Nashua-Plainfield's Kadence Huck is all smiles as the Husky senior makes history as she wins the 800-meter run at the Drake Relays last Friday.

REALIZING THE DRAKE DREAM!

HUCK BECOMES FIRST NASHUA-PLAINFIELD ATHLETE TO CLAIM TITLE AT IOWA'S BIGGEST TRACK AND FIELD MEET

BY BOB FENSKY
Of the Reporter

About the only thing missing from the storied career of Kadence Huck was a Drake Relays flag.

It isn't missing anymore as the superlative senior ran to a career-best time and a victory in the 800-meter run last Friday afternoon at what is arguably the most important track meet in the state of Iowa.

"The goal was to win one Drake flag," Huck said, "and I told myself before the 800 that 'it's your race' and I got out fast."

Did she ever.

And she didn't slow down either as she covered the two laps on the famed "Blue Oval" in 2:10.51 to beat runner-up Grace Boleyn to the finish line by more than a second. As she crossed the finish line, Huck wore a big smile and was handed that flag given to every Drake Relays champion.

"It definitely is special because not a lot of people have them obviously," Huck said. "It's been a goal I've been working on for a while so to be able to finally hold it in my hand and get it, I mean I was smiling as I crossed the finish line. It was definitely special, definitely cool."

The win was the first-ever for a Nashua-Plainfield athlete at the relays where, unlike the state meet,

Organizer puts the final touches on memorial bench ceremony

Fallen Plainfield officer will be honored during the May 10 event

BY BOB FENSKY
Of the Reporter

Retired Chickasaw County Sheriff's Deputy Doug Strike is looking forward to the memorial bench dedication ceremony that will take place a week from this Saturday, May 10, in Plainfield.

He also wishes the event did not need to happen.

"It's a sad thing that you have to do it," he said of the ceremony that will be held to dedicate the bench in memory of William L. Meadows, a Plainfield police officer who died in the line of duty on Jan. 23, 1961. "He gave his life for the community, and his memory needs to be kept alive. It's important and I hope we get a good turnout."

Meadows was responding to a reported break-in at the packing plant when he was shot to death by one of the two suspected robbers. The two men were never apprehended, and the murder of Plainfield's town marshal remains an open case.

"I remember when it happened," Strike said, "and it's still a gut punch to think about it. Bill Meadows was a good man who did a lot of good

Supervisors acknowledge 'end of employment,' OK contract for EMS director

BY BOB FENSKY
Of the Reporter

The Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors may have wrapped up its work on the county's budget and tax levy on April 14, but board members on Monday were still dealing with the residue from budget decisions they made when they voted to certify the budget and tax levy two weeks before.

Board members acknowledged the "end of employment" for employees whose positions were eliminated during the months-long budgeting process and also acknowledged the "change of status" for the county's environmental health director, whose position was reduced from 35 hours to 30 hours a week.

The budget supervisors certified called for the elimination of a position in three departments — the Auditor's Office, the Treasurer's Office and the Sheriff's Office — while the Board of Health, after seeing its proposed budget cut by more than $35,000 — voted to eliminate three positions.

The Auditor's Office had an employee resign in March while supervisors accepted the resignation of dispatcher/jailer Jamie Eckwall on Monday, and supervisors told Sheriff Ryan Shawver that he would not have to go through with the proposed layoff in his office.

Nashua-Plainfield has 14 students, six projects qualify for national contest, claims five 'special' awards

BY BOB FENSKY

Of the Reporter

When it comes to Nashua-Plainfield's powerhouse National History Day program, the storylines seem almost infinite.

From having defending national champions to a trio of seniors making their last run together as a team to switching categories to a plethora of hard-working junior high students, it's a lot to digest.

And while we know we can't get to all of them in just one story, here's the key takeaway: Nashua-

Plainfield had itself a banner — one could even say record-setting — day at the state contest that was held on the campus of Iowa State University in Ames on Monday.

Six Nashua-Plainfield projects put together by 14 students earned either first- or second-place finishes to qualify for next month's national contest that will be held on the campus of the University of Maryland in suburban Washington, D.C.

Nashua-Plainfield also earned

Prom grand march is set for Saturday evening

Gone will be the sweats and t-shirts, replaced by tuxedos and dresses.

That's because Nashua-Plainfield High School will celebrate prom this weekend, and the public is invited to attend to see our kids in a whole different light, at least when it comes to clothes.

The march begins at 7 p.m. in the gymnasium and doors to the gym will open at 6:30.

five special awards during the state contest.

"This was another banner year for N-P National History Day with a record 14 students qualifying for the national contest," said Suzy Turner, the school's National History Day advisor who is retiring at the end of the school year.

