TIF could be option for sheriff 'holding facility'

Attorney shares information with Board of Supervisors, but city of New Hampton will have to be on board

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

There is a possible path to a remodeled Chickasaw County Sheriff's Office and new 24-hour holding facility that would include the potential of not holding a bond referendum, but to get there, a bond attorney told the Board of Supervisors Monday morning, county leaders will have to jump through a myriad of hoops.

Jason Comisky of Ahlers and Cooney spoke with board members for more than an hour Monday about the potential of the county using tax-increment financing (TIF) funds from a wind turbine project in the county on a proposed project that could cost in the neighborhood of $7 million.

The county had originally thought it would use those TIF funds for road work, but supervisors had asked Comisky if the county could use at least some of that revenue for the project at the sheriff's office.

Comisky told board members they could potentially use the revenue for both roads and the holding facility.

"How do we designate the area? Again you look back at what the code says, right? Slum, blight, economic development or a mixture of those. I think you would have to look at a mixture or a combination of the areas, and we would say that the wind turbines and probably some roads are economic development and potentially, the existing facility — the jail and county sheriff's offices — could be said or make an argument that's a blighted area."

He told board members that when it comes to urban renewal areas, blight can take on many meanings.

New Hampton voters have a mayoral choice

Three candidates seek top spot; two wards have no candidates

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

New Hampton will have a race for mayor in November's municipal and school elections, but the city will also have two City Council seats decided by write-in votes.

Three candidates — incumbent Mayor Bobby Schwickerath, Steve Geerts and Melanie Schmitt — filed papers for the city's mayoral office before the filing period closed Thursday — but not a single candidate filed papers for the Ward 1 and Ward 3 City Council seats.

Chickasaw County's largest city won't be the only one with contested races when voters head to the polls on Nov. 7. Alta Vista will have a mayoral race and both Nashua and Fredericksburg will have contested races for their respective city councils.

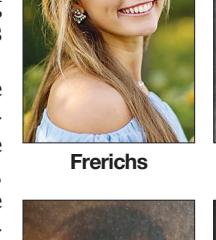

In New Hampton, Schwickerath is seeking a second four-year term as mayor but will have

NEW HAMPTON CELEBRATION KICKS INTO HIGH GEAR WITH PARADE, KING CORONATION TONIGHT; QUEEN TO BE CROWNED FRIDAY

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

New Hampton High School's homecoming kicks into high gear today (Thursday) as the school is marking a week that has a "Let the Games Begin" theme.

The annual event is put on by Student Senate members, who have been working on planning homecoming week since this summer.

"They're the ones that really come up with the ideas and make the decisions," said Melissa Nelson, the art teacher who serves as the homecoming advisor. "I really am more of a facilitator, and this is really their event and I love how they take ownership of it."

She pointed out that scores of students gave up their Sunday afternoon to decorate the school so that students would be immersed in school spirit when they arrived for the first day of the school week.

While a host of events — including dress-up days and pep assemblies — were planned throughout the week — homecoming shifts into high gear this evening, when the parade will be held, beginning at 6 p.m. and be followed by the king

School organizations about more than the money

District needs clubs in place for federal money, but principal sees plenty of benefits for his students

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

New Hampton High School will in all likelihood soon be home to new student-driven organizations, and while the groups are needed for the district to continue to receive some federal funds, the school's principal said the new organization won't be formed just for the dough.

"It is a requirement for all CTE programs to have schools have these in place," Matt Manson said about the district's Career and Technical Education programs, "but there's more involved to this, in my mind, than just the money. It's going to give kids more opportunity for leadership roles and involvement in our school, and those are huge positives for our kids and our school."

Family and consumer science instructor April Schmitt last week talked with the School Board about starting a chapter of Family, Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) in the district. Manson said the school is also exploring starting chapters of Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) and Skills USA, which is an organization for students who have interests in industrial technology.

"Back in the old days, you had organizations like Future Homemakers of America for what we call family and consumer science now and DECA for business," Manson said, "but over time, schools opted out. It's good, again in my mind, that they're coming back. You get the leadership chances, you get the opportunity to take part in competitions ... there are just a ton of positives that come with these."

Manson pointed out that the district has a model to follow with its FFA program that supports the school vocational agriculture program.

The organizations, though, must be in place by the 2024-25 school year for New Hampton to remain eligible for federally-funded Carl Perkins

'Limited' applications for energy assistance to be taken next week

Northeast Iowa Community Action Corporation (NEICAC) will start taking limited applications for the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), beginning on Oct. 1.

Households that can apply on that day must have one of the following conditions — a member who is 60 years old or older, a member who is disabled, a written disconnection notice or a heating or electricity source that is currently disconnected.

All other households must wait until Nov. 1 to apply for the program. Those that can apply on that date will need to provide the following:

- The social security number of each household member, regardless of age, must be provided for that household member to be eligible. At least one household member must provide a social security number documentation for the household itself to be eligible.

- A copy of their most recent heating and electric bill.

- Documentation of gross income for everyone living in the home for the previous 30 calendar days, the most recent 12 months or for the previous calendar year.

Eligibility for participation is based on federal income guidelines. For a one-person household, the guideline is $29,160, and for households with more members, residents should add $10,280 for each additional member.

Chickasaw and Fayette county residents who are interested in the program can call 563-379-8761, Bremer County residents should call 319-352-4532 and Winneshiek County residents should call 563-387-4958.

coronation ceremony that will be held in the old high school gym.

This year's parade is being coordinated by New Horizons-Chamber and a group of Iowa BIG North students whose goal is to get more community involvement into homecoming.

"We know it's a big deal for the students and it is their event," New Horizons-Chamber Director Liz Laures said, "but we also want it to be a big deal to everyone in the community. We want people to know that our businesses and residents are behind our students."

The parade will follow its traditional route, starting at New Hampton High School and making its way down Main Street to Water Avenue. After the parade's completion, the king coronation ceremony will be held, and this year's candidates include Talyn Bohaty, Karson Kolbet, Cael Laures, Gatlin McCumber and Karson Kolbet.

The queen, meanwhile, will be crowned during halftime of Friday night's homecoming game against North Fayette Valley, and candidates include Tori Bearman, Grace Maloy, Hailee Pesek, Taryn Smith and Molly Wegner. Before Friday's game, four new members — Lauren Frerichs, Robert Ives, Cole McDonald and Jason Winter — will be inducted into the Chickasaw Athletic Hall of Fame.

Throughout the week, students and staff are taking part in various dress-up days, beginning with 'Merica Monday. Other days include:

- Tuesday was Summer in Paris: Beach Day.

- Wednesday was Olympic Rings: Color War Day where seniors wore blue, juniors red, sophomores yellow and freshmen green.

- Today is Bolt to the Finish Line Day where students can wear the jerseys of their favorite athletes.

- Friday will be Bring Home the Gold Day, and the school will be filled with students wearing the red and black of New Hampton High.

The week will wrap up on Saturday evening with the annual homecoming dance that will run from 8 to 11 p.m. at the Chickasaw Event Center.

Admission is $3 per student or $5 per couple.

Partnerships key for career technical education growth

CTE: FROM 1

Grant awards, which are designed to improve a school's career and technical education programs.

Manson said those programs are becoming more critical in today's world.

"Not every students needs to go to college or even wants to go to college," he said. "There are good jobs — a lot of good jobs — out there that don't require a college degree, and CTE helps our kids explore those fields. They get to find out what interests them."

Those careers range from manufacturing jobs to working in the hospitality industry to becoming EMTs to learning trades like mechanics and welding.

Manson said one of his goals is to be able to offer "apprenticeship" programs to students. He pointed out that they would still have to meet state requirements in areas like science, math, English, social studies and physical education and district requirements that require students to earn 48 credits to receive a diploma.

"But the idea is to allow those kids a chance to earn credits while they're doing apprenticeships," he said. "It's a priority for me as a principal to find ways to do that."

New Hampton Superintendent Jay Jurrens said last week that opportunities in CTE fields are growing.

"Just look right here in New Hampton," he said. "Ask our manufacturers and they're dying for employees. The more opportunities we give our students, the better."

Manson said that partnerships in the community are also a part of growing career and technical education.

"We're not here to compete with our businesses," he said, "but we're here to partner with them. We've gotten great support from our businesses, our manufacturers, and we want to grow that support."

And he added that this isn't a school issue; it's a community issue.

"We want New Hampton and our towns to grow, and if we don't grow our own," he said, "that's going to be hard to accomplish. I understand people that say but it's not the school I went to. I get that, but the world has changed a lot and we need to change along with it."

A primer on the Lord's Prayer

Prayer Jesus taught us is both beautiful and impactful

Across the various denominations of Christianity, there is one prayer that most practice.

It is a beautiful and impactful prayer that brings unity and togetherness to the body of Christ — it is the prayer taught to us by Jesus Himself which has been termed “The Lord’s Prayer.” This prayer is found in two of the Gospels: Luke and Matthew. In Luke’s Gospel, we find a shortened version.

“Father, hallowed be your name, your kingdom come. Give us each day our daily bread. Forgive us our sins, for we also forgive everyone who sins against us. And lead us not into temptation” (Luke 11:2-4).

