EMS director to retire next year

Viktirek tells City Council she hopes to leave position by April 1, says there's interest in job

By KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

Zenda Vikturek, the Nashua Area EMS Director, informed the Nashua City Council at Monday's meeting that she is planning on retiring next year.

The ambulance service has been a success since it was launched just over two years ago on July 1, 2023, but Vikturek would like to be able to hire her replacement soon and before she steps down from her leadership position after a planned retirement date that would take place in roughly nine months.

"I would like to be retired by April 1 next year," said Vikturek.

Viktirek said the ambulance service has responded to 102 calls so far this year inside Nashua's city limits. She said covering shifts in the daytime has become more difficult because she incurred an injury recently.

"The biggest problem we're having right now is daytime coverage because I broke my wrist and I can't do anything until the 1st of September," said Vikturek. As far as how the hiring process will be handled to replace her once she steps down, that's not concrete as of yet, but she said there are a few people that have shown interest in the job.

We could use a little drying out

Nashua has received more than double normal rainfall during July

By BOB FENSKE
Of the Reporter

Mother Nature, dang it, went too far this week; after all, that rain she showered on the area meant some of us couldn't get our Harrington's Sweetcorn.

Area sweet corn aficionados awoke both Wednesday and Thursday to social media posts in which Harrington Sweetcorn LLC announced that overnight rains both days meant we'd have to take a break from what most of us believe is the best dang corn in the land.

"Due to another 1 1/2 inches of rain, we will not have any trucks out selling today," a Facebook post read on Thursday morning, although Harrington's was available at the so-called homestead.

Still, this is getting ridiculous, isn't it?

The official National Weather Service reporting station for Nashua, which is located at the Northeast Iowa Research and Demonstration Farm just to the southwest of the city, had received 8.61 inches of rain in July as of Thursday morning.

That's more than double — or 229.6 percent — the normal 3.75 inches that usually fall during the first 24 days of the month.

"You need a kayak to get around anywhere these days," ISU Extension Agronomist Terry Basol said with a laugh before turning serious. "Honestly, we could use a little drying out right."

NASHUA PUBLIC LIBRARY 'LOCKS UP' WEDNESDAY NIGHT SCHEDULES FOR NASHUA AREA FAMILIES

Brock Barnabas — using a leaf blower no less — spewed toilet paper all over the kids gathered at the Nashua Public Library Wednesday evening, and trust us, the youngsters loved it.

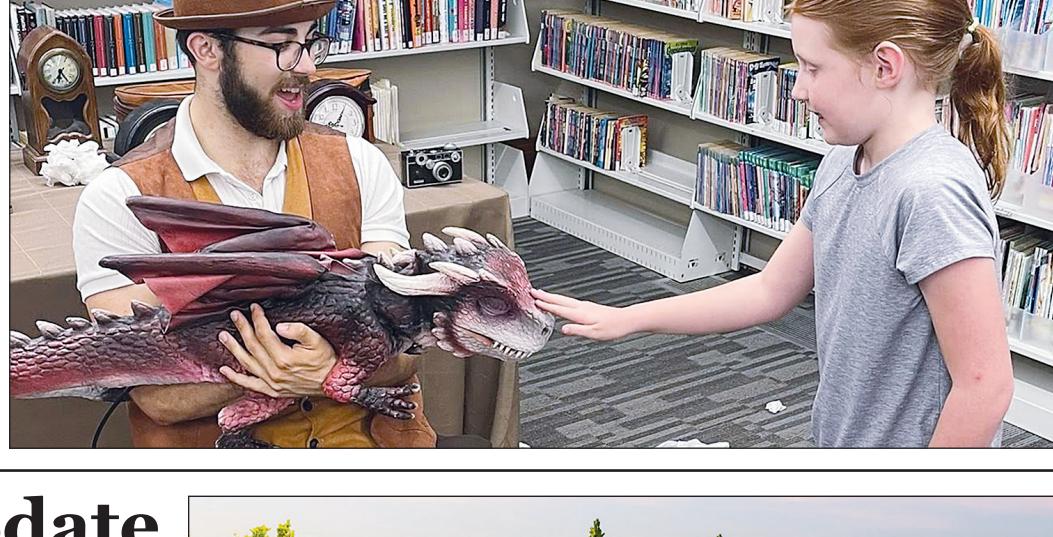

Two weeks before, Pikachu and Mario were at the library and last week, the library hosted a carnival.

And guess what? The kids loved those programs, too.

Welcome to "Level Up at Your Library," the summer reading program that has filled the Wednesday night schedule for numerous families in and around Nashua.

Council gets update on Pa's Playground

Playground supporters hope construction on all-inclusive playground can start in '26

By KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

Red, green, yellow, orange or even blue?

The city of Nashua and its Park Board will soon have to make that all important decision.

Pa's Playground, an incarnation in the works in memory of Howard Schuler of Nashua, is coming along nicely.

But there's still work to be done with the project that plans on building a modern, all-inclusive playground for children and families of all ages.

The idea sprung up a few years ago and has made steady progress since. The final phase of the three-tiered plan would be replete with a farm-themed playground that would feature constructed "play animals" like cows and pigs, corn stalks to climb on and everybody's favorite — a tractor.

That's where a "big" vote will have to be cast as far as what hue the tractor will be at the proposed playground, which could also be called a park as it currently has a shelter built on the property next to the Schluter Addition on the southwest side of Nashua that connects with Amherst Boulevard.

A great way to beat the heat and humidity

A jet-skier glides across Cedar Lake around 7 on Wednesday evening when temperatures were still near 90 degrees. Throw in the suffocating humidity that has afflicted the area for much of the week, and a night on the lake provided a perfect way to cool off.

Despite wet weather, crops look 'amazing'

WEATHER: FROM 1

now. I know the guys wouldn't mind a few dry days."

Yet, Basol said that while there is such a thing as "too much rain," area corn and soybean fields look, "amazing."

Then again, the same could have been said a year ago as well, and then suddenly, Mother Nature seemed to completely turn off the tap and the area endured drought conditions through this spring.

"Right now, oh my, both corn and soybeans look really, really good," Basol said. "We need farmers to be scouting fields to keep an eye out for diseases and issues that come with a wet year."

"So far, though, it looks really, really good. We don't need to dry out like we did last year, we just need a few days."

The rainy July followed an almost-as-wet June in which Nashua received 8.76 inches of rain, almost three inches more than normal.

And that has removed any worries, for now, at least of drought.

The latest Iowa Crop Progress and Condition Report that was put out by the USDA's National Agricultural Statistical Service on Monday showed that 100 percent of topsoil in the Northeast District that includes Chickasaw and Bremer counties and 99 percent of topsoil in the North Central District that includes Floyd and Butler counties has either adequate or surplus moisture.