"The fact we had the most national qualifying projects of any school in the state this year is a real testament to the kids and the many hours of evening and weekend work they put in to make their projects stand out."

Four projects earned state championships, and they included:

- The junior group website by Lexy Folkerts and Warner Huck titled "The Love Canal Disaster: A Toxic Tale of Citizen Rights and Social Responsibility."

- The senior group website by defending national champions Ava Kirk and Alexa O'Neill titled "Robert Ray's Humanitarian Hope: Responsibility for Rights and Refugee Resettlement."

- The senior group documentary by Cal Levi, Kadence Huck and Paige Franzen titled "How Discrimination Feels: Jane Elliot's Eye-Opening Exercise on Rights, Responsibility, and Racism"

The 22-student strong Nashua-Plainfield contingent poses for a group picture at the National History Day state contest that was held on Monday at Iowa State University.

- The senior individual website by Jackson Mehmen titled "The Iowa Cow War: Moo'ving the Need of Justice to Balance Farmers' Rights and Public Health Responsibilities."

Two more projects placed second and earned trips to D.C., including:

- The junior group website by Braylynn Brase, Mykah Hall, Elizabeth Kalvig, Ellie Sudol, Emilie O'Neill titled "Don't Tinker With My Rights: The Case for School Responsibility and Student First Amendment Rights."

- The senior individual website by Titus Cerwinski titled "The Orphan Train: Railing to Reform Children's Rights Through Societal Responsibility."

"It couldn't have gone better," Turner said. "We had six finalist projects and all six made it. That doesn't happen often. I'm just very proud of all of our kids — the ones that advanced and the ones that didn't — because I know how hard they worked on their projects."

The Nashua-Plainfield contingent also claimed a hefty haul of awards as Mehmen claimed the Agriculture and Rural History Award, Kirk and O'Neill won the Iowa History Award and Franzen was awarded the $1,000 Obermann-Beck College Scholarship. And the junior group website put together by Lydia Chester, Ronan Bond, Cooper Mitchell and Mia Schmitt claimed the Iowa History Award while the senior paper of Connor Sullivan won the Military History Award.

er by Lydia Chester, Ronan Bond, Cooper Mitchell and Mia Schmitt claimed the Iowa History Award while the senior paper of Connor Sullivan won the Military History Award.

Kirk and O'Neill admitted that they felt the pressure of being the defending national champs.

Last summer, their power group website titled "Point, Click, Shoot: Lewis Hine's Photographs Create a Turning Point for Child Labor" gave Nashua-Plainfield its third National History Day title.

"I think last year was a project that we didn't know how to top," Kirk said. "I really do believe that after putting in countless hours on this year's project, I think we have a very strong project."

Her partner agreed.

"We accomplished something great last year," O'Neill said, "and that being said it feels hard to live up to that standard again, but I really do like our project this year, too. I am very grateful for winning last year, and I am just happy to compete again and see how far we can make it."

This marks the sixth consecutive year that Franzen, Huck and Levi have collaborated on a project, and they're heading to the national contest for a fifth consecutive year.

Sure, Huck said, they've experienced some difficulties along the way, "but we've also created countless memories ... and shared lots of snacks."

The trio is feeling a bit nostalgic these days; after all, they've spent countless hours working on projects together.

"It hit me that this is our last trip," Franzen said. "As seniors and five-time national qualifiers, it makes it that more special to finish on the big stage. ... I will miss it."

So, too, will Levi.

"It's been beyond fun," he said, "and I have the best teammates in the world. To end it at nationals, it's perfect."

There are more stories, but sooner or later, this particular story must end.

There's Mehmen, who made nationals as a junior high student and didn't skip a beat moving into the senior division this year.

History Day students seeking donations for national contest

The good news is that Nashua-Plainfield's National History Day program qualified a school-record 14 students for next month's national contest.

The challenging news is that the organization faces a big bill to get all those students and projects out to the University of Maryland, where the contest takes place.

NHD advisor Suzy Turner said the national registration fees, lodging and flights will total about $1,300 per student, and as a result, Turner and her students are seeking donation.

Checks from organizations, businesses and individuals can be made payable to "N-P National History Day" and sent to Turner at the high school.

"This is always the tough part, but we want to make sure all our kids get the opportunity to participate," Turner said. "We appreciate the support we get from our communities."

There's Cerwinski, who made nationals a year ago in the performing division and then switched gears to build a website this year. Different category; same result — a trip to nationals.