Although the version of the Lord’s Prayer is shorter in Luke’s Gospel, the wording in both is nearly identical. It makes sense that Jesus would have taught this prayer on multiple occasions to His disciples and followers. The Lord’s Prayer is the prayer that Jesus taught His followers to say when they asked Him to teach them how to pray. It has been learned by the majority of Christians throughout the history of the church.

What Is the Lord’s Prayer?

In Matthew’s Gospel, during the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus preached about many topics, one of which was how to pray. It is during this portion of Jesus’ sermon that He instructed the people to pray in a certain way.

“This, then, is how you should pray:

‘Our Father in heaven, hallowed be your name, your kingdom come, your will be done, on earth as it is in heaven. Give us today our daily bread.’

And forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors.

And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from the evil one”

(Matthew 6:9-13).

This demonstration of prayer taught by Jesus was simple, yet it shows us how we can come to God in prayer. Jesus was often seen going away from crowds to pray and spend time with the Father. He recognized the significance of having a healthy prayer life, and practiced it regularly. It is no surprise that during His sermon on the mount, He taught the people about prayer.

What Is the Context of the Lord’s Prayer?

Jesus taught the Lord’s prayer during His sermon on the mount. The sermon on the mount is found in Luke 5:7. It is three chapters and is the longest recorded sermon given by Jesus. Scholars believe it would have taken about 10-15 minutes for Jesus to deliver this impactful, life-changing sermon. When Jesus spoke, He taught the Lord’s Prayer to those who were at the sermon on the mount.

Before Jesus began teaching about prayer, He was instructing the people to not practice righteousness and goodness in front of others to get recognition and praise from fellow humans. Rather they should do good and righteous things in secret and God will reward them for their obedience and faithfulness.

“Be careful not to practice your righteousness in front of others to be seen by them. If you do, you will have no reward from your Father in heaven” (Matthew 6:1).

It is in this context that Jesus teaches about three spiritual practices that should be done in secret to the best of our ability.

The first, when His followers give to the needy and poor.

The second, when they pray.

The third, when they fast.

All these spiritual disciplines should be done in obedience to God, not to make ourselves look good in front of others.

When Jesus spoke specifically about prayer, He warned the people to not pray openly to gain attention and to not pray long prayers to impress others.

“And when you pray, do not be like the hypocrites, for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and on the street corners to be seen by others. Truly I tell you, they have received their reward in full. But when you pray, go into your room, close the door and pray to your Father, who is unseen. Then your Father, who sees what is done in secret, will reward you. And when you pray, do not keep on babbling like pagans, for they think they will be heard because of their many words” (Matthew 6:5-7).

Humanity is prone to pride, self-centeredness, and boasting of ourselves. Jesus warned against these inclinations and to instead be righteous for God’s sake and glory. Therefore, He taught them the Lord’s Prayer as an example of how to keep their hearts pure before the Lord in prayer. Jesus desired that His followers pray to the Lord for the purpose of deepening their relationship with God. Prayer is about trust, praise, and relationship. Prayer is about God’s kingdom, not building ourselves up.

Prayer can bring healing, restoration, and forgiveness — but it is all through God’s power, not our own.

nents to include whenever we pray to the Lord. God already knows what is on our hearts and minds (see Matthew 6:8), so when we pray, we don’t have to be eloquent or lengthy in words. God does not want prayer to be intimidating, or a way for us to impress others. Prayer is about trust, praise, and relationship. Prayer is about God’s kingdom, not building ourselves up.

Prayer is about trust, praise, and relationship. Prayer is about God’s kingdom, not building ourselves up.

Prayer can bring healing, restoration, and forgiveness — but it is all through God’s power, not our own.

Why Does Jesus Give Us the Lord’s Prayer?

Jesus was intentional with His time on this earth.

Nothing He did was without meaning and purpose. It is why Christians are taught to live their lives as He did.

In Matthew’s Gospel, Jesus explained that He taught this prayer because He did not want His followers to pray to impress others or gain human praise.

The second, to ask for God’s kingdom to be done here on earth (v. 10). We bear the light of Jesus in a dark world and have been tasked with sharing the Gospel message of hope found in Jesus Christ.

The third, to ask for God’s provision and basic needs to be met (v. 11). God is our provider and takes care of all our needs.

The fourth, to ask God’s forgiveness of our sins just as we forgive others (v. 12). We are a forgiven people whom God has instructed to forgive others.

The fifth, to ask God’s help that we would avoid sin, temptation, and to not be overcome by the enemy (v.13). Truly, there is freedom and victory through Jesus Christ for those who are covered in His saving grace.

These five parts of the Lord’s Prayer are significant components to include whenever we pray to the Lord. God already knows what is on our hearts and minds (see Matthew 6:8), so when we pray, we don’t have to be eloquent or lengthy in words. God does not want prayer to be intimidating, or a way for us to impress others. Prayer is about trust, praise, and relationship. Prayer is about God’s kingdom, not building ourselves up.

Prayer can bring healing, restoration, and forgiveness — but it is all through God’s power, not our own.

What to know about HSAs and FSAs

Paying for health care can be challenging — but are you taking full advantage of all the resources available to you?

You might have access to a Health Savings Account (HSA) or a Flexible Spending Account (FSA), so let's look at both.

An HSA is a personal savings account used to pay health care costs. If you're enrolled in a high-deductible health plan, you also may be eligible to contribute to an HSA. You aren't taxed on the money you put into this account or on the earnings generated from your contributions, as long as withdrawals are used for qualified health care costs such as deductibles, copayments and coinsurance. And there's no "use it or lose it" provision with HSAs — the money stays in your account until you use it. In fact, you can carry your HSA with you all the way until retirement, when you can use the money to pay for qualified expenses that Medicare or Medicare Supplement Insurance (Medigap) doesn't cover. In 2023, you can contribute up to $3,850 to an HSA, or $4,850 if you're 55 or older; for family coverage, you can put in up to $7,750.

It's important to keep in mind that your HSA's tax benefits only apply when your withdrawals are used for qualified health care costs. If you use the money for non-qualified expenses, it is considered taxable income, and you may also face a penalty of 20% on the amount withdrawn. However, once you turn 65, you can use your HSA funds for any purpose without a penalty, though the withdrawals will still count as taxable income.

Now, let's turn to the Flexible Savings Account. An FSA may be available to you if you get health insurance through your employer.

And because you fund your FSA with pretax dollars, your contributions can reduce your taxable income. (In 2023, you can contribute up to $3,050 to an FSA.) Your employer may also choose to contribute to your FSA. Once your account is funded and active, you submit claims with proof of your medical expenses, along with a statement that these expenses aren't covered by your plan, and you can be reimbursed for your costs.

It's helpful to have a good estimate of your yearly medical expenses for a Flexible Savings Account. That's because an FSA generally needs to be spent before the end of the plan year — if you don't use all the money, you can only carry over some of it and any remaining balance is forfeited. (You can carry over up to $610 from 2023 into 2024.)

You can't contribute to an HSA and a traditional FSA in the same year. But if you have an HSA, you might be able to use what's known as a Limited Purpose Flexible Spending Account (LPFSA) for dental and vision expenses. You'll need to check with your plan to see if this option is available.

Managing your health care expenses should be a key part of your overall financial strategy — so consider putting an HSA or FSA to work for you.

County will stay with original plan on EMS building

Board decides not to take 'extra' garage bay for office, living quarters; director takes issue with Bassett mayor's comments

By BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

The Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors will go with the original plan — building a second floor for its living quarters at the Chickasaw County EMS building — after briefly exploring keeping those quarters on one floor by using one of the four garage "bays" for a remodeling project that will bring the ambulance service under one roof.

Board members on Monday voted to approve the drawings that would provide for two floors of office space and living quarters at the building located near the intersection of North Water Avenue and East Prospect Street.

The action came a week after Supervisor Travis Suckow suggested that board members consider extending the office space and living quarters into one of the garage bays so that it would not have two floors.

During that Sept. 18 meeting, Suckow suggested that the county could save money on the remodeling costs by not having a second floor, but on Monday, Chickasaw County EMS Director Joel Knutson presented two arguments against Suckow's proposal.

First, he said it would limit the options of both his service and other county departments if the new office space and living quarters effectively removed one of the garage bays.

"I guess my thought on that is you guys found value in buying a station that had four bays over one that had three bays of that size for $100,000 more," Knutson said.

"My thought process is that we don't know where we're going to end up. We don't know what else could need to be stored up there. At one point, a county building could come out of commission because of damage from a fire or a tornado or whatever. Are we going to need the additional storage space?"

Knutson also said that even though he doesn't have concrete numbers, "with the additional construction costs of having to break up the concrete to run the sewer in that fourth bay instead of having it above where we let gravity take it ... I think we're going to see increased costs with that, too."

Supervisor Jake Hackman conceded that "it might be more money," and fellow board member Scott Cerwinski agreed, especially after visiting the building last week.

"After going down there to see it," he said, "if we can make it work and keep that fourth bay, I think we should."

Board members agreed and voted unanimously to approve the drawings so that they can be sent to potential contractors for bids.

