and 12 minutes to Cape Girardeau, Missouri, and see my youngest son for the first time in 119 days.

I chose the latter, and as I write this on Sunday in the midst of our seven-hour-plus drive home, I can tell you unequivocally that I have no regrets.

This has not been the football season Noah imagined for himself when he made the decision to leave Colorado's football program after the hiring of Deion Sanders last December. I have strong thoughts on the man called Prime Time and the way he treated the members of his new team when he flew into Boulder. None of those thoughts are good, Colorado's 3-0 start be damned, and if his way is the direction we're going, I will be done with college sports.

As a second-time transfer, though, Noah needs a waiver from the NCAA to play for Southern Illinois. Supposedly, the NCAA responds to waiver requests within 28 days. Noah submitted his request on June 15; he hasn't heard a thing since. My math skills may not be great, but I do know June 15 to now is greater than 28. Way greater than.

What's more is I believe — and yes I know I am not exactly an impartial observer — Noah's waiver request "checks" all the NCAA's boxes.

This, though, isn't an anti-Deion column or rant-against-the-NCAA piece.

Instead, it's a column about family.

I've never gone 119 days without seeing one of my sons, and it felt like an eternity. I get that 119 days is nothing compared to what my grandparents endured when my dad was a young Air Force airman, and I also get that I have the luxury of almost daily phone calls and FaceTime.

But 119 days felt like forever to this dad.

So when Josh and I arrived at the campus of Southeast Missouri State late Saturday afternoon, I wanted to sprint to Houck Stadium and see my boy.

There he was — dressed in black shorts and a Saluki t-shirt — and the first hug in 119 days almost made me cry. Both Josh and I knew it was killing him not to have the pads and helmet on, but he smiled through it and said he'd see us after the game.

And what a game it was. SIU and SEMO is a rivalry game and they play for a "wheel." Don't ask me why; I was a fan, not a reporter, on this night.

Down 15-0 at halftime, Southern staged a rousing comeback, scoring the winning touchdown on a fourth-and-6 play with 11 seconds left to pull out a 26-25 victory.

When the Salukis scored, I exchanged high-fives Josh, hugged a fellow SIU player I had met a few hours before and yelled myself hoarse.

When the game ended, we went even more nuts and suddenly I was engulfed in the tightest bear hug I had ever experienced.

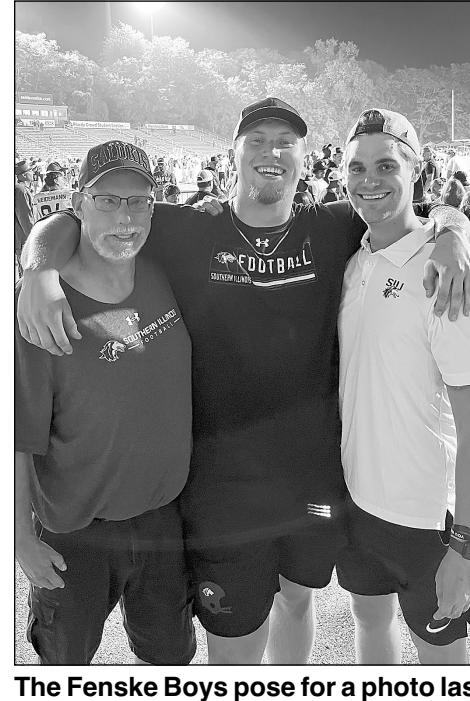

Noah had jumped into the stands and raced up the stairs to celebrate with Josh, his girlfriend Taylor and me. It was one of the most beautiful moments of my life, and before he left, I told him with conviction that I was "incredibly proud" of him.

You see, for the previous four hours, Noah was what I always wanted my boys to be — a consummate teammate. He helped his offensive line mates warm up, he encouraged them throughout the game, he celebrated big plays, hell, he even let a ref have a piece of his mind. OK, maybe that last one wasn't so good, but you get the idea.

After the game, watching him outside the locker room talking with Josh almost brought tears to my eyes.

The win — duh — helped, but to watch my two sons so happy and such good friends realized a dream I've had since my family was completed on that spring morning when Noah arrived into the world.

Josh has found a home as a teacher and coach at Decorah High School, and Noah has found a home as a student-athlete at Southern Illinois.

The Salukis are coached by Nick Hill, whose wife Alicia is the sister of New Hampton resident Heather Rausch.