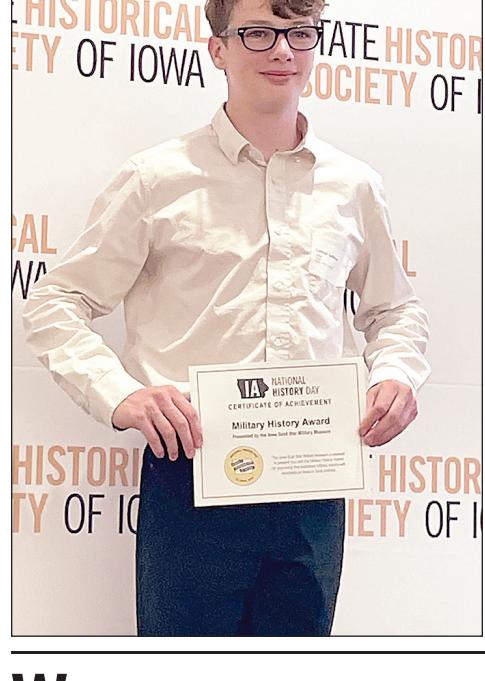

There's the plethora of junior high students, many who were assigned a NHD project as part of Turner's talented and gifted curriculum but have grown to love the camaraderie that comes with the program.

And they're not done just yet.

The national qualifiers have a couple of weeks to improve their project before submitting them to the national judges. And, of course, there's the trip to Washington in June.

The key to NHD is this: Students get a chance to explore the history that interests them. And they have a blast doing it.

"You get to hang out with friends," Mehmen said when asked what makes NHD fun, "and make new friends statewide, and even nationally. That's the best part."

Among the special awards Nashua-Plainfield received are the Military History Award that was given to Connor Sullivan (left) and the Iowa Resource Award (above) that went to Lydia Chester, Mia Schmitt, Ronan Bond and Cooper Mitchell.

We were prepared, but Mother Nature delivered a dud

After days of talk about the potential of severe storms, not much happened in and around Chickasaw County Monday night

By BOB FENSKY
Of the Reporter

At the very least, we got a pretty cool lightning show out of the deal, but all the talk about the severe weather that was going to hit in and around Chickasaw County Monday was just that — talk.

But we were prepared at least.

From emergency agencies making sure plenty of folks were on standby to schools calling off virtually all sporting activities, Mother Nature delivered a whimper instead of a wallop.

Yes, the lightning that could be seen northwest of Nashua around 10 Monday night was, in a word, spectacular, but the county's second largest city got just .06 inches of rain.

Hey, after what had been a rainy month, we needed the break.

Nashua recorded 5.24 inches of rain during April, almost an inch and a half more than it usually receives during the month.

The downside is the recent rains have slowed down farmers who are working on getting their crops into the field.

The latest Iowa Crop Progress and Condition Report that was released by the USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service last Monday showed that about 14 percent of corn and 12 percent of soybeans had been planted in the Northeast District that includes Chickasaw and Bremer counties. The numbers aren't much better — 23 percent of corn and 12 percent of soybeans — in the North Central District that includes Butler and Floyd counties.

The good news is that after Thursday's rainfall, forecasters say we will dry out and warm up.

Temperatures are forecast to be in the 70s for much of next week and there's little rain expected.

Wesley Lewis Hicok, 39

Wesley Lewis Hicok, age 39, passed away on Tuesday, April 29, 2025, surrounded by his family after a courageous battle with cancer.

Wes was born on January 17, 1986, at the Floyd County Hospital in Charles City, the son of Wayne Hicok and Julia Parker Petersen.

He was baptized at the United Methodist Church in Fredericksburg and confirmed at St. John's Lutheran-Western Douglas.

He graduated with honors from Tripoli High School in 2004, where he was active in band, National Honor Society, All-State Choir and participated in the high school musicals.

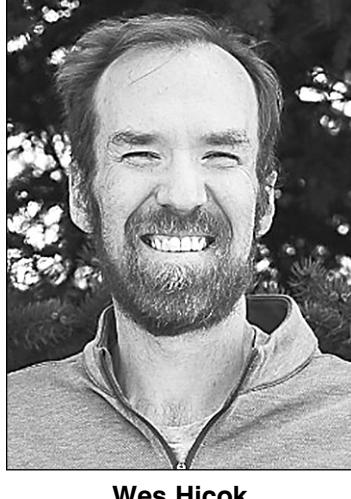

After high school, Wes worked as a camp counselor at the YMCA in Anchorage, Alaska.

In 2006, he started working for the Bremer County Auditor's Office, where he later became deputy auditor. While working for Bremer County he was elected mayor of Fredericksburg in 2013. For the last nine years Wes had been working with the Iowa Secretary of State's office becoming director of elections in the fall of 2023. He was certified as a certified elections/registration administrator in 2021.