Before Knutson discussed the building issues, he expressed disappointment in the comments made by Bassett Mayor Jim Ashley during the Sept. 18 meeting.

"There was an elected mayor in this county that was at the meeting last week that made a comment publicly that I think we need to address," he said. "The comment made was that El Chapo lives in an 8-by-10 cell for 23 hours a day, and this was pertaining to the EMS building. I certainly hope the board doesn't share that opinion or that mindset, but I at least wanted it brought up again and to make certain that we are not attempting to compare a drug-smuggling warlord to our EMS department."

"To say it mildly, our crews were upset about that. ... I feel it needs to be brought up and if that's the road we're going to go down with this project, I think we're in for a long haul."

Board members want to know TIF revenues before making decision

"I think there were some people looking at that and there was discussion that it isn't an abandoned facility that is sort of falling down and nobody's been there for decades," he said. "That's clearly an example of a blighted building, but that's sort of end of the spectrum, right? ... For urban renewal purposes, blight's a bigger definition than that. ... The definition goes on to say unsafe conditions, insanitary conditions, conditions that endanger property and life."

During the discussion, Comisky said there is a possibility that the county could show that there are conditions in the current Sheriff's Office and jail that meet that broader definition of blight that is in the Iowa Code.

He said the county would need to be able to prove that blight through reports from experts, be it engineers, architects or possibly the state jail inspector reports that have led county leaders to look at replacing or at least remodeling a building that was constructed in the 1950s.

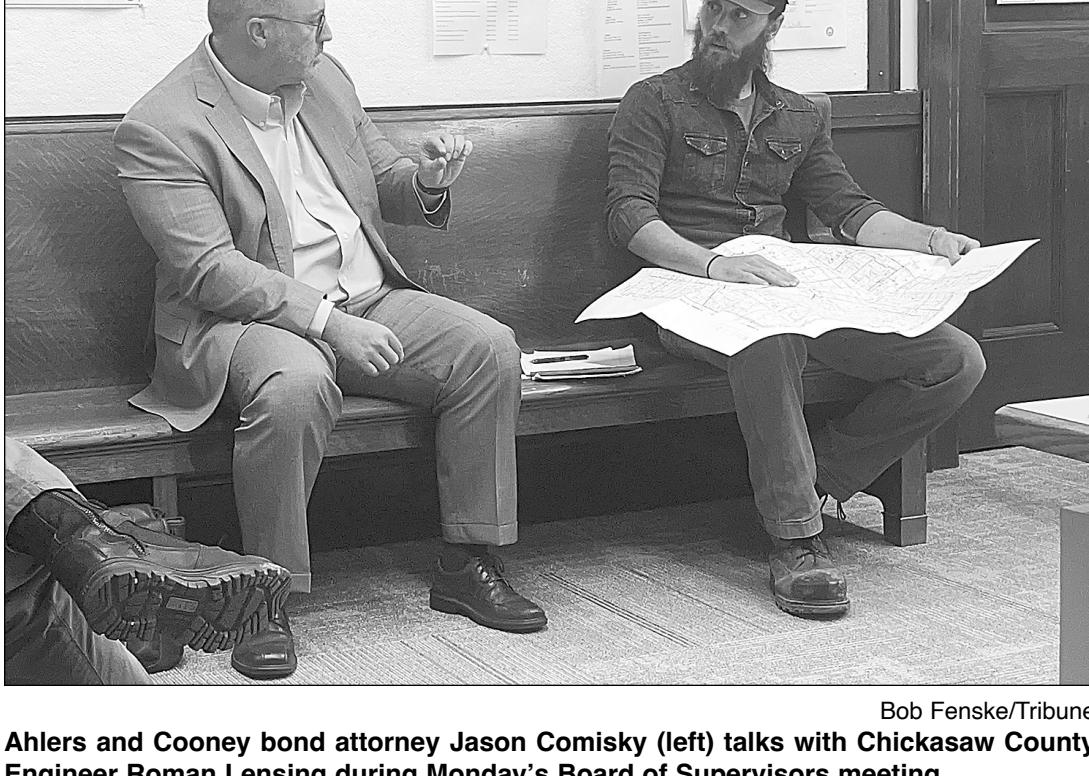

To do the project proposed and pay for it — or even some of it — with TIF revenue at the current site would also mean having buy-in for the city of New Hampton.

"Now remember, it gets a little more complicated because any time a county is going to create an urban renewal area inside of a city or within two miles of the boundaries of that city, the city has to agree to do that," Comisky said. "The county can't just create an urban renewal area inside of a city or within two miles of a city on its own action."

If the city said no, Comisky said "you're stopped right there."

Supervisors, though, are far from making a decision on how it will use those TIF revenue or even if they will "capture" those revenues. The TIF revenues are the taxes on the increased valuation on the property. The county could just allow that increased tax revenue go into its general basic and general services fund.

Board members also questioned County Assessor Ray Armel on how much TIF revenue will actually be in play, and

Bob Fenske/Tribune

Ahlers and Cooney bond attorney Jason Comisky (left) talks with Chickasaw County Engineer Roman Lensing during Monday's Board of Supervisors meeting.

Armel said that he will soon meet with Chickasaw Wind Farm officials to discuss valuations.

"We should have that information soon," Armel said, "but no, today, I can't give you that number."

Armel also told the board that the county probably wouldn't see additional revenue from the wind turbines until 2027.

Comisky said that the county could pay for all of the law enforcement center project with TIF funds, but supervisors could also divvy that revenue up for a variety of purposes.

"You could use some for roads, some for the Sheriff's Office," he said. "That is up to you, that's a decision you can make."

If the county decides to pay for the entire Sheriff's Office project with its TIF revenue, a bond referendum would not have to be sent to county voters, but Comisky also said that there is a chance that a "reverse referendum" could be held. That would require county residents submitting a petition for an election to decide if board members can sell general-obligation bonds and use the TIF revenue to pay them off.

Both Supervisor Jake Hackman and Board Chairman Matt Kuhn said the information Comisky provided was helpful but county leaders need more information before making a decision on how it will use the TIF revenue.

"I, too, think we have to see the numbers and see what we're working with," Kuhn said.

"Until then, this information is really helpful but we can't make a decision until we know what we're dealing with when it comes to the money."

Tim's journey into the world of agriculture began during his time at Fredericksburg High School, where he graduated in 1980. It was during those formative years that he first got his hands dirty, tilling the soil and nurturing a love for the land that would define his life.

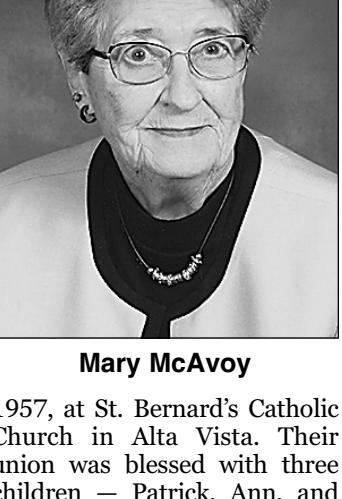

During a brief stint working at Beatrice Cheese in Fredericksburg, Tim crossed paths with Lori Becker, and their connection blossomed into a loving partnership. While farming was Tim's true calling, he had other passions that added depth to his life. Shops like the Service Center at Vern Laures Auto Center are busy as it is so those who want to "winterize" their cars should be thinking about making appointments now. That way, they're not blindsided by the snow and ice that is sure to descend upon Northeast Iowa when Old Man Winter arrives.

Job change 7 1/2 years ago perfect for auto service advisor

Geerts finds plenty of benefits when it comes to working at Vern Laures

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

Seven and a half years ago, Carrie Geerts made the decision to step into an entirely different world.

For almost two decades, she had worked at the Optometric Center in Charles City, but she wanted to work closer to home and in 2016, she took a job at Vern Laures Auto Center as an auto service advisor.

"It was different, I will say that," she said with a laugh, "and I can tell you this much: I've learned a lot about cars and trucks in the last 7 1/2 years, and I mean a lot."

So what exactly is an auto service advisor?

"Good question," she said, again laughing, "but seriously, we're the ones setting up the appointments, we're the ones that are the go-between with the vehicle owner and the technicians. Really, when it comes right down to it, the most important part of this job is communicating. Our job is to make sure we keep our customers happy and making sure the technicians know what those people are telling us about their vehicles."

Carrie Geerts looks over her computer to find a time slot for a customer at Vern Laures Auto Center.

auto service technicians. Joining Geerts at the counter, on the phone and in the shop is Braodyn Buhrow, and Geerts said another key in her position is to be organized.

During a typical day, 40 to 50 vehicles make their way through Vern Laures' shop, and those vehicles come from not just New Hampton and Chickasaw County towns but also from throughout Northeast Iowa locales.

"It's kind of neat to see how many people come from Cresco, Charles City, Decorah and Waverly and places like that," she said. "I think we see that they trust us and we want to live up to that."

She admits giving up her job in Charles City was daunting in some ways, but a chance to work in the same town that her children — Chloe and Claire — attended school in was too good of an opportunity to pass up.

Seven and a half years later — even with Chloe already graduating and Claire a high school senior this year — she has no regrets.

"I get to work with a good group of people here, and like I said, I'm learning something new pretty much every day."