He is the kind of coach I want for my kids, and when he and the SIU offensive line coach, Dan Clark, told me that "Noah was a part of this," it meant the world to me.

They are stand-up guys who no doubt want to win football games but they also understand that the young men who play for them are more than football players.

The rest of the weekend was, to be honest, a bit of a blur. We drove the hour to Carbondale, stayed up way too late and gave each other the grief we always dish out.

We repeated the cycle for a bit on Sunday, and then Noah headed to the "facility" for a lift and meetings while Josh and I packed up and began our trek home.

It was a quick trip but so worth it, and as the sentimental old fool rides in the passenger seat of a car somewhere west and north of St. Louis, he is happy.

We're going back in two weeks, which is less than — way less than — 119 days.

A person living with HIV can take as little as one pill a day to help them achieve what's called an undetectable viral load.

When a person's viral load is undetectable, it protects their overall health. It also prevents HIV from passing to sexual partners!

struggled most of the night, and after that goal-line stand, New Hampton couldn't get a first down, the Chickasaws were forced to punt and Osage had great field position.

And the roof caved in as the Green Devils lit up the scoreboard with 26 points in the second quarter. Osage quarterback Max Knudsen threw three touchdown passes and the Green Devils also scored on an interception return.

"We knew that their passing game would be good," Frerichs said, and they weren't wrong as Knudsen finished the night 12-for-24 for 200 yards and also rushed for 78 yards on nine carries.

But New Hampton was its own worst enemy at times. The Chickasaws had four turnovers and a punt blocked.

Not until late in the game did New Hampton get on the board, and they did so after Osage, up by 40 points, put its starters back into the game to try to keep a Chickasaw offense with plenty of reserves on the field out of the end zone.

But New Hampton's Ethan Praska, who finished the night with 49 yards on 12 rushes, scored on a 4-yard run to avoid New Hampton's second blanking of the season.

Praska's 49 yards were more than half of New Hampton's 89 yards of total offense.

Defensively, the Chickasaws showed improvement when it came to the ground game, holding an opponent under a 100 yards in a game for the first time in 2023.

Osage finished with 96 yards on 25 rushes, and New Hampton's defense was led by Bryar Usher and Talyn

The hope, of course, is to get that elusive first win this week in Oelwein, a team that suffered a 52-14 thrashing at the hands of previously winless Crestwood.

Oelwein started the season competitively — falling to Class 3A Charles City 26-14 and losing to Jesup 20-6 but has been outscored 112-20 the past two weeks.

New Hampton looks to finish month strong prior to stretch run

BY KELLY TERPSTRA

sports@nhtrib.com

New Hampton senior Megan Pickar couldn't wait for the start of cross country this season. So she ran and kept on running.

"I have really high expectations for myself. I've been training already this summer all season for this," said Pickar.

Then she had to wait for her first official regular season race as a newcomer on Jamie Ohrt's Chickasaws squad.

That's because New Hampton's first three meets – two at Charles City and one at the Wartburg Max in Waverly – were called off because of heat-related conditions.

The wait was well worth it as Pickar – a veteran runner for the NH girls track team this past spring that ran on the Chickasaws' 12th-place 4x800 relay at state – has medaled twice now in two of her first three XC meets of the year.

"Over the years Megan has seen much success during the track season, so cross country was a natural fit. Plus, she's an extremely coachable runner who has been an incredible role model for younger Chickasaws. She may not be a veteran cross country runner, but she definitely carries herself as one through her leadership and competitive nature," said Ohrt.

Pickar is also pulling double duty this fall as she's a member of Jess Geerts' seventh-ranked Chickasaw volleyball squad.

"Megan truly is a breath of fresh air and we're honored to share her with the volleyball team," said Ohrt.

Pickar's work ethic and talent is driving her up the leaderboard in races at a fast pace.

Her first meet was at Luther College in the All-American meet. She finished 103rd among 241 runners in 22:28.

"It was intimidating, but it was a first good meet," smiled Pickar.

Then the Chickasaws travelled to Osage last week Tuesday where Pickar cut 27 seconds off of Luther's clip. She medaled in a 10th-place time of 22:01. She then made it two medals in a row at Independence on Thursday with a 21:12 – almost 49 seconds faster than her second run ever in the sport of cross country.