Wes was a talented musician, enjoyed golfing and watching sports. He was an avid fan of the St. Louis Cardinals, the Miami Dolphins and was a huge follower of Iowa Hawkeyes football.

He had a special connection with his friends, enjoying the vacations they took together. He especially enjoyed spending time with his nieces and nephews along with heckling his siblings.

Wes is survived by his parents, Wayne and Carol Hicok of Nashua and Julia and Don Petersen of Fredericksburg; his grandfather, Eldon Parker of Center Point; his brother and sisters, Brent (Amanda) Petersen of Waverly, Luke (Nicole) Hicok of Fredericksburg, Bethany Petersen of Nashville, Tennessee, Kara (Matt) Rosenbaum of Ionia, Tyler (Kristin) Hicok of Plainfield, Tyler (Joshua) Klobassa of Ankeny, and Kevin (Natalie) Klobassa of Ventura; and his 13 nieces and nephews.

Wes Hicok

He was preceded in death by his grandparents, Gerald and Georgie Hicok, Mary Ann Parker, Marvin and Doris Fisher, and Arthur and Elnora Petersen; along with many aunts and uncles.

A visitation will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, May 4, 2025, at the Kaiser-Corson Funeral Home in Waverly and will continue for one hour prior to the service on Monday at the church.

A funeral service will be held at 11 a.m. on Monday, May 5, 2025, at St. John Lutheran Church in Nashua with Pastor Todd Burrichter officiating.

Burial will be held in Greenwood Cemetery in Nashua. The service will be live-streamed on the St. John Lutheran Church's YouTube page at stjohnlutherannashua.

Kaiser-Corson Funeral Home in Waverly is assisting the family.

N-P students to perform concerts next week; seniors running out of days

The Nashua-Plainfield Music Department will present its Spring Concerts this Tuesday at the high school gymnasium.

The junior high concert will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the high school concert is set to start at 7:30 p.m.

The concerts are another sure sign that the end of the school year is fast approaching, and for high school seniors, next week will be the last full week of their high school academic careers.

Seniors will have their last day of classes on Wednesday, May 14, and an optional Baccalaureate service will be held at 6:30 that night in the gym and be followed by Senior Awards Night.

Graduating students are reminded that there is no limit to the number of guests they have at commencement but that each senior will receive only six "floor" tickets.

Nashua-Plainfield's commencement ceremony will be held at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, May 18 in the gymnasium.

The final day of classes for all other students will be Friday, May 23, when students will have a three-hour early dismissal.

Supervisor expresses frustration with Board of Health severance

SUPERVISORS: FROM 1

At least one supervisor expressed his disappointment that in addition to the extra month of insurance the county agreed to give the laid-off employees, the Board of Health voted to give two of its employees $500 for each year of service as part of a severance package.

"I'm just going to state that I don't think this is right," Supervisor Travis Suckow said, "because the other ones aren't getting the same thing."

Although it appeared his fellow board members were in agreement, Board Chairman Jake Hackman said that the Board of Health is a so-called autonomous board.

"It's their Board of Health," he said. "We're just acknowledging what they did for payroll reasons."

Also on Monday, supervisors approved a new one-year contract for Chickasaw County EMS Director Joel Knutson. The new contract that goes into effect on July 1 will not come with a salary increase for the director.

"I think the status quo is fine with me," said Knutson, whose current salary is $80,000 per year.

I expressed it during my review that I wouldn't be seeking a wage increase, just with the budgetary constraints the county is going through. I, myself, would feel better about staying at the same wage."

The lone change in the contract is the fact that the board will no longer have to adhere to a March 31 deadline when it comes to conducting Knutson's job-performance review, and that change was suggested by Knutson.

"It's usually right in the middle of your budget and I know you guys are busy," he said. "I don't see why we need that date."

Board members approved the change and the contract on a 4-0 vote, with Supervisor Steve Breitbach, who is Knutson's uncle, abstaining from the vote.

In other business Monday:

- Supervisors approved the contract for service by the Chickasaw County libraries. Board members had first agreed to give the county's libraries a 6 percent increase in funding during the fiscal year that starts July 1, but after budget concerns grew, they decided to scale back the funding to the same as it was in the 2023-24 fiscal year.

That means libraries will receive $124,337.50 next year from the county's Rural Services Basic (RSB) fund, about $7,000 less than they received for this fiscal year.

- Board members also approved the hiring of Conrad Rosendahl as an interim medical examiner investigator after Knutson said one of the county's current investigators will be unable to work for an undetermined amount of time.