Bob Fenske/Reporter

A swing set in the "lower part" of Cedar View Park has a "water hazard" Wednesday evening after torrential rains fell the night before. Officially, Nashua received 4.28 inches of rain from the storms that struck the area on Wednesday and Thursday, but residents just to the east of Nashua reported that they received up to six inches of precipitation from the storms.

Subsoil moisture profiles are also full as 98 percent of Northeast District farmland has adequate or surplus moisture and 99 percent of North Central District farmland has the same.

"It's shaping up to be a very good year," Basol said, "but you know me, I have to say it. We have a ways to go."

Those hoping for a break from the rain, though, may have to keep their fingers crossed, especially later today and into tonight.

That's because the National Weather Service says there is a decent chance that more showers and thunderstorms will move through the area, beginning this evening.

After drying out Saturday afternoon into Sunday, more rain chances — albeit slight — are in the forecast through at least next Thursday.

And those who would like a little break from the heat are out of luck as the forecast high temperature for both Sunday and Monday is 90.

Evolution of a relay

Years ago, the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life challenged members of the community to form teams that could "relay" for those fighting cancer. Teams raised money for the worthy cause, in part, by promising to have at least one team member walking on the track at all times.

It was symbolic. The message to those fighting cancer as well as to their caregivers was, "You are not alone. You have a whole team behind you. We're with you."

But like so many things in life, systems and the way we do things will sometimes just run its course. Today, there isn't much left of the relay in Relay for Life. There is no protocol to form large teams and to commit to time on a track or walking trail. Individuals are still welcome to do that, but it hasn't been an expectation for quite a while.

That doesn't mean that Relay for Life has stopped being a force in raising funds for the American Cancer Society.

It continues to be a crucial resource to raise money for cancer research and for new and more effective treatments. It provides nearly a half billion in grants to study and help eradicate these cancers: blood, brain, breast, cervical, colon, head and neck, kidney, lung, melanoma, ovarian, pancreatic, prostate, sarcoma (soft tissue) and childhood cancers.

It provides another $43 million in research dollars to study other cancers not listed here.

Important dollars are still being raised for the American Cancer Society, but how we're doing it at the local level has changed.

About 2,000 Relay for Life events are held throughout the country every year.

Each event is unique to its community, but they all have something in common. They celebrate cancer survivors, acknowledge the important role of caregivers, honor and remember loved ones, and raise dollars that will go on to fund critical research.

Individuals may participate in these Relay for Life events in a way that is comfortable to them.

That could mean simply listening to program speakers tell their stories about their journey with cancer. Or hearing, remembering, and silently honoring the names of loved ones who have passed away from cancer. Or sharing a meal with someone and enjoying live music that may be provided—knowing that cancer, in some way, has touched all of us and that it's up to all of us to try to eradicate it.

Your attendance at Relay for Life makes a difference. And yes, your donations help to move toward the goal of one day making cancer a survivable diagnosis for everyone. But it's more than that.

Your presence is symbolic. For those currently fighting cancer. For their caregivers. For others honoring the memory of a loved one. For all of these individuals, the message you send is, "You are not alone."

And that's what is core to Relay for Life—not an actual relay, but a fellowship.

Let us do good together by supporting our local Relay for Life.

Chickasaw County Relay for Life set for a week from this Sunday

Chickasaw County residents will gather on Sunday, Aug. 3, to take on cancer at the annual county-wide Relay for Life event that will take place at Highland Park in Lawler.

The Relay will run from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and include a freewill donation meal, live music and the chance to honor a loved one who has been lost to cancer or who has survived the disease with a luminary bag.

The suggested donation for a luminary bag is $10.

At 1 p.m., a program will be held and speakers will share short stories about their cancer journeys.

The Relay for Life event is open to all, and attendees are encouraged to bring a lawn chair.

Funds raised during the Relay for Life will be used for various programs and research conducted by the American Cancer Society.

Briefs

Little Brown Church to hold annual Marriage Reunion Aug. 3

Married couples from near and far will gather just outside Nashua on Sunday, Aug. 3, when the Little Brown Church in the Vale hosts its 72nd annual Marriage Reunion and Vow Renewal.

The event will begin at 8:30 a.m. with coffee and donuts, and at 10:15, couples will head into the historic church for its weekly "Sing-a-Long," and the worship service that will include the vow renewal will begin at 10:30.

Following the service, lunch will be served on the grounds of the church that is located just to the east of Nashua.

Church officials emphasize that the reunion is not just for those who said their "I do's" at the Little Brown Church; instead, all married couples are invited to attend the meeting.

Those who are attending should call the church at 641-435-2027 to reserve a lunch.

Ionia Fun Days kicks off next Friday

The theme for this year's Ionia Fun Days — which is to be held Aug. 1 and 2 — is "Honoring Hometown Heroes."

Grand Marshals of the 11 a.m. Saturday parade will be the "past, present and future Ionia Military Heroes."

But kicking off the weekend will be kid's painting at 6 p.m. Friday at the Ionia Community Library meeting room, kids must pre-register by contacting Heather Hackman.

Friday's activities include a softball tournament, a family game show, the crowning of the Fun Days royalty and a fireworks show that will start at dusk.

The slate on Saturday includes a freewill donation pancake breakfast, the parade, a bags tournament, puzzle, pop and pizza challenge and the Southland Band wrap up Ionia Days on Saturday.

Despite fund falling below 'threshold,' board votes to waive EMS payments

By KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

When six towns entered into a 28E agreement to fund Chickasaw County's ambulance service back in 2023 – each entity took a chance that the contract would work.

While there was admitted uncertainty as to how that union would play out, the state of that venture is a lot more clear two-and-a-half years in.

At this past Monday's Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors meeting, those cities, along with the county, learned that another quarterly payment to that EMS has been waived.

"I can't say for the cities, but I have to assume the way this has gone, I think all of them will be more than happy to continue the agreement. It's worked well," said board member Steve Breitbach. "I don't think anybody expected a year of waived payments this early in the contract."

That's what has taken place in the five-year agreement that saw roughly $280,000 of payment forgone from New Hampton, Bassett, Fredericksburg, Ionia, Lawler, North Washington and the county's share of that funding.

On a 3-1 vote the Board waived October 5's fall payment. Breitbach made the motion and it was seconded. His vote, along with Vice Chair Scott Cervinske and Issac Carter, made it certain that another payment was waived. No payments were made in 2024 by the cities. That will also hold true in 2025 as the next scheduled payment is due on Jan. 15, 2026. The County has made just two payments after certifying the budget and tax levy in the spring of 2024.