Pickar's commitment to the team and accomplishments in her first year of running XC have been nothing short of amazing. It will be interesting to see where her times dip to when her Chickasaws will run at the state qualifier in less than a month.

"Last season was my first time doing a mile (in track), so now I'm transitioning to three," said Pickar about the XC meets that are 5K (3.1 miles) in distance.

Pickar is still learning the ropes when it comes to the intricacies of a challenging sport where it's important to know when to put your foot on the gas and when to pull off the throttle and slow down. That often means not exerting all her energy at the start of a race.

"You have to really focus on your breathing and just making sure you're not getting out too fast. You gotta know where you're at in running," Pickar added.

As far as newcomers go, freshman Connor Stumme has made a big splash and continues to impress Ohrt and the Chickasaw coaching staff.

Stumme placed 20th at Osage – which holds its meets at the Mitchell County Nature Center – in a time of 19:24. He ducked under 19 minutes for the first time in his career at Indee. Like Pickar – he ran the best race of his burgeoning career in 18:54. That left him one spot outside the top 15 (last remaining medal spot), but his progress up until this point has Ohrt excited to see what top time Stumme can come up with next.

"Connor has made the transition from middle to high school look extremely easy; however, this transition is not an easy feat for most runners," said Ohrt. "One of Connor's season goals is to qualify for state, which is definitely obtainable if he continues to move up and refuses to be comfortable during any race."

Cross country junior Calyb Zeien improved his time from Osage to Independence by over 21 seconds. He crossed the tape in 24th place at Indee in 19:33. He was 27th at Osage in 19:54.

"Calyb has certainly become a contender this season. He continues to shave off time and attack those hills in true, cross country fashion. I cannot wait to see what he's capable of at districts. I may remind myself to breathe!" said Ohrt.

Tegan Dungey, a sophomore, medaled at Osage in 22:42. That was good for 14th place. She did not run at Independence.

Another first-timer out this year on the varsity level is freshman Kaitlyn Gebel. She placed 22nd in 23:45 at Osage, and 37th at Indee in 23:12. That's a 33-second drop in time for Gebel.

The NH girls placed third overall as a team at Osage with 82 points. The Chickasaws were fifth at Independence with 150 points. The NH boys wound up eighth at Osage and seventh at Indee.

New Hampton ran Tuesday at Waukon and competes at Grundy Center tonight (Thursday).

Trojans drop five-set thriller to NFV

Vrzak, Walz filling in for Balk while she's on maternity leave

BY KELLY TERPSTRA

sports@nhtrib.com

An abacus would have come in handy on Thursday night between the Turkey Valley Trojans and the North Fayette Valley TigerHawks.

The reason?

The Upper Iowa Conference five-set volleyball thriller in Jackson Junction had that many ties knot up the score. That meant one had to make sure their pencil was sharpened or pen didn't run out of ink in trying to keep track of all the stalemates.

That ancient calculating tool – although archaic by today's standard of counting – would have done the trick just fine.

TV and NFV played it to the hilt last week in an Upper Iowa Conference battle that had fans on their feet all night long. The TigerHawks outlasted the Trojans in a what turned into a marathon, two-hour-plus showdown that saw NFV rise up to claim a 22-25, 25-19, 25-22, 22-25 and 15-13 victory.

"They played every point to the end," said assistant TV coach Tammy Vrzak. "Never once did they give up. You gotta remember, we played this type of game Tuesday night."

That the Trojans did against rival South Winneshiek two days prior. The Warriors eclipsed the Trojans in another five-setter – 23-25, 19-25, 25-22, 28-26 and 15-9.

The TV gym was loud on both nights as school spirit was on full display from each competing schools.

As it was to be expected, especially since it was homecoming week for the Turkey Valley spikers – who are led by second-year head coach Shelbie Balk.

"Two of our games this week – those girls were fantastic. They stepped in. They played their game. It could go either way," said Vrzak.

Vrzak, a longtime TV coach in year's past, is helping out Trojan assistant coach Ashley Walz this month because Balk is on maternity leave after giving birth to a baby girl two weeks ago.

"Shelbie was in contact with us talking about what she wanted," said Vrzak. "Fortunately, she trusts Ashley and me having the experience to lead the team and where they need to be. The team's looking forward to her coming back. Ashley's stepping up and doing a nice job."