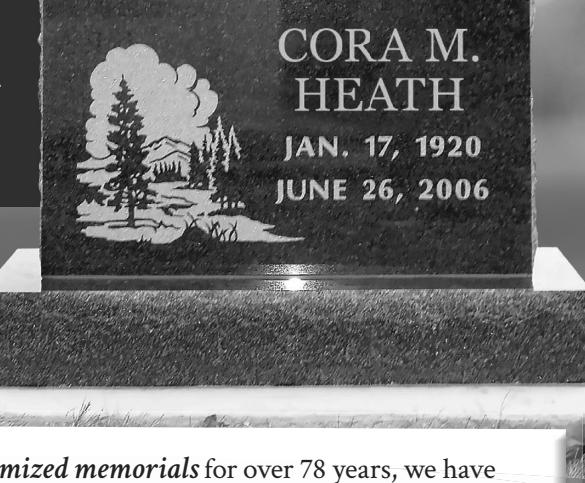

Rosendahl is the chief of police in New Hampton, but when he held the same position in Lansing, he was a medical examiner investigator for Allamakee County.

Knutson told board members Rosendahl is certified, which means the county won't have to pay for any training costs.

- Supervisors also approved publishing notice of two available terms on the Veterans Affairs Commission. The terms of Katie Boehmer and Dean Speicher will expire on June 30, and anyone interested in applying for a three-year term can stop at the Auditor's Office or go to the county's website at chicksasawcounty.iowa.gov.

Memorial to be dedicated at Plainfield's Veterans Park

things for Plainfield."

About a year ago, Strike set out on his quest to provide a permanent memorial to the fallen officer, and he quickly found plenty of allies — including Plainfield Mayor Tom Geise and longtime Plainfield resident Kenn Deike.

Money was raised not only for the bench that will be placed in Plainfield Veterans Park but also for a headstone at Meadows' gravesite in a Waverly cemetery.

The May 10 program will begin at 10 a.m. at the park and include opening remarks by Geise, vocalist Sherry Greenlee performing "God Bless the USA," Strike and Deike will offer up "words of remembrances" and current Bremer County Sheriff's Office Chief Deputy will read the poem "American Died."

Following the dedication ceremony, refreshments will be served at the Plainfield Public

"We've had a lot of wonderful financial support," Strike said, "and I'm really hoping we have a good turnout for the ceremony. Bill Meadows deserves it."

Meadows is one of 220 Iowa peace officers who have lost their lives while serving and protecting.

"When you see the number of officers and then you realize the firefighters and the other rescue personnel who have died," Strike said, "it's just really sobering."

"All of these people, like Bill, must be remembered."

Nashua-Plainfield discus thrower matches seed at Drake

Jennifer Kalainoff

Nashua-Plainfield junior Eli Kalainoff begins his trip through the ring in the discus event at the Drake Relays last Friday.

Huck has PRs in all of her Drake events

runners and schools are not separated by classes.

"It's definitely meaningful. They've not only been goals for myself, but I know it means a lot to the community to show up and get down there," Huck said. "Some of the 4A girls were like 'thankfully you're not 4A' and that means a lot to me because coming from a 1A school that's small, you don't have the same opportunities as some of them or the same resources."

"So to be able to make it big without them is special to me. And to represent my school and our community, that makes it even more special."

The rest of Huck's weekend wasn't bad, either, as she took second in the 400 later in the day on Friday and then ran to a fourth-place finish in the 1,500 on Saturday afternoon.

That gave the Oklahoma State University-bound Huck eight Drake Relays medals for her career. In 2023, she finished fourth in the 400 and fifth in both the 800 and 1,500. Last spring, she took third in both the 400 and 800 and also ran a legendary anchor leg on the Huskies' sprint medley relay team that was eventually disqualified.

"She's a once-in-a-lifetime athlete," Nashua-Plainfield coach Amber McCall said, "and I know that's stating the obvious. To see her get that flag, to see what she accomplished this weekend, it's something I'll never forget."

In all three races, she set new career marks and obviously new school records. She ran the 400 in 55.45 seconds and only Clear Lake's Reese Brownlee beat her to the finish line. Despite getting cut off during the second lap of the 1,500, Huck finished the race in 4:34.56.

"She told me her goal was to PR in everything," Carter said, "and when Kadence sets her goals, I'm never ever going to bet against her. Obviously, she's got so much talent, but what makes her Kadence is the work ethic, and she's really mindful of things like sleep and nutrition. I guess what I'm saying is that it's more than talent. She's the whole package."

Huck isn't done yet, either.

She'll be back at Drake Stadium May 22-24 for the Class 1A state meet where she will look to add to the eight state titles she has already won.

Carter, meanwhile, has some decisions to make. Huck will in all likelihood run the 400, 800 and 1,500 when Nashua-Plainfield competes at the Class 1A state qualifying meet in Northwood on May 15, but that fourth event remains up in the air. Does she run a relay? Does she compete in the 200, a race in which she broke a 25-year-old school record the first time she ran it and is also the top time in 1A so far this season?