8 steps to a more functional kitchen

A kitchen is often the most utilized room in a house.

Meals may be prepared, cooked and often eaten in kitchens, and the room is often utilized as a homework spot or a makeshift place to pay bills and stay on top of household needs.

By enhancing the organization and functionality of the kitchen, homeowners can enjoy these popular spaces even more.

Homeowners have increased their spending on home improvements in recent years. According to the Joint Center for Housing Centers for Harvard University, project spending rose to $472 billion in 2022 from $328 billion in 2019.

It's estimated consumers will have spent $485 billion by the end of 2023. Kitchen renovations were the most popular upgrade and accounted for the highest budgets in 2021, according to Houzz.

When the time comes to renovate a kitchen, homeowners can take steps to make these spaces more organized and therefore functional. Here are eight tips to creating a more functional kitchen.

1. Increase storage, and then invest in more. Make the most of corner cabinets and other potential dead spots in a kitchen. Various products can be used to organize awkwardly angled or shaped areas. Kitchen designers also can work with you to reconfigure cabinets and kitchen layouts.

2. Organize utensils and dishes around the sink/dishwasher. Rather than traversing the kitchen to put clean dishes away, make loading and unloading the dishwasher that much easier by locating commonly used items next to and above it. Similarly, place frequently used saucepans, baking dishes and other items near the oven or food preparation area.

3. Utilize drawer and cabinet organizers. Make a place for everything in the kitchen. Take out all items and see what you need and use all the time. Then coordinate storage around those items so everything fits perfectly. Pull-out shelves and Lazy Susans also can facilitate access.

4. Add shelves to cabinets. If you can afford to have a custom-built kitchen, by all means design cabinets according to preference. If you're using standard cabinets, you may have to reconfigure shelves and spacing to fit the items you have. This also will help you maximize cabinet space.

5. Organize the garbage. Have a pull-out drawer or cabinet to store trash bins. Separate compost, trash and recycling needs.

6. Create continuity in the room. Many open concept homes will have kitchens open up to another room in the home. Mirror the design scheme from elsewhere in the house, and make sure that the flow between spaces is not obstructed.

7. Create a beverage station. A beverage station can minimize the time needed to make a cup of tea or coffee or for the kids to grab juice or chocolate milk.

8. Have a workspace in the kitchen. 2. Organize utensils and dishes around the sink/dishwasher. Rather than traversing the kitchen to put clean dishes away, make loading and unloading the dishwasher that much easier by locating commonly used items next to and above it. Similarly, place frequently used saucepans, baking dishes and other items near the oven or food preparation area.

Indeed, it does, and she said there are a couple of reasons this year to get ready for winter long before the snow and ice return for another season.

First, mechanics are busy these days; in fact, Geerts said Vern Laures Auto Center's Service Center is "booked four weeks out." Now granted, the dealership on New Hampton's north side will fit in emergencies, but there's also the fact

Car owners should plan ahead for winter, especially this year replaced those wipers months ago.

"There are those who wait until the last minute, but really, now is the time to start getting ready for winter, especially this year," said Carrie Geerts, an auto service advisor at Vern Laures Auto Center in New Hampton. "Not that anyone wants to have car problems anytime, but it really stinks in the winter, right?"

Indeed, it does, and she said there are a couple of reasons this year to get ready for winter long before the snow and ice return for another season.

First, mechanics are busy these days; in fact, Geerts said Vern Laures Auto Center's Service Center is "booked four weeks out." Now granted, the dealership on New Hampton's north side will fit in emergencies, but there's also the fact that the United Auto Workers are now striking at parts distributors around the county.

"That means we might have to wait a little longer to get parts you need," Geerts said.

Still, there's time to get that car or pickup into the shop before winter, or at least that's the hope.

Asked what folks should be thinking about, Geerts went through a litany of items — from those tires and wipers mentioned at the start of this story to having batteries and antifreeze checked.

"The big thing with tires is to make sure your tread is good," she said, "and that they'll keep you safe in the winter. ..."

"With batteries, we can do a check to see where you're at, so that when it gets really cold and you're late for work anyway, you don't have a car that won't start."

Tips to create your own 'movie theater' in your home

Dedicated home theaters and the more diverse "media rooms" still command their share of real estate in homes.

A report from the Business Research Company estimates that the home theater market size will reach $66.16 billion by 2027, with a 19.5 percent growth rate between now and then. Home theaters can fall into a wide range of categories.

Some media room enthusiasts embark on retrofitting spaces on their own, making equipping the room a do-it-yourself endeavor.

Others interested in a state-of-the-art setup may leave the work to a professional, especially if it involves construction or installation of large equipment.

Some things need to be kept in mind for those interested in putting in home theaters, especially if they want to create the ultimate home theater experience.

Here is the gear to consider for those who want to create a movie theater in the comfort of their own home.

AV receiver

An AV receiver will process all the different input and output sources involved in a home theater setup.

This includes Blu-ray, streaming devices, video games, screens, and speakers. The AV receiver should have enough inputs to play several sources.

Screen

Depending on the space and size of the room, a home theater may feature a traditional large screen television or a projector and projector screen for a more cinematic feel.

According to U.S. News and World Report, some of the newest television technology comes by way of OLED, or organic light-emitting diode. OLED employs emissive technology that utilizes millions of pixels that emit their own light rather than relying on a separate backlight. Many people believe OLED displays are the best on the market today.

Make sure fireplace is ready when Old Man Winter comes knocking

As hours of daylight shorten and fall gives way to winter, thoughts shift from fall foliage to spending time cuddling under warm blankets and being cozy indoors.

A fireplace can improve the ambiance of any room and help to create a warm and welcoming gathering spot.

Home fireplaces typically are wood-burning or gas. Though maintenance for these fireplaces differs, certain preparatory steps must be taken to prepare a fireplace for winter.

Clear the clutter

Items can accumulate in areas that are not in use, and a fireplace is no exception. Take a few hours to remove any belongings from in front of the fireplace and clean the mantle thoroughly.

Have the chimney cleaned

Hire a professional chimney cleaning company to inspect the chimney and clean it thoroughly before winter.

According to BobVila.com, a chimney should be cleaned once a year, or after about every 80 fires. The National Fire Protection Association says failure to properly clean chimneys is one of the leading contributors to home fires.

Inspect the interior

The interior of a wood-burning fireplace is likely lined with fire bricks. Check for cracks and loose joints. Hire a professional mason to make any repairs, as special materials are needed to withstand the heat of fires.

Install a chimney cap and screen

According to Family Handyman, a chimney cap is a protective covering that goes over the top of the chimney.

It is made of steel or copper mesh with a cap on top. This protects the chimney from rain and downdrafts and keeps animals and debris from getting into the chimney.

Prune overhanging branches

If there are trees close to the home and the chimney, cut them back, as they can be a fire hazard.

Branches and leaves also can restrict the proper draft of the chimney.

Assess the outdoor vent

Gas fireplaces typically emit exhaust through a vent in the home. Remove any blockages from the vent, including leaves, cobwebs and debris.

Check glass or other coverings

The glass or face of the fireplace helps regulate carbon monoxide exposure and protects people from the flames. Be sure the glass covering is intact.

Need a little peace in your home? Try these ideas

Homes are often characterized as sanctuaries for their residents. A calm place to come home to after a busy day at work or school is often just what people need to unwind.

Certain design components can help individuals turn their homes into relaxing respites from the daily grind. With that goal in mind, individuals can consider these ideas to create a peaceful feel inside their homes.

Paint with neutral colors

Wall colors can define the mood in a given room, and neutral colors have long been linked to a calming effect.

Subtle shades like beige, taupe and light gray are known to create a relaxed vibe in a room, so these colors can be a go-to choice.

Some people consider neutral colors a tad boring, so individuals concerned by that impression can limit neutral colors to rooms designated as sanctuaries, like a reading room, a spa bathroom or a bedroom.

Employ natural light

Natural light also can help to establish a serene setting at home. Large windows that let daylight in can improve anyone's mood.

A 2022 study from researchers at the University of Chile in Santiago found that the more natural light that entered a home, the happier people said they felt. Study authors even noted that the largest uptick in well-being was found among participants who lived in homes in which windows covered at least 40 percent of the dwelling's wall space.

Opening blinds or curtains and, if possible, installing larger windows in a home can help to establish the relaxing, happy vibe individuals are aiming for.

Utilize plants to set a peaceful tone

The United Kingdom-based Royal Horticultural Society notes that research has found that indoor plants can benefit psychological well-being. The RHS notes that improved mood and reduced stress levels are two benefits that indoor plants can provide.

A good mood and less stress can help individuals establish the peaceful feel they're aiming for at home.

Keep devices out of bedrooms

Watching television while lying in bed, scanning a smartphone before turning off a nightstand light and retiring for the night, or reading an e-reader instead of a print book at night can transform a bedroom from a serene setting into one that's overrun with stimuli.

According to the Sleep Foundation, technology stimulates the mind, which can make it harder to fall asleep.

In addition, blue light emitted by devices disrupts the natural production of melatonin, a hormone that makes it easier to fall asleep.

That can negate any efforts individuals have undertaken to make their bedrooms as peaceful as possible.