"So if they paid in January, this would be their first payment in two years," said Chickasaw County Attorney David Laudner.

Under the 28E agreements the county has with the six cities, quarterly payments are waived if the EMS fund balance is above $750,000 for two consecutive reporting dates."

"They'll have to be above 750 for two consecutive quarters in order to automatically trigger the stop again," said Laudner. "You can waive any payment you want."

Laudner reminded the Board that January's scheduled payment goes up 5 percent.

"The number is going to have to be calculated off of 2023, plus five percent, plus another another five percent. Then January would be another plus five percent. It would accrue. It would be 15 percent," Laudner stated about January's 2026 scheduled payment.

Chickasaw County EMS Director Joel Knutson said his ambulance service's cash balance was $716,000. He said that quarterly cash pool report could be under $750,000 come January, the next scheduled payment after October.

"We don't know what the next quarters are going to be," said Knutson. "We don't know the financial impact that this Medicaid subsidy is going to have. If they were to make this payment in October or January, it's going to push the balance up over a million dollars. I feel like there's probably a better place that the cities and the county can allocate those funds to than sitting with such a high pool of cash balance."

Knutson said his department will receive a GEMT (Ground Emergency Medical Transportation) subsidy, which he said will 'certainly help out.' But that poses a much bigger question.

"I talked to Jake (Hackman) about it before he left. How much money needs to sit in there? What's a realistic number?" said Knutson.

That number of $750,000 was set and determined in 2023 by the Board. Just two of those Board members remain in Hackman and Breitbach.

"When we entered into this 28E Agreement I don't think any of us were really figuring there were going to be any waivers. We just always figured it was going to always be funded every quarter," said Breitbach. "I know there were some changes made on this revenue stream. At this point in time we don't necessarily need any more money in this account for another quarter. That's my opinion."

Knutson would like to purchase a new ambulance, but he said he doesn't know if that will take place during this five-year agreement with the cities and county.

"I do not know that we would end up replacing a truck under the current agreement, just with how they've performed thus far. Everything's subject to change," said Knutson.

Knutson informed the Board on what the cost would be for a new ambulance. Chickasaw County currently has a fleet of three rigs, which are rotated to lessen wear and tear on those vehicles.

"If we look at major expenditures. We need a ton of capital to buy an ambulance. That's $220,000," said Knutson. "We also don't want to get caught in the short end of it when we do need to use those funds. We don't want to run it down to zero."

Knutson said the plan is to spread out the replacement of ambulances by at least two years, if not longer.

"The goal as it sits right now would be to leave that remounted truck that we got last, first off for all transfers, put the miles on that as much as we can. When that one reaches end of life, we should have two ambulances – Medic One and Medic Two – that sit with less than 100,000 (miles) on them," said Knutson.

The approximate payment to the EMS in Jan. 2026, with three five percent increases included, would come to a tune of $290,000. The payment structure started with a base rate in 2023, then included five percent increases added each calendar year according to Laudner.

"In the letter we'll state that they're still obligated for January," said Chickasaw County Auditor Sheila Shekleton about the memo that will be sent to the cities informing them the Board waived October's quarterly payment.

Library director appreciates support for Family Fun Nights

LIBRARY: FROM 1

Heather Hackman said, "and it's great to see so many kids and families in our library. That's why we do this, and hopefully, it keeps kids engaged with reading during the summer."

But make no mistake about it, Family Fun Nights is not a one-month deal for the library director. Not by a long shot.

"I start working on them in October or November," Hackman said Thursday morning, "and actually, it's really a year-round thing for me. Last night's program was put on by the son of a guy who did a "dinosaur dimensions" program for us last year so I actually had him lined up last July."

Hackman said that she gets many of her program ideas at a "class" she attends in November each year, when the State Library of Iowa invites a number of entertainers who put on programs to show off their acts.

"There's that, and it helps," Hackman said, "but there's also word of mouth. We talk amongst ourselves. This librarian will say, 'Hey, this one's really good, really engaging,' and I'll offer up my thoughts, too. ... A lot of times, I might like something but it doesn't really fit the theme so I just put it in my, you know, back pocket."

Family Fun Nights wrap up this coming Wednesday when Denny Ray Burn puts on game shows that will involve families – both as contestants and the "live studio audience." Like other Family Fun Nights, "Game Show Night" will include a meal – pizza – and each child who attends will receive a free book.

"If a child has come to every Family Fun Night, they have four new, free books," Hackman said, "and I think that's one of my favorite parts. The kids are always excited when we hand them a book and that's what we want."

For years, library summer reading programs were held in June, but Hackman said she likes the July time frame her facility is using for a couple of reasons.

First, the library isn't competing with summer sports like baseball and softball and other programs offered at the Husky Wellness Center. Second, she has received positive feedback from those who attend the programs.

"Just last night, I had a parent tell me that she loves that her family has every Wednesday night 'taken care of' when it comes to doing something,"

Hackman said, "July has worked out really well for us, and I think we found something we're going to keep for a while."

The library director also is appreciative of the support her facility receives for its Family Fun Nights. Start with the city of Nashua and the Chickasaw County Board of Supervisors. Throw in the donations from Dairy Treat, Kwik Star, Casey's and McDonald's and add the grants the library received from the Community Partnerships for Protecting Children and the Theisen's More for Your Community Foundation and that's why the library can offer a light meal, a free book and plenty of quality entertainment during the month of July.

"A lot of people, a lot of groups, make this happen," Hackman said, "and it's great to see a 100 people in our library. Without the support, we couldn't do what we do."

Council approves used truck for water/wastewater superintendent

CITY COUNCIL: FROM 1

"I would really recommend that we would try to get an EMT into a position so that we have them running at all times during the day," said Vikturek. "I want to have time to train the person because there's a lot of stuff. Until it comes in, you kind of forget to talk about it sometimes."

Asked if she needed anything from the Council and Vikturek mentioned that she just wants consideration for a full-time position for her job.

"The budget, I'm not sure what you want to do. I do have a couple people that are interested. The one said she needs to make at least at what she's making now at her other job. I don't know about like benefits-wise what you'd want to do," said Vikturek. "I have an idea of wage I've given to John (Ott) and you guys can go from there. It's going to be more than what I get."

Nashua Water/Wastewater Superintendent Nick Henningsen is a tad perplexed when it comes to the city's water usage and the corresponding revenue that is coming in from payments for that service.

"The water usage - I don't understand this and Lisa (Berends) went through it a couple times with me and we still couldn't figure it out. We billed for $2 million gallons in the month of June - that's low. We billed for more than that in February. So people watering their lawns or whatever, filling stuff - you'd think that they'd be a little higher than two million," said Henningsen.