"I do love relays," she said. "I think it's a different kind of feeling running a relay at state. It's fun to be part of a team, if that makes any sense."

As far as the 200 goes, she couldn't help but laugh.

"I mean it's like fine," she said. "It's short, and I like that it's short. ... Time will tell what we do."

The driven student-athlete does admit that she may have a case of senioritis.

"I'm ready to be done with school," Huck said. "There's like a week where we don't have school and we still have track. I think that's going to be my favorite week."

But for a moment earlier this week, she looked back on an extraordinary weekend on that famed Blue Oval.

"It was fun, it was great to run with people and PR in everything," she said. "That's what I wanted, that and the flag."

Huskies' Kalainoff puts together a solid effort to take 11th in premier meet

BY BOB FENSK

Of the Reporter

Let's put Eli Kalainoff's Drake Relays in perspective.

If he had made the same throw he did at Drake nine days before, he would have broken his own school record by almost four feet.

Yet, despite the fact that he matched his 11th-place seeding with an 11th-place finish at the premier track and field meet, the disappointment could be heard in the Nashua-Plainfield junior's voice as he talked about his experience in Des Moines.

"My goal was to place and throw over 165, that's what I wanted to do," Kalainoff said. "I wasn't happy or disappointed, it was like whatever. I was hoping I would do better."

The bottom line is this: He did just fine.

"It's not like it was a joke that he got there. He performed at a high level," Nashua-Plainfield coach Chase Sudol said. "Our goal was to get someone there finally and you know we accomplished that, so you know there's nothing to be ashamed of there. He did a helluva job."

Start with the positives. He was one of only two athletes in the 24-man field to not scratch on any of his throws. After getting off throws of 146-11.25 and 143-1.75, he came up with a toss of 155-2.75, just a couple feet from making the finals.

Still, he was hoping for more, especially after uncorking a throw of 167 feet at New Hampton eight days before he entered the ring in Des Moines. That toss not only gave him the best mark by a 1A thrower in the state but sent him to Drake.

"Here's the deal: He threw really well at New Hampton," Sudol said. "He hasn't gotten back there yet. He went down there and still threw extremely well."

Sudol said that he's been told that Kalainoff is the first male athlete to qualify as an individual for the Drake Relays, and he, along with his standout athlete, have high goals for the rest of the season.

Kalainoff said he's aiming for a throw of 170 feet sometime this year, but there's no doubt that after making the state meet a year ago, he's taken his discus game up a notch this year.

"Probably just like my rotation and my feet," he said when asked about the biggest improvements he's made from his sophomore season. "I'm coming through a little faster and being more smooth and balanced on my release."

And he believes the Drake experience will pay off as he and his fellow Huskies gear up for a postseason run that begins next week at the TIC East meet and continues at the Class 1A state qualifying meet in Northwood on May 15.

"Drake was fun, and I think it helps because everyone's a little better there than at state," he said, "and I like that you do one, one, one instead of doing a couple of throws each time. I think it helps to get one of those meets. I just have to go back to work and get better."

terms of nine-hole stroke average with a 201.

Faith Franzen has the 24th-best nine-hole average overall in 1A for the Huskies.

The Husky girls team also took on Grundy Center, Crestwood and North Butler in a quad at home last Friday and placed second to the Spartans – 182 to 199.

Franzen went even lower at home in that meet with a 41 to once again snare the top spot on the leaderboard. Faith Franzen notched a 43 and McCain carded a 54. O'Neill and fellow junior Ava Kirk each carded rounds of 61 and freshman Natalie Feldman entered the clubhouse with a 61.

Grundy Center finished 10th overall at the Class 2A state meet a year ago, which was held in Boone at Cedar Pointe Golf Course. The Spartans are listed as the fourth-best team in 2A with just under a 185 stroke average per nine holes.

"They're good. They're solid," Trost said about the Spartans. "They've also got six girls that can score on any day."

Trost talked about remaining steady out on the course and improving meet by meet. That

Crunch time nears for N-P golfers

Husky girls give Class 2A power Grundy Center run but settle for second at annual triangular

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

The Nashua-Plainfield golf teams are running out of time.

That can be a good thing or a bad spot to be in.

It depends where your game is at.

For the N-P girls squad, who are looking to crack the state field for the third consecutive season under longtime head coach Jeff Trost – it's a matter of peaking at the right moment and staying consistent out on the links.

"You always try to point and be at your best at tournament time," said Trost.

Those dependable and reliable scores for the Husky boys have been hit or miss.

"We're just trying to find that consistency we always strive for," said Trost.