Turkey Valley topped NFV in

TV opens season at Luther

BY KELLY TERPSTRA

sports@nhtrib.com

In Sarah Bakula's seven seasons as head coach of the Turkey Valley cross country program she can't ever remember having the Luther All-American meet turn into the de facto season opener for her Trojans.

That's exactly what happened on Saturday after early season temperatures that reached into the 90s cancelled TV's three meets to start the 2023 fall campaign.

"We practiced for over a month before we even had a meet," said Bakula.

And what an opener it was for Turkey Valley as it ran in the first competition of the year at Decorah – which featured almost 250 runners in each of the girls and boys varsity races.

"I'm very happy with how everyone ran on Saturday. Would we have had those times two weeks ago if we would have had a meet? Who knows?" said Bakula. "The tough part is having few and far between teammates to run with in practice. It kind of gets monotonous."

Last year's race was a muddy trek around the sprawling course on the campus of Luther College in Decorah in an effort to not get stuck in the wet mess – or slip and fall.

This year's rendition had considerably much better weather, although the temperature did get a tad warm as the meet progressed.

"It was gorgeous weather to run in. It did get a little warm probably by the varsity boys race," said Bakula.

TV senior Russell Nieman – fresh off of playing in the Trojan football game on Thursday night at West Central – placed 155th overall in a time of 19:19.

Hazel Nieman engineered a top-10 finish (24:18) in the JV

three games – 21-11, 15-21 and 15-13 – at the Kepros Tournament in Cresco on Saturday, Sept. 9. The Trojans also lost to South Winnie at the New Hampton Invite earlier this month, 21-11, 21-12.

TV – 2-8 overall and 0-2 in UIC play prior to playing at the Waukon Invite this past Saturday – played well at No. 9 Don Bosco on Monday according to Vrzak. The Dons turned back a game Trojan squad by a score of 25-14, 20-25, 25-14 and 25-19.

"Maici (Weber) did a good job mixing up the sets, utilizing all the hitters. Our back row dug up multiple hits to give us a chance to go back at the Dons. The scores might not show it, but these girls are coming together as a team well!" said Vrzak.

Don Bosco (8-8) topped TV at that same NH Invite – 21-7, 21-11.

NFV raced out to a 7-2 game-one lead, but a 5-0 run by TV – capped by senior Adriana Tiedt's kill – gave the Trojans its first lead of the night, up 15-14. Trojan junior Kinsey Reicks' point up near the net would finish off the TigerHawks in game one.

Game two saw NFV again get down early – 11-6 – but TV climbed back into the fray to force multiple ties. Ella Sieck's let ace fueled a 6-0 run late.

TV let game three slip away after leading 16-7 and 22-16 at different junctures of the match. NFV closed game three out on a 9-0. Sarah Dean's kill ended game three and gave NFV the upperhand, now up 2-1.

Game four was nip-and-tuck the whole way through. The Trojans scored the last three points of round four to break a 22-22 tie. A Weber dink, followed by a Morgan Vsetecka ace and a Layni Schuchhardt winner over the net sent the match into a do-or-die final game.

NFV led 6-1 in game five, but a 5-0 Trojan run tied it at 6-6. A Tiedt kill and then her let ace tied it back up at 11-11. Halle Weber's ace tied it once more at 13-13.

NFV (5-4, 2-0) won the final two points of the night to walk out of the gym with the close victory.

Walz explained the three keys she wants her girls to focus on this fall.

"My two or three main points are you have to have fun, you have to communicate and you have to have confidence out there," said Walz.

Nieman placed 11th at the state qualifier in Cascade as a junior last season. That meant he was one spot away from qualifying for the state meet in Fort Dodge.

"Each year he comes in and he's already better than the year before," said Bakula.

Obviously near the top of Nieman's list is to punch his ticket to Fort Dodge.

"Fingers crossed – we need that goal this year. We obviously have some work to do," Bakula added.

Nieman most recently competed at the Starmont Invite last week Tuesday. Nieman lowered his time to 18:59.

The 50th annual Luther College All-American meet also saw Trojan senior Bode Balk improve his time quite a bit from last year's. Balk placed 144th overall in a time of 21:20 in the JV race. Balk placed 202nd a season ago in a time of 22:43.

"He definitely needs to get in some varsity races," said Bakula. "I could see that in practices that he was definitely a lot better than where he was this time last year."