Henningsen said the city pumped three-and-a-half million gallons of water in June.

"Technically, according to those numbers, we lost a million-and-a-half," said Henningsen. "Do I think it's that? No. I think some of it is, once we get to the month of June, that's when we filled all those pools. That's when the Splash Pad started really going and people were using it. I'm assuming that half a million was to those two places, if not a little bit more. Right now our numbers look really crappy."

The Council voted to allow Henningsen to spend $18,000 to purchase a 2008 Ford 350 that has 55,000 miles on it, which will be used as a city work truck. He said the sticker price on the vehicle was $17,800.

Henningsen said he preferred a truck with a lift gate, which will help transport a snowblower, as well as chlorine and sulfur dioxide tanks.

"I don't want a long truck, because I still have to get into places and things like that," said Henningsen.

The Council voted to transfer real estate at 1020 Greeley

St. to Mike Hannemann. His bid was one of three submitted and was for $1,500. His plan is to clean up the lot, remove all existing structures on the property and build a single-family house outside the floodplain.

Hannemann stated he will have the lot cleaned up in six months and the home built within three years of the property transfer.

The Council also passed a resolution that will hold an election to vote on the city's hotel/motel tax. The election date is November 4 of this year.

The Council also passed resolutions to accept the resignation of Library Board member Lyn Hites and appointed Gary Olson as her replacement.

Unspent library funds of approximately $5,700 were also voted on to be transferred to a money market account. That vote passed 3-0.

An application that will be written by INRCOG (Iowa Northland Regional Council of Governments) was also authorized that gives the city the chance to receive federal funding for an outdoor warning system. The cost to write that application is $1,000.

Council members Jake Johnson and Ernie Willscher were absent at this most recent meeting.

Iowa Farm Bureau Federation

Nashua woman part of Farm Bureau delegation lobbying national leaders in Washington

To the Reporter

Two dozen Iowa Farm Bureau members from across the state, including Nashua's Barbara Thiessen, met with Iowa's congressional delegation last week in Washington, D.C. to discuss policy issues important to Iowa agriculture and their family farms.

The group of Iowa farmers met with Iowa Sens. Chuck Grassley and Joni Ernst along with Reps. Ashley Hinson, Randy Feenstra, Mariannette Miller-Meeks and Zach Nunn. They also met with U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) officials and attended presentations on biofuels, interstate commerce and trade.

While some say the so-called "One Big Beautiful Bill," signed into law on July 4, modernized farm safety net programs through 2031 and made many key tax provisions permanent, the member leaders urged lawmakers to continue to address other important policy issues, including laws like California's Prop 12 that disrupt interstate commerce and authorizing nationwide year-round E15.

Members shared how regulations like California's Prop 12 are already having negative impacts for farmers and consumers, and challenges continue. The group urged their members of Congress to stop regulatory overreach, like California's Prop 12, which dictates production methods that farmers in other states must follow to sell their products in California.

The farmers voiced concerns that if similar arbitrary laws are passed by other states, it could affect virtually every product raised by farmers, creating nationwide challenges and rising costs for both farmers and consumers.

Farm Bureau members also asked lawmakers to continue their support for biofuels, including making E15 available year-round nationwide.

A rule allowing year-round sales of E15 took effect in several Midwest states, including Iowa, starting with the summer 2025 driving season, but availability in the rest of the country continues to rely on annual waivers from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Iowa leads the nation in ethanol production, and members shared how Iowa biofuels producers are ready to meet growing consumer demand.

The group also noted concerns about the impact of trade disruptions caused by tariff negotiations aimed at reducing U.S. trade deficits. The members shared that farmers often feel the pain from tariffs and tariff retaliation that limit ag exports and drive up input prices and shared Farm Bureau's position of ensuring free trade.

An "aerial view" of Pa's Playground is presented by Nashua Park Board members Kristi Hannemann and Nate Sinnwell (below during Monday night's City Council meeting).

Pa's Playground will be 'park for all'

PLAYGROUND: FROM 1

"There's been a lot of discussion about what color of tractor to put in there," said Nashua Park Board President Nate Sinnwell, who along with Kristi Hannemann unveiled Phase 3 of the project to the town's City Council this past Monday.

That final phase of this playground/park's estimated cost is not exactly cheap. Hannemann currently has a bid that her committee would like to lock in at $244,000. Sinnwell said there were two other bids to construct the playground that came in around $300,000 and one at $315,000.

"Of course, this kind of play structure does come with a hefty price tag," said Hannemann. "We're very aware of that, especially that poured rubberized surface. That is what's going to make this stand out compared to some of the other parks in the area."

Hannemann, who has headed a Pa's Playground Committee underneath the Park Board, stated that funding will hopefully be completed by this time next year and construction of the playground could begin in September of 2026.

Sinnwell stated $30,000 has been raised so far and that does not include in-kind donations, like the plot of land that the playground sits on. Of that monetary total, he said $8,000 has been spent.

But as stated before, the funding part has essentially just begun.

Back to that tractor.

"We think that it'd be fun to see who could raise more money – red or green?" Hannemann said with a smile as she referred to the potential color of tractor project organizers want to go with.

Hannemann is confident the exciting project can be fully funded by donations and the benevolence and generosity of a community that will take pride in and enjoy the playground named in honor of her uncle, Howard "Pa" Schluter.

"The thought of not raising it hasn't entered my mind," said Hannemann. "We're gonna do it."

If those funds aren't raised the city would have to step in for the remainder of cost. City officials in attendance at Monday's meeting seemed to be engaged and optimistic that the project will be completed and will support it. The Council has backed the project up until this point.

"I wouldn't make any decisions today, but probably something needs to be drafted as far as what the city's willing to pay or what they need to have in grant funding or however the Council moves forward," said Nashua City Clerk John Ott.

The first phase of the project built the shelter – which held a dedication ceremony for the playground on Sunday, July 6. That was a day later than planned and was moved to that date because of inclement weather. The initial planned date would have been "Pa's" 100 birthday. He was a general contractor in the area that built countless homes and barns. The playground next to the Schluter Addition on the south end of Nashua – nicknamed "Schlutterville" – will be a place where anyone and everyone can have a good time.

"This is a park for the entire community. This is a park that we want our community to be proud of and for everyone in the community to use. It is not exclusive for one neighborhood, by any means. We don't want that message or that feeling to be spread throughout the community. This is a park for all. The location is there because the land was given to the location," said Hannemann.