The N-P boys took on the Pioneer Town & Country Club in Manly last week Thursday and came away with a 190 – three strokes better than the host Panthers, who finished third. N-P placed runner-up to Northwood-Kensett's 175.

The Vikings' Caden Helgesen was meet medalist with a 37, followed by Husky senior William Lindeland, who matched a career low, nine-hole score with a 43.

"By and large he's been pretty consistent with what he's been doing," said Trost about Lindeland. "He just puts his head down and does what he can do. He doesn't try to do too much. His short game is shored up a little bit. If he can keep himself out of trouble on his drives, he's usually pretty solid."

While the N-P girls team sport a top-10 stroke average in the small-school class for nine holes, the N-P boys are further on down the list – 58th overall (184 average) in 1A to be precise as of Thursday afternoon.

"We gotta figure it out. We gotta figure out how to get it in the hole," said Trost.

Tournament time is fast approaching as the Husky boys played at home on Thursday against Rockford and St. Ansgar, then play in two meets before sectionals start on Wednesday, May 14. The remaining two meets after Thursday's final regular season home meet are at Round Grove Country Club in Greene on Monday and the following Monday, May 12 back at Pioneer in Manly for the TIC East league meet.

The meet scheduled for earlier this week on Monday at Ridge Stone Golf Club in Sheffield was cancelled due to weather.

N-P is led by senior Dawson Glaser, who averages just over 46 strokes per nine holes this spring.

Dawson's playing pretty solid, but I don't think it's anything where he's satisfied with it. He would like to get that down. He's got chances at home. He's got an opportunity to do some things there," said Trost.

The N-P girls were once again led by senior Paige Franzen in Manly as she was the overall meet medalist with a 45. That low score, along with Husky senior Faith Franzen's 50, as well as N-P juniors Paisley McCain's 54 and Elayna O'Neill's 56 allowed N-P to win the triangular over Central Springs – 205 to 267.

"We're sitting pretty solid. We're trying to fine-tune everything and take away those shots that are just kind of what I call throw away shots where you stub a chip or don't take your time on a putt," said Trost.

The weather conditions at Manly were not pleasant according to Trost.

"It was miserable. It was windy and chilly. We didn't know whether we were going to be able to have the meet or not because of the weather forecast," said Trost.

Paige Franzen is ninth in the small-school class with a 43.57 nine-hole average. She finished fourth overall at state as a sophomore in 2023 at Boone and 11th last year at the American Legion Marshalltown course, where the 1A state meet will be played again this year.

Husky girls get their home meet in despite threatening weather

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

No Kadence Huck, no problem.

With its superstar athlete down in Des Moines competing in the Drake Relays last week, Husky head coach Amber McCall was very pleased to see several standout performances out on the oval by her Huskies during N-P's home invite on Thursday.

The fact that there was even a meet at all impressed McCall. Mother Nature ended up cooperating and that gave multiple Huskies the chance to shine in front of the hometown crowd.

"It was great to get another meet in, especially at our home meet. The weather seemed to be a concern, but thankfully held out for us as well. We weren't able to do field events due to the wetness and potential chance of rain. We have not had that situation in quite a few years," said McCall.

McCall saluted N-P Athletic Director Ami Hagen and all who helped make the N-P Invite a go on Thursday evening, despite the threatening sky and soggy conditions.

"I would like to give a big shout out to Ami (Hagen) and all of our track and field workers. We could literally not have a meet without her or any of them! All of them helped us as NP ran such a smooth track and field meet. I just hope they know that their work and everything they put into it does not go unnoticed and we are so appreciative of all of it!" said McCall.

As far as how the competition went down, well the team standings were won by Wapsie Valley (68 points). West Fork was second with 56 points and Janesville (51 points) was third. N-P finished with 14 points, which listed the Huskies as 13th-best team in the standings.

N-P ran a season low 11:57.96 in the 4x800 relay with the squad of freshman Emeri McCumber, senior Amberly Gerholdt, sophomore Rachel Paplow and freshman Emma Hinders.

McCall was super happy about Hinders' runs out on the oval as she PR'd in the 800 run (2:56), the 1,500 run (6:13) and her split in that aforementioned 4x800 relay.

"Emma had a huge night. I'm very proud of her and her effort. She has had a huge season doing many events for us. Most nights she runs the 3,000 – 800 or 400 in the distance med – the open 800 and the 1,500 run. That's insane. It takes a lot of grit and heart to do something like that and the girl does her thing!" said McCall.

N-P's shuttle hurdle relay of junior Abi Schmitt, freshman Adiley Gerholdt, sophomore Manuela Jimenez and freshman Kelly Cerwinski ran a season-best time of 1:23.51. That placed them sixth in the event.