Designate bedrooms in the house as technology-free zones to ensure the peaceful vibe continues uninterrupted until everyone goes to bed.

Turn that unused attic into a livable space!

Houses typically feature various areas that are traditionally designed for storage, such as garages, basements and attics. However, with some renovation, these spaces can be transformed into livable areas.

Homeowners who would like to convert attics into livable spaces need to take certain things into consideration before starting an improvement project. While the attic may seem like it has plenty of room and is structurally sound enough to walk in, that's not necessarily so.

An attic that was not initially designed as a room when the house was built can add extra "load" upstairs if it is converted. That could present certain structural problems. That means a structural engineer also must be consulted to see if adding beams, flooring and drywall will necessitate other changes elsewhere in the home to accommodate the extra load.

In order to have a functional attic room, building codes will dictate that it needs to be accessible by a full-size staircase. Also, it will need to have another exit in case of an emergency so that will likely be an accessible window.

Homeowners' budgets and renovation plans will need to factor into these considerations. Homeowners also are advised to check local permits to determine what else may be required to go forward. It is best to follow the rules. Lack of a permit for work can affect the ability to sell a home down the line.

Individuals also should plan for heating and cooling upgrades as the home will need to have ductwork installed in the attic, or at the least, a stand-alone heating and cooling unit. As heat rises, it can get quite warm in an attic, so ventilation and comfort should be considered. The attic will need to be wired for electricity for lighting and other needs. Air sealing and additional insulation can the attic space more comfortable as well. Consult with a qualified electrician and an HVAC technician and have an energy audit done to discuss needs.

Attic renovations can give homeowners more space in their homes, which can be used as offices, bedrooms or cozy corners. This is no small undertaking and all of the right steps need to be followed to ensure a legal, safe and successful renovation.

Those not ready to take on a major project can go 'small' and still change their home

Home renovation projects were high on homeowners' priority lists during the early days of the COVID-19 pandemic.

By early 2023, the renovation boom that marked the initial days of the pandemic appeared to have burst as homeowners pivoted from large projects to smaller renovations for a variety of reasons.

Inflation and the looming threat of a recession have led many homeowners to emphasize smaller projects.

With that in mind, the following are some small renovations that can have a big impact.

• Storage addition: Regardless of where storage is added, be it the kitchen or a home office or a laundry room, extra space to keep items out of view can dramatically alter the look of a home.

Unused kitchen walls can be transformed with some inexpensive, easily hanged shelves, while some laundry pedestals with storage drawers can help keep washrooms clear of clutter.

• Polish floors: Elbow grease might be the biggest expenditure when cleaning hardwood floors.

Wood flooring experts advise homeowners to polish their floors once every two to four months depending on how much foot traffic the floors get.

A fresh polishing can make floors look brand new and ensures dirt and dust are not hanging around as uninvited houseguests.

• Paint: Painting is another inexpensive option for budget-conscious homeowners who want to update their homes.

There's no shortage of places in a home, both inside and out, where a fresh coat of paint can make a statement without breaking the bank.

Fading paint on bedroom walls and kitchen cabinets can be painted over with a fresh coat of the same color or even something more vibrant.

Outside, apply a fresh coat to a wooden deck or paint over brick siding to create a whole new look.

• Molding: Crown molding can add a touch of elegance to any room.

Rooms can be transformed in a single weekend with the installation of new or replacement crown molding.

A simple molding installation is a task many do-it-yourselfers can handle on their own, while homeowners with less DIY experience may benefit from hiring a contractor to create a layered molding look.

Protect the place you call home and all that you have.

on Thursday and she finished in the top-15 of a race that included 90 runners and was won by Sumner-Fredericksburg's sensational Hillary Trainor, who ran the 3.1 miles in 18:29.9.

Pickar's medal-winning performance helped propel New Hampton to a sixth-place finish in the team standings of the 12-team meet. Ella Knutson, Kailynn Gebel and Natalie Nosbisch rounded out the Chickasaw scorers.

The boys, meanwhile, were led by Connor Stumme, in both meets last week. The freshman had a season-best time of 18:48.64 and finished 20th at the Waukon meet and then followed up that with a 23rd-place finish in a race featuring 107 runners at Grundy Center.

"Going back-to-back, doing a Tuesday-Thursday combo, is not easy," Ohrt said, "but all our kids really battled at Grundy Center."

Still, she was happy that the Chickasaws had a week off before heading to Jesup tonight (Thursday) for a meet.

"We need the practice, we need to work on pacing so that we have that muscle memory," Ohrt said. "We're getting down to crunch time, and as much as kids prefer meets to practice, they need them both."

New Hampton will head to Crestwood on Saturday morning before closing out the regular season with its annual home meet at Fredericksburg's Plum Creek Golf Course next Thursday.

Thankfully, we'll always have our 'Jason stories'

There's a part of me that hopes I wake up Friday morning and realize that the last few weeks have just been a really bad dream.

I know it hasn't, but the unrealistic part of my brain desperately wants go to New Hampton's homecoming football game and see Jason Winter standing there, waiting to walk down the track to become a member of the Chickasaw Athletic Hall of Fame and giving me a brief while waiting to do so.

I'm writing this on Monday evening, which means it has been 23 days since I picked up my cell phone and heard the voice of my very good friend Chad Brown cracking with emotion.

"Have you heard yet?"

"No, what's up," I replied.

"Jason died."

And then the line went quiet for what seemed like an agonizingly long time. Maybe it was just a minute, but if it was, it was the longest and one of the most shocking minutes of my life.

Long before I came to New Hampton, I had come to know Jason Winter as the most fierce competitor I had ever met.

Thirty-one years ago, I was a reporter at the Mason City Globe Gazette, and he was a freshman basketball player at Waldorf College.

It was at the same time that Brown became an assistant coach for the Warriors, and while my friendship with Jason was more sporadic than it was with "Brownie," I was still stunned by the news and overcome with a sadness I have felt few times in my life.

When you're a sports writer, the mantra is there's "no cheering in the press box," but the fact is, all of us who have covered sports have our favorite teams and our favorite athletes. Anyone who claims otherwise, is a liar.

Jason Winter, back in the winter of 1992-93 became one of my instant favorites. Man, he could shoot a basketball, and he was just so damn tough. The Iowa Juco Conference back then was loaded with athletic, talented players, and I covered a lot of Waldorf games. Not once over the next two years did I see Winter back down from anyone.

And he was a reporter's dream. He delivered great quotes, often times with a sense of humor that had me in tears. It kind of became standard for us to seek out Jason after a game, even if he hadn't lit up the stat sheet.

"Who'd you talk to," the reporter covering the Waldorf game would be asked when he arrived back in the office. Almost invariably one of the answers was "Winter." I still remember a guy named Dick Johnson coming back to the office, getting the who-doyou-talk-to query and laughing.

"Well, Winter, even though he only scored like five points," Dick said, "but hey, we're trying to win awards here and you need good quotes, right?"

In two winters at Waldorf, we gained a million Jason Winter stories, but on that Saturday morning earlier this month when Chad Brown called me, words failed us both.

While I covered Jason, Chad coached him — first as an assistant and then as Waldorf's head coach. Just like reporters aren't supposed to have favorites, neither are coaches, but there's little doubt that is what Jason was to Chad.

"I coached a long time," Brown said, "and I'm not sure I ever had one who was as much as a competitor as he was. I'm telling you there was no such thing as 90 percent or even 99 percent when it came to him. It didn't matter if it was in practice or a game, I knew he was going to give us everything he had."

He couldn't help but laugh as he recounted the story of playing on Winter's team in a 3-on-3 tournament in New Hampton, one that took second to a team headlined by another New Hampton-to-Waldorf kid named Craig Volk.

"Twenty years later, he was still moaning that he lost to Volk," Brown said, "but that was Jason. It didn't matter if he was playing basketball, playing cards or playing ping pong, he played to win every single time."

But his junior college coach also appreciated the fact that Jason Winter, as 18, was mature beyond his years.

"He was a natural leader, and he could talk to anyone — teammates, coaches, old guys in the crowd," he said. "When I was an assistant, I met with the freshmen once a week. You know, the how's-it-going talk and all that. The meetings were supposed to be like 10, 20 minutes, and I'd look up and it's just Jason and me and we've been talking for a couple of hours."

When Brown became the head coach, that Winter maturity was a godsend because, as the old basketball coach succinctly put it, "Never — and I mean never — did I have to worry about him making the wrong decision off the court."

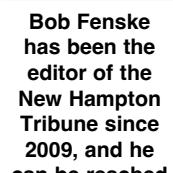

Brown stayed in touch with Winter over the years, but after he left Waldorf, I didn't see Jason until I moved to New Hampton.

He put on a great youth basketball tournament at MFL-Mar-Mac, and my boys played in it and I coached in it for a lot of years.

I think the first time we went was in like

Back then, I once asked Winter if he played other sports and he told me he had run on three school-record relay teams in track.

One of his Waldorf teammates overheard the comment, laughed and said, "Wow, those other three guys must have been really fast."

So when his uncle and my fellow coach, Chad Sweitzer, told me Jason was running the tournament, I couldn't wait.