In addition to the shelter in phase one, a walking trail, BMX "pump park" made for little bikes and scooters (non-motorized), a berm, signage and the parking lot were all done in the fall of 2024.

Construction of Phase 2 is currently ongoing and should be finished by September. That includes installation of basketball courts, along with electrical work done. Sinnwell said they're also working on potentially getting a water station at the playground – one for humans and another for animals.

One of the key elements of this playground that Hannemann wanted to stress is its ADA-compliant.

"Currently, there's no playground in town that is ADA-accessible, even the school is not offering ADA-compliance with the mulch," said Hannemann. "It's really hard for some children who are either wheelchair bound or in need of assistance in walking to maneuver in that mulch."

Hannemann, who is the K-12 Principal at Clarksville, went on to describe more of what the playground will entail and her feelings about the project – which obviously means a lot to not only her, but the area she grew up in.

"We really want to make sure we're doing this right, so we want to offer an attraction that is going to excite community members, families, youth and maybe even people from out of town to come visit our town," said Hannemann.

Other features and amenities of the playground would be ADA-accessible swing sets, slides, a spin pod and a whole host of other fun and imaginative things for children and their families to take part in.

"There is a parent/child or what's called a 'Mommy and Me' swing," said Hannemann. "They're facing each other as they swing. That really engages that eye-to-eye contact for littles."

The playground being ADA-compliant also opens up the door for grants that could help pay for the project.

"We have a list of grants that we're already looking into," said Hannemann.

Sinnwell said the company Nashua is communicating with in a hope that construction starts in the fall of 2026, has visited the property twice already.

"I would think by January 1st we'll have a lot clearer picture," said Sinnwell about the progress of the playground.

Cedar Valley Hospice gearing up for its annual butterfly event

To the Reporter

celebrate someone you love by dedicating a butterfly for the 14th annual Cedar Valley Hospice Release & Remember fundraiser on Sunday, Sept. 7 from 1 to 3 p.m. at the RiverLoop Amphitheatre in Waterloo. This meaningful event draws hundreds of supporters to the banks of the Cedar River for an afternoon of honoring the community's loved ones in an extraordinary way.

All are welcome to join us at the event. Starting at 1 p.m., enjoy live music by Never The Less and family-friendly activities, followed by a short program and the awe-inspiring release of 1,000 monarch butterflies at 2:30 p.m.

Community members are encouraged to dedicate one or several butterflies as a tribute to someone important to them. For each donation, a butterfly will be dedicated in their honor. Tribute names will be displayed at the event if the donation is received by Aug. 22. Release & Remember T-shirts are also for sale online, at any Cedar Valley Hospice office and at the event while supplies last. You can also purchase a chance to open a box of butterflies on stage at the event. You must be 18 years old or older and be present at the event for this special opportunity.

At the event, wheelchair ushers will be on hand at the handicap accessible entrance to the Amphitheatre near the Phelps Youth Pavilion where handicap parking is also available.

For more information or to dedicate a butterfly, visit cvhospice.org.

Public Release for Schools Operating the National School Lunch and Breakfast Program The Iowa Department of Education, Bureau of Nutrition and Health Services, has finalized its policy for free and reduced price meals for students unable to pay the full price of meals served under the National School Lunch Program, School Breakfast Program, Special Milk Program and the Afterschool Care Snack Program. State and Local school officials have adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility:

Households may be eligible for free or reduced-price meal benefits one of four ways

1. Households whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for reduced price meals or free meals, if they complete an application for free and reduced price school meals/milk. Households may complete one application listing all children and return it to your student's school. When completing an application, only the last four digits of the social security number of the household's primary wage earner or another adult household member is needed.

2. Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) households, students receiving benefits under the Family Investment Program (FIP) and students in a few specific Medicaid programs are eligible for free or reduced price meals. Most students from SNAP and FIP households will be qualified for free meals automatically. These households will receive a letter from their student's schools notifying them of their benefits. Households that receive a letter from the school need to do nothing more for their student(s) to receive free or reduced price meals. No further application is necessary. If any students were not listed on the notice of eligibility, the household should contact the school to have free or reduced price meal benefits extended to them. If you feel you would qualify for free meal benefits and received notification qualifying for reduced price benefits, complete an application for free and reduced price meals.

Households must contact the school if they choose to decline meal benefits.

3. Some SNAP and FIP households will receive a letter from the Iowa Department of Health and Human Services (Iowa HHS) which will qualify the children listed on the letter for free meals. Parents must take this letter to their student's school to receive free meals.

4. SNAP or FIP households receiving benefits that do not receive a letter from Iowa HHS must complete an application with the abbreviated information as indicated on the application and instructions, for their students to receive free meals. When the application lists an assistance program's case number for any household member, eligibility for free benefits is extended to all students in a household.

Eligibility from the previous year will continue within the same school for up to 30 operating days into the new school year. When the carryover period ends, unless the household is notified that their students are directly certified or the household submits an application that is approved, the students must pay full price for school meals and the school will not send a reminder or a notice of expired eligibility. An application cannot be approved unless complete eligibility information is submitted. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year. If a family member becomes unemployed the family should contact the school to complete an application. Households notified of their student's eligibility must contact the school if the household chooses to decline the free meal benefits.

Foster children are eligible for free meal benefits. Some foster students will be qualified for free meals automatically through the state direct certification process. Their host family will receive notification of these benefits. Families that receive this notification from the school need to do nothing more for their foster students to receive free meals. If a family has foster students living with them and does not receive notification and wishes to apply for such meals, instructions for making application for such students are contained on the application form.

A foster student may be included as a member of the foster family if the foster family chooses to also apply for benefits for other students. Including students in foster care as household members may help other students in the household qualify for benefits. If the foster family is not eligible for free or reduced price meal benefits, it does not prevent a foster student from receiving benefits. Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) participants may be eligible for free or reduced price meals based on a completed application.

When known by the school, households will be notified of any child eligible for free meals if the children are enrolled in the Head Start/Even Start program or are considered homeless, migrant or runaway. If any children are not listed on the notice of eligibility, contact the school for assistance in receiving benefits. If households are dissatisfied with the application approval done by the officials, they may make a formal appeal either orally or in writing to the school's designated hearing official. The policy statement on file at the school contains an outline of the hearing procedure. School officials may verify the information in the application, and that deliberate misrepresentation of information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable state and federal criminal statutes. Households should contact their local school for additional information.

There will be no discrimination against individuals with Limited English Proficiency (LEP) in the school meal programs.

We can stop HIV, Iowa: by staying up-to-date on recommended screenings!

Health screenings help identify illnesses before you have symptoms. The CDC recommends:

- All people ages 18+ should be screened for hepatitis B at least once in their lifetime.
- Pregnant women should be screened for hepatitis B during each pregnancy.