The Huskies' sprint medley relay of freshman Eva Foelske, junior Jalissa White, Jimenez and Cerwinski placed third in 2:01.

Huskies place fourth at weekend shoot as senior stays hot

Nic Brase is having a fine senior season out on the trapshooting range for his Nashua-Plainfield Huskies.

Brase continued to showcase his marksmanship skills this spring.

Brase only missed one target at the Cresco Area Clay Crushers Invite on Saturday in Cresco. He fired a 49-20, but lost in a shoot-off for second amongst two other shooters – Kail Schmelzer (49-23) of Cresco and Turkey Valley/Sumner-Fredericksburg's Graham Schmitt (49-21).

Huskies ready to turn corner as the state qualifier looms

After Sumner-Fred meet canceled, Nashua-Plainfield boys pick up a meet at Osage and puts up several solid times

BY KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

No one wants to hear the "p" word in track and field – plateau.

That's why the Nashua-Plainfield boys track team is ready to crank it into another gear and quickly consume some serious real estate out on the oval. The goal to reach even greater heights is also on the to-do list for Husky throwers and jumpers.

It's definitely "go-time."

"We feel really confident in a lot of these guys' performances. It's crunch time. That's why we got into a meet last night to continue to work on things. Urgency is now – we gotta go. There's no longer time to wait. We gotta get things done and times down so we're seeded good for districts and make sure we're ready to rock n' roll," said N-P head coach Chase Sudol.

Sudol and his Huskies ran at the Kyle Marquard Invite in Greene last Friday, a boys only meet hosted by North Butler. Then Sumner-Fredericksburg's scheduled meet on Monday was cancelled due to the threat of severe thunderstorms and tornadoes in the area. That meant Sudol quickly got on the phone and dialed up a meet at the last minute in Osage to join on Tuesday.

"We're sitting pretty solid. We're trying to fine-tune everything and take away those shots that are just kind of what I call throw away shots where you stub a chip or don't take your time on a putt," said Trost.

The weather conditions at Manly were not pleasant according to Trost.

"It was miserable. It was windy and chilly. We didn't know whether we were going to be able to have the meet or not because of the weather forecast," said Trost.

The N-P track coach, who is also the Huskies' head football coach, talked about the up-and-down process of experimentation during the regular season in order to try to peak here in the next few weeks.

"At North Butler you felt like you hit a wall and you feel like you went backwards, when really it's just part of the process. You gotta trust your work and trust your athletes and be ready to go," said Sudol.

One runner that has really made his mark for Sudol and the Huskies this season is junior long-distance runner Brexton Bird – who notched a career PR in the mile (1,600) run at North Butler with a 5:03.45. That earned him a silver medal for his second-place effort – the same result he got at Osage with a 5:08.

"He's come a long ways. He continues to take time off. That's what's cool about him," said Sudol. "The kid has turned into a good runner."

Bird might not possess the flashiest times in the small-school class or the best running form out on the oval, but he gets the job done.

"His running style when he first started was not pretty. It still looks very awkward, but he's really cranked it up and he's a huge asset to our team. He's going to have an opportunity – I think in the 4x800 – to have a chance to qualify. We're excited to see what he can do. He's earned the right to have that chance," the N-P coach said.

N-P senior Luke Paplow ran to a second-place finish in the 3,200 run at Osage with a time of 11:23.

N-P's distance medley relay of Navarii Williams, Eli Kalainoff, Jake Smith and Jase Hansen earned a gold medal with a winning time of 4:02 over in North Butler.

The Huskies' sprint medley relay of Williams, Landon Foelske, Kalainoff and Smith produced a 1:42.86, which ended up being the fourth-quickest relay in that event at Osage.

Kalainoff threw 142 in the discus, good for second place at Osage.

Sudol said the field events at North Butler were canceled after soggy conditions put a halt to those throwing and jumping events.

N-P placed sixth at North Butler with 54 points and wound up seventh at Osage (48 points).

N-P ran at Dike-New Hartford on Thursday, then hosts the Cowpath Relays in Nashua on Monday. The conference meet will take place back at Greene on Thursday, May 8 and the regular season finale will take place at Central Springs on Monday, May 12.

The state qualifier is slated to go down at Northwood on Thursday, May 15.

Teams at this point have to take the good with the bad and hope their teams trend in a positive direction when all chips will be on the table in the district meet in less than two weeks. A fast track is where N-P wants to be on when the postseason rolls around. They're still working their way to get there.

"We didn't run our best on Friday and then last night we ran really well," said Sudol. "It's part of high school – you have good nights and you have bad nights. You just gotta continue to tweak things and see where it takes you."