Chad introduced me, but Jason waved him off with a "I know Bob" comment. The first thing I said to him was something like "thank God you had three really fast teammates."

He laughed, I laughed and he plotted his revenge.

Last winter, he reminded me that paybacks are a ... well, you know.

His MFL-Mar-Mac girls basketball team came to New Hampton for a scrimmage over the Christmas break, and Chickasaw coach Dave Leichtman asked me if I could bring one of my sons and ref the affair.

Noah volunteered, and during the scrimmage, I was the "out" official and Winter came up behind me and quietly dead panned.

"Man your partner is way more athletic than you," he said. "I think I win, right?"

I laughed out loud.

On Monday, as Chad and I swapped "Jason stories," he roared with laughter at that one.

"You know that's what made him such a great teammate," he said. "He could give you grief, but he could take it, too. ... He was so much fun to be around, to coach, but he also knew when it was time to get to work."

He turned out to be a heck of a lot more than one of this old sports writers favorites, for Jason went on to be a husband, a father, a law enforcement officer, a city councilman and a pretty good coach.

Before he died on Sept. 1, Winter filled out his Hall of Fame questionnaire. He thanked his coaches, teachers and his family — especially his parents, John and Mary — "for pushing me to do my best."

He went on to thank the committee that selected him and Jim Gorman for nominating him.

And he ended his comments with this:

"I was always proud to tell people where I am from," he wrote on his information sheet, "and I still cherish the memories I made with my teammates, classmates and friends growing up a CHICKASAW!"

He epitomized the saying "once a Chickasaw; always a Chickasaw."

The wonderful part of my job is meeting athletes like Jason Winter and watching them go on and lead successful lives.

I just wish that on Friday night, he was going to be here and giving me a little more grief.

District and has done so since the Hall of Fame was initiated in 1995.

With the addition of the Class of 2023, the hall will have 133 members.

Individuals may be inducted for their success as an athlete, coach or in the area of service as a patron and supporter of the New Hampton athletic programs.

The 2023 Hall of Fame inductees who will be honored Friday night before the Chickasaws take on North Fayette Valley include:

Lauren Frerichs

Lauren Frerichs will always be thankful for the chance to be a Chickasaw in multiple sports, but ask her about the favorite memory she has and the answer comes quickly.

She was a key cog in New Hampton's run to the 2018 state volleyball team, but it was more than the wins that she remembers.

"It was really special to see and feel all the support we received as a team throughout our whole journey," she said. "I am very grateful for my athletic experience at New Hampton. I was blessed with the best coaches and teammates who have become lifelong friends."

And New Hampton was blessed to have an athlete like Frerichs, who earned 12 letters before she graduated in 2019.

Frerichs earned all-conference honors in volleyball, basketball and softball and she was an all-state selection in both volleyball and softball. She also was a member of two shuttle hurdle relay teams that qualified for the state track meet.

After graduating from New Hampton, she continued her stellar academic and athletic career at Wartburg College, where she was a two-time all-conference and two-time all-region player in softball. Twice, she was also named to the academic all-conference team and was a two-time NFCA all-American scholar athlete.

Today, Frerichs is a staff accountant for the Iowa Soybean Association in Ankeny.

Robert Ives

New Hampton has qualified for the state playoffs in football 23 times, and although Robert Ives didn't get to play in a postseason game for the Chickasaws, he and his teammates

Chickasaw Event Center officials appreciative of recent support from school, businesses and community members

The second week of September was an exciting week of in-kind giving for the local event center in New Hampton.

On Monday, Sept. 11, the event center was given tables from St. Joseph Community Schools.

St. Joe's Principal Michele Nehls initiated the donation to ensure that the Chickasaw Event Center had all the necessary equipment for its first Mobile Food Bank distribution, which was held on Sept. 21.

Along with Principal Nehls, a group of St. Joseph's Community School students delivered and unloaded the tables.

On that same day, Chickasaw Event Center's board president, Lynn Schwickerath, was contacted by Leo Dowd.

Dowd donated a new American flag to the Chickasaw Event Center. Dowd has donated numerous flags to different locations around the community.

Dowd assisted in installing the flag alongside Schwickerath. They ensured the flag could fly before lowering it for half-mast for Monday's Sept. 11th remembrance.

First Citizens Bank of New Hampton also joined in on the in-kind gifts by donating boxes of in-kind items that The Chickasaw Event Center has listed on their website.

Bank employees Patty Phillips and Jill Fibikar donated napkins, cups, utensils, etc. to the director, Morgan Underwood.

These items will be used at upcoming events such as their monthly free donut day, coffee club, and their weekly congregate meals.

Chickasaw Event Center board members, in a press release said they "would like to thank local businesses and community members for continuing to support The Chickasaw Event Center and the many missions they are working to sustain for New Hampton."

Jendro Sanitation has notified the City that the monthly garbage rates will increase by 8.4% effective October 1, 2023. Moved by Fisher, seconded by McDonald; To allow that the increase in monthly fees effective October 1, 2023 of 8.4%, which is $.73 per resident, per month, be absorbed the City's existing Solid Waste Fund cash balance and not to pass the increase to residents bills, be approved. TV encounters buzzsaw versus Clarksville

State's top rushing team runs wild in wet non-district contest

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

Give Clarksville an inch and they'll take a yard.

Heck, they took 494 of them on Friday night in Jackson Junction.

The state's top rushing team proved why in a 62-22 dismantling of Turkey Valley in a non-district, 8-Man battle between two of the better squads in this corner of the state.

Under a stormy sky that dumped rain down on the field all night – the Indians produced a deluge of points en route to a 38-point first quarter that saw the sixth-ranked Indians come within six yards of 500 total team rushing yards.

The leader in rushing in prep football – which includes all seven classes in Iowa – did not pass once.

Clarksville head coach Darren Bohlen's undefeated squad didn't have to as it scored on long touchdown runs of 53, 61, 44, 53, 24, 25 and 70. The opening kickoff also went back for a long score on the 80-yard field as Eli Schmidt returned it 78 yards for another score.

What started out bad for Mark Scott's Trojans didn't get any better as the game wore on.

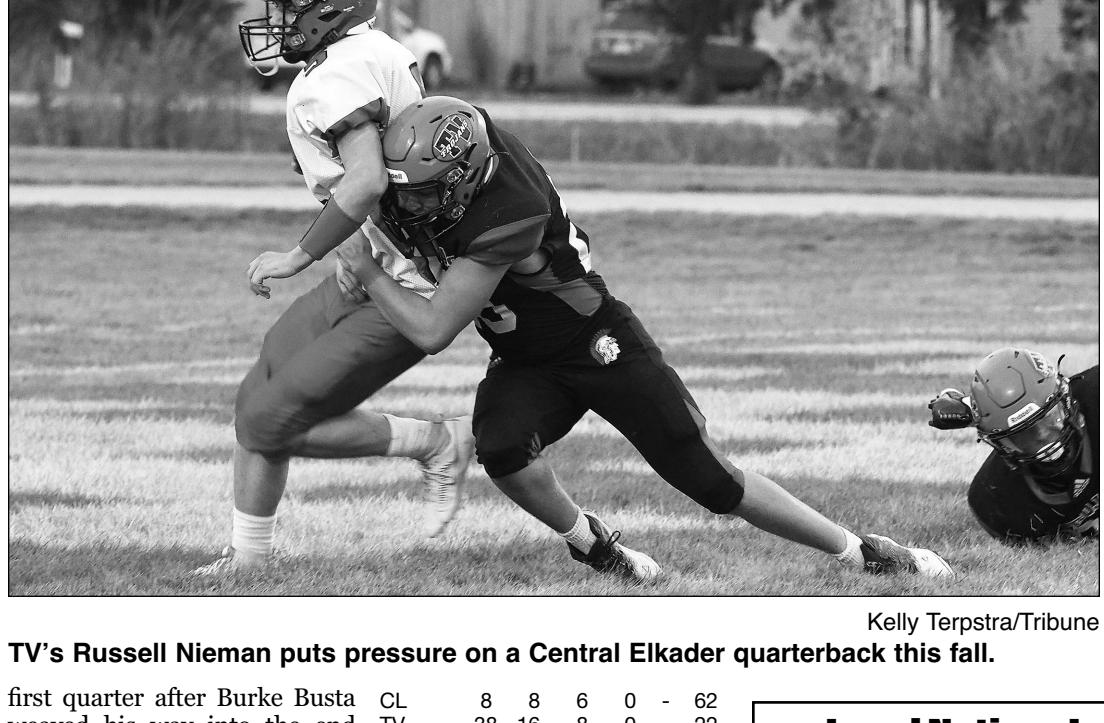

Clarksville came within three yards of having two 200-yard rushers as sophomore Owen Backer registered 210 yards on just eight carries and senior MaKade Bloker finished with 197 yards on the ground. Each standout back scored three times.

"Clarksville was bigger, stronger and faster than we were – not a team we needed to play on a rainy, wet night," said Scott, in his 21st season as head coach at TV.

Clarksville (6-0) averaged over 14 yards a carry in its first real road test of the season. The Indians passed with flying colors and demonstrated its vaunted rushing attack is indeed for real against a Trojan squad that has come within an eyelash of reaching the state quarterfinal round of the playoffs in consecutive seasons.