Talk to your healthcare provider about getting screened! Unsure if you've had a screening? Ask them to check your records.

UNI throwing star Breanna Hackman follows through on her discus toss at the Musco Twilight Invitational this spring in Iowa City, three years after helping Nashua-Plainfield to the Class 1A championship at the state track and field meet in Des Moines.

Hackman has big goals for 2026 season

HACKMAN: FROM 8

back-to-back years at state her junior and senior seasons. She placed state runner-up in 2021 as a junior in the shot put and third the following season. Those clutch throws her senior year were a big reason why the Huskies won it all in 2022 by claiming their first ever girls state team title in any sport.

Hackman was fourth in the shot put at the Drake Relays her junior year and was also fourth in the discus her senior year at Drake. She wound up seventh in the shot put at the Drake Relays in 2022.

At college this past spring Hackman earned all-MVC honors by placing runner-up in the discus at the Missouri Valley Conference Championships with a toss of 47.45 meters – which amounts to over 155 feet of distance. She was 10th in the shot put with a heave of 13.91 meters (45-6 feet) at that same league meet held in Carbondale, Illinois on the campus of Southern Illinois University.

Hackman said her personal best heave in the shot put at UNI is right around 48 feet and it's approximately 160 feet in the discus.

That's proof alone Hackman has come a long ways and hit another gear for her Panthers.

"Right now I feel like with those numbers that I threw, it's pretty good, it's pretty solid," said Hackman. "That was fun. I'm trying to get better every day. I'm hoping to win it next year and go to regionals. That's my goal."

Hackman broke down the biggest difference between how she treats high school athletics versus college.

"The biggest difference in myself is discipline. I feel like in high school you could get away with wanting to skip a lift or a workout. In college, if you really do want to be the best, you really have to discipline yourself."

self into showing up every day, working hard all the time and staying consistent," said Hackman.

Hackman has a major in math education and a minor in coaching. She has future plans to teach one day and coach.

It's a short drive from her hometown to Cedar Falls – around 30 minutes – so it's no surprise that Hackman has run into people she's known her entire life at her place of employment – Texas Roadhouse.

"It's fun. It's good seeing everybody and they always ask how I'm doing," laughed Hackman.

Hackman says she stays busy as she'll work at her job five or six days a week during the summer. She's also lifting four times and throwing two days out of the week.

Hackman is also thankful for the time spent at N-P and for all who have helped her become who she is today.

"I really cherish everything the Nashua-Plainfield community has done for me growing up," said Hackman. "I say being involved with everything set me up for success. I love that part of Nashua. Looking back I wouldn't change anything."

Just what new heights and distances will Hackman achieve in the near future? You'll have to watch closely and pay attention as it's anybody's guess. One thing is for certain, it's already been a solid ride for the engaging and fun-loving Hackman.

"It's a pretty good start so far," smiled Hackman.

Photos change mood from glum to happy

WINGS: FROM 8

Noah had a football practice but Robin and I met up with his fiancé, Taylor, and Josh for one final breakfast before heading back to Iowa. Noah joined us a little later, but I'm not going to lie. It was bittersweet.

My youngest son graduated from high school in 2019, and I have to be honest, I've never quite adjusted to being an empty-nester. I miss having the guys around, and with Josh in Decorah for the past two years, it was almost like a little salve that one puts on a bug bite, you know what I mean?

For a long time, I was a single father so maybe that's why the empty nest has been such an uncomfortable place for me. We did homework together, we cooked together, we played together. I coached them when they were younger. I covered them when they were older.

When Noah went to Colorado and then to Southern Illinois, it was mind-boggling to me that I would go months without seeing him, but for the past five years, Josh has been at least within a day trip of me.

The point of all this? Honestly, I'm not sure. Some people need to "talk things out." I need to "write things out."

One of my buddies sent me a Jonas Salk quote: "Good parents give their children roots and wings. Roots to know where home is, wings to fly away and exercise what's been taught them."

That's one point; the other is the pictures that accompany this column.

There is nothing better as a parent than to see your kids love each other and have fun with each other.

I don't know about Eli and Zeke, but I do know that there was a time when Josh and Noah were younger that I don't know if they even liked each other.

They do now, and somewhere in Missouri on that long drive home, Robin said that her favorite part of our trip was just hearing the boys giggle with each other. That ranked right up there with me, too. Yet, for me, my favorite part of the trip was just watching them work together – be it carrying a couch into the house or putting up a blind in a window or sitting at the table going over finances.

A few days after arriving home, I'm OK. I'm more than OK. I'm happy.

Noah and Josh have roots and wings, and though they live 13 miles apart, they are where they belong – together.

And without that photo – the one in which a mom joked she might need to be more "specific" – I'm not sure I would have ever found that realization.

TIC East team to play for state title

Nashua-Plainfield is one St. Ansgar win away from the Huskies saying they beat the 2025 Class 1A state champion.

St. Ansgar plays Martensdale-St. Marys in the title game at the 1A state tournament today in Carroll. The Saints earned their way into the title game with a 3-1 win over Logan-Magnolia in the opening round on Monday and then beat East Buchanan 8-5 in the semifinals on Wednesday.

It was the Huskies who handed St. Ansgar its first loss of the season back on June 4, when Nashua-Plainfield senior Dawson Glaser stymied the Saints with a two-hitter that included seven strikeouts in the Huskies' 1-0 win.

Girls Union creates new foundation

As the Iowa Girls High School Athletic Union (IGHSAU) approaches its 100th anniversary in 2027, it announced earlier this week the creation of the Iowa Girl Foundation.

"The Iowa Girl Foundation allows us to expand beyond championships," said IGHSAU Director Erin Gerlich. "We want to reach every girl in Iowa through education, empowerment, and early engagement."

The Foundation's core initiatives include:

- Empowering the Iowa Girl – An educational tour promoting the value of school-based activities and leadership.
- Future Champions – Youth clinics at IGHSAU state championships aimed at skill development and inspiration.
- Scholarships – Recognizing standout student-athletes across Iowa.

City of Nashua CITY COUNCIL MINUTES City Hall

The Nashua City Council met in regular session on July 21, 2025, in Council Chambers at City Hall. The meeting was called to order at 7:00PM with Mayor Harold Kelleher III presiding. Council members present were Peggy Hall, Samantha Johnson, and Dan Zwanziger. Jake Johnson and Dan Zwanziger were absent. City employee(s) City Clerk John Ott, Library Director Heather Hackman, Water/Wastewater Supervisor Nick Henningsen, Nashua Area EMS Director Zenda Vukturek, Park Board President Nat Simmwell, and Park Board Member Kristi Hannemann were present along with 3 guests.