Balk ran a 21:16 at Starmont, good for 25th place in the JV race.

Trojan freshman Hazel Nieman wound up in 72nd place in the JV girls race at Luther and TV freshman Avery Franzen placed 270th in the JV boys race in 24:28. Franzen finished in 74th place in the Starmont JV race in 23:36. Hazel Nieman engineered a top-10 finish (24:18) in the JV girls race at Starmont.

FARM Safety

Week of September 17-23

Farmers may not always realize it, but they have a dangerous occupation

Tractor accidents, grain entrapment and injuries from ornery livestock are just some of the dangers agricultural workers face every day. In fact, the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health says agriculture is one of the most hazardous industries in the United States.

The agricultural industry averages a rate of 21.4 deaths per 100,000 workers, and each day agricultural workers experienced 100 non-fatal, lost-work-time injuries.

Farms are dangerous places, and while carelessness can and does contribute to many incidents, accidents also take place during routine, seemingly safe activities. These farm safety guidelines can help lower the risk of injuries.

- Know farm equipment. Read and follow all instructions in the equipment operation manuals. In addition, attend local farm safety workshops to learn more about specific equipment and products.
- Conduct routine safety checks. Look around buildings and grounds for obvious hazards, such as fire hazards and hazardous materials, including Harvest scenes like this one may seem serene to the naked eye, but the fact is that farmers work in an industry that is one of the most dangerous in the country.

- Practice cleanliness. Maintain clean and neat work areas with tools stored properly and out of the way after use.
- Be mindful of your clothing and hair. Many accidents involve a power take-off system, or PTO, which is a common component of large rotary mowers, tractors and forage choppers. Clothing can easily get caught in an engaged but unguarded PTO stub. It's easy for laces or coveralls to become wrapped around a spinning stub shaft. The PTO driveline and other protrusion points also can be dangerous if people do not pay attention.

- Use rollover protection structures. ROPS can be used on tractors and other equipment to prevent injuries. In addition, wear seat belts and employ other safety equipment as advised.
- Avoid extra passengers. It can be tempting to take the kids for a spin, but do not allow additional passengers to ride on agricultural equipment.
- Exercise caution when handling chemicals. Take extra precautions when handling any chemicals, including pesticides.

- Wear protective gear. Wear appropriate gear and equipment as outlined by NIOSH or the Mine Safety and Health Administration. Make sure the skin, feet, ears, eyes, and hands are protected at all times.

- Employ lock out/tag out control. This is a process where one can work on equipment only after every energy source has been controlled, such as hydraulic, pneumatic, mechanical, and electrical, according to Rural Mutual Insurance Company. Turning off equipment and using certain controls or locks on devices can prevent equipment from restarting before it is safe to do so.

Farm safety should be a priority for owners, their families and employees so that agricultural injuries can be reduced.

Tips on how we can share the roads with farmers

Slow down immediately when you see farm equipment ahead of you on the road. Farm equipment isn't very fast, think 15-20 mph on the road on average perhaps. If you are driving 55 mph, you are covering around 80 feet per second; it won't take very long to be right on top of a slow moving vehicle.

Be patient and wait to safely pass farm equipment. Unsafe passing was one of the primary factors of a lot of motor vehicle accidents that were responded to in recent falls.

Along those same lines, be careful when approaching on-coming farm equipment. Oncoming vehicles might not be as patient as you are and pull out suddenly to pass the farm equipment—right into your path.

Farm equipment often has to make wide turns, so be aware of that and help out by being patient and giving them room to turn.

Since some of the equipment is fairly wide, you may still have to edge out on the other side of the road, further than normal; even though growers are very good at getting over as far as they safely can to let you by. Road shoulders can be notoriously tricky, both in dry and wet weather.

Harvest seems to amplify deer movement both day and night. Watch your speed and scan your surroundings for them as you drive. Like anything else, situational awareness will help reduce risk.

After prolonged drought, farmers are heading into an 'uncertain' harvest

Although growers obviously want to get their corn and soybeans harvested, Northeast Iowa needs rain to help soil moisture profiles heading into next year

BY BOB FENSKY
editor@nhtrib.com

Overheard at the Chickasaw County Courthouse last week: "Now it'll decide to start raining and we won't even be able to get the crops out."