Clarksville's closest contest thus far was in the season opener versus Belle Plaine (3-2) – a game the Indians won 34-32.

Turkey Valley (3-2, 2-1) finally got on the board in the first quarter after Burke Busta weaved his way into the end zone from 14 yards out. The Trojans' two-point conversion pass from Oliver Schmitt to J.D. Kruse was good and the score was 24-8, Clarksville.

Things went downhill from there as the buzzsaw that is Clarksville's rushing attack kicked it into high gear to score four more rushing touchdowns in a row before Schmitt ended TV's scoring drought with a 51-yard rushing TD right before halftime.

Clarksville led 54-16 at intermission and is the No. 1 rushing team in the state with 2,234 yards.

Caleb Kurtenbach caught a 23-yard pass from Logan Busta for TV's final score in the third quarter.

Schmitt rushed for 88 yards on 20 carries and Kurtenbach caught three passes for 46 yards.

Logan Busta, a sophomore, threw 20 times and completed 10 of those passes for 89 yards.

Schmitt led TV in tackles with 5.5 and Russell Nieman had TV's lone tackle for loss.

TV hosts Waterloo Christian (1-4, 1-2) at home on Friday night. The Regents are in their first year of organized football and won their first game in program history last week with a 19-7 win at Central Elkader. All of the Regents' games this season will be played on the road.

Chickasaws clinch share of back-to-back NEIC titles

NH sweeps W-SR to reel in conference crown

The New Hampton Chickasaw volleyball team clinched a share of back-to-back Northeast Iowa Conference crowns with a sweep over the Waverly-Shell Rock Go-Hawks on Tuesday night.

The NEIC road tilt saw Jess Geerts' sixth-ranked squad in Class 3A turn back a feisty Go-Hawk bunch in the opening set to claim a 26-24 victory. Then NH, now 21-2 overall and 4-0 in league play, closed out W-SR 25-18 and 25-20 to reel in another league crown.

The Chickasaws went undefeated in league play last fall in five matches and also won the NEIC Tournament. That sweep of league titles was the first time NH had done that in school history.

NH will look to win the league title outright versus Waukon at home on Tuesday, Oct. 3 – which is Senior Night for the Chickasaws. Charles City, ranked 15th in Class 4A, is 17-4 overall and 2-1 in league play with matches still left to play against Crestwood and Decorah. All the rest of the NEIC teams now have at least two league losses outside of Charles City, which NH defeated in five games earlier this month.

NH has not won back-to-back league crowns since 1990 and 1991. The Chickasaws won consecutive league titles outright in 1986 and 1987.

The Chickasaws used a 5-0 run in the opening set to claim a 15-13 lead. A Go-Hawk line violation, followed by an NH block sealed the game-one victory for the league champs.

New Hampton closed on an 8-1 run to end game two after the match was tied at 17-17.

NH has now won eight matches in a row after a loss to No. 4 Cedar Falls.

The Chickasaws will be back in Waverly at the Go-Hawk Tournament this Saturday against the likes of Nevada, No. 8 AGWSR, fourth-ranked Cedar Rapids Xavier and second-rated Mount Vernon.

late deep pass completed by Oelwein for its only score, the Chickasaws completely shut down Oelwein, holding the Huskies to just 89 rushing yards on 45 carries.

"We were really aggressive and controlled the line of scrimmage," Frerichs said, "and we tackled very well, the best we have all year. It's by far our best defensive effort of the season."

Still, it took a while for New Hampton to get untracked offensively in the pouring rain. The Chickasaws came away with nothing in the first quarter despite getting a blocked punt from Ethan Svehla and a fumble recovery by Ty Shekleton.

The second quarter, though, was a different story.

After making a fourth-down stop, New Hampton needed just four plays to go 37 yards, and when Braden McShane scored on a 6-yard run two plays into the second period, the Chickasaws had a lead it would never relinquish.

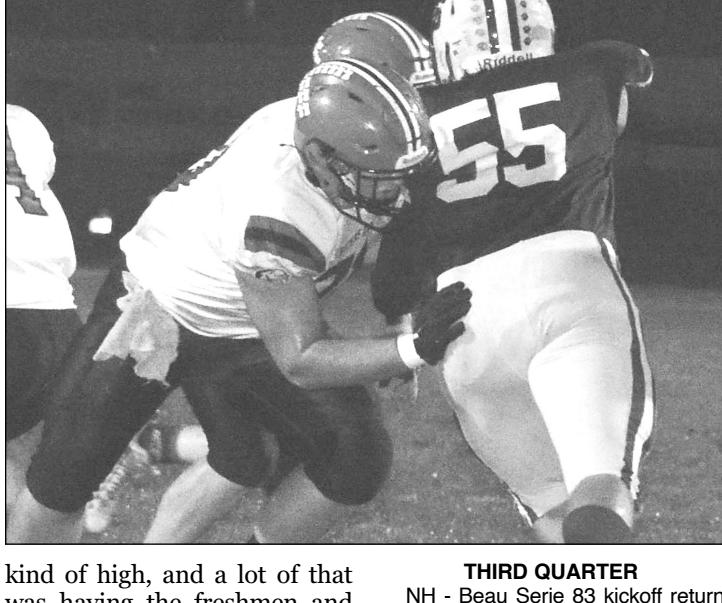

Later in the quarter, a Ben Gilbert-to-Ethan Praska screen pass turned into an 80-yard play and McShane dragged what seemed like half of the Oelwein defense into the end zone on a 9-yard scoring run with 3:31 left.

New Hampton would add another score after the Chickasaw defense forced a turnover. A key third-down pass completion to Cael Laures set up a 2-yard scoring run by Praska to send New Hampton into halftime with a 21-0 lead.

"The screen to Praska was really well executed," Frerichs said, "and Ethan got some break blocks on it. And Ben on that crossing pattern, he put it right on target and gave Cael plenty of room to run. Those were two big plays for us."

After a lightning delay extended the break, New Hampton put the game away in the second half as Beau Serie scored two touchdowns, including one on an 83-yard kickoff return to open the second

"I think the energy was kind of high, and a lot of that was having the freshmen and sophomores on the sideline," Robinson said. "It was just so much fun seeing guys pumped up. Obviously winning helps but we were really into that game."

And the Chickasaws also welcomed McShane back to their offense. The senior who ran for more than 1,700 yards in 2022, played defense against Osage the week before after sitting out the previous two weeks with a hamstring injury. Although he played sparingly on offense against Oelwein, he scored two battering-ram touchdowns.

"We all know Braden McShane and what kind of player he is," Robinson said, "and when we get him back on offense, you know what kind of team we can have. I mean Ethan and Jaxon [Eckley] have done a good job, don't get me wrong, but with Braden our confidence goes to a different level.... We know we've got a lot of work to do, but we're going to do it and try to make a run here at the end."

McDonald caps banner season for Corpus Christi Hooks

Former New Hampton High School and University of Iowa pitcher Cole McDonald recently completed what can be argued has been his most successful professional baseball season.

McDonald led the Class AA Corpus Christi Hooks in saves with seven, good for fifth overall in the Texas League as he finished the season with a 2-3 record and 3.94 earned-run average. McDonald appeared in 35 games, all in relief, for the Hooks and struck out 66 while walking 21 in 48 innings on the mound.

McDonald graduated from New Hampton in 2015 and played four seasons with the Hawkeyes in Iowa City before being drafted in the 15th round of the Major League Baseball Draft by the Houston Astros at the conclusion of the 2019 season.

He began the 2023 season with the Astros' "High A" team in Asheville, where McDonald pitched in four games, striking out eight in 4 2/3 innings while not allowing a run.

Meyers commits to play baseball at Southeastern Community College

New Hampton senior baseball star Kael Meyers has made his college choice, and he'll be heading to Burlington next year to attend and compete for Southeastern Community College.

Meyers is coming off an all-state baseball season in which he led the Chickasaws in virtually every offensive category, including average (.460), runs (41), doubles (10), triples (2), home runs (3), RBIs (29), walks (26), hit-by-pitches (13) and stolen bases (24).

Southeastern is coming off a season in which it went 49-18 and finished second at the National Junior College Athletic Association World Series.

State associations announce sites for state qualifying meets next month

The Iowa High School Athletic Association and the Iowa Girls High School Athletic Union have the sites for next month's cross country state qualifying meets determined and will announce where teams will be heading on Thursday, Oct. 19.

Class 2A host schools include Dike-New Hartford, Monticello, Pella Christian, Unity Christian in Orange City and Williamsburg, which means New Hampton will head to Fox Ridge Golf Course in Dike for its qualifier.

The most likely site for Turkey Valley will be Manly, where Central Springs will host a 1A qualifier. Other host schools for the small school class are Central Decatur, Mount Ayr, North Linn, Panorama, Iowa City Regina, South Hardin and Spencer.

But this is far from a one-woman show for Geerts' defending NEIC champs.

NH senior Hailee Pesek leads the team in digs (155) and the left-handed senior rightside hitter also packs a punch up near the net with 108 kills – second-most on the team.