Council member S. Johnson/M, Hall/S, M/C to approve the regular agenda after amending to remove 11(A) Action/Discussion Library Funds Transfer to/from MMKT for FY'25 deficit/surplus and 11(F) Action/Discussion 25 E Agreement with Chickasaw County Sheriff to Release Control of Guns/Evidence to Chickasaw County. RC: 3 ayes, J. Johnson and Willsher absent.

The Mayor Kelleher asked for a motion to approve the consent agenda consisting of motions from the regular meeting July 7, 2025; Permits: Alcohol: Nashua Civic League July 26 Event; Building: 315 Douglas St. and 521 Sample St. and the Consent Calendar Payment of Claims: (July 3-July 17, 2025) $93,207.26 + $11,215.27 (Wages) See Claims Report.

General Fund: .....$61,150.11
WODD: .....$1,125.00
Urban Revit: .....$7,800.00
Road Use: .....$2,750.60
Employee Benefit: .....$68.02
Economic Development: .....$1,925.00
Dam Repair - After FEMA: .....$19,217.75
Water: .....$5,991.22
Sewer: .....$3,494.77
Total Funds: .....$104,422.53

Hall/M, Zwanziger/S, M/C to approve the consent agenda. RC: 3 ayes, J. Johnson and Willsher absent.

Mayor Kelleher asked for public comments: There were none.

Resolutions:

Mayor Kelleher asked the council for a motion to approve the following resolutions: 25(19-4) Resolution to Approve Public Consulting Group Emergency Services Agreement, S. Johnson/M, Hall/S, M/C, RC: 3 ayes, J. Johnson and Willsher absent.

25-Resolution to Accept Resignation of Library Board Member Lynn Hites, S. Johnson/M, Hall/S, M/C, RC: 3 ayes, J. Johnson and Willsher absent.

25-25 Resolution to Transfer Unspent FY'25 Library Funds to the Money Market, S. Johnson/M, Hall/S, M/C, RC: 3 ayes, J. Johnson and Willsher absent.

Business of the Mayor:

Mayor Kelleher reminded the council about his request for a 2-to-3-year plan for what they would like to accomplish in their respective areas. He mentioned that he is impressed with the parks. They have a lot of activities, and they have been getting good attendance at their events. He also mentioned that he has been contacted by several people about bicycles, scooters, etc. that are taking up the whole road and not moving over for other traffic. He has seen several golf carts with underage drivers. He wanted to remind everyone that it is illegal for minors to drive golf carts. He reminded everyone to be courteous and follow the laws.

Mayor Kelleher attested his full support proclaiming September 15-21, 2025 National See Tracks? Think Train Week and encourages all citizens to recognize the importance of rail safety education.

Department Reports:

City Clerk Ott informed the council that he has completed the bank reconciliation and financial reports for June. As it looks now, there is one expense function (Culture and Recreation) that went over budget in FY'25. It looks like the Nashua Civic League overspent on their budget for Water Over the Dam Days, but City Clerk Ott will review everything to make sure there wasn't a mistake.

City Council:

The council had no information to report.

Nick Henningsen Water/Wastewater Supervisor presented his monthly report.

He informed the council that the Parkson Grit Screen Removal has been installed, but it still needs a transducer. Apparently, the electricians never received the plans from Parkson, so they didn't know how to hook it up. Tuesday Nick will get hold of Parkson and have them send the install instructions. Dollar General is on their 3rd person who was going to fix their leak.

Nick has been communicating with his contacts at Visu-Sewer since June 16th about televising the lines on Bayou Dr. He said during their last communication they told him they were waiting for parts and so he should try to find someone else to do it, but they would leave him on the books in case he can't get it done before they get their parts in. Nick said he will get hold of Municipal on Tuesday and see if they can do it. He said the problem is there are not a lot of companies that have the equipment to do lateral lines. He also discussed the amount of water pumped 3.5 million gallons vs. billed 2 million gallons in June. He said he thinks that maybe 1/2 of the difference or maybe a little more is from pool fills and Splash Pad usage. He also stated that only billing 2 million gallons in the month of June is low. We billed for more than that in February.

He showed the council members some utility trucks that he has been looking at to purchase for the water, wastewater, and storm water departments. After discussion, Hall/M, Zwanziger/S, M/C to allow Nick to spend up to $18,000 for a utility truck. RC: 3 ayes, J. Johnson and Willsher absent.

Zenda Vukturek Nashua Area EMS Director presented her monthly report. She informed the council that so far this year they have run 102 calls. The biggest problem they are currently having is daytime coverage. She also mentioned that she would like to retire by the 1st of April next year. Her recommendation would be to hire a full-time EMT so that they could have daytime coverage. She would like to have time to train someone prior to her retiring, so if the council would consider hiring someone in the near future would be best.

The council was going to visit with Zade McCall Street Superintendent about a concern about drainage on the East Side of Old Highway 218 to 346 Bridge. There was discussion about a citizen who called in about concerns of Woodbridge St. flooding, but neither the Mayor, nor Dan Zwanziger previous Street Supervisor have seen any issues with flooding there. City Clerk Ott stated that the city is still waiting for a traffic control device permit approval from the Iowa DOT for placing a solar street sign at the intersection of Merrill St. and Hwy 346 to replace an existing sign.

Nate Simmwell Park Board President and Kristi Hannemann Park Board Member presented the plans that they have been working on for Pa's Playground. They presented their plan for Phase III of Pa's Playground which included an ADA Accessible farm themed playground design. They wanted to reiterate that Pa's Playground is a playground for all, and they want it to be a park Nashua can be proud of. The estimated cost for the equipment as designed was $244,000. They are planning on getting most of the money from donations and grant funding. They wanted the council to approve the estimate/plans at the meeting, so they could move lock in the price and move forward with the project. The council did not take any action.

Heather Hackman Library Director presented her monthly report. She reviewed the many programs that were put on by the library in July including Super Mario and Pikachu, Carnival, Bat Crawl (recipe challenge), Coffee Conversation and Kids, and Family Fun Night Dragon Trainer as well as the ones that are upcoming including, July 26th Minecraft Movie 10:30-12:30AM; July 30th Family Fun Night Game Show 6:30-7:30PM. The next Library Board Meeting will be held on August 13th at the Nashua Library at 5:30PM.

Discussion/Action:

The council discussed and/or acted on several agenda items, some were addressed during department reports.

S. Johnson/M, Hall/S, M/C to approve Iowa Northland Regional Council of Government (INRCOG) to write an application for Federal funding for an Outdoor Warning System. The cost would be $1,000. RC: 3 ayes, J. Johnson and Willsher absent.