The dissatisfaction in the farmer's voice was dang near palatable, and for good reason, too. It has been a growing season that can be summed up with one word: Frustrating.

Still, as farmers get ready to bring in an "uncertain" crop, an Iowa State University Extension agronomist said that as much as he'd hate to see farmers' harvest plans get delayed by rain, the area desperately needs precipitation.

"Honestly, it's too late to help the corn," Terry Basol said earlier this week, "and even with the soybeans, I'm not sure unless you have a late-planted field on really good soil. But we could use a two-, three-day soaker just to get start building for next year. The drought's bad enough right now that we're not going to say no to any kind of moisture."

The fact is, our little corner of the world hasn't been this dry in 11 years. And the Drought of 2023 is doing everything it can to catch up with the Drought of 2012.

In this week's USDA National Agriculture Statistic Service's Iowa Crop Progress and Condition report, 52 percent of farmland in the Northeast Iowa District, which includes Chickasaw County, is "very short" and 35 percent is "short" of topsoil moisture. One must go back 11 years to find drier conditions at this time of the year as the Sept. 10, 2012, report showed 52 percent of Northeast Iowa farmland was "very short" of moisture and 40 percent was "short."

The U.S. Drought Monitor report released Thursday showed the area of "extreme drought" grew in the past week. All of Chickasaw, Bremer and Floyd counties were classified as being in extreme drought and almost all of Butler County was experiencing the same, according to the report.

Basol said the extremely dry summer, which has continued into September, will undoubtedly affect yields this fall, but the agronomist said it could be worse — in short, it could be 20 years ago.

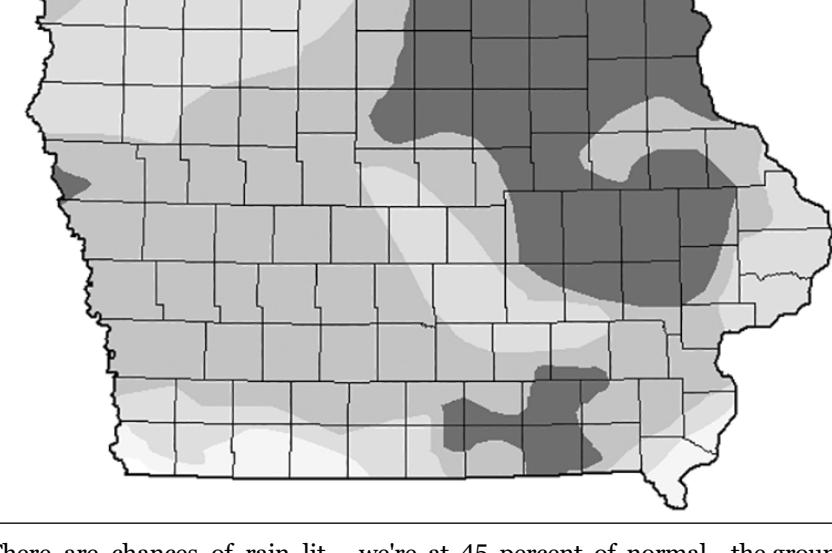

"Look, I'm enough of a realist to know that we're not going to have the yields we have had," he said, "but one thing that continues to amaze me is just how good the genetics have gotten and how well they handle drought. Twenty, 30 years ago, it would have been a disaster, but we've had dry years where I've been amazed at the yields our guys have gotten."

Still, he concedes this is a drought that has reached epic proportions, bringing up the years 2012 and 1988, two "four-letter" years for area farmers.

"We'll know here soon," Basol said, "because I know we have a few spotty areas where you can see fields have been taken out but you'll see a lot more activity, I think, this week into next."

But almost on cue, the weather may not cooperate.

U.S. Drought Monitor Iowa

There are chances of rain littered throughout the forecast through this weekend, but then again, we've heard that before and in 2023, rain in the forecast has rarely become a reality.

"We need it, there's no other way to put it," Basol said. "We've got a ton of catching up to do. We're into September and we're at 45 percent of normal precipitation."

And he said farmers are probably rooting for a wet fall more than they are a snowy winter.