Pesek's kill total is three more than junior middle Braelyn Rosonke. Rosonke's 105 kills are highlighted by a .450 kill efficiency. That's ranked as the second-best in Class 3A.

"I think we're having a good start. We just need to work on those little things and we'll be doing good," said Rosonke.

Rosonke came alive in the Janesville match – not that she couldn't have demonstrated her fire power in the Dunkerton match, but the Chickasaws were cruising, so her quick-hits off passes from NH's two all-conference setters weren't needed.

Rosonke sent down seven kills against Janesville. She talked about the match versus the Wildcats.

"That first game I think we were just a little tired from our last game," said Rosonke. "I think we just needed to get the momentum back up."

That the Chickasaws did as a 5-0 run to take a 15-7 lead in game two forced Janesville coach

Shelly Sorensen to burn a time-out. But Cahoy and Pesek took over and lassoed the momentum and energy back into New Hampton's corner. Chickasaw senior Jenna Heeren's winner ended game two.

"We just start playing together and the adrenaline starts pumping," smiled Rosonke.

New Hampton was looking to run away and hide in the third game – up 7-1 – but Janesville said not so fast. The Wildcats eventually tied it at 11-11 after a 5-0 run. The match would remain tied at 12-12 before Cahoy's power kill, a mishit by Janesville and another hit into the net by the Wildcats ended an exciting match.

work harder and work on the things that we need to work on," said Rosonke.

Geerts discussed how Janesville took an early 1-0 lead.

"Serve receive was probably our weakness," said Geerts. "We just couldn't get into it to get an offense. We couldn't get the ball up. We got tight."

New Hampton coach appreciates team battling through issues ranging from illnesses, injuries and the weather

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

New Hampton cross country coach Jamie Ohrt will be the first one to tell you that the 2023 season has been like "no other" for her Chickasaws.

Injuries, illnesses and other issues like the weather that pushed the start of the season back by more than two weeks, it's been a season of infamy for Ohrt and her runners.

"It's just been crazy," she said, "and our luck has to change, right? Seriously, we've dealt with so much this year, I just don't think we've ever had a chance to really hit our stride. It's been frustrating because we felt like we had a lot of great pieces going into the year, and we've never been able to have the whole puzzle put together."

Still, the Chickasaws are plugging along and endured another busy week as they competed at Waukon last Tuesday before heading to Grundy Center two nights later.

Leading the way for New Hampton was freshman Sophie Glaser who put together back-to-back sixth-place finishes, completing the Waukon course in 21:09.78 before cutting off almost 20 seconds off her time to finish in 20:50.1 at Grundy Center.

"She wasn't really happy with her times," Ohrt said, "and I had to tell her, 'Girl, you've been sick and you're just coming back.' I thought she ran with a lot of guts and told her that, but it shows you what kind of competitor she is."

At Waukon, though, New Hampton was without both Tegan Dungey and Megan Pickar. The former is battling mononucleosis while the latter was with the New Hampton volleyball team.

The loss of Dungey was just the latest blow in a season where New Hampton just can't seem to catch a break.

"Some days I feel good; some days I feel really awful," the talented sophomore said, "and I don't know if I'm going to get to run this year. I'm really bummed, but I keep telling myself at least it's not my senior year."

"We're a different team obviously with Tegan running, especially when she's 100 percent," Ohrt said. "She's a state meet runner, and you just can't replace that."

Trojans sweep Kee for first UIC win

BY KELLY TERPSTRA

The Turkey Valley Trojan volleyball squad served well in its past two matches and the latter contest produced TV's first league victory of the season.

The Trojans swept Kee High away from the friendly confines of Jackson Junction this past week Tuesday by scores of 25-12, 25-9 and 25-9.

The Trojans were on-point in the serving department against the Hawks (2-9, 1-2) as TV only misfired on one serve. Turkey Valley was a combined 72-73 serving against Kee and knocked down 20 aces. Trojan senior Mariah Thronson came up with six aces to lead the team. TV sophomore Maici Weber registered four aces. Trojan senior Halle Weber and junior Morgan Vsetecka racked up three aces apiece.

"It was a good way to end a long playing streak! The girls are really coming together as a team and you see it in their playing. Serving was great tonight with only one missed serve. Annika Bodensteiner came through strong on the hitting line," said TV assistant coach Tammy Vrzak, who is helping out the Trojans' coaching staff with the absence of second-year head coach Shelbie Balk, who is on maternity leave.

TV (4-11, 1-2) was also proficient in its serve game last week Monday on the road at 13th-rated Don Bosco (8-9). The Dons held off the Trojans 25-14, 20-25, 25-14 and 25-19. The Trojans served 61-62 serving as a team.

Trojan seniors Ryann Schmitt and Adriana Tiedt each accumulated eight kills apiece versus Don Bosco. Maici Weber led TV in assists with 21 and Halle Weber paced the Trojans' defensive attack with 20 digs.

as she rained down 12 kills. Maici Weber added seven kills and 20 assists. Bodensteiner, a sophomore middle/outside hitter, had one of her better matches of the fall with six kills.

TV lost to Don Bosco - 21-7, 21-11 - at the New Hampton Invite earlier this month. The Trojans played at MFL-Mar-Mac on Tuesday and host Clayton Ridge tonight (Thursday).

Chickasaws get off the snide, rout Oelwein

New Hampton picks up first victory as the defense shines in 35-6 rout

BY BOB FENSKE
editor@nhtrib.com

Throughout the four-game losing streak that started the New Hampton football season, the Chickasaws' coaches and players have vowed to stay the course.

And they were rewarded Friday night when New Hampton put together a dominating performance in a 35-6 win over Oelwein on a rainy night.

"Overall, we've been really happy with our kids' attitudes," New Hampton coach Scott Frerichs said after his team improved to 1-4 overall and evened their Class 2A, District 3 record at 1-1. "I would say the attitude has not been good but it's been remarkable. No one wants to be 0-4 but they continued to work hard, they come to practice every day and give us great effort, and it's nice to see that work pay off with a victory."

And now, all of a sudden, New Hampton has a chance to move into a tie for first place in the district with a win this Friday against North Fayette Valley, the district leader that beat Osage 20-8.

"We've just been preaching that you know, ranked wise, all the teams we played, that it's been a long time since we started the season with that tough of a schedule," said senior Ty Robinson, who continued his strong play at linebacker against Oelwein as he recorded 4.5 tackles and a sack.

"I mean you want to win, but really those first three [non-district] games don't really mean anything. If we have everyone back, we know we can still be a dangerous team."

Chickasaws rally to record 20th victory

After dropping open set, New Hampton 'flips a switch' to top 1A-ranked Janesville

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
sports@nhtrib.com

There was a point Thursday night in New Hampton's ranked volleyball battle with Janesville where the flood gates opened.

A flip was switched and the Chickasaws took over.

Anyone in attendance could see it and it's one of the reasons Jess Geerts' sixth-ranked New Hampton squad is going to be tough to take down this fall.

Janesville, newly ranked in Class 1A as the ninth-best team according to the Iowa Girls High School Athletic Union, made a statement early on in a game one win over New Hampton (20-2).

But New Hampton dug out shot after shot off the floor late in the match versus the 12-6 Wildcats. Couple that with an impressive block up front, power from both corners of the net with NH's hitters and the dominating play of Chickasaw all-state senior Marissa Cahoy and it isn't hard to figure out why New Hampton is one of the best teams in Class 3A.

"That's why we're good because we're well-rounded," said Geerts. "If somebody's off, somebody's backing 'em up."

New Hampton continued to roll past the competition in 2023 with a three-set win over those Wildcats at a home triangular that also featured the Dunkerton Raiders.

The Chickasaws disposed of a game Janesville bunch by a score of 18-25, 25-14 and 15-12.

Geerts – in her 18th season as head coach at New Hampton – talked about how Janesville had her Chickasaws on their heels in the game-one loss. The Chickasaws hadn't lost a game since Saturday, Sept. 9's two-set sweep to No. 4 Cedar Falls – a Class 5A squad – at the Osage Invite. New Hampton's other loss on the season is to No. 4 Denver.

"I think defensively we kind of caught on to what they were gunning for – our corners, trying to tip to our middles, just to throw us off guard," said Geerts. "That's the game, right – that's what you do."

Dunkerton (13-11) didn't seem to stand a chance against NH in the second match of the night. Geerts' wrecking ball of a squad was on fire and stayed that way in pulverizing the Raiders – 25-7 and 25-11.

"The biggest thing against Dunkerton is we played hard – from start to finish," said Geerts. "We didn't play down. We played hard."

Cahoy sure didn't hurt New Hampton's chances at victory in either match as her talent set was on full display. Cahoy – a two-time all-state selection and New Hampton's top gun up front was humming – as were her Chickasaw teammates.

"I think her blocking was key tonight. In the Dunkerton game they couldn't get anything past her," said Geerts. "I think that just kinda lit the match. She had a great night."

Cahoy produced five blocks in the Dunkerton win and racked up 20 kills on the night. She is one of the best all-around players in the state as she's a six-rotation player that is also a valuable weapon on the back row for the Chickasaws – meaning she can drop the hammer from anywhere on the court.

Cahoy won't produce as