S. Johnson/M, Hall/S, M/C to approve the Waiver of Service Fee Request for 112 Wabash St. RC: 3 ayes, J. Johnson and Willsher absent.

S. Johnson/M, Hall/S, M/C, RC: 3 ayes, J. Johnson and Willsher absent.

The council discussed some concerns that were brought to their attention about the Monthly/Long Term Camping Agreement that was approved on July 7, 2025. After discussion, no changes were made.

There was no other business.

S. Johnson/M to adjourn, Hall/S, M/C, RC: 3 ayes, J. Johnson and Willsher absent.

Zenda Vukturek Nashua Area EMS Director presented her monthly report. She informed the council that so far this year they have run 102 calls. The biggest problem they are currently having is daytime coverage. She also meeting adjourned at 8:09PM.

Former Nashua-Plainfield multi-sport star and University of Northern Iowa track and field athlete Breanna Hackman lets the discus fly and then takes to the medal stand at the Missouri Valley Conference Championships that were held at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Illinois, this past spring.

'Hack' shines on bigger stage

Nashua-Plainfield alum enjoys breakout season in throwing circle for University of Northern Iowa

By KELLY TERPSTRA
Of the Reporter

For the first time in Breanna Hackman's amazing track and field career she was questioning herself.

Was she in the right spot? What was she doing wrong? Did her throws in the discus and shot put even matter to her anymore?

The answer was found within.

Hackman — the school record holder at Nashua-Plainfield in those throwing events — found out relatively quickly how the college game at the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls is a whole other ball game compared to the prep level.

It's that challenging step up in competition that has allowed the former Husky multi-sport star to continue to thrive in a sport she so dearly loves.

"It's going good so far. Redshirting right away was not the easiest thing," said Hackman. "Right out of high school I felt like top dog and then you hop into a new environment and culture and it's a whole lot different. There's a lot of people better than you that want to show you how to do things."

Struggle is a relative word, but for "Hack" it was just another challenge that she accepted and worked to tackle the adversity she faced — head on.

"There's definitely ups and downs right away throughout the beginning. I kind of like got kicked down a little bit, you've got that little punch there," said Hackman. "I had to learn how to keep working and build my way out of things, I guess."

Now sporting the purple and gold of the Panthers as a redshirt junior this fall, the 2022 N-P alum had to wait to compete as she sat out her freshman season in 2022. That was not easy for a standout athlete that was used to the rigors and battles that are played out inside the throwing circle, or on the hardwood. Hackman was an all-conference performer in both volleyball and basketball at N-P.

It's that not knowing what to do when faced with something foreign like not being able to compete that made "Hack" look in the mirror and take a step forward after sitting in an idle position too long for her liking.

"Really, my freshman year I bought into the journey and really focused on getting better and listening to people that have been here for a while," said Hackman.

She said her confidence was tested early on at UNI, but no one can do it alone, so she found the right people and resources and ended up transforming herself into a new-and-improved thrower. Prior to finding the fix to what was ailing her, she said she felt like the odd person out. No one wants to feel left alone.

"I had confidence issues, not thinking I belonged at times," said Hackman. "Once I found my people here, found my team and embraced the family aspect at UNI — it really helped me overcome that. Now I feel like even more confident than I've ever been."

Hackman was able to hit another gear at UNI in the past two seasons — her first on the collegiate level. She relayed what her coaches have been telling her. In those words she found the strength and courage to never stop trying to find new things that worked or different ways to throw further.

"They said just keep buying in and keep working hard," said Hackman. "They believe in every single one of us, which I love. It's like a family. If I need anything, they're always there."

Hackman's top throws at N-P amounted to 42 feet in the shot put and 139-3 in the discus. She placed third in the discus in

Photos help Dad realize 'wings' are good

The eight-hour drive loomed ahead of us as we walked out to the Country Cupboard parking lot in Carterville, Illinois, but before we got in the car, we shared one more round of hugs.

The emotions were bursting just below the proverbial seams, but I had promised myself that I would make this goodbye as nonchalantly as possible. My oldest son got into his car, started it, put it in reverse and offered one final wave.

My ex-wife and I, who now live together (trust me, it's complicated and a story for another day), got into my car and I felt my eyes water and a tear trickled down my cheek. I kept reminding myself that no one died, but gummness enveloped me.

We were leaving Josh in Illinois, and now both my sons live eight hours from their dear old dad.

Robin drove northwest up I-57 toward Mount Vernon and I sat in the passenger seat lost in my thoughts. For the next 30 minutes or so, little was said in the red Impala; instead, my melodramatic mind told me that life just will never be the same.

Instead of having at least one kid just 38 miles from my home, I now have both of them living eight hours away. The days of calling Josh on the spur of a moment and asking if he wanted to "go get food" — our code for going out to eat — are over.

Somewhere near a city called Mount Vernon, though, something else — a photo I had seen on Facebook — popped into my mind, and I laughed.

As we were making our way to Illinois last week, Nashua's Jenn Kalainoff had posted a picture of her two youngest sons — Eli and Zeke — taken by Jada Goddard during the Nashua-Plainfield baseball team's photo day earlier this summer.

"I asked the boys to get their baseball pictures together since they played on the same team this year," Jenn wrote and then added, "Next time, I'll be a bit more specific."

When I saw that picture last Thursday, I texted Jenn a photo of my boys taken eight years ago. It was their last year as football teammates, and I asked our then-Sports Editor Dorothy Huber to get a picture of Josh and Noah together during New Hampton High's photo day.

Dorothy returned to the office and showed me the photo — two big, tough football players posing like cheerleaders — and I laughed out loud and said something to the effect that "maybe I should have been more specific."

Suddenly, the gloom was gone, and Robin and I began chattering about those long-ago memories.

Last December, when Josh resigned his position at Decorah High School, effective at the end of the 2025 baseball season, he told me that he wanted to either move to a metropolitan area like Des Moines or the Quad Cities or find a job close to his "little brother."

Granted, I'm old-fashioned. I like having a job before I quit one. Plus, I remember the days when teaching jobs — especially in social studies — were hard to get so I worried and fretted for months.

Finally in April, he started lining up interviews, including one at Murphysboro High School in southern Illinois. A few days later, he was offered the job, and he accepted it. At the time, though, I was fine. Three months seemed like an eternity.

It wasn't.

We arrived at Noah's last Thursday, moved Josh into his new place on Friday and spent the weekend together. We had fun. We cracked jokes. We made fun of each other, which is a common occurrence when the Fenske Boys get together. The days flew by and then came Monday.