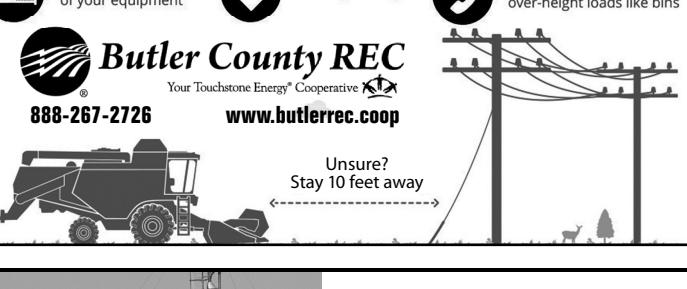

"The problem with snow is that once the ground freezes and that snow falls," he said, "the water's not getting into that soil. And then when it thaws, if the ground is frozen, it runs off. for us than a whole bunch of I'll put it this way, timely rains snow in January and February. this fall are probably a lot better. Snow helps but rain's better."

Go Chickasaws!

Trojans cruise on homecoming

Turkey Valley scores early and often to improve to 3-1 with a 76-25 win over Central Elkader

Kelly Terpstra/Tribune

Turkey Valley's Logan Busta, with blockers Jordan Kriener (27) and Hunter Kruse in tow, gets to the edge for a big gain Friday night.

BY KELLY TERPSTRA

Trumpets sounded, flutes and clarinets produced beautiful harmony and drums set the beat.

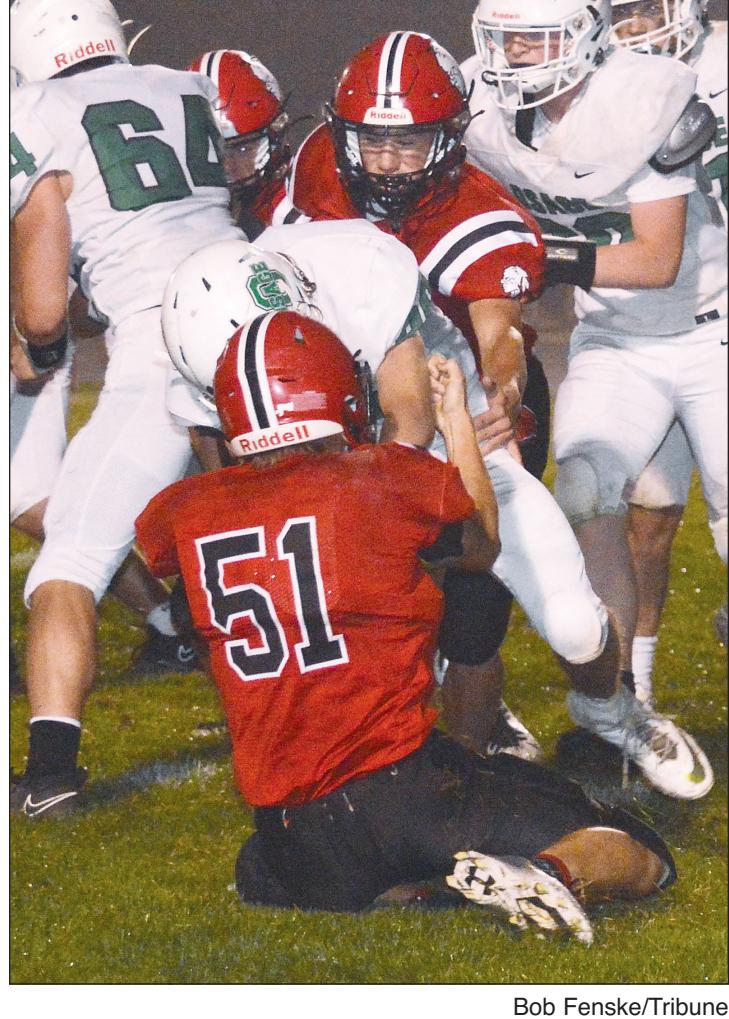

The band played on and on and kept on playing in Jackson Junction.

It was apropos that Turkey Valley's fight song was basically put on repeat mode by the Trojan musical contingent during a homecoming laugher over Central Elkader on Friday night.

School spirit is definitely alive and well at TV as homecoming week was capped off with a resounding football triumph for the Trojans over the winless Warriors (0-4, 0-2) in a 8-Man, District 3 battle.

"You're always nervous because there's so much stuff going on. It's a little different week – they've got rah, rah time all week long," said TV head coach Mark Scott. "They did a good job of refocusing and

Chickasaws hoping better days are ahead

Promising start goes awry for New Hampton; Osage pulls away to secure 40-7 district victory

BY BOB FENSKE

editor@nhtrib.com

The meat grinder portion of the schedule for the New Hampton football team is over, and as ugly as the Chickasaws' 40-7 loss to Osage was on Friday, one central fact remains as New Hampton heads into the second half of the season.

The Chickasaws still control their own destiny.

Yes, they are 0-4 against a quartet of teams that have a combined 15-1 record. Yes, Friday's game against Osage, after a decent first quarter, quickly spun out of control.

But beginning with this Friday's game at winless Oelwein, New Hampton's final four games are against teams who are a combined 3-13. In other words, get on a roll and the Chickasaws can not only make the playoffs but they could even host a first-round playoff game.

As New Hampton coach Scott Frerichs put it, "0-4 is not fun," but he also added that his team won't pack it in.

"We will do our best to keep the team focused," he said. "We continue to work hard in practice and some positive results would really help."

And for a while last Friday night, the Chickasaws got some positive results, especially from their defense.

Twice, Osage drove deep into New Hampton territory, and twice, the Green Devils came up empty. A sack by Ty Robinson and Jaxon Eckley was key in ending the first drive while a host of Chickasaws came up to stop Osage on a fourth down play at the 1-yard-line.

"I really liked the defensive stops we got tonight, especially the one on the goal line," Frerichs said.

But New Hampton's offense

New Hampton's Marissa Cahoy jump serves in an NEIC match versus Decorah at home on Tuesday. The Chickasaws took another big step forward in defense of their league championship with a sweep over the Vikings.

REMAINING PERFECT IN NEIC

SEVENTH-RANKED CHICKASAWS ROLL PAST DECORAH TO IMPROVE TO 3-0 IN LEAGUE PLAY

BY KELLY TERPSTRA

sports@nhtrib.com

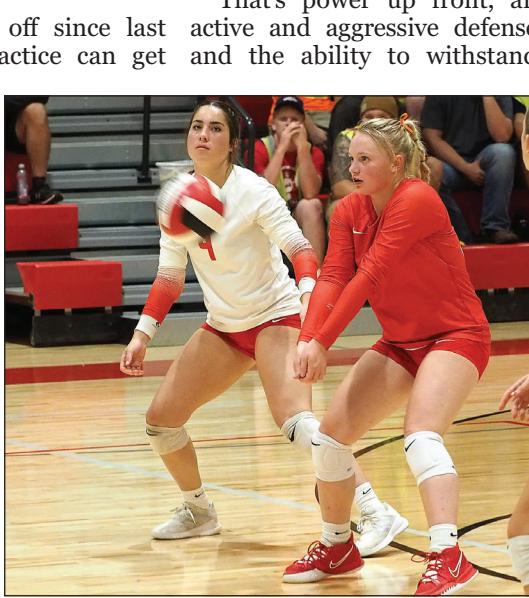

Give the upstart Decorah Vikings credit – they gave the seventh-ranked New Hampton Chickasaws all they could handle in the opening set on Tuesday evening in an NEIC volleyball battle for supremacy.

But one must not forget – this is the defending league champions we're talking about and one of the hottest team in Class 3A.

And yes, that squad wore the white and red of New Hampton.

Jess Geerts' talented team pulled through in that game-one victory and used a 15-0 run to close out the ensuing set to sweep the Vikings by scores of 25-23, 25-8 and 25-21.

The result was a bold step forward for the Chickasaws in defense of their regular season crown and it earned the senior-laden bunch another win in a 2023 campaign that may know no bounds.

Kelly Terpstra/Tribune

a little monotonous. You get out what you put into it," said Geerts. "Hopefully we'll see that from these runs that they put on us."

It looked like it might be more of the same in game two as Decorah came up with two impressive blocks up front to keep pace with NH – down just 9-6. Then Cahoy unloaded a power kill that must have sent some sort of message, because a 10-6 lead by New Hampton quickly turned into a monumental string of points. Sure, Decorah scored two points in a row to close to 10-8, but then the Chickasaws popped the throttle and sped away from the Vikings for a 15-point run. NH senior Jenna Heeren served out that game-two victory during a march to the finish that pretty much exemplified what New Hampton is all about this season.

That's power up front, an active and aggressive defense and the ability to withstand pressure in key moments – and that's just some of the superlatives.
